NOTE about the manuscripts and other witnesses cited in this footnote apparatus: people have criticized this and other TC apparatuses for "cherry-picking” which manuscripts they cite. There is some truth to that, so to remedy that situation, I have decided to use only one criterion and it is an objective one, and that is, I now cite ALL witnesses 8th century and earlier, (ones I have access to) and I cite NO witnesses later than the 8th century. That is fair, and indisputable. This saves space, and document size and download time as well. There certainly are enough witnesses to Matthew before the 9th century such that we can get an accurate picture of the text. A table of these witnesses may be found after the gospel.

Chapter 1

The Genealogy of Jesus

1 A record of the genealogy of Jesus, the Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham:

2 Abraham begot Isaac, and Isaac begot Jacob, and Jacob begot Judah and his brothers, and Judah begot Perez and Zerah, by Tamar,
   and Perez begot Hezron, and Hezron begot Ram, and Ram begot Amminadab, and Amminadab begot Nahshon, and Nahshon begot Salmon, and Salmon begot Boaz, by Rahab, and Boaz begot Obed, by Ruth,
   and Obed begot Jesse,
      and Jesse begot David the King.

David begot Solomon, by her who belonged to Uriah, and Solomon begot Rehoboam, and Rehoboam begot Abijah, and Abijah begot Asa.°

10 and Hezekiah begot Manasseh, and Manasseh begot Amon,¹ and Amon begot Josiah, 11 and Josiah begot Jeconiah and his brothers at the time of the exile to Babylon.

12 After the exile to Babylon:

Jeconiah begot Shealtiel, and Shealtiel begot Zerubbabel, 13 and Zerubbabel begot Abiud, and Abiud begot Eliakim,
and Eliakim begot Azor, 14 and Azor begot Zadok, and Zadok begot Akim, and Akim begot Eliud, 15 and Eliud begot Eleazar,
and Eleazar begot Matthan, in the annals of the kings of Israel and Judah? This variant is not a big deal, since Asaph appears to be just a variant spelling of Asa; probably as a result of passing through different languages. The New Testament has many examples of this phenomenon. A Hebrew word cannot end in a vowel, so I suspect that the glottal stop consonant which ends the Hebrew name was substituted with some other consonant in other languages. In Hebrew, the name Asa begins and ends with the letter נ (Aleph), which is a consonant, a glottal stop. Other languages, (including Greek) which do not have a letter for the glottal stop, substituted other consonants for it. The confusion of terminal glottal stops with other unvoiced consonants happens often in English as well, since English has no letter for the glottal stop. (Though in transliteration schemes, the single straight apostrophe is used to represent the glottal stop.) In very ancient Greek, the letter ϕ was pronounced like our letter p, it was not an “f.” In English today, words ending in p often sound like they end in a glottal stop. That is, we do not aspirate the p as we would if the p was in the middle of a word, but simply shut off the exhaled air by closing our lips.

and Matthan begot Jacob, and Jacob begot Joseph,
the husband of Mary,
of whom was born Jesus,
the one called the Christ.

Thus there were fourteen generations in all from Abraham to David, fourteen from David to the exile to Babylon, and fourteen from the exile to the Anointed One.

The Birth of Jesus

This is how the birth of Jesus Christ came about. His mother Mary was pledged to be married to Joseph, but before they consummated, she was found to be pregnant, from the Holy Spirit.

But her husband Joseph, being a righteous man, did not want to make an example of her, and planned to divorce her secretly.

But while he was mulling these things over, an angel of the Lord appeared to him by means of a dream, and said, "Joseph son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary home as your wife, for what is conceived in her is by the Holy Spirit.

She will give birth to a son, and you are to call his name Jesus, because he will save his people from their sins."

All this took place in order that what was said by the Lord

Other witnesses, \(\Theta\) f 547 and some Italic, Syriac and Coptic versions add various words and phrases in order to clarify the ambiguity of whether Matthew was saying that Jesus was begotten of Joseph, or of Mary. But the original wording can be properly understood as meaning born of Mary. It should also be mentioned that two Hebrew Matthew manuscripts have been found by Jewish textual scholar Nehemia Gordon which say here that this genealogy is of the "father" of Mary.

\[1:17\] Matthew skips after Josiah, Jehoiakim and Jehoiachin (2 Kings 23:34 - 24:6). And his last set of generations are only 13, not 14. So this arrangement must be a teaching or memorization aid. Another interesting thing is that fourteen plus fourteen plus fourteen equals six groups of seven generations, 42 in all (6 sevens). In Hebrew, in the Old Testament, a group of seven of something is called a week of something. There were six weeks of generations prior to the Messiah, and the Messiah ushered in the seventh week, the Sabbath week of generations. The Messiah brought in another rest from creation. As God took six days to create the First Adam, and then he ceased, so God also took six weeks of generations to create the Second Adam, and then he ceased.

The Visit of the Magi

¹Now after Jesus had been born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of King Herod, behold, Magi¹³ from out of the east showed up in Jerusalem, ²saying, "Where is the one born king of the Jews? For we saw his star in the east¹⁴ and have come to worship him."

Adding the words τὸν before the word υἱόν, "son," and "her firstborn son," as all manuscripts have in Luke 2:7, would help clarify that sexual intercourse, brought up here, did not take place before Mary's firstborn. Yet, adding "firstborn son" still does not make it clear that she had not already had a daughter. It is much easier to explain why the words "her firstborn son" might have been added, than to explain why they might have been deleted. The story, regardless, still makes clear that Jesus was her firstborn, and that Mary was a virgin prior to the time of Jesus being born.
²¹ 2:1 Plural of Μάγος, one trained in astrology and dream interpretation, probably in a tradition based on Zoroastrianism, founded by the Persian prophet Zarathustra or Zoroaster.
²² 2:2 Or in the rising. Also in verse 9. The same Greek word, is used for both "east" and "rising," since because of the direction of the rotation of the earth, heavenly bodies "rise" in the east. The word star does not necessarily mean a far off sun. It could have meant any heavenly body or sign. This star or sign was something only the trained astrologers saw, and not the king of Israel or the general public. In near-eastern astrology of that era, a conjunction was very significant, and the constellation Aries represented Herod's kingdom in palestine. Furthermore, signs involving the planet Jupiter (Zeus) represented royalty and kings. So if there was a sign or conjunction involving Jupiter, the Magi would take note. Jupiter was in retrograde motion in April of the year 6 B.C. Thus, that star would "stand still." We know from the gospel of Luke that the shepherds were "keeping watch over their flocks by night." They only did that during birthing time, to protect the ewes and newborn lambs. In other words, they did that during Spring time. Furthermore, Luke says in Luke 2:42 that Jesus turned 12 years old around Passover time. Astronomer Michael Molnar (https://onwisconsin.uwalumni.com/recognition/michael-molnar-phd71/) has found that there was a conjunction of Jupiter (while retrograde and "standing still") with the moon, in Aries, on April 17, 6 B.C. This would harmonize with Luke's spring timing, and also with the fact that both Matthew and Luke say Jesus was born during the reign of Herod, who died in 4 B.C. Thus I say it is practically certain that Jesus was born in spring time, and that April 17, 6 B.C. is the best theory put forth yet as to his exact day of birth. One thing we know for certain is that his birthday was not December 25th, or any time in the winter, when the sheep in Judea would be in pens, and not in the field in the cold.
the people, he inquired of them as to where the Messiah was to be born.

5 And they told him, "In Bethlehem in Judea, for this is what has been written through the prophet:

6 "And you, Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah; for out of you will come a ruler who will be the shepherd of my people Israel."¹⁵

7 Then Herod called the Magi secretly and ascertained from them what time the star had appeared. 8 And he sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and search diligently for the child. And when you have found him, bring word back to me, so I may come and worship him also."

9 After they had heard the king, they went on their way, and lo, the star, the one they had seen in the east, kept moving on in front of them, until it arrived and stopped over where the child was. 10 When they saw the star, they rejoiced with a surpassingly great joy. 11 And upon coming to the house, they saw the child with his mother Mary, and they fell prostrate and worshipped him. Then they opened their treasures, and presented him with gifts of gold, and of incense and of myrrh. 12 And having been warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they went back to their country by another route.

The Escape to Egypt

13 And when they had gone, behold, an angel of the Lord appears in a dream to Joseph, saying, "Get up, take the child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there until I tell you, for Herod intends to search for the child to destroy him."

14 So he got up, took the child and his mother during the night, and escaped into Egypt, 15 and was there until the death of Herod, in order that the thing spoken by the Lord through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says: "Out of Egypt I called my son."¹⁶

\textsuperscript{21}So he got up, took the child and his mother and entered the land of Israel. \textsuperscript{22}But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning in Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there. The Baptism of Jesus

\textsuperscript{13}At that time Jesus arrives at the Jordan, out of Galilee, to John, to be baptized by him. \textsuperscript{14}But John tried to deter him, saying, "I need to be baptized by you, and you are coming to me?"

\textsuperscript{15}In reply, Jesus said to him, "Permit it now; it is proper for us to complete all righteousness this way." Then John consented.

\textsuperscript{16}As soon as he was baptized, Jesus came up out of the water, and behold, the heavens were opened, and he saw the Holy Spirit of God coming down like a dove, coming onto him. \textsuperscript{17}And behold, a voice from the heavens, saying, "This is my Son, whom I love; with whom I am well pleased."

The Temptation of Jesus

1 Then Jesus was led up into the desert by the Spirit, to be tempted by the devil. 2 And he fasted forty days and forty nights, and afterward he was hungry. 3 The tempter came to him and said, "If you are the Son of God, command that these stones become loaves of bread."

4 But he in answer said, "It is written, 'Man shall not live on bread alone, but on every word coming out of the mouth of God.'"

5 Then the devil takes him into the holy city and had him stand on the gable of the temple, 6 and he says to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down. For it is written:

He will command his angels concerning you;
and they will lift you up on their hands, so you will not strike your foot against a stone."

7 Jesus said to him, "It is also written: 'You shall not put Yahweh your God to a test.'"

8 Again, the devil led him to a very high mountain, and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor, 9 and said to Jesus, "These I will give to you, if you will fall down and worship me."

10 Then Jesus said to him, "Go away, Satan! For it is written: 'You shall worship Yahweh your God, and him only shall you serve.'"

11 Then the devil left him alone, and lo, angels had come and were attending him.

Jesus Begins to Preach

12 And when he heard that John had been arrested, he went away to Galilee. And forsaking Nazareth, he went and lived in Capernaum, beside the sea, in the territory of Zebulun and Naftali, so that the thing spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, which says:

15 Land of Zebulun and land of Naftali, the road by the sea, on the other end of the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles—16 the people sitting in darkness have seen a great light; and on those sitting in the land of the shadow of death a light has dawned."

17 From that time on Jesus began to preach and to say, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is near."

The Calling of Simon, Andrew, James, and John

18 And walking beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon called Peter, and his brother Andrew, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishers.
19 And he says to them, "Come you two, follow me, and I will make you fishers of people." 20 And they followed him immediately, leaving the nets.

21 And going on from there, he saw another set of two brothers, James the son of Zebedee and his brother John, in the boat with their father Zebedee, mending their nets, and he called them. 22 And they immediately followed him, leaving the boat and their father.

Jesus Heals the Sick

23 And he went around through all of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and sickness among the people. 24 And news about him spread all over Syria, and they brought to him all who were ill with various diseases and severe pain, the demon-possessed, and epileptics and the

Chapter 5

The Beatitudes

1And seeing the crowds, he went up to the mountainside. And when he sat down his disciples came to him,  2and opening his mouth, he began to teach them, saying:

3"Blessed are the poor in spirit,  31 for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
4Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.
5Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth.
6Blessed are they who hunger and thirst

7Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy.
8Blessed are the pure in heart,

9Blessed are the peacemakers,

31 5:3 The meaning of the expression poor in spirit is difficult to determine with certainty. Bauer says the sense is probably those who are poor in their inner life, not having a Pharisaic confidence in their own spiritual adequacy. But I think the meaning is that we should, even if we are materially rich, live as though we were poor. As the apostle Paul says also in I Cor. 7:30-31: "those who buy, should live as though they did not possess, and those who use this world, as though they did not make full use of it."

32 5:9 The Greek word here is υἱοὶ, "sons." The word children can sound like it emphasizes the immaturity of the subjects. I also considered the word "offspring," because that would convey part of what is emphasized here. What is emphasized by this passage is two-fold: the fact that offspring of a father bear resemblance in personality, values, and quality of the "faith of their fathers," and two, that these sons are heirs of their father, heirs of a future kingdom. The word "sons" is said to have been a legal term, and was gender inclusive. It included daughters. Today, the word "son" legally means, according to Black's Law Dictionary, 6th Ed., "Male offspring. An immediate male descendant. The word may be applied also to a distant male descendant. In a broad use, term may be employed as designating any young male person, as a pupil, a ward, an adopted male child or dependent." This current legal definition greatly limits the acceptability of this word. "Children" is defined as: Progeny, offspring of parentage. Unborn or recently born human being. At common law one who had not attained the age of fourteen years, though the meaning now varies in different statutes." This definition, which includes the idea of being
Matthew

11 "Blessed are you when people insult you, persecute you and falsely say all kinds of evil against you because of me. Rejoice and be glad, because great is your reward in heaven, for in the same way they persecuted the prophets before you."

Salt and Light

13 You are the salt of the earth. But if the salt is blanded down, with what will it be made salty? It is no longer potent enough for anything except to be thrown outside and trampled underfoot of people.

14 You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hidden. Neither do they light a lamp to put it under a basket, but rather on the stand, so it enlightens all those in the house. In the same way, let your light shine in the view of people, such that they will see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven.

The Fulfillment of the Law

17 Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. For truly I say to you, until the sky and the earth pass away, not one iota, not one serif will by any means pass away from the Law until everything is carried out. Therefore, whoever looses one of the least of these commandments, and teaches people the same, will be called least in the kingdom of heaven, but whoever practices them and teaches them, this one will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. For I tell you that unless your righteousness offspring, and is gender-inclusive as well, makes the word "children" perhaps the best choice. This is also the word that Tyndale used, and the King James Version as well. Black's Law Dictionary, Copyright © 1990, West Publishing Co., St. Paul, Minnesota, All Rights Reserved.

5:18a The Greek says iota (iota), which is the spelling out of the name of the ninth letter of the Greek alphabet. It is the smallest letter of that alphabet, and even smaller when it is "subscript." When the iota is subscript, it is placed under another vowel and in even smaller size, and the difference it makes is the part of speech of the word, or the "case." But now, an objection may arise: "But the Law was given in Hebrew, not Greek." The spoken names of the Greek letters "iota" and the Hebrew letter "yodh" sounded more similar than they do now. They even look similar in written form. And both are the smallest letters of their respective alphabets. Now there was a very important Greek translation of the Hebrew Old Testament, called the Septuagint, which was widely used by Jesus' time, whereas the Hebrew language was in danger of dying as a spoken language.

5:18b In the Hebrew language, sometimes the only difference between two different Hebrew letters is a "serif" or a little horn attached, just a slight little appendage.

522a Exodus 20:13. This word υοψεύω - phoneuw did not mean just murder, but homicide in general, including by carelessness or negligence, and manslaughter. See for example Deuteronomy 19:6; Joshua 21:13. And the word phoneuw did NOT include in its meaning the killing of non-human life. It was not used for the killing of animals. Perhaps this verse would be better rendered, "Do not murder a human."

522b This is because the judgment, a trial, was necessary for the purpose of deciding whether the homicide was justifiable or not. Not all homicide was punishable. The Law of Moses was full of discussion as to which killings of a human being were punishable, and which were not. In the same way, later in verse 22, if you are angry with your brother, you are subject to judgment. This is because not all anger is punishable; some anger is righteous. Note that Jesus does not forbid anger here. He says that if you are angry, you are subject to a trial. Quite a difference. The trial may find that your anger was just.

Sanhedrin in Jerusalem was composed of seventy men, plus the High Priest who presided over it. The seventy was made up of three kinds of members: (1) high priests- the current high priest and former high priests; (2) the Elders: tribal and family representatives of the lay aristocracy; and (3) the Scribes, the experts in the law from the Torah. The Sanhedrin's authority in civil matters was subject to the Romans' limits, but in Jewish religious matters, it had complete authority, including a body of police and guards under its command, by which to enforce its rulings. The Sanhedrin was abolished with the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. The scribes later codified its accumulated conclusions, however, in the form of the written Mishnah.

⁴⁰ §29 Γεεννα From Gey-Hinnom, the name of a ravine south of Jerusalem, The Valley of the Son of Hinnom, which was the trash heap or landfill for the city. The garbage was perpetually on fire; the fire never went out. See II Chron. 28:3; II Kings 23:10; Jeremiah 7:31-32; Joshua 15:8, 18:16. According to Jewish popular belief, the Last Judgment was to take place there. Thus in the New Testament Gehenna means a place of perpetual fire, further described as a lake of burning sulfur, whose fire can never be put out, and in which a person never loses his being, but forever loses his well-being— that is, is forever separated from God and thus anything good. At the present time, anyone who dies while out of God's favor goes to Hades (see chapter 21:27-33), which is a temporary storage hell. But later, at the end of Christ's kingdom on earth, Hades and everyone in it will be thrown permanently into Gehenna (Revelation 20:5,10-15). This is called the Second Death. There is no remedy for the Second Death. Jesus mentions Gehenna eleven times (nine times in my harmony / Diatessaron). The scribes later codified its accumulated conclusions, however, in the form of the written Mishnah.

Love For Enemies

43 "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' 44 But I say to you: Love your enemies, bless those who curse you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who insult you and are persecuting you, 45 so that you be children of your Father who is in heaven. For he causes his sun to rise upon the evil and the good, and rains upon the righteous and the unrighteous. 46 For if you love the ones who love you, what reward do you have? Do not even the revenue agents do the same? 47 And if you greet your own kind only, what are you doing beyond the ordinary? Do not even the Gentiles do the same? 48 Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect.

Chapter 6

Giving to the Needy

1 "Be careful not to do your acts of tzedakah in front of people, trying to be seen by them, for in that case you have no reward with your Father in heaven.

2 "So when you do your charitable giving, do not sound a trumpet before you as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the lanes, so they may be esteemed by people. Truly I tell you, they have their reward in full.

3 But you, when you do your giving to the needy, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, 4 so that your giving may be in secret. And your Father, who sees in secret, will reward you.

Or it could mean simply "your friends, your neighbors, your acquaintances." But the context here is the issue of enemies. To the natural man, other political nations and races are enemies. Moses also had to remind the Israelites to be kind to aliens; had to remind them what it was like to have themselves been aliens in Egypt.

Prayer

5. And when you pray, do not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the corners of the boulevards, so they will be seen by people. Truly I tell you, they have their reward in full.

6. But when you pray, go into your inner room, and when you have shut your door, pray to your Father who is in secret. Then your Father, who sees in secret, will reward you.

7. But when you pray, do not speak thoughtless repetition like the Gentiles do. For they suppose that because of the greater number of their words they will be heard. Do not be like them therefore. You see, your Father knows what you need before you ever ask him.

8. This, then, is how you should pray:

   "Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name.
   Your kingdom come,
   your will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

9. Give us today our daily bread.

10. And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors.

11. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.

   For yours is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen."
14 For if you forgive people their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. 15 But if you are not forgiving to people,

Fasting

16 And when you fast, do not become of somber countenance like the hypocrites do, for they disfigure their faces so that they will appear to people as fasting. Truly I tell you, they have their reward in full. 17 But you when you fast, anoint your head and wash your face, so that you do not appear to people as fasting, but rather to your Father, who is in secret. And your Father, who sees in secret, will reward you.

Treasures in Heaven

19 Do not accumulate for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and corrosion eat away, and thieves break through and steal. 20 But accumulate for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor corrosion eat away, and thieves do not break through and steal. 21 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

22 The eye is the lamp of the body. So if your eye is open and generous, your whole body will be bright. 23 But if your eye is suspicious... and stingy, your whole body will be dark. If then darkness is the light in you, how great the darkness!

24“No one can serve two masters. Either you will hate the one and love the other, or be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Mammon.”

Do Not Worry

25“Considering this, I tell you, do not worry for your life, what you will eat or what you will drink, or for your body, what you will put on. Does not life mean more than food, and the body more than clothes? 26Look at the birds of the sky, that they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Do you not matter more than they?

27And who of you by worrying is able to add onto his life span one foot?

28And about dress, why do you worry? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow. They neither labor nor weave. 29Yet I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of these. 30Now if God so dresses the grass of the field, which is here today and tomorrow thrown into the stove, how much more would he rather dress you, O you of little faith?

31Therefore do not worry, saying, 'What would we eat?' or 'What would we drink?' or 'What would we wear?' 32For the Gentiles are pursuing all those things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need all those things. 33But pursue first rather the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all those things will be included for you as well.

34”Do not worry, then, for the next day, because the next day will have worries of itself. Today’s trouble is enough for the day.”

624 A common Aramaic word for wealth and property, which meant literally, a fortress to rely on. The sin of serving Mammon involves thinking that there is security in wealth and property, and with that mentality to store up wealth for the future, as the Rich Fool did in Luke chapter 12. Jesus taught us not to worry even about food or clothes. He also said to pray: "Give us this day our DAILY bread." That means that to work so that you have more than enough stores for just one day at a time, that is serving mammon. The apostle Paul said that with food and clothes we should be content. Worldly wealth is very insecure, especially the theoretical kinds such as stocks, bonds, Federal Reserve Notes, negotiable instruments. And stored up food reserves are perishable and subject to vermin. But if we store up treasure in heaven, where there are no thieves, rust, or moths, or taxes, that is real security, real estate. There is a secure inheritance that is non-negotiable. If you do not think this is what Mammon means, then look at the context before and after: it is all against storing up more food and clothes than you need for one day. Your retirement is in heaven. You cannot serve both God and Financial Security.

627 Literally, one cubit. There was an expression in classical Greek, πύρσις ἐν χρόνῳ = "only one cubit of time." It is legitimate therefore to translate this as "a single hour to his life."

9 “Or is there a man among you whose child will ask him for a loaf, who will give him a rock? 10 Or again, if he asks for a fish, will give him a snake? 11 If you therefore, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good things to those who ask him?

False Prophets

The Wise and Foolish Builders

21"Not everyone saying to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one doing the will of my Father who is in heaven. 22Many will say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and in your name perform many miracles?' 23And then I will declare to them on record: 'I have never known you. Away from me, you workers of lawlessness!'

26"And everyone who hears these words of mine and does not practice them shall be likened to a foolish man who built his house on the sand. 27And the rain came down and the rivers came up and the winds blew and beat against that house, and it fell, and great was its fall."

28And it came about that when Jesus had finished saying these things, the crowds were amazed at his teaching, 29for he was teaching them as one who had authority, and not like their Torah scholars.

A Man With Leprosy

1And when he came down from the mountainside, large crowds followed him. 2And behold, a leper approached and worshipped him, saying, "Lord, if you are willing, you are able to cleanse me."

3And stretching out his hand, he touched him, saying, "I am willing. Be cleansed." And immediately his leprosy 62 was cleansed. 4And Jesus says to him, "See that you tell no one. But go instead and show yourself to the priest and offer the gift Moses commanded, as a testimony to them."

62 The Greek word was used for various diseases of the skin—not necessarily leprosy.
The Faith of the Centurion

5 And when he had entered Capernaum, a centurion came to him entreating him, and saying, "My servant is laid up in the house a paralytic, being tormented terribly."

7 He says to him, "I will come and heal him."

8 But the centurion answered and said, "Lord, I am not worthy that you enter under my roof. But just say a word, and my servant will be healed. 9 For I too am a man under authority, having soldiers under myself. And I say to this one, 'Go,' and he goes, and to another, 'Come,' and he comes, and to my slave, 'Do this,' and he does."

10 And Jesus was astonished hearing this, and he said to those following him, "Truly I tell you, I have not found faith like this from anyone in Israel. 11 And I tell you, many will come from east and west, and will recline with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven. 12 But natural heirs of the kingdom will be cast into the outer darkness. Out there will be weeping, and gnashing of teeth."

13 Then Jesus said to the centurion, "Go. As you believed let it be for you." And in that hour the servant was healed.

Jesus Heals Many

14 And coming into Peter's house, Jesus saw Peter's mother-in-law bedridden and fever-stricken. 15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her; and she got up and began to wait on him.

16 And when evening came, they brought to him many who were demon-possessed, and he drove out the spirits with a word. And all those who had an illness he healed, 17 so that the thing spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled, which says:

"Our infirmities he picked up, and our diseases he carried."64

The Cost of Following Jesus

18 But when Jesus saw a crowd around him, he gave the order to leave to the other side of the lake.

19 And one Torah scholar approached him and said, "Teacher, I will follow you wherever you go."

Jesus Calms the Storm

23 And his disciples followed him as he embarked in the boat. 24 And behold a great storm arose in the sea, such that the boat was getting covered over by the waves. But he himself was sleeping.

25 And coming up to him, they roused him, saying, "Lord, save us! We are perishing!"

26 And he says to them, "Why are you afraid, O you of little faith?"

Then, once he was up, he rebuked the wind and the sea, and there came a complete calm.

27 And the men marvelled, saying, "What kind of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?"

The Legion of Demons Near Gadara

28 And when he came to the other side to the region of the Gadarenes, two men coming out of the tombs met him, demon-possessed, extremely dangerous, such that no one was able to pass that way.

29 And behold they cried out saying, "What business do you have with us, O Jesus, you Son of God? Have you come here to torture us before the time?"

30 Now some distance from them there was a herd of many pigs feeding. 31 And the demons begged him saying, "If you drive us out, send us into the herd of pigs."

32 And he said to them, "Go!" So coming out they went into the pigs; and behold, the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the sea, and died in the waters.

33 And the herdsmen fled. And when they had gone into the town they reported all things, including the things about the demon-possessed men. 34 And behold all the town came out to have a meeting with Jesus. And when they saw him they begged him that he would move out of their borders.

Jesus Heals a Paralytic

1 And embarking in a boat, he crossed over and came into his own town. 2 And behold they brought to him a paralytic placed on a mat. And when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, "Take heart, son; your sins are forgiven."

3 And behold, some of the Torah scholars said to themselves, "This fellow is blaspheming!"

4 And knowing their thoughts, Jesus said, "Why do you think evil things in your hearts? 5 For which is easier: to say 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say: 'Get up and walk'? 6 But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins..." Then he says to the paralytic, "Get up, take your mat and go to your house." 7 And he stood up and went away to his house. 8 After seeing this, the crowd feared and praised the God who had given such authority to humans.

The Calling of Matthew

9 And moving on from there, Jesus saw a man named Matthew sitting at the taxes post, and he says to him, "Follow me." And he got up and followed him.

10 And it came about that Jesus and his disciples were reclining at table in the house of Matthew, and behold a large crowd of revenue agents and sinners came and were eating with them. 11 After seeing this, the crowd feared and praised the God who had given such authority to humans.

Both parallel passages in Mk and Lk read επιγνοσ, a verb of mental awareness, as εἰδως. Jesus Questioned About Fasting

Then the disciples of John came to him, saying, "Why is it we and the Pharisees are fasting, but your disciples are not fasting?"

And Jesus said to them, "Are the members of the bridegroom's party able to mourn while the bridegroom is with them? But days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them; and then they will fast.

A Dead Damsel and a Sick Woman

While he was speaking these things to them, behold a certain ruler came, prostrating himself to him, saying, "My daughter has just now died. But come and put your hand on her and she will revive." And getting up Jesus followed him, including his disciples.

And behold a woman suffering a twelve year flow of blood came up behind and touched the tassel of his cloak. For she was saying to herself, "If I only touch his cloak, I will be healed."

And Jesus turning and seeing her said, "Take heart, daughter, your faith has healed you." And the woman was healed from that time on.

Moreover, since the "tax" was a tribute forced upon the conquered by the conqueror, the collectors of the tribute were personal reminders to the populace that they, the givers of the tribute, were conquered serfs. Hence the collectors of the tribute were particularly hated and despised as a class. They were pre-judged to be both embezzlers, and traitors or collaborators with the occupying foreign power.

And when the crowd was put out, he went in and took hold of her hand, and the maiden was raised from the dead. And this news went out into all that region.

Jesus Heals the Blind and Mute

And as Jesus went on from there, two blind men followed him, crying out and saying, "Have mercy on us, O Son of David!"

And when he had come into the house, the blind men came to him, and Jesus says to them, "Do you believe that I am able to do this?"

They say to him, "Yes, Lord."

Then he touched their eyes, saying, "According to your faith let it be done for you." And their eyes were opened. And Jesus warned them sternly, saying, "See that no one knows about this." But they went out and spread the news about him throughout that whole region.

And as they were going out, behold a mute who was demon-possessed was brought to him. And when the demon was expelled, the mute spoke. The crowd was amazed, and said, "Nothing like this has ever been seen in Israel!"

But the Pharisees said, "By the prince of the demons he expels the demons."

The Workers Are Few

And Jesus went through all the towns and villages, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and every sickness. And when he saw the crowds, he was moved with compassion for them, because they were like sheep without a shepherd: harried and laid down in resignation. Then he says to his disciples, "The harvest is truly plentiful, but the workers are few. Ask the Lord of the harvest, therefore, that he send out workers into his harvest."

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve

And calling forward his twelve disciples, he gave them authority over unclean spirits, so as to expel them, and to heal every disease and every illness. And these are the names of the twelve apostles: First, Simon, the one called Peter, and his brother Andrew; and James the son of Zebedee and John his brother; Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the revenue agent; James son of Halphaeus and Thaddaeus; 4Simon from Cana and Judas of Kerioth, the one who also betrayed him.

5These Twelve Jesus sent out, giving orders to them, saying: "Do not go down a Gentile road, and do not enter a town of Samaritans. 6But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. 7And as you go, preach saying: 'The kingdom of heaven has drawn near.' 8Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, drive out the demons. Freely you have received; freely give. 9Pack neither gold nor silver nor copper in your belts, neither a bag for the trip, nor two tunics, nor sandals, nor staffs; for the worker is worthy of his food.

10"And whatever town or village you enter, find out who in it is worthy, and stay there until you leave. 11But when entering the house, greet it. 12And if indeed the house is worthy, let your peace arrive upon it. 13But if it is not worthy, let your peace return to you. 14And whoever does not welcome you or listen to your words, go outside that house or town and shake the dust off your feet. 15Truly I tell you, on the day of judgment it will be more bearable for the land of Sodom and the land of Gomorrah, than for that town.

16"Behold, I am sending you out like sheep in the midst of wolves. Be shrewd as snakes therefore, yet innocent as doves. 17And be on your guard against people. For they will hand you over to councils, and they will flog you in their synagogues. And also before governors and kings you..."

In America we do not have any coins representing a fraction of a penny, but the word penny itself would do, since a penny by itself will currently buy absolutely nothing. Chapter 11

Jesus and John the Baptist

1 And it came about that when Jesus had finished giving orders to his twelve disciples, he removed himself from there to teach and preach in their towns.

2 And when John was hearing in prison about the works of Christ, he, sending word through his disciples, 3 said to him, “Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect another?”

4 And in answer, Jesus said to them, "Go and report back to John what things you are hearing and seeing: 5 The blind see again and the lame walk, lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised and the good news is preached to the poor. 6 And tell him, 'Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me.' “

7 And as they were leaving, Jesus began to speak to the crowd about John: "What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed being swayed to and fro by the wind? 8 On the contrary, what did you go out to see? Someone dressed in delicate finery? Behold, those wearing delicate finery are in kings' houses. 9 On the contrary, what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes indeed I tell you, and more than a prophet. 10 This is the one about whom it is written:

'Behold, I am sending my messenger

before your face,

before you.”

11 Truly I tell you: Among those born of women there has not risen anyone greater than John the Baptizer. But the one who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. 12 And from the days of John the Baptizer until now, the kingdom of heaven has been aggressively advancing, and the aggressive are seizing it. 13 For all the Prophets and the

80 11:6 Why did Jesus tell John this? Would John be offended by all the good works here recently listed? Not likely. It is more likely that what John would be offended by was Jesus' non-abstentious lifestyle, or even what in John the ascetic's view might be "shady" practices. John had already testified earlier, emphatically and with certainty, that Jesus was the Expected One. But now it appears, John was having his doubts about him. Jesus was a contrast to John in the following; He did not worry too much about ceremonial washing (Diatess 5:45, 14:1-10; 5:25; Matt. 15:1-20; Mark 7:1-23; John 3:25-26, John 2:6). He de-emphasized the concept of clean v. unclean foods (Diatess 14:9; Matt. 15:11,17; Mark 7:15-19). He did not frequently fast, or at least did not teach his disciples to frequently fast (Diatess. 7:24; Matt. 9:14; Mark 2:18; Luke 5:33). He drank alcohol, enabling Pharisees to dare call him a "drunkard," (Diatess. 10:30; Matt. 11:18-19; Luke 7:33, 34). He associated with "shady" characters (Diatess 7:22, 10:30, 10:35-36, 21:1, 24:19; Matt. 9:11; Mark 2:16; Luke 5:30; Matt. 11:19; Luke 7:34, 7:39, 15:1-2, 19:7). He violated the Sabbath by allowing his disciples to husk grain (Mark 2:23-28; Matt. 12:1-8; Lk 6:1-5). He did not pay the two-drachma tax, except for only the two people who were discovered, out of the total of 13 in his party (Diatess. 17:22-26; Matt. 17:24-27. On this tax, which was voluntary at best, and illegal at worst, see the endnote at the end of this document.) It remains today, that some who consider themselves righteous are offended by these truths about Jesus' lifestyle. But "Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me." "For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit." Romans 14:17

82 11:12 The Greek verb translated "aggressively advancing" is βιάζω, but also possibly the deponent βιάζομαι. The Greek substantive translated "the aggressive" is βιαστής, a derivative of the Greek verb just mentioned. The passage is difficult to translate because in the New Testament this Greek substantive is found only here, and the verb is found only here and in a similar passage in Luke 16:16. The verb could mean "forcing itself" or "suffering force," depending upon whether it is deponent or truly middle or passive voice.

The substantive, in other known instances, none in the Bible among them, bears in all three a negative connotation, of a person characterized by violence or impetuosity. But this does not absolutely and conclusively mean that there did not exist a less pejorative use for the word, one that Matthew could have intended. The appropriate connotation must therefore be gleaned from the context, which concerns John the Baptist. Jesus had just finished describing John. He was no wimp swayed back and forth by wind. He wore rough and tough clothing, ate a rough and tough diet, lived in the rough and tough desert, and fearlessly rebuked Herod. My impression is that, just as it was such a strong, tough man pushing the kingdom forward, so also it was such people who were the first to eagerly snap it up for the treasure it was: aggressive or assertive people. Those who were forceful in the best sense of forceful. They "seized the day." Such people were also quick (labeled impetuous by some) to discern trends, and recognize an opportunity. Street wise people, not fastidious. John represented a somewhat veiled sign as being a type of Elijah. More cautious people would not jump in on such hints that maybe this was the Elijah who was to come. They, like the Pharisees, would want more black and white directions. But those who were impetuous in a good sense, took the plunge. Jesus later in Matt. 21:31-32 sheds more light on this subject: speaking to the chief priests and elders, he said, "The tax collectors and the prostitutes are going ahead of you into the kingdom. For John came to you to show you the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him. And the tax collectors and the prostitutes did believe him, but even after you saw that, you still did not repent and believe him." "Seize the day" is a word to the wise. The kingdom of God is not for the timid. "But as for the timid, and unbelieving, and abominable, and murderers, and immoral persons, and sorcerers and idolaters, and all liars, their inheritance will be in the lake of fire and burning sulfur, which is the second death." (Rev. 21:8) "And if he shrinks back, My soul will not be pleased with him." For we are not of those who shrink back and are destroyed, but of those who believe and possess their souls." Lord of the Sabbath

12:1 This was the allowable practice of "plucking the heads," see Deuteronomy 23:24, 25, "If you enter your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat grapes until you are fully satisfied, but do not put any in a container. If you enter your neighbor's grain field, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain." But, the Mishnah and Tradition of the Elders forbade: "MISHNA II.: The principal acts of labor (prohibited on the Sabbath) are forty less one—viz.: Sowing, ploughing, reaping, binding into sheaves, threshing, winnowing, fruit-cleaning, grinding, sifting, kneading, baking, wool-shearing, bleaching, combing, dyeing, spinning, warping, making two spindle-trees, weaving two threads, separating two threads (in the warp), tying a knot, untying a knot, sewing on with two stitches, tearing in order to sew together with two stitches, hunting deer, slaughtering the same, skinning them, salting them, preparing the hide, scraping the hair off, cutting it, writing two (single) letters (characters), erasing in order to write two letters, building, demolishing (in order to rebuild), kindling, extinguishing (fire), hammering, transferring from one place into another. disciples are doing what on a Sabbath is not permissible to do."

3 And he said to them, "Have you not read what David did, when he and those with him were hungry? 4 How he entered the house of God, and the loaves of offering he ate, which for him was not permissible to eat, neither for those with him, but only for the priests? 5 Or haven't you read in the Torah that on the Sabbath the priests can, in the temple, desecrate the Sabbath, and yet are innocent? 6 And I tell you, something greater than the temple is here. 7 But if you had known what this means: 'I desire mercy, not sacrifice,' you would not have condemned the innocent. 8 For the Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath."

9 And going on from that place, he went into their synagogue, and behold, a man with a shrieveled hand. And they questioned him, in order that they might accuse him, saying, "Is it permissible to heal on the Sabbath?"

10 Then he said to them, "Is there anyone among you who, if he has one sheep, and it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not take hold of it and lift? 12 And how much more valuable is a human being than a sheep! Therefore, it is permissible to do good on the Sabbath."

13 Then he says to the man, "Stretch out your hand." So he stretched it out, and it was restored, just as sound as the other. 14 And the Pharisees went out and began to plot against him, as to how they might kill him.

Crowds Follow Jesus

15 But being aware of this, Jesus departed from there, and many crowds followed him, and he healed them all, and ordered them not to make him manifest, so that the thing spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled, which says:

Jesus and Baalzibbul

22Then a demonized man who was blind and mute was brought to him, and he healed him so that the mute man spoke and saw. 23And all the multitudes were astonished and said, "Could this be the Son of David?"

24But when the Pharisees heard this, they said, "Only by Ba‘al-zibbul, the ruler of the demons, is this fellow driving out the demons."

25But knowing their thoughts, he said to them, "Every kingdom divided against itself will be desolated, and every city or house divided against itself will not stand. 26And if Satan is driving out Satan, he is divided against himself, so how will his kingdom stand?

required in order to cast out a demon: 1, talk with demon, 2, find out its name, 3, cast it out

Thus it was considered a sure sign of being the Messiah, if someone cast a demon out of a mute person.

Baalzibbul meaning "Prince of flies." In this way the followers of Yahweh made fun of Baal.
Later the name Baalzibub became associated with the Aramaic Beeldeba, "enemy." Thus the conflation of Baalzibub and Beeldeba, "Beezlebub," came to be a name for Satan. To avoid confusion in all the names, this author thought it best to revert to the original form of the name.
And if I am driving out the demons by Baal-zibbul, by whom are your disciples driving them out? Therefore, they will be your judges. But if I am driving out the demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

Matthew

11And he answered and said, 'To you it has been granted to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been granted. 12For to the one who has, it will be given, and he will have an abundance. As for the one who does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. 13For this reason I speak to them in parables, that 'Though looking they do not see, and though listening they neither hear nor understand.'

14In them the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled, which says:

'With an ear you will hear and never understand; and looking, you will see, and not at all perceive. 15For this people's heart has become impervious; they hardly hear with the ears, and they have shut up their eyes, lest they see with the eyes and hear with the ears and understand with the heart, and turn, and I would heal them.'

16"But blessed are your eyes because they see, and your ears, because they hear. 17For truly I tell you, many prophets and righteous ones longed to see what you are seeing, but did not see it, and to hear what you are hearing, but did not hear it.

18 'Hear then the parable of the sower: 19When anyone hears the word of the kingdom and does not understand, the evil one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is the seed sown beside the way. 20And what was sown on the rocky spots, this is someone who hears the word and immediately with joy receives it. 21But having no root in himself, he is alive only a short time. For when tribulation comes, or persecution because of the word, he quickly falls away. And what was sown in the thorns, this is someone who hears the word, and the worry of the world, and the seductiveness of wealth\(^{94}\) choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. And what was sown on the good soil, this is someone who hears the word and understands, who does bear fruit and produces; one a hundredfold, the other sixty, and another thirty.”

The Parable of the Look-alike Weeds

He put before them another parable, as follows: “The kingdom of heaven is likened to a man sowing good seed in his field. But while the people were sleeping, his enemy came and sowed zizania\(^{95}\) in between the wheat, and went away. And when the wheat grass had sprung up and formed seed, at that same time the zizania became apparent.

So the owner’s servants came to him and said to him, ‘Sir, you sowed good seed in your field, did you not? How then does it have zizania?’

And he said to them, ‘A hateful person did this.’

“And the servants say to him, ‘Do you want us to go out, then, and collect them?’

But he says, ‘No, in case while collecting the zizania you uproot the wheat along with them. Leave both to grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will tell the reapers: Collect the zizania first and \(^{94}\) 13:22 Or "deceitfulness of wealth." I see two possible interpretations of this. One, that wealth is seductive, and draws the poor toward it and away from the kingdom. Two, is that it is talking about those who obtain wealth in this world, and they are deceived into thinking that they are wealthy.

\(^{95}\) 13:25 Greek: ζιζάνιον - zizania, a grass plant in Palestine that looked like wheat in every way, except until the head of seed appeared, because the zizania seed heads were different from the wheat heads. The zizania grain was not good for anything. The King James Version rendered ζιζάνιον as the English word "tare," a word probably descended from the Arabic tarhah, (noun) or tarahah, (verb), the basic meaning of which is transferred to the English word "tare." To "tare" goods is to ascertain the difference between the gross quantity and the net, to ascertain the quantity of the useful, and throw away the damaged goods, along with the packaging, the pallets, and whatever other deleterious material may be found with it. This word "tare' was first chosen as an English translation of ζιζάνιον for revisions of John Wycliffe's New Testament, and the word was made the standard by Mr. John Purvey, in his 1388 revision of the Wycliffe New Testament, and subsequently was adopted for use in Tyndale's and all English Bible translations of the 1500's and 1600's. Purvey chose the word tare because the tare vetch was a common weed problem among the plants of the England of his day. The seeds of the tare vetch had to be removed from the seed corn after harvest. But the tare vetch did not resemble the corn plant at all. The Greek word translated in this parable as "wheat" could mean either corn or wheat, but the plant zizanium resembled wheat, not corn. I concluded that the word "tare" is not appropriate here for three reasons; One, its meaning does not include the look-alike trait of the plant; Two, the word now refers to a vetch that is cultivated with oats for use as fodder, unlike the useless zizanium; and Three, it is a word too seldom used for most people to understand.

tie them in bundles to be burned, but gather the wheat into my barn.’ “

The Parables of the Mustard Seed and the Yeast

³¹Another parable he put before them, and said, “The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, which a person took and sowed in his garden, ³²which indeed is smaller than all the seeds, but when it grows, it becomes a tree, larger than all the herbs, such that the birds of the sky come and nest in its branches.”

³³He told them another parable: “The kingdom of heaven is like yeast, which a woman took and buried into three measures ⁹⁷ of dough, until the whole batch was leavened.”

³⁴Jesus spoke all these things to the crowds in parables; indeed he said nothing to them without a parable, ³⁵so that the thing spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, which says:

"I will open my mouth in parables,
    I will utter things hidden since the creation of the world.”³⁶

The Parable of the Look-alike Weeds Explained

³⁶Then, leaving the crowds, he went into the house. And his disciples came to him and said, ”Explain to us the parable of zizania in the field.”

⁴⁰”And as the zizania are collected and consumed by fire, so it will be at the end of the age. ⁴¹The Son of Man will send out his angels, and they will collect out of his kingdom all the things that lead to sin and those who practice lawlessness; ⁴²and they will throw them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping there, and gnashing of teeth. ⁴³At that time, the righteous will shine forth like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Let the one who has ears, hear.

The Parables of the Hidden Treasure and the Pearl

⁴⁴"The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which when a man found it, he hid it again. Then out of his joy he goes and sells what things he has, and buys that field.

⁴⁵Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant who was looking for fine pearls. ⁴⁶And when he found a single valuable pearl, he went away and sold every thing that he had and bought it.

⁴⁷Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a net cast into the sea and catching every kind of fish, ⁴⁸which when full, the fishers pulled up onto the shore, and sitting down, they collected the good kinds into baskets, but threw away the bad. ⁴⁹This is how it will be at the end of the age. The angels will go forth and will separate the evil ones from out of the midst of the righteous, ⁵⁰and throw them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping there, and gnashing of teeth."

⁵¹Jesus said to them, "Have you understood all these things?"

They are saying to him, "Yes, Lord."

⁵²And he said to them, "Therefore every Torah scholar discipled into the kingdom of heaven is like a person who owns a house, who puts forward out of his treasure room items both new and old."

A Prophet Without Honor

⁵³And it came about that when Jesus had finished these parables, he moved on from there. ⁵⁴And coming into his home town, he taught them in their synagogue, such that they were astounded, and said, "Where did this man get this wisdom and these miraculous powers? ⁵⁵Isn’t this the son of the carpenter? Isn’t his mother named Mary, and his brothers Jacob and Joseph⁹⁹and Simon and Judah? ⁵⁶And aren’t all his sisters here with us? Where then did this man get all these things?" ⁵⁷And they were offended by him.

And Jesus said to them, "A prophet is not without honor except in his home town, and among his relatives."

⁵⁸And he did not do many miracles there, because of their unbelief.
Chapter 14

John the Baptizer Beheaded

1 At that time, Herod the tetrarch heard the report about Jesus, 2 and said to his attendants, "This is John the Baptizer! He is risen from the dead, and that is why miraculous powers are at work in him!"

3 Now Herod had arrested John, and bound him, and put him away in prison, because of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife. 4 For John had been saying to him, "It is not lawful for you to have her." 5 And though wanting to kill him, he feared the crowd, because they regarded him as a prophet.

6 And when Herod's birthday celebration took place, the daughter of Herodias danced among them, and she pleased Herod; 7 for which reason he promised with an oath to give her whatever she might ask for.

8 So after being instructed by her mother, she says, "Give me here on a platter the head of John the Baptizer."

9 Though greatly distressed, the king because of his words of oath and those reclining with him, commanded that it be given, 10 and sent orders and beheaded John in the prison. 11 And his head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, and she carried it to her mother. 12 And his disciples came and took the corpse and buried him. Then they went and told Jesus.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

13 And hearing this, Jesus went away from there, in a boat, to a remote place by himself. And the crowds heard, and followed him on foot from the towns.

14 And when he got out, he saw the large crowd, and was moved with compassion for them, and healed their sick.

15 Now as evening came on, the disciples came to him, saying, "The 14:6 It is difficult to follow Herod's family tree. But this is little wonder, the way they fornicated, adulterated, and married relatives. For example, who was Herodias' first husband? But the following is what can be distilled from all accounts. Herodias' first husband, named Philip in the Bible and Herod in Josephus, was also known as Herod Philip. That's all. They were the same man. Herodias then divorced Herod Philip and married Herod Antipas, who was Herod Philip's half brother (the father of both was Herod I, king of Judea, 4 B.C., who had eight wives in his lifetime. Herod Philip's mother was Mariamne II, the third wife, and Herod Antipas' mother was Malthake, the fourth wife). Josephus says that Herodias already had a daughter named Salome before she married Herod Antipas (p 485 of The Works of Josephus, trans. William Whiston, Hendrickson, 1988; or Antiquities book 18, chapter 5, secs. 136,137). I am confident that the dancer in question was Salome, the daughter of Herod's wife Herodias. (FYI: Salome later married another Philip, who was yet another half-brother of Herod Antipas, this time by Herod I's fifth wife, Cleopatra. So Salome lived with her father for a while, then lived with her half-uncle, then married a different half-uncle.)

14:9 The Greek for oath is in the plural, an idiomatic pluralization of abstract topics that frequently serves as a designation of concrete phenomena. 'Deaths,' for example, would mean "ways of dying," or "cases of death." Here it would mean something like "words of oath." Other examples are Matthew 14:9 and Luke 5:21. place is remote, and the hour is already late. Therefore, dismiss the crowds, so they can go away into the villages and buy food for themselves."

16 But Jesus said to them, "They do not need to go away. You give them something to eat."

17 But they are saying to him, "We have nothing here except five loaves and two fish."

18 And he said, "Bring them here to me." And having directed the crowds to recline on the grass, he takes the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed God. And after he broke the loaves, he gave them to the disciples, and the disciples to the crowds.

20 And all ate and were satisfied. And they picked up the extra of the fragments, twelve large baskets\(^{102}\) full. 21 Now the ones eating were about five thousand men, without\(^{103}\) women and children.

Jesus Walks on the Water

22 And he immediately ordered his disciples to get into the boat and go on ahead of him to the other side, while he would dismiss the crowds. 23 And after he had dismissed the crowds, he went up into the mountain by himself to pray. And as evening came on he was alone there.

24 The boat was now in the middle of the lake, being battered by the waves, because the wind was contrary. 25 And in the fourth watch\(^{104}\) of the night he went out toward them, walking on the lake. 26 And when the disciples saw him walking on the lake, they were terrified, saying, "It's a ghost!" And they cried out in fear.

27 Jesus immediately spoke to them and said: "Take heart, it is I. Don't be afraid."

28 And Peter answered him and said, "Lord, if it's you, order me to come to you on the water."

29 And he said, "Come."

And Peter got down out of the boat and walked on the water, and went toward Jesus. 30 But when he saw the violent wind, he became afraid, and beginning to sink, he cried out, saying, "Lord, save me!"

31 And immediately Jesus reached out his hand and grabbed him, and says to him, "O you of little faith, why did you doubt?"

Andrew when they climbed into the boat, the wind died down. And those in the boat worshipped him, saying, "You truly are the Son of God."

And once they had crossed over, they came ashore at Gennesaret. And when the men of that place recognized him, they sent word into that whole area, and they brought to him all those who were sick. And they were entreating him that they could just touch the tassel of his cloak; and as many as touched were completely healed.

Chapter 15

Clean and Unclean

Then some Pharisees and Torah scholars from Jerusalem come to Jesus, saying, "Why do your disciples break the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat."

And in response he said to them, "And you, why do you break the command of God for the sake of your tradition? For God said, 'Honor father and mother' and 'The one who curses father or mother must be put to death.' But you say, whoever says to father or mother: 'Whatever you might be owed from me is a gift vowed to God,' he will not at all honor his father or his mother with it, and you have annulled the word of God for the sake of your tradition.

"You hypocrites! Isaiah has prophesied rightly about you, in saying,

This people draw near to me with their mouth, and honor me with their lips, but their heart is far from me.

152 Ezra had set up a group of men called the Sopherim, whose task it was to teach the Torah to the people. This was well and good. But the Sopherim decided that to make absolutely sure that no one broke one of the 613 Mosaic laws, they would make a “fence” around those 613 laws by making some more finely tuned laws, which, if people obeyed these latter, they would be assured of not even getting close to breaking one of the 613 Torah laws. The Sopherim (scribes) acknowledged that only the Torah was authoritative, and that their “fence” laws could be debated. A few generations later, other teachers of the law arose, called the Tanaim. These made another fence around the fence laws of the Sopherim. Now, however, the Tanaim’s laws were considered debatable, but the laws of the Sopherim were considered as final authority. Into this situation Jesus Christ was born, where the laws of the Sopherim were considered greater in authority than the actual Torah. In fact, where the “fence” laws conflicted with the Torah, the “fence” laws were considered to have priority. These laws were called the Mishnah, or the Oral Law, or here called the Tradition of the Elders. You were considered to have sinned if you broke one of them, just as if you had broken one of the laws of Moses.

Matthew

10And calling the crowd forward, he said to them, "Listen, and understand: ¹¹The thing entering into the mouth does not make a human being unclean, but rather the thing coming forth out of the mouth, that is what makes the human being unclean."

12Then the disciples are coming to him and saying to him, "Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this statement?"

13And he in answer said, "Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be uprooted. ¹⁴Leave them; they are blind leaders of the blind. And if a blind person leads a blind person, both will fall into a pit."

15And in response Peter said to him, "Explain the parable to us."

16And he said, "Are you also this unintelligent? ¹⁷Do you not understand that everything entering the mouth goes into the stomach, and then is ejected into the sewer? ¹⁸But the things coming forth out of the mouth come from the heart, and those things make the human being unclean. ¹⁹For out of the heart, come forth evil reasoning, murder, adultery, fornication, theft, false testimony, slander. ²⁰Those are the things making the human being unclean; but the eating with unwashed hands, that does not make the human being unclean."

The Faith of the Canaanite Dog

21And leaving there, Jesus departed to the areas of Tyre and Sidon.
22And behold a Canaanite woman from those borders, after coming forward cried out, saying, "Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David! My daughter is suffering terribly from a demon."

23But he answered not a word to her. So his disciples are coming to him and urging him, saying, "Send her away, because she keeps crying out behind us."

24And in response to her he said, "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

25But she comes and bows down to him saying, "Lord, help me."

26And he in answer said, "It is not right to take the children's bread and toss it to the dogs."

27And she said, "True, Lord; yet the dogs certainly eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table."¹⁰⁸

¹⁰⁷ 15:9 Isaiah 29:13
¹⁰⁸ 15:27 The Greek in this verse is quite unusual. There is either an unusual use of the word vai - nai, or an unusual use of the word ydp. The word vai is usually an affirmative answer, Then in answer Jesus said to her, "Oh, woman, great is your faith! Let it be for you as you desire." And her daughter was healed from that very hour.

Jesus Feeds the Four Thousand

And when he departed from there, Jesus came near the Sea of Galilee; and having gone up into the mountain, he was sitting there. And many large crowds came to him, having with them the lame, the cheiroplegic, the blind, the mute, and many others, and they laid them down at his feet, and he healed them, causing the crowd to marvel, seeing the mute speaking, the impaired of hand whole, and the lame walking and the blind seeing, and they glorified the God of Israel.

And calling forward his disciples, Jesus said, "I feel for the crowd, because they have been staying with me three days now and do not have anything to eat. And to dismiss them without eating, I am not willing, lest that is, expressing agreement. The word γάρ is a causal conjunction, used to express cause and effect. If both these words are used in this verse according to their most common usage, then this verse makes no sense. Following is how the verse should read, when rendering these two words in their most common meanings: "Yes, Lord, for even the dogs eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table." The affirmative agreement on her part makes no sense, because she is contradicting Jesus' statement that it is not right to give to dogs the children's bread. The "for" makes no sense, because this is what she would be saying, "Yes, you are right that it is not right to give the dogs of the children's bread, because even the dogs eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table." The conclusion she makes in that case is a non-sequitur. Therefore, every translation out there has rendered one of these two words irregularly. Most or all choose to render γάρ irregularly. They render it as an adversative, which is flat wrong, in my opinion. I know of no instance in any Greek literature where γάρ is an adversative. But if we are not going to render γάρ as an adversative, then there are only two or three other solutions: to render ναί as a "Yes" answer in opposition to what Jesus had said, as follows: "Yes, it is, Lord, for even the dogs eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table," or, to render γάρ as "Why." This latter is well within the realm of possibility according to the lexical authorities. The other main causal conjunction, ὅτι, not infrequently means "Why?" Thus, one very possible rendering of this woman's answer is as follows: "Yes, Lord, yet why do the dogs eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table?" In this rendering, the word καί is used as an adversative, which is lexically valid. Another possible rendering again makes καί the adversative, and γάρ meaning "certainly," which is lexically valid, as follows: "True, Lord, yet the dogs certainly eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table." Now, we have some clues in this context that the Canaanite woman said something very unusual, in Jesus' view. Jesus' response to the woman's statement expresses much emotion and surprise. Jesus' response begins with the interjection Ὦ. This is an interjection that Jesus used in only two other contexts, both of them preceding harsh rebukes of the apostles; once when they could not heal a boy, and the other in Luke when he called them slow of heart to believe the scriptures. I think what it is here is a woman with much chutzpah. Not only is she a woman talking this way to a man, which was improper, but she was talking to not just any man, but a Rabbi. Then, we have the fact that she is a Gentile talking to a Jew, and a Rabbi at that.

15:30 "Stricken hand," that is, those impaired of upper limb. The Greek word is κυλλὸς - kullòs, which can mean someone with any limb of the body either deformed, maimed, or incapacitated in any way. However, kullòs here is found with another word meaning "lame" having already been used, so you would think that kullòs is referring more to something different from legs or feet, e.g., to the hands or arms. In fact, the only other usages of kullòs in the New Testament are in the context of a maimed hand, Mt 18:8, Mk 9:43.

33And the disciples say to him, "Where in the desert could we obtain so many loaves of bread, enough to satisfy so large a crowd?"

34And Jesus says to them, "How many loaves do you have?"

And they said, "Seven, and a few fish."

35And having ordered the crowd to recline on the ground, 36he took the seven loaves of bread and the fish, and when he had given thanks, he broke and gave to the disciples, and the disciples to the crowds. 37And all ate and were satisfied, and they picked up the fragments that were left over, seven full baskets. 38Now the ones eating were four thousand men, apart from women and children. 39And after he dismissed the crowd, he embarked in the boat, and went into the territory of Magadan.

Chapter 16

The Yeast of the Pharisees, Sadducees, and Herod

1And the Pharisees and Sadducees approach him, and testing him, they asked him to show them a sign from heaven.

2But he in answer said to them, [When evening comes, you say, 'Fair weather, the sky is red.' 3And in the morning, 'Today, stormy weather, for the sky is red and threatening.' ] The face of the sky you know how to judge, but the signs of the times you are not able to?]

4"A wicked and adulterous generation demands a sign, but no sign will be given it except the sign of Jonah." And he left them and went away.

5And when the disciples were going to the other side, they forgot to take bread loaves. 4And Jesus said to them, "Watch out. Be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees."

7And they were deliberating among themselves, saying, "We didn't bring bread loaves."

Matthew

And Jesus knowing, said, "You of little faith, why are you reasoning among yourselves, 'We have no bread loaves'? 9Do you still not understand nor remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many basketfuls you picked up? 10Nor the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many basketfuls you picked up? 11How do you not understand that it was not about bread that I was speaking to you? But be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees." 12Then they understood, that he had not meant they should be on their guard against yeast,112 but against the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

Peter’s Confession of Messiah

13And upon entering into the area of the Caesarea that was in Philip’s jurisdiction, Jesus queried his disciples, saying, "Who are the people saying the Son of Man is?"
14And they said, "Some, John the Baptizer; others, Elijah; and still others, Jeremiah or one of The Prophets.”
15He says to them, "And you, who do you say I am?"
16And Simon Peter answered, and said to him, "You are the Christ, the son of the living God."
17And Jesus in response said to him, "Blessed are you, Simon son of John,113 because it was not flesh and blood that revealed this to you, but my Father, who is in heaven. 18And I also say to you, that you are Peter, and upon this rock114 I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not prevail against it. 19And to you I will give the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you declare to be forbidden on earth shall have been forbidden in heaven, and whatever you permit on earth shall have been permitted in heaven."115 20Then he admonished the disciples, that they not 112 16:12 Many witnesses add various words after "yeast," in five varieties. It appears that the shorter reading is original, and the additions are various attempts to explain the seeming contradiction, where Matthew says Jesus said yeast, then here he says he did not say yeast. But, the phrase "said" can also mean "mean" as I have it translated above. This seems more likely than copyists taking away the explanations. But, it is possible that copyists considered the presence of τῶν ἄρτων or τοῦ ἄρτου to be unnecessary for the sense and therefore omitted the words as superfluous. The UBS4 edition includes τῶν ἄρτων and rates it {C} in certainty, UBS3 gave it a {D}, and the NA26 edition includes the words τῶν ἄρτων.

113 16:17 See footnote on John 1:42
114 16:18 Peter’s name means “rock” in Greek. Yes, Jesus did build his church upon Peter, and also upon the other eleven apostles. See Revelation 22:14 “with the wall of the city having twelve foundations, and on them twelve names, of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.” Rev. 21:9 says this is talking about “the bride, the wife of the Lamb.” So we see that the church is built on Peter indeed, but Peter’s foundation is no wider or higher than the other eleven foundations. And was he the only apostle allowed to bind and loose? No, we see that all the apostles practised that.
115 16:19 Or, “Whatever you forbid on earth is as good as forbidden by heaven, and whatever you permit on earth is as good as permitted by heaven.” This “binding and loosing” teaching appears also in Matthew 18:18. It should be noted that here in 16:19, the verbs are in the 2nd person singular, Jesus saying it to and about Peter only, whereas in chapter 18 v.
tell anyone that he was the Christ.

Jesus Predicts His Death

²From that point on, Jesus began to reveal to his disciples that he had to leave for Jerusalem, and suffer many things at the hands of the elders and chief priests and Torah scholars, and be killed, and on the third day rise again. ²²And after pulling Jesus aside, Peter began correcting him, saying, "God forbid, Lord! This will never happen to you."

²³But he turned and said to Peter, "Get behind me, Satan! A hindrance you are to me, because you are not considering the concerns of God, but the concerns of mortals."

²⁴Then, Jesus said to his disciples, "If someone wants to follow me, he must deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me. ²⁵For whoever tries to keep his life will lose it. But whoever loses his life for my sake, will find it. ²⁶For what will it gain a human being, if he acquires the whole world, but is penalized his soul? In other words, what will a human being pay, in trade for his soul? ²⁷For the Son of Man will soon come in the glory of his Father with his angels, and then, he will pay back to each one, according to the way of life of each. ²⁸Truly I tell you, There are some of those present here, who will certainly not taste death before they see the Son of Man coming in his kingship."

The Transfiguration

¹And after six days Jesus takes Peter, and James, and John his brother, and he is leading them up into a high mountain, by themselves. ²And he was transfigured in front of them, and his face shone like the sun, and his garments became bright as the daylight. ³And behold, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, conversing with Him.

⁴And in response, Peter said to Jesus, "Master, it is good for us to be here. If you want, I will make three shelters here, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah."

⁵While he was still speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them, and behold, a voice from the cloud, saying as follows: "This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased. Listen to him." ⁶And when they heard this, the disciples fell on their faces, and were extremely frightened.

⁷And Jesus approached them, and after touching them reassuringly, he said, "Stand up, and do not be afraid." ⁸And when they opened their eyes, they saw no one, except Jesus himself alone.

9And as they were coming down from the mountain, Jesus was admonishing them, as follows: "Do not tell anyone about the vision, until such time the Son of Man is raised from the dead."

10And the disciples queried him, as follows, "So why do the Torah scholars say that Elijah has to come first?"

11In answer, he said, "Elijah does indeed come first, and will restore all things. But I am telling you, that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him, but did with him whatever they wished." 13Then the disciples understood that he had spoken to them about John the Baptizer.

The Healing of a Boy Who Had an Evil Spirit

14And when they had returned to the crowd, a man came up to him, falling to his knees, 15and saying, "Lord, have mercy on my son, because he is lunatic and suffering horribly. For example, he often falls into fire, and often into water. 16And I brought him to your disciples, and they were not able to heal him."

17And in answer, Jesus said, "O unbelieving and perverted generation! How long shall I stay with you? How long shall I put up with you? Bring him here to me." 18And Jesus rebuked him, and the demon departed from him, and the child was healed from that time on.

19At that time, the disciples came to him in private, and said, "Why were we not able to drive it out?"

20And he says to them, "Because of your lack of faith. For truly I tell you, if you have faith as small as a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there,' and it will move. In fact, nothing will be impossible to you." 21[[But this kind does not come out except with prayer and fasting.]]

22And when they were gathering back together in Galilee, Jesus said to them, "The Son of Man is about to be betrayed into the hands of human beings, 23and they will kill him, and during the third day he will rise again." And they were very sad.

The New Testament does not contain any instance where either Jesus or his disciples had to fast in order to cast out a demon. In fact, Jesus said all you needed is as little faith as a mustard seed. Which is it? Faith as small as a mustard seed is all you need, or also add works, like fasting? The fact that 3 different Greek verbs are used in the manuscripts that do contain the verse, is an indication that the verse is not original. I think this is an "ascetic" corruption to the gospel of Matthew.
The Two Drachma Tax

24 And when they arrived in Capernaum, the collectors of the two drachmas approached Peter, and they said, "Does your rabbi not pay the two drachmas?"

25 He says, "Yes he does."

And when Peter had come into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, "What do you think, Simon: the kings of the earth, from whom do they collect toll and tribute— from their sons, or from others?"

26 And when he answered, "From others," Jesus said to him, "Alright then, the sons are free. But, so that we not scandalize them, go to the lake, cast a hook, and the first fish that comes up, take, and when you have

117 17:24 A drachma was worth about a day's wage. The two drachma collection, 6 grams of silver, was the so-called temple tax in Exodus 30:11-16. But this payment was not intended to be a tax at all. Quoting Exodus 30:12, "When you take a census of the Israelites to number them, at the time he is numbered each man shall give a ransom for his life to Yahweh, so that no plague may come upon him for being numbered." The money was primarily an offering as atonement for the evil act of a man being numbered. Then it was merely incidental that as long as the temple personnel had this money anyway, "You shall take the atonement money from the Israelites and shall designate it for the service of the tent of meeting; before Yahweh it will be a reminder of the ransom given for his life." Ex. 30:16. It was an offering or ransom money to atone for the repugnant stench to God caused by the act of numbering the people. There are other scriptures indicating God's displeasure with the idea of his people being numbered. See for example, I Chronicles chapter 21, and 27:23,24. It is clear that the payment was a ransom for a man's life. How many times must a man be ransomed? Ransom, even to terrorists, is not paid more than once. The ransom was to be paid only when a man "crosses over to join those who are numbered," Exodus 30:13,14. God had never commanded that the ransom be paid annually, as the tradition came to be. For it was only to be collected "when you number the people," v. 12. This was in anticipation of the only census ever ordered by God, the one that took place in Numbers chapter 1. God was against the numbering of the people as a practice. This was allowed just one time only, with a way to escape his wrath built in. The only additional census permissible was of aliens, as in II Chron. 2:17. Jesus apparently was not in the habit of paying the two drachmas. In this instance he only paid for himself and for Peter, and did nothing about the other eleven apostles, since they were not brought up. Jesus did not "obey every law of man." He did not just automatically do what every bureaucrat told him to do. Jesus was not a chump, and neither should his disciples be. We are supposed to be wise as serpents. For a reading of all the scriptures showing how the tradition of the annual tax came about, see the endnote entitled, "How did a once-only atonement offering become an annual tax?"

118 17:25 The meaning of υἱοί, "sons," here, could be an extended meaning; that is, "from their own relatives in race and culture, extended to their countrymen, from their citizens." This is a possible interpretation because it is made an antonym of ἀλλότριοι, which in Jewish Greek like in the Septuagint, meant "aliens." Here the meaning would be, that since the two drachma tax was supposedly for maintenance of the temple- God's house, then God's children, the citizens of the kingdom of God, were exempt from that tax.

119 17:26 This word free, will not be understood properly, unless one understands "tribute" properly. Tribute was a poll tax paid to the conqueror, by a conquered or subjugated people. Anyone paying tribute, was by definition not free, but rather a member of an enslaved nation.

120 17:27a Some surmise that Jesus did this in order to appear to be compliant with an illegitimate tax, so as not to scandalize any believers who thought that he surely must "obey every law of man." That is possible. But also possible, is that Jesus wanted to honor the oral contract Peter had already made with the tax collectors: the collectors had previously asked if Jesus pays the tax, and Peter had answered in the affirmative. Thus, only those two individuals involved in the oral contract, were obligated to pay it this instance.
opened its mouth, you will find a four-drachma coin. Take that, and give it to them, as mine and yours.”

Chapter 18

Who Is the Greatest?

1In that same hour, the disciples approached Jesus, saying, “So who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?”

2And calling a child over, he stood him in the midst of them, and he said, "I tell you truly: unless you change and become like little children, there is no way you will enter into the kingdom of heaven. 4Whoever therefore humbles himself like this child, that is the one who is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. 5And whoever receives one little child such as this on the basis of my name, is receiving me.

More About Little Ones

6As for that person through whom one of these little ones who believe in me might ever be scandalized, it would be better for that person that a mill stone be hung around his neck and be sunk in the bottom of the sea. 7Woe to the world, because of those scandalizings. Certainly, the scandalizings are bound to come. Nevertheless, woe to the person through whom the scandalizing comes.

8And if your hand or your foot scandalizes you, cut it off, and throw it away from you. It is better for you to enter into life maimed and crippled, than to be thrown into everlasting fire, having both hands or both feet.

9And if your eye scandalizes you, tear it out, and throw it away from you. It is better for you to enter into life one-eyed, than be thrown into fiery Gehenna with two eyes.

9See that you not despise or overlook even one of these little ones; for I tell you, in heaven their angels through it all are seeing the face of my Father who is in heaven.

¹² Matthew 17:27c Note that Jesus did not tell the other eleven disciples to pay. The payment at issue in this passage was a Jewish religious matter, and originally not even a tax (see previous footnote on "the two drachmas." Jesus and the disciples were Sons or Citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven, so were not subject to this "tax." Remember, the Levites did not pay the census atonement fee tax. (Numbers 1:48, 49) All those who become Citizens of the kingdom of God have the same status in regard to this tax as the Levites had. "God has made us kings and priests, and we will reign on the earth." Rev. 5:10 Kings don't pay the tax. And kings is what Jesus and the twelve apostles were.

12What do you think? Suppose a man has a hundred sheep, and one of them is lost. Will he not leave the ninety-nine on the mountain, and go look for the one that is wandering? 13And if he happens to find it, truly I tell you, he rejoices over it more than the ninety-nine that were not lost.

That is how undesirable it is, in the eyes of your Father in heaven, that even one of these little ones be lost. 124

A Brother Who Sins

15Now if your brother sins [against you], 125 go show him his fault, just between you and him. If he listens to you, you have won back your brother. 16But if he does not listen, take with you one or two others, so that 'upon the mouths of two or three witnesses every matter be established.' 17And if he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the assembly. And if he refuses to listen to the assembly, he should be considered by you as no different than a gentile or a revenue agent.

Truly I tell you, what things you apostles on earth declare to be forbidden, shall have been forbidden in heaven; and what things you on earth declare to be permitted, shall have been permitted in heaven. 126

19 Again I say to you, if two of you on earth agree with one voice concerning any and all matters about which you make request, it will be brought about for you by my Father who is in heaven. 20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

The Parable of the Unmerciful Servant

21 At that time Peter approached and said to him, "Lord, how many times shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him? Up to seven times?"

22 Jesus says to him, "I tell you, not up to seven times, but up to seventy [times] seven times, 127

23 Therefore, the kingdom of heaven may be likened to a man in ruling power who desired to settle accounts with his servants. 24 So he proceeded to settle, and had one of his debtors brought to him, one who owed him ten thousand talents. 25 But since he did not have the means to repay, the master ordered him to be sold as a slave, and also his wife and children and everything he had, and then to be paid back.

26 The servant therefore fell down, and was entreating him, saying, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back everything.' 27 And moved with compassion, the master of that servant released him, and forgave his debt.

28 But then after he went out, that servant found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii, and he seized him, and was choking him, saying, 'Pay me back everything you owe.'

29 The fellow servant therefore fell down, and was begging him, saying, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back.' 30 But he was not willing, and went and threw him into the debtors' prison, until such time he could pay back the debt.

31 When therefore his fellow servants witnessed these events, they were extremely upset, and went and reported to their master everything that had happened. 32 Then summoning him, his master is saying to him, 'You wicked servant! All that debt of yours I forgave you, because you begged me. 33 Aren’t you then also obligated to forgive your fellow servant, as I have forgiven you?’

34 And in anger, his master handed him over to the jailers, until such time he could pay back everything he owed. 35 This is how my Father in heaven will act toward you also, unless you each forgive your brother

But Gentiles do not need to know this reference in order to understand that Matthew means to indicate a number that is large beyond human nature. Chapter 19
Jesus Tested on Divorce

1And it came about that when Jesus had finished these discourses he departed from Galilee, and went into the region of Judea on the other side of the Jordan. 2And large crowds followed him, and he healed them there. 3And some Pharisees came to him, testing him, and saying, "Is it permitted for someone to release his wife for any cause at all?"

4But in answer he said, "Have you never read, that from the beginning the creator made them male and female, 5and said, 'For this reason a man shall leave father and mother, and be joined to his woman, and the two shall become one flesh'? 6As a result, they are no longer two, but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, no human being is allowed to separate."

7They are saying to him, "Why then did Moses command to give a release of interest form in order to release?"

8He says to them, "Moses, in view of the hardness of your hearts, permitted you to release your wives, though it is not originally designed this way. 9But I tell you that whoever releases his wife, except upon grounds of fornication, and marries another, commits adultery."

128 19:3 "Releasing" is the opposite of the cleaving or joining commanded in the Genesis passage.

129 19:7a This word ἀποστάσιον - apostásion, "release of interest form," was used to signify the relinquishment of property. A quit-claim, if you will. In the culture of ancient Israel there was never any provision for a wife to quit her property claim in her husband, since the wife was considered property of her husband, and never the other way around. The apostle Paul in the New Testament, however, states in I Corinthians 7:4, "The wife has not authority over her own body, but rather the husband: and likewise also the husband has not authority over his own body, but rather the wife." This is a consequence of being "one flesh."

10. The disciples are saying to him, "If this is the situation of a man with a wife, it is not advisable to marry!"

11. And he said to them, "Not everyone can receive this word, but only those to whom it has been given. 12. For there are some who are eunuchs, who were born that way from their mother's womb. And there are some who are eunuchs who were made to be eunuchs by human beings. And there are some who are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. The person who is able to receive this, should receive it."

The Little Children and Jesus

13. At that time, little children were brought to him, so that he might lay his hands on them and pray. But the disciples scolded them.

14. But Jesus said, "Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them. For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

The Rich Young Ruler

16. And behold, someone came up to him and said, "Good Teacher, what good must I do so that I will inherit eternal life?"

17. And he said to him, "Why are you calling me good? No one is good except One, God. But if you want to enter eternal life, keep the..."
commandments."

He says to him, "Which ones?" And Jesus said to him, "Do not murder, do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not give false testimony, honor your father and your mother," \(^{134}\) and, love your neighbor as yourself."\(^{135}\)

The young man says to him, "All these I have kept. What am I still missing?"

Jesus said to him, "If you want to be perfect, go sell your possessions and give it to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven, and then come follow me."

But when the young man heard this statement, he went away regretting, for he was owner of much property. \(^{23}\) And Jesus said to his disciples, "Truly I say to you, the rich will get into the kingdom of heaven with great difficulty. \(^{24}\) And again, I say to you, it is easier for a camel\(^{136}\) to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich person to enter into the kingdom of God."

And when they heard this, the disciples were greatly astonished, saying, "Who then can be saved?"

And Jesus looked at them, and said to them, "With human beings, this is impossible; but with God, all things are possible."

Then Peter answered and said to him, "Look how we have left everything, and followed you. What then will there be for us?"

And Jesus said to them, "Truly I say to you, you who are hearing me: In the new beginning, when the Son of Man sits on his glorious throne, you also will sit, upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.
And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or fathers or mothers or children or lands for the sake of my name, will receive a hundred times as much, and inherit eternal life. \(^{30}\) But many who are first will be last, and many who are last will be first."

easily imagine why someone would not like the reading "Why are you asking me about what is good?" It seems preposterous that a Rabbi would object to being asked about what is good, since declaring what was good or what was not good, that was his job. And even more preposterous, is that the Son of God, who was made into flesh in order to declare the attributes of the Father to men, would object to being asked about what is good.

Some people teach that Jesus really instead said "rope to go through the eye of a needle," because he was speaking in the Aramaic language, and the Aramaic word for camel was also the word for a kind of rope. Regardless, Jesus would want to invent a simile that was in line with his main point: "something impossible." His illustration must demonstrate something that is impossible, naturally speaking. "Camel" is more impossible than "rope," so at worst, camel works just fine, and at best, camel is the best rendering because it is more impossible.
Chapter 20

The Parable of the Workers in the Vineyard

1"Similar therefore is the kingdom of heaven to a landowner, who went out early in the morning to hire workers together into his vineyard.
2And he came to an agreement with the workers, of a denarius a day, and sent them into his vineyard.
3And when he went away, about the third hour, he saw others, standing in the market place idle.
4To them also he said, "You also go out into my vineyard, and whatever is right, I will give you."
5So they left. And again, he went away about the sixth hour and also the ninth hour, and did the same thing.
6And about the eleventh hour he went away and found others standing, and he says to them, "Why are you standing here the whole day idle?"

7They say to him, "Because no one has hired us.”
8He says to them, "You also go out into my vineyard. And whatever is right, that you will receive.”
9And when evening had come, the owner of the vineyard says to his foreman, "Call the workers and pay them their wages, starting from the last ones, to the first ones.”
10And those who had arrived at about the eleventh hour, each received a denarius.
11And the ones who had arrived first expected to receive more, yet they received a denarius each themselves.
12So they got together and were complaining to the landowner, saying, "These last ones worked one hour, and you have treated them the same as us who have borne the burden of the whole day, and the scorching heat.”
13And he in answer to one of them said, ‘Friend, I am not doing you wrong. Did you not agree to a denarius with me?
14Take what is yours and go your way. So this is what I want to give to the last ones, as I also gave to you.
15Is it not permissible for me to do what I want with things that are mine? Or is your eye evil because I am generous?’
16Thus, the last will be first, and the first will be last.

²⁰:³ That is, about 9 a.m. Then again at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. The Jewish clock began at sunrise and sunset; thus the third hour was about 3 hours after sunrise, hence 9 a.m. The 11th hour was only one hour before dark.
²⁰:ⁱ⁶ Most witnesses add πολλοὶ γὰρ εἰσίν κλητοί, ὀλίγοι δὲ ἐκλεκτοί (For many are called, but few are chosen). It is more likely that these words were incorporated by copyists from 22:14, where they terminate another parable, than that so many witnesses deleted these words (K B L Z 085 892 1243 1342 (1424) cop Diatessaron). The reading without these words is given an A rating of certainty by the editorial committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament, 4th Edition, which means that it is certain.
Jesus Again Predicts His Death

And as he was going up to Jerusalem, Jesus took the Twelve aside in private, and said to them on the way, “Behold we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man is going to be betrayed to the chief priests and the Torah scholars, and they will condemn him to death. And he will be handed over to the Gentiles, to be ridiculed and crucified, and during the third day he will rise again.”

A Mother’s Request

At that time, the mother of the sons of Zebedee approached him, along with her sons. She is worshiping him and asking a favor from him. And he said to her, "What do you want?" She says to him, "Decree that these two sons of mine sit one on the right and one on the left of you in your kingdom."

But in answer Jesus said, "You do not know what you are asking. Are you able to drink the cup which I am about to drink?"

They say to him, "We are able."

He says to them, "My cup you will indeed drink, but to sit on my right or on my left is not mine to grant, but is only for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father."

And when the other ten heard, they were upset about the two brothers. And Jesus, calling them to him, said, "You know that the rulers among the nations lord it over them, and the great ones exercise authority over them. It shall not be so among you. Instead, whoever wants to be great among you shall be your servant, and whoever wants to be first among you must be your slave. Just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Two Blind Beggars Receive Their Sight

And as they were leaving Jericho, very large crowds were following them. And behold, two blind men sitting alongside the road, when they hear that Jesus is passing by, they cry out, saying, "Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!"

But the crowd scolded them, that they should be quiet. But they cried out the more, saying, "Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!"

And Jesus stopped, and called out to them and said, "What do you want me to do for you?"

20:22 In this phrase, "you are asking" is plural. Whereas, when the mother was worshiping and asking, it was singular. Whether or not it was the mother’s idea, or the sons’, or both, Jesus addresses them in the plural. In the next sentence when he asks, ‘Are you able…”, plural, he is surely addressing the sons, not the mother.
Matthew

They are saying to him, "Lord, that our eyes be opened." And feeling sorry for them, Jesus touched their eyes, and immediately they saw, and they followed him.

Chapter 21

The Triumphal Entry

And when they drew near to Jerusalem and arrived at Bethphage on the Mount of Olives, at that time Jesus sent two disciples, telling them, "Go into the village ahead of you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied up, and her colt with her. Untie them and bring them to me. And if anyone says anything to you, say, 'The Lord needs them, and will send them right back.'"

Now this happened so that what was spoken through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says,

"Say to the Daughter of Zion:
'Behold, your king is coming to you meek, and riding on a donkey,
and on a colt, the foal of a donkey.'"

And those disciples went, and did just as they were instructed by Jesus. They brought the donkey and the colt, and placed their cloaks on them, and he sat on them. And the large crowd of people spread their garments out on the road; and some were cutting branches off the trees and spreading those on the road. And the crowd proceeding ahead of him, and those following after, were shouting out as follows:

"Hosha na to the Son of David!"

"Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!”¹⁴⁴

"Hosha na in the highest!"

¹⁰And when he came into Jerusalem, the whole city was stirred, saying, "Who is this?"

¹¹And the crowds would say, "This is the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth, Galilee."

Jesus Clears the Temple

¹²And Jesus went into the temple, and he threw out all the ones who were selling or buying in the temple. And the tables of the moneychangers¹⁴⁵ he overturned, and the seats of the ones selling doves.

¹³And he says to them, "It is written:

'My house shall be called a house of prayer';¹⁴⁶
but you are making it
'a den of thieves.'¹⁴⁷"

¹⁴And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple, and he healed them. ¹⁵But when the chief priests and the Torah scholars saw the wonders that he performed, and the children crying out in the temple and saying, "Hosha na to the Son of David," they were indignant, ¹⁶and they said to him, "Do you hear what they are saying?!"

And Jesus says to them, "Yes. Have you never read, 'Out of the mouths of children and those still nursing you have arranged for yourself praise'¹⁴⁸?"

¹⁴⁴ 21:9b Psalm 118:26
¹⁴⁵ 21:12 The Greek word here, κολλυβιστής - kollubistēs, is traditionally translated "moneychangers," but bankers is what they were. They are called moneychangers here because the main purpose of their "tables" when in the temple area was to break up larger currency into smaller change, and also perhaps to exchange foreign currency, if there was such a thing in the Roman empire. But the fact is, what the "tables" were is little in-temple, mini-branches of banks. We know they were tables of bankers offering other banking services such as savings accounts paying interest, because of Luke 19:23, where the "tables" were places to put money on deposit to earn interest.

¹⁴⁸ 21:16 Psalm 8:2 Note also that in that culture, it was normal for children of speaking age to still be breast feeding.
And he left them, and went outside the city, to Bethany, and found lodging there.

The Withered Fig Tree

And early in the morning, as he was on his way back to the city, he was hungry. And when he saw a lone fig tree by the road, he went up to it. And he found nothing on it but only leaves. And he says to it, "May there never be fruit from you again." And immediately the fig tree withered.

And when the disciples saw this they marvelled, saying, "How did the fig tree immediately wither?"

And in answer Jesus said to them, "Truly I say to you, if you have faith, and do not second guess, not only will you do something like the fig tree, but also should you say to this mountain, 'Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,' it would happen. In fact anything whatsoever that you ask for in prayer believing, you will receive."

The Authority of Jesus Questioned

And after he had come into the temple, as he was teaching, the high priests and the elders of the people approached, saying, "By what authority are you doing these things? And who gave you the authority for these things?"

And in answer Jesus said to them, "I will also ask you one question, which if you answer me, I will then tell you by what authority I do these things. The baptism of John, where was it from, from heaven, or from human beings?"

So they discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say to us, Then why didn't you believe in him?' And if we say, 'From human beings,' we fear the people, for they all hold John as a prophet."

And they in answer said to Jesus, "We do not know."

So he also told them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I am doing these things."

The Parable of the Two Sons

So what do you think? A man had two sons. And he went to the first son and said, 'Son, go work in the vineyard today.' And he in answer said, 'I will not,' but with a subsequent change of heart, he went. And he went to the other son and said the same thing. And he in answer said, 'I will, sir,’ and did not go.

³¹Who of the two performed the will of the father?”

They are saying, “The first one.”

Jesus says to them, “Truly I say to you: the revenue agents and prostitutes are going into the kingdom of God before you.¹⁴⁹ ³²For John came to you with the way of righteousness, and you did not believe in him. The revenue agents and prostitutes, however, did believe in him. And you when you saw that, neither did you subsequently have a change of heart and believe in him.”

The Parable of the Tenants

³³“Listen to another parable. There was a landowner who planted a vineyard, and he put a hedge around it, and dug a winepress in it, and built a watchtower, and leased it out to tenant farmers, and journeyed away.

³⁴And when the time of harvest had drawn near, he sent servants of his to the farmers, to take his fruit.

³⁵And this is the reception the farmers gave his servants: one they flogged, another they killed, another they stoned. ³⁶Again he sent other servants, more than before, and they treated them the same way. ³⁷So finally he sent his own son to them, thinking, ‘They will respect my son.’

³⁸But the farmers when they saw the son said to each other, 'This is the heir. Hey, let's kill him, and his inheritance will be ours.' ³⁹And they took him and cast him outside the vineyard and killed him.

⁴⁰When therefore the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those farmers?”

⁴¹They are saying to him, “He will kill those creeps catastrophically,¹⁵⁰ and give the vineyard to other farmers, who will pay him back the fruits in their seasons.”

⁴²Jesus says to them, "Have you never read in the scriptures,

¹⁵⁰ 21:41 There may be an alliteration here, κακοὺς κακῶς – kakoùs kakòs (bad guys badly), where the word for bad guys starts with the same sound as the word for badly. He will kill those bad guys badly. Thus, many translations render it "bring those wretches to a wretched end." The reason they chose those words is that they start with the same sound, not necessarily because those words are the best translation for the Greek words. The reason I chose three words starting with the K sound is that that sound is generally considered an unpleasant sound. (Although Kappa was a softer K than was Xi, Kappa being the unaspirated and Xi being the aspirated K sound.) Thus we get the word "cacophonous." And the Spanish word "caca."
"'A stone which the builders rejected, this one has become the chief cornerstone.
From the Lord this came about,
    and it is marvelous
    in our eyes'"?

43Therefore I say to you, that the kingdom of God will be taken away from you, and given to a nation producing its fruit. 44And the person who trips over that stone will be broken into pieces, and upon whomever the stone falls, it will turn him into powder."152

45And when the chief priests and the Pharisees heard this parable of his, they knew that it was about them that he was speaking. 46And though seeking to arrest him, they feared the crowds, since they held him to be a prophet.

Chapter 22

The Parable of the Wedding Banquet

1And once again Jesus in response to them spoke by means of a parable, saying, 2"The kingdom of heaven may be likened to a king, who put on a wedding feast for his son. 3And he sent his servants to summon those who were invited to the wedding, and they did not want to come.

4Once more, he sent other servants, telling them, 'Say to those invited, "Look, my noon meal has been prepared, my bulls and fattened animals are slaughtered, and everything is ready. Come now to my wedding feast." 5But they disregarded this and went off, one to his own field, another on his trade route, 6and others of them captured his servants, and insulted and killed them.

7And the king became angry, and sending his soldiers, he slew those murderers, and burned their city. 8Then, he says to his servants, 'Seeing as how my wedding feast is ready, and the ones invited were not worthy, 9go out therefore onto the crossings of the roads, and whoever you find, invite them to the wedding feast.' 10So going out into the roads, those

Yet the words are quite different at the beginning, and according to the UBS committee, the verse’s omission can be accounted for when the eye of the copyist passed from αὐτῆς (last word of ver. 43) to αὐτόν (the last word of ver. 44). Also, the committee says, the more appropriate place for copyists to have inserted it, if it was an interpolation, would have been after verse 42.

servants gathered everyone that they could find, both the evil and the good. And so the wedding hall was filled with guests reclining.

¹¹Now when the king went in to observe the ones reclining, he saw there a man who was not dressed in wedding clothes. ¹²And he says to him, 'Friend, how is it you have come in here without having wedding clothes?' And he was speechless.

¹³Then the king said to his servants, 'Bind his feet and hands, and throw him outside, into the outer darkness; there, there will be keening, and gnashing of teeth.' ¹⁴For many are invited, but few are chosen.”

Paying the Tribute Tax to Caesar

¹⁵Then the Pharisees left, and plotted how they might entrap him in a saying. ¹⁶And they send disciples of theirs to him, along with Herodians, saying as follows, "Teacher, we know that you are honest, and that you teach the way of God with integrity,¹⁶ and it makes no difference to you about anyone, for you pay no attention to the personage of people.¹⁷ Tell us then, what do you think? Is it permissible to pay the tribute to Caesar, or not?"

¹⁸But aware of their evil, Jesus said, "Why are you testing me, you hypocrites? Show me the coinage used for the tribute.‘ And they brought him a denarius. ²₀And he says to them, "Whose image is this, and whose inscription?"

²¹They say to him, "Caesar’s."

Then he says to them, "So Caesar’s things you give back to Caesar, and God’s things to God." ²²And when they heard this, they were amazed, and they left him, and went away.

Marriage at the Resurrection

²³During that same day, Sadducees approached him, (Sadducees say there is no resurrection), and they questioned him as follows: 'Teacher, Moses said, 'If a man dies without having a child, his brother shall marry the man’s wife, and raise up descendants for his brother.’ ²⁵Well, there were seven brothers near us, and the first one after marrying, died, and since he had no descendant, his brother took his wife. ²⁶And it was the same with the second, and the third, up till and including all the seven. ²⁷And last of all, the woman died.

28 In the resurrection, then, of which of the seven will she be wife?

For all of them had her."

29 And in answer Jesus said to them, "You are mistaken, from not knowing either the scriptures or the power of God. 30 For in the resurrection, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like the angels in heaven.

31 Now about the resurrection of the dead, have you never read the declaration to you from God, where he says, 32 I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? 33 He is not the God of the dead, but of the living."

34 And when the crowds heard this, they were astonished at his teaching.

The Weightiest Commandment

34 And when the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together on that same place, and one of them, a lawyer, questioned him, testing him: 36 "Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the law?"

37 And he told him, "'You shall love Yahweh your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength.' This is the greatest and primary commandment. 39 And the second one is like it: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' 40 On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

Whose Son is the Messiah?

41 And as long as the Pharisees were collected together, Jesus questioned them, saying: "What do you all think about the Christ—whose son is he?"

They are saying, "David's."

43 He says, "How is it then that David, by the Spirit, calls him Lord, saying, ⁴⁴Yahweh said to my Lord, ¹⁶⁰ “Sit at my right hand until such time I put your enemies under your feet.”⁴⁵So, since David calls him Lord, how is he his son?”
Matthew

⁴⁶And no one was able to answer this argument, nor did anyone from that day on dare ask him anything else.

Chapter 23

Jesus Denounces the Rabbis

¹Then Jesus spoke to the crowd and to his disciples, ²saying, "The Torah scholars and Pharisees took ¹⁶² the seat of Moses; ³therefore whatever they say to you, you should do and keep, but not according to their works should you do. For they say and don't do.

⁴But they bind heavy loads ¹⁶³ and place them on the backs of the people, but they themselves would not budge them with a finger of theirs. ¹⁶⁴

⁸But you, you should not be called Rabbi, because there is only one teacher for you, and you are all brothers. ⁹And call no one your father, because there is only one father for you, the heavenly one. ¹⁰Neither should you be called Teacher, because your teacher is the Messiah. ¹¹But the greatest among you shall be your servant. ¹²And whoever promotes himself will be lowered, and whoever lowers himself will be promoted.

¹⁶² 23:2 The Greek says ἐκάθισαν ἐπι καθέδρας τῆς Μωυσέως, which when translated literally is "they sat upon the seat of Moses." This is probably a "gnomic" aorist, somewhat like the perfect aspect. Jesus appears to be saying that they legitimately took the place of Moses, and still at the time, were sitting there. Note also that the arrangement of furniture in synagogues in that time included a literal raised seat in the front, symbolically reserved for Moses.

¹⁶⁴ 23:4b The word "finger" is in the plural, but it is a collective, talking about the group's acts as individuals. For example, when someone says to a group of people, "Turn your hearts to God," that does not mean that each person has more than one heart, but means rather, each of you all, turn your own heart, singular, to God.

26 O blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup, such that the outside will be clean as well.

27 Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! For you are like whitewashed tombs, that sparkle beautifully on the outside, but inside are full of bones of the dead and all sorts of unclean things.

28 So you also, outside you appear to people as righteous, but inside you are loaded up with hypocrisy and lawlessness.

29 Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets, and decorate the graves of the righteous, 30 and you say, 'If we had lived in the days of our forefathers we would not have been parties to the blood of the prophets.'

31 By so saying, you are bearing witness against yourselves, that you are sons of the murderers of the prophets.

32 You fill indeed the measure of your forefathers.¹⁶⁹

33 O you snakes, you spawn of vipers, how will you wiggle out of the sentence of Gehenna?

34 Therefore behold, I am sending to you prophets, and wise men, and Torah scholars; some of them you will kill and crucify, and some of them you will flog in your synagogues and pursue from town to town, ³⁵ so that on you will come all of the blood of the righteous ever spilled upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Barachiah, whom you slaughtered between the sanctuary and the altar.

36 Truly I tell you, this will all fall upon this generation.

The Greek word here, ἀκρασία - akrasia, means to have no or to exercise no power over one's self, in restraining the pursuit of pleasure, the pursuit of one's appetites. (The Majority text, which the KJV did not follow in this instance, reads ἀδίκιαν here—"unrighteousness"—instead of ἀκρασία) But it is hard to say, "the inside is full of an absence of something." I was tempted to say here, "full of addictions," because that is the ultimate result of lack of restraint, and the decline in usefulness to society spoken of by Socrates and Aristotle on the subject of this word ἀκρασία. It is not solely a Bible-belt fundamentalist concept, that unrestraint in the pursuit of pleasure brings the downfall of civilization, but it is also the belief and teaching of the great Greek philosophers. See the end note on this verse and the word ἀκρασία, with excerpts of the classic philosophers, showing how they used the word.

¹⁶⁹ 23:32 This is traditionally translated as an imperative: "Fill up then, the measure of your forefathers." But the imperative inflection of verbs was usually identical to the indicative. Therefore, it is possible that this could be an indicative, and be rendered, "You fill indeed the measure of your forefathers." This rendering would be in accord with Luke's parallel in Luke 11:48, which states that their forefathers did the killing, and they did the building. That is a filling or completion of the measure of their forefathers. This could be something like our expression, "You fill your father's shoes." My main reason for rendering this as an indicative is the διὰ δοῦτο - dia touto (for this reason) that Jesus begins verse 34 with. "You will pursue and kill my prophets just like your forefathers did." He is saying that they do indeed fill the shoes of their forefathers (and foremothers—Jezebel).

Signs of the Times

1 And Jesus was proceeding on his way, and left the temple, and his disciples approached to show him the construction of the temple.

2 But in answer he said to them, "Do you see all these things?"

Truly I tell you, by no means will there be a stone left upon a stone that will not be thrown down."

3 Then as he was sitting on the Mount of Olives, his disciples came to him privately, saying, "Tell us, when will these things happen, and what will be the sign of your coming, and of the end of the age?"

4 And in answer Jesus said to them, "See that no one misleads you.

5 For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am the Christ,' and they will deceive many.

6 And you will hear about wars and rumors of wars. Do not be alarmed. For such are bound to happen, but the end is still not yet.

7 For nation will rise up against nation, and king against king, and there will be famines and earthquakes in various places.

8 But all these are just the beginning of birth pains.

9 At that time they will deliver you over to trial, and you will be hated by all nations because of my name.

10 And then many will be scandalized, and others will betray and hate each other;

11 and many false prophets shall arise, and lead many astray.

12 And because of the increase of lawlessness, the love of many will grow cold.

13 But the person who remains to the end, that one will be saved.

14 And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in the whole inhabited earth, for a witness to all nations, and then the end will come.

15 When therefore you see the abomination of desolation spoken of through the prophet Daniel being in the holy place, (Reader, think.)

23:38 It was once thought that texts of Matthew included the word ἔρημος – ἔρēmos to harmonize with Luke 13:35, but now a new analysis of Papyrus 77 (late II century) for Matthew 23:38 has been made, which shows the absence of the word "desolate."

23:39 Psalm 118:26

24:2 This at first looks like it is saying, "Do not look at all these things." But BDF §427(2) says, "Both οὐ and μή are still used in questions as in classical." BDF §440 further explains, "Οὐ is employed to suggest an affirmative answer, μη (μήτι) a negative reply; in the latter, μή with the indicative is an external indication that it is a question, since independent μή can be used in no other way than interrogatively." So in this case of Matt. 24:2, the word οὐ suggests a "yes" answer to Jesus' question. It is not necessary to translate the Greek word into a corresponding English word. It is obvious that the disciples did see them.

For just as in the days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and being given in marriage, right up until the day that Noah entered the ark, and they did not know \textit{it} right up until the flood came and carried them away, that is how it will be with the coming of the Son of Man.\footnote{24:35 At that time, two men will be in the field; one will be taken and the other left.}

But this you know: that if the home owner had known at what 44 For this reason you also must be the same: because the Son of Man is coming at an hour you would not think he would.

45 Who then is the faithful and sensible servant, whom the master places over his domestic servants, to be giving out rations in due time?

46 Happy is that servant whom his lord will find so doing when he comes.

47 Truly I tell you, he will place him over all his possessions.

48 But if that servant says in his heart, 'My lord is taking a long time,'

There, there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Chapter 25

The Parable of the Ten Virgins

1 At that time, the kingdom of heaven will be like ten virgins who after grabbing their torches, went out for the meeting up with the bridegroom. 2 Now five of them were foolish, and five of them were wise. 3 For the foolish ones when they brought their torches, had not brought some oil along with them. 4 The wise, however, brought along with their torches, some oil in a container.

5 Now after the bridegroom was taking a long time, they all became drowsy, and fell asleep. 6 And in the middle of the night, there came a loud cry, 'Look, the bridegroom! Come out to join him.'

7 Then at that time, all those virgins woke up, and trimmed their

184 24:45 Gnomic aorist
185 25:1 The meeting "up with," or joining up with, is from the Greek word ὑπάντησις - hupanteesis (See also how I translated this word in John 12:13. This word, by New Testament times, was used somewhat interchangeably with ἀπάντησις (apanteesis) as well, as in verse 6 later in this chapter, and in the passages about meeting the Lord in the air, in 1 Thessalonians). Here it is referring to the Palestinian wedding custom that the bridesmaids join up with the bridegroom party after he has gone to the bride's father's house and gotten his bride. The official ceremony had already started with the groom and his companions' procession to the bride's father's house. And now, the bridesmaids go out and join the procession to the groom's house. Professional musicians were hired for this procession, and there was much dancing and music. The torches were necessary if darkness had fallen, or in case darkness might fall during the procession and ceremony. It would be prudent to take them, along with extra oil, since the torches burned up the oil rapidly. In this parable, the virgins are at the point where they are waiting for the bridegroom and his party to come with the bride, meet up with them, and then go to the groom's house. And the groom takes a long time to come.
186 25:3 The plural genitive form of ἑαυτοῦ - heautou, as found here, ἑαυτῶν - heautōn, is the same form for all genders. Therefore, "along with them" could be referring either to the virgins, or to the torches. But we see, from verse 4, that it is referring to the torches.
Matthew

And the foolish ones said to the wise ones, 'Give us some of your oil, because our torches are going out.'

But the wise ones answered saying, 'There may not be enough for both us and you. Go to the vendors and buy more for yourselves.'

And while they were gone away to buy some, the bridegroom came, and the ones who were ready went in with him to the wedding, and then the door was locked.

And later on, the other virgins also arrive, and they are saying, 'Sir! Sir! Open the door for us.'

But in response, he said, 'Truly I tell you, I do not know you.'

You all should keep watch therefore; because you do not know the day or the hour.'

The Parable of the Talants

For it is like a man going away on a journey. He summoned his own servants, and handed his possessions over to them. And to one he gave five talants, and to another two talants, and to another, one talant, each according to his own ability, and then he went abroad. Immediately, the one who received the five talants went out and worked with them and gained five more. Similarly, the one with the two, gained another two. But the one who had received the one talant went out and dug a hole in the ground, and he hid his master's silver.

And after a long time, the lord of those servants returns, and he is settling accounts with them.

And when the one who had received the five talants came forward, he presented another five talants to him, saying,
Matthew

'Lord, you entrusted to me five talents. Look, I have gained another five talents.'

21 His lord said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; over much I will appoint you. Enter into the joy of your lord.'

22 And when the one who had received the two talents came forward, he said, 'Lord, you entrusted to me two talents. Look, I have gained another two talents.'

23 His lord said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; over much I will appoint you. Enter into the joy of your lord.'

24 But then when the one who had received the one talent came forward, he said, 'Lord, I knew you, that you are a hard man, who reaps where he has not sown, and gathers what he has not winnowed.

25 And because I was afraid, I went out and hid your talent in the ground. See here, you still have what is yours.'

26 But in response, his master said to him, 'You wicked and idle servant! You knew that I reap where I have not sown and gather what I have not winnowed? Then you should have deposited my silver with the bankers, and when I returned I would recover what is mine with interest.

27 Now then, take the talent away from him, and give it to the one who has the ten talents. For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have himself an abundance. But the person who does not have, even such that he has will be taken away from him. And as for that worthless servant, cast him into the outer darkness. There, there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.'

The Sheep and the Goats

31 "And when the Son of Man returns in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on his glorious throne, and all the nations will be brought together before him, and he will separate them one from the other, just as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats, and he will put the sheep on his right and the goats on his left.

32 Then, the king will say to the ones on his right, 'Come, you blessed this case, it is to the master.

191 25:20b The Greek word I translated "entrusted" here, is παραδίδωμι - paradidwmi, the same word as in 25:14, where I translated it "handed over."

192 25:24a The verb λαμβάνω - lambanō (receive) changes from the aorist aspect found in v. 20, to no verb at all in v. 22, to the perfect aspect here in v. 24.

193 25:24b Or possibly, "who gathers from where he has not scattered seed." But that would seem redundant.

194 25:27 The word for bankers is interesting, in that it is a form of the word for table. In the Parable of the Ten Minas in Luke 19:23, the words are "Why did you not put my money on the table?" That is, the table of the money changers, or the counter of the bankers.
by my Father, receive as your inheritance the kingdom that has been prepared for you since the foundation of the world.

For I was hungry, and you gave me something to eat. I was thirsty, and you gave me a drink. I was traveling through, and you invited me in.

Naked, and you put clothes on me. Sick, and you came to look over me. I was in prison, and you came to visit with me.'

Then the righteous will answer him saying, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you a drink?

And when did we see you a traveler and invite you in, or naked and put clothes on you?

And when did we see you sick or in prison and come to visit with you?'

And in answer, the king will say, 'Truly I say to you, as many times as you have done those things to the least of these of my brethren, you have done them to me.'

Then, he will say also to the ones on his left, 'Depart from me, accursed ones, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels.

For I was hungry, and you did not give me anything to eat. I was thirsty, and you did not give me a drink.

I was traveling through, and you did not invite me in. Naked, and you did not put clothes on me. Sick, or in prison, and you did not come and look over me.'

Then those also will answer, saying, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or traveling through or naked or sick or in prison and not minister to you?'

Then he will answer them saying, 'Truly I say to you, as many times as you did not do those things to one of the least of these, you did not do them to me.'

And those he will send off into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into everlasting life.'

Chapter 26

The Plot Against Jesus

And it came about that when Jesus had finished all these discourses, he said to his disciples,

As you know, two days from now the Passover takes place, and the Son of Man will be handed over to be 25:40 The Greek formula here, ἐφ' ὅσον ἐποιήσατε is rather hard to render. The most common lexical glosses of the words are as follows: epi = (upon); hosos = (as much or as often); and epoieesate = (you have done). Bauer says that the preposition epi is sometimes used with indications of number and measure, and as an example, "epi tris" means "three times." So here, the formula could be rendered, "as many times as you have done it to these...you have done it to me..." Bauer says that here specifically, the formula epi hosos means to the degree that, in so far as. The only other time that this is used in the New Testament is in Romans 11:13. I notice that the rendering "Whatever you have done to these...you have done to me" is popular lately. The traditional rendering "inasmuch as you have done it to them..." could imply a causative agency- because you have done it to them, you have done it to me.

Matthew

crucified.” ³Then the chief priests gathered together, along with the elders of the people, in the courtyard of the high priest, whose name was Kaiapha; 4and they came to the decision that they would capture Jesus by trickery and kill him. ⁵“But,” they were saying, "not in the festival, or there might be an uproar among the people."

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

⁶Now once when Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, ⁷a woman came to him holding an alabaster bottle of very expensive myrrh, and she poured it on his head as he was reclining. ⁸And when the disciples saw this they were indignant, saying, "This is such waste, for what? ⁹Because this could have been sold for a lot of money, to be given to the poor."

¹⁰But aware of this, Jesus said to them, "Why are you causing trouble for this woman? For she has performed a good work in me. ¹¹For the poor you always have with you, but me you do not always have. ¹²For she did the pouring of this myrrh on my body to prepare me for burial. ¹³Truly I tell you, wherever in the whole world this good news is preached, what this woman has done will also be spoken, in honorable remembrance of her."

¹⁴At that time one of the twelve went to the high priests, the one called Judas of Kerioth, ¹⁵and he said, “What will you give me to betray him to you?”  And they placed out for him thirty pieces of silver.¹⁶And from then on, he was looking for a suitable time to betray him.

The Passover Supper

¹⁷And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying, "Where do you want us getting the Passover meal ready for you to eat?"

¹⁸And he said, "Go into the city to a certain person and say to him, 'The Teacher says, "My time is near. I am doing Passover with you, along with my disciples."'" ¹⁹And those disciples did as Jesus told them, and prepared the Passover.

²⁰And as evening was coming on, he was reclining with the Twelve. ²¹And while he was eating with them he said, "Truly I say to you, one of you will betray me."

²²And deeply saddened, they began every single one to say to him, ²³"It's not me, is it, Lord?"

¹⁹⁷ 26:22 In the apparatus below, dotted lines represent a lacuna, and blank space means the
And in answer he said, "The one who dips his hand with mine in the bowl, he is the one who will betray me. The Son of Man is going just indeed like it is written about him, but nevertheless woe to that man through whom the Son of Man is being betrayed. It would have been better for that man if he had not been born."

And in response, Judas, the one betraying him, said, "It's not me, is it Rabbi?"

And as they ate, Jesus took bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, "Take and eat. This is my body.

And when he had taken the cup and given thanks, he gave it to them, saying, "Drink from it everyone. For this is my blood of the covenant, being shed on behalf of many for the forgiveness of sins."

And I say to you, I will certainly not drink from this fruit of the vine from now on, until that day when I drink it with you new in the kingdom of my Father.

And when they had sung a hymn, they went out toward the Mount of Olives.

Then Jesus is saying to them, "You will all be scandalized because of me this very night, for it is written:

' I will strike down the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.'
But after I am resurrected, I will go ahead of you into Galilee.”

But in response Peter said to him, "Though everyone else will be scandalized because of you, I will never be scandalized.”

Jesus said to him, "Truly I tell you, This very night before the rooster crows, you will disown me three times.”

Peter says to him, "Even if I have to die with you, I will never disown you.” And all the other disciples said the same.

Gethsemane

Then Jesus goes with them to a park named Gethsemane, and he says to the disciples, "Sit here during such time I am gone over there to pray.” And he took Peter along, and the two sons of Zebedee, and he began to be sorrowful and deeply depressed.

Then he says to them, "My soul is too sad, to the point of death. Remain here and stay awake with me.” And then after he had moved forward a little, he fell on his face, praying and saying, "My Father, if it is possible, remove this cup from me. Nevertheless, not as I will, but as you will.”

And he returns to the disciples, and finds them sleeping. And he says to Peter, "This is how you guys are, lacking the self-control to stay awake with me one hour? Stay awake and pray, that you not go into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.”

Again for the second time he went away and was praying, saying, "My Father, if it is not possible for this cup to go away unless I drink it, may your will be done.” And when he returned again, he found them sleeping, because their eyelids were weighed down heavily.

And again he left them and went away, praying for the third time, saying the same thing again. Then at that time he comes to the disciples and says to them, "Still sleeping away and resting? Behold, the hour has drawn near, and the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. Get up, let’s go. Look, the one betraying me is approaching.”

Jesus Arrested

And while he was still speaking, behold, Judas, one of the Twelve,

26:38 ἕως ἀπάντησις, heōs indicating the upper limit of possibility. In other words, he could not be more sad, because if he was any sadder, he would die.

26:40 There is no Greek word corresponding to the word "guys," but I added it to show that the words here are plural inflection, and that Jesus is addressing not just Peter but all three of them.

26:41 The Greek is ambiguous as to whether it means that the activity of praying would prevent them from going into temptation, or that their prayer request should be that they not go into temptation. Both could in fact be true simultaneously.
arrived, and with him a large crowd of people with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and elders of the people. ⁴⁸And the one betraying him had given them a signal, as follows: "Whomever I kiss is the one.  Him you seize."

⁴⁹And he came straight up to Jesus and said, "Good morning, Rabbi." ²⁰⁵ Then he kissed him.

⁵⁰And Jesus said to him, "Friend, why are you here?"  Then at that time they came up and laid their hands on Jesus, and arrested him.

⁵¹And behold, one of those in the company of Jesus raised his hand and drew his sword, and he struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his ear.

⁵²Jesus then says to him, "Return your sword to its place.  For all who take up the sword will perish by the sword. ⁵³Or do you think I am not able to call on my Father, and he make available to me right now twelve legions of angels? ⁵⁴But then how would the scriptures be fulfilled which indicate that all this needs to happen?"

⁵⁵At that time, Jesus said to the crowd, "As though after a bandit you have come out with swords and clubs to capture me?  Every day I was sitting in the temple teaching and you didn't arrest me. ⁵⁶But, this has all come about so the writings of the prophets would be fulfilled.” Then the disciples all abandoned him and fled.

Before the Sanhedrin

⁵⁷And the ones arresting Jesus led him away to Kaiapha the high priest, where the Torah scholars and the elders had gathered. ⁵⁸Now Peter had been following him from a distance, up to the courtyard of the high priest, and once he got inside, he was sitting with the servants, to see the outcome. ⁵⁹And the high priest and the entire Sanhedrin were looking for false testimony against Jesus by which they could put him to death, ⁶⁰and they had not found it from the many false witnesses who had come forward. But then later, two came forward ⁶¹and said, "This man said, 'I am able to destroy the temple of God, and in three days to build it again.'" ⁶²And the high priest rose and said to him, "Aren't you answering anything?  What about this they are testifying against you?" ⁶³But Jesus was keeping silent. And the high priest said to him, "I adjure you by the living God that you declare under oath whether you are the Messiah, the Son of God."

⁶⁴Jesus says to him, "You said that.  Nevertheless I say to you: after now you shall all see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven.”

²⁰⁵  26:49 The Greek word used as greeting here means literally something like "Joy" or "Rejoice." But insert any cheerful greeting here used in your culture or language.
Matthew

65Then the high priest tore his robe, saying, "He has blasphemed! What more need do we have for witnesses? Behold, now you have heard the blasphemy. 66How does it look to you?"
And they said in answer, "He is guilty enough for death." 67Then they spit on his face and pummeled him; they slapped him while saying, "Prophesy to us, you Messiah— who is the one who hit you?"

Peter Disowns Jesus

69And Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard, and one maidservant approached him, saying, "You also were with Jesus the Galilean."
70But he was denying it before all of them, saying, "I do not know what you are saying."
71And after he had moved off into the entrance way, another maidservant saw him and is saying to the ones there, "This man was with Jesus the Nazarene."
72And again he was denying it, with an oath: "I do not know the man."
73And after a little while those standing there said to Peter, "You definitely are also one of them, because your speech also gives you away."
74Then he began to curse and swear, saying, "I do not know the man." And immediately a rooster crowed. 75And Peter was reminded of the statement Jesus had said, that "Before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times." And he went off outside, and wept bitterly.

Chapter 27

Judas Hangs Himself

1And very early in the morning, they all, the chief priests and elders of the people, reached the decision against Jesus that they would put him to death. 2And they bound him, and led him away, and handed him over to Pilate the governor.
3Then, when Judas the one who betrayed him saw that he was condemned, he with remorse returned the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, saying, "I have sinned; I have betrayed innocent blood."

But they said, "What is that to us? You deal with that."
5And after throwing the silver into the temple, he departed, and went off and hung himself. 6And the chief priests when they picked up the pieces of silver, said, "It is not permissible to put them in the temple treasury, since it is blood price money."
7And after conferring on a course of action, they bought with the coins the potter's field, as a burial place for foreigners. 8For which reason that field has been called "the Field of Blood" to this day.  Then was fulfilled what was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, which says,

"And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him on whom a price had been set, as priced by the sons of Israel, and they traded them for the potter's field, just as the Lord directed me."

Jesus Before Pilate

And Jesus was stood before the governor; and the governor examined him, saying, "YOU are the king of the Jews?"

And he said, "You are saying that, not I." 208

And during the whole time he was being accused by the chief priests and elders, he was not responding at all.

Then Pilate says to him, "Don't you hear all the things they are charging you with?"

And he gave him no answer, not to even a single charge, causing the governor to be greatly astonished.

Now the governor had become accustomed at every Festival to release one prisoner to the crowd whom they wanted. 209

206 27:9 The last phrase of verse 9 is difficult to translate. See the endnote about it at the end of this document.
207 27:10 Zechariah 11:12,13; Jeremiah 32:6-9
208 27:11 The BDF grammar in §277(1) says that this use of the nominative of a pronoun was used for contrast or other emphasis. In this case, "you" is emphasized, as in "YOU are the king of the Jews?" Blass says Pilate is expressing surprise as follows: "A man like you, is king of the Jews?" And in response also, Jesus' answer starts out with an emphatic you: "You are saying that, not I." In the gospel of John, it is more clear: "You are saying that I am a king; I am saying that I have come to testify to the truth." But see the endnote in my translation of the gospel of Mark, for discussion of other possibilities.
209 27:16 text Βαραββᾶς Κ Α Β Δ Ι Λ Φ 0250 εὐαγγελισμοὺς εἰς τοὺς εὐαγγελισμοὺς ἡ τέκνη τῆς ἁγίας [NA27] C N P syr.  It is possible that the original gospel of Matthew said "Jesus Barabbas." And possible that, according to the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies Greek New Testament, the word "Jesus" in connection to Barabbas was "deliberately suppressed in most witnesses for reverential considerations." For example, acc. to the UBS textual commentary, Origen stated, it cannot be right, because, "In the whole range of the scriptures we know that no one who is a sinner [is called] Jesus." Origen, though admitting that Barabbas was called Jesus, nevertheless suppressed this in his work. In many even later witnesses, the copyists state in the margin that the earlier copies call Barabbas Jesus as well. But, they suppressed it, and the subsequent copies did not say Jesus Barabbas. Westcott and Hort however, state that the reading "Jesus Barabbas" was probably due to a scribe's error in transcription. Some say it is still easier to explain why "Jesus" might have been deleted than why it might
When therefore they were gathered together, Pilate said to them, "Which do you want me to release to you, Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?" (For he knew that it was out of envy that they had handed him over.)

And while he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him as follows: "Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered much today because of a dream about him." And the chief priests and the elders manipulated the crowd so that they would ask to have Barabbas, but Jesus they would put to death.

But when the governor answered, he said to them, "Which of the two do you want me to release to you?"

And they said, "Barabbas."

Pilate is saying to them, "What then should I do with Jesus who is called Christ?"

They are saying, "Let him be crucified!"

But Pilate was saying, "Why? What crime has he committed?"

But they kept shouting that much more, saying, "Let him be crucified!"

And when Pilate saw that he was accomplishing nothing, but that instead an uproar was starting, he took some water and washed his hands in front of the crowd, saying, "I am innocent of this man's blood. You see to that yourselves."

And in response the whole crowd said, "Let his blood be on us and on our children." At that time, he released Barabbas to them, but Jesus, after scourging him, he handed over to be crucified.

have gotten added. In addition, having two men named Jesus fits better with the phrase of Pilate, found in all manuscripts, "or the Jesus called Christ," where he seems to be setting them off in a needed contradistinction. The fact is, according to Josephus, Jesus was not an uncommon name among Jews. After all, Joshua was a big hero in Judaism, and Jesus is simply a form of the name Joshua.

27:17 It is not certain whether Pilate’s wife was saying, "Suffered much because of a dream about him," or "suffered much in a dream because of him," or "suffered much in a dream about him."

27:24 Many manuscripts read "this righteous man's blood." Still others read, "this righteous blood." The UBS editorial committee, in the Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament, comment on this as follows: "The words τοῦ δικαίου (compare the variant reading in ver. 4), which occur at different places in a variety of manuscripts (but not in the best representatives of the Alexandrian, Western, and Caesarean texts), appear to be an accretion intended to accentuate Pilate's protestation of Jesus' innocence." The committee gives the shortest reading, "this man's blood," a B rating of certainty, which indicates that the text is "almost certain."
The Soldiers Mock Jesus

Then the soldiers who were guarding Jesus, after taking him into the Praetorium, gathered together onto him the whole cohort. And they stripped him of his clothes and placed around him a scarlet robe, and after weaving together a crown of thorns they set on his head, and a rod in his right hand, and then they dropped to their knees before him and mocked him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" And after they spit on him, they took the rod, and repeatedly beat on his head. And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the scarlet robe and put his own clothes on him, and led him away to crucify him.

The Crucifixion

And as they were leading him out, they encountered a Cyrenian man by the name of Simon. This man they conscripted to carry his cross. And when they came to the place called Gulgolta, which is called the "skull" place, they offered him wine to drink, mixed with a bitter drug; and after tasting it, he refused to drink it. And once they had crucified him, they divided up his garments by casting lots. And sitting down, they kept watch over him there. And they fastened above his head his specific charge, written as follows: "THIS IS JESUS, THE KING OF THE JEWS." There were being crucified along with him at that time two bandits, one on his right and one on his left. And those passing by defamed him, wagging their heads and saying, "Hey, you who destroys the temple and builds another one in three days, save yourself, if you are the son of God, and come down from the cross." In the same way also the chief priests, making fun along with the Torah scholars and the elders, were saying, "Others he saved; himself he cannot save. He is the King of Israel? Let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. He put his trust in God; let Him now rescue him, if he wants him. Because he 27:29a There is no demonstrative pronoun here meaning "that" specifically, but this word serves to indicate in English that they set both the crown of thorns AND the sceptre. Otherwise, the sceptre has no verb.

27:29b The Greek word means a wooden stalk, reed or staff. The obvious purpose was to be a mock sceptre, for the King of the Jews.
27:34 The Greek word is χόλη - chōlē, the exact meaning of which is uncertain. It is related to the word for gall bladder, χόλος - chōlos. Another reason it is most often associated with the gall bladder, was because it was yellow in color like bile, which is the secretion of the gall bladder. But the word was also used for many other things, such as the ink secretion of a certain fish, the poison of hemlock, a serpent’s venom, and of bitterness in general, including, according to the Liddell & Scott lexicon along with other lexical authorities, that in the New Testament, this word means a bitter, yellow ingredient of a drink. One thing certain about this word is that it referred to a substance that tasted very bad, and probably more specifically, tasted bitter. In conclusion, it was probably some kind of drug meant to ease the distress of his coming trauma.
27:40 The nominative article used as vocative, that is, the case or lexical form for addressing someone.
did say, 'I am God's son.'” ⁴⁴In the same way the bandits who were crucified with him were also taunting him.

Jesus’ Death

⁴⁵And starting from the sixth hour, darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour. ⁴⁶And at about the ninth hour, Jesus cried out in a very loud voice, saying, "Eli, Eli, lema shebaqtani?" Which means, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"

⁴⁷And some standing there who heard this were saying, "This man is calling Elijah." ⁴⁸And quickly one of them ran and got a sponge and soaked it with sour wine, and after sticking it on a reed, was giving him a drink.

⁴⁹But the rest were saying, "Back off. Let's see if Elijah comes to save him." ⁵⁰But Jesus, after crying out again in a loud voice, gave up his spirit.

⁵¹And behold, the veil of the temple was rent in two from top to bottom, and the earth was shaken, and the rocks split open, and the tombs were opened up, and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised again, and after coming out of the tombs at the time of His resurrection, they went into the holy city and showed themselves to many.

⁵²And the centurion and the ones with him who were guarding Jesus, when they saw the earthquake and the other things that happened, they were severely frightened, saying, "This man really was the Son of God."

²¹⁷ 27:45 That is, from noon until 3:00 p.m. In the Jewish system of that time, the first hour was the first hour of daylight, or 6:00 a.m. Thus, the sixth hour would be 12:00, six hours later, and the ninth hour was 9 hours after 6, which is 3:00 o’clock.

²¹⁸ 27:47 This shows that the bystanders did not know Hebrew or Aramaic. The sign above Jesus’ head was written in three languages for good reason. Most Jews of that day could not read the scriptures in Hebrew, and so it is no surprise that they did not recognize this spoken form of the Hebrew name for God.

²²¹ 27:50 The Greek says ἀφῆκεν τὸ πνεῦμα; literally, "he gave up the spirit." This is an expression from the Hebrew scriptures, or Old Testament, where the word for breath and spirit are the same. It says in Genesis that God breathed into man and animals the breath of life. When you give up the breath, it means to die. Same as if you give up the soul or spirit.

²²² 27:52a Τοῦτο καὶ τὰ μνήμεα ἀνέφερθησαν καὶ τὰ μνήμητα ἀνέψυχθη καὶ τὰ μνήμητα ἀνεύσχθαν καὶ τὰ μνήμητα ἀνέψυχθαν καὶ τὰ μνήμητα ἀνεύσχθαν. This same saying is found in the Greek translation of the Hebrew scriptures, called the Septuagint, in Genesis 35:18, where it says, ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ἄφιέναι αὐτὴν τὴν ψυχήν, ἀπέθεσθην γὰρ, ἐκκλαίον τὸ δύναμιν αὐτοῦ... "Now it came about that when she had up her soul (for she was dying), she called his name..." It is interesting that the need was felt to clarify that she was dying. In the gospel of Luke, in 23:46, Jesus himself says, Πάτερ, εἰς χέιράς σου παρατίθημι τὸ πνεῦμά μου - "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit." And in John 19:30 it says that Jesus parēδωκεν τὸ πνεῦμα, "gave up his spirit."
55 And there were present many women off at a distance observing, who had followed Jesus from Galilee providing for him; among whom were Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of Zebedee’s sons as well.

Jesus’ Burial

57 And when evening had come, a certain rich man of Arimathea by the name of Joseph came, who himself had also become a disciple of Jesus. This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Pilate thereupon ordered that it be handed over to him. 59 And after taking the body, Joseph wrapped it in clean linen cloth, and placed it in his own new tomb that he had hewn out of the rock. And after rolling a large stone up against the entrance of the tomb, he departed.

61 Now Mary the Magdalene, along with the other Mary, was there throughout, sitting opposite the grave site.

The Guard at the Tomb

62 The next day, that is, the one which is after Preparation Day, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered together before Pilate, saying, “Sir, we remember how that deceiver, when he was still living, said, ‘After three days I will rise again.’ Give orders therefore to secure the grave site through the third day, or his disciples might go steal him and then tell the people, ‘He has risen from the dead,’ and this last deception will be worse than the first.”

65 Pilate said to them, “You have a guard. Go secure it as best you know how.” So they went and secured the grave site, sealing the stone along with stationing the guard.

27:61 The verb "was" is in the singular, because the main subject of and focus of this account is Mary the Magdalene.
27:62 The word "guard" here is a collective noun. It does not mean one man who is a guard, but a contingent of guards. Pilate may be giving them some guards here, but more likely, he is referring to the company of guards that the Jewish religious authorities already had charge of, by Pilate’s authority, for the purpose of guarding the temple, and enforcing their exclusive legal jurisdiction, which Rome allowed in some matters of their Jewish religious law.
27:66 The Greek preposition μετὰ - metà here, according to Bauer, "makes the stationing of the guard an accompaniment to the sealing of the stone." But he also says in parentheses that this could be an instrumental use of μετὰ, meaning that the placing of the guard was the means of sealing the stone. But also, under the entry for σφραγίζω - sphragizó, to seal, he says that there could also have been a literal means of fastening the stone securely to the tomb so that it could not be moved.
Chapter 28

The Empty Tomb

1And after the Sabbath,\textsuperscript{226} at the dawning of the first day of the week, Mary the Magdalene and the other Mary went to view the grave site.
2And behold, there came a great earthquake. For an angel of the Lord had come down from heaven, and after going up to the tomb, he had rolled away the stone, and was sitting down now on top of it.
3And his face\textsuperscript{227} was like lightning, and his garments a gleaming white like snow.
4And for fear of him, the guards trembled, and became\textsuperscript{228} as dead men.
5But in response, the angel said to the women, "You should not be afraid, for I know that you are looking for Jesus the crucified man.
6He is not here. For he has risen just as he said. Come, see the place where he was lying.
7And quick, go tell his disciples as follows, 'He has risen from the dead. And behold, he is going ahead of you into Galilee; there you will see him.' There, I have told you."
8And they departed quickly from the tomb, and with fear and great joy they ran to report this to his disciples.
9And behold, Jesus met up with them, saying, "Good morning." And after approaching him, they grasped onto his feet, and worshiped him.
10Then Jesus is telling them, "Do not be afraid. Go report to my brothers that I am leaving for Galilee, and they will see me there."

The Official Cover-Up

11And while those were on their way, behold, some of the guard went into the city and reported to the chief priests everything that had happened.
12And after coming together with the elders, they came up with a plan, and took the sufficient amount of silver coins and gave them to the soldiers, 13telling them, "Say that his disciples came by night and stole him while you were sleeping.
14And if this should ever reach the ears of the governor, we will satisfy him\textsuperscript{229} and make you have no worries."
15And they accepted the silver coins and did as they were told. And this story has been propagated by the Jews to this day.

\textsuperscript{226} 28:1 The phrase Ὄψὲ δὲ σαββάτων might seem to mean "late part of the Sabbath," but according to BDF §164(4), this is a "partitive genitive," which has the end result of meaning, "after the Sabbath."
\textsuperscript{227} 28:3 Some manuscripts say ἰδέα – idéa, and others say εἰδέα – eidéa. Both are words of vision, that is, appearance. The former has more the nuance of the face (visage) than does the latter. The latter is a word covering more of the appearance in general rather than just the countenance.

\textsuperscript{229} 28:14 Some manuscripts do not have αὐτὸν - autòn - "him" here. Without this word present, the meaning could be, "we will satisfy you and make you have no worries." Either reading is within reason.
The Assembly on the Mountain in Galilee

And the eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain where Jesus had directed them. And when they saw him, they worshiped him, though some hesitated. And Jesus approached them and spoke to them, saying, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to keep everything, whatever things I have commanded you. And lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age."

Matt. Endnote #1 – Names of God

How To Pronounce the Names of God in the Original Languages

There has been a surge of interest recently in how to pronounce God’s and Jesus’ real names exactly. Also, in how we got the name “Jesus.” If you want to say “Jesus Christ” in Hebrew, following is how you do it, and then an explanation of how it became “Jesus Christ” in English. This is provided to the body of Christ as a ministry of David Robert Palmer, a servant of Jesus.

Joshua in places such as Deuteronomy 3:21 and Judges 2:7, was spelled the longer way:

י o h ɔ s h υ ə υ

"yə-hō-shu-ʿa"

The letter shwa, ə, transliterated as a, is a half-vowel, a barely-pronounced short “e.”

The letter named holam vav, ֹו, transliterated as ō, is pronounced like the “o” in “roll.” Sometimes the holam vav is transliterated as “ōw,” to distinguish it from the kamats hatuf, ָּ, which is a shorter “o” sound. But putting the “w” in there is confusing, and does more harm than good. The “w” just means that you round your lips more when you say a holam, than when you say a kamats hatuf. The kamats hatuf, ָּ, is more like the “o” in “hot,” or the “aw” sound in “lawn.” (Unfortunately, the plain kamats, ָּ or “a” as in father, looks just the same.)
The letter named ayin, ꜰ, transliterated as ‘, is a pharyngeal consonant, a sound for which we have no equivalent in English. It is accomplished by tightening the pharynx slightly, right as you begin saying the "a." It is something like when you gargle, how you tighten your throat to keep the stuff from going down no farther than the top of your throat.

The letter named shuruk, ש, transliterated as û or oo, is a "u" sound like in "moon."

So the original name of Joshua was pronounced (according to the vowels inserted much later into the Masoretic text):

"yə-hō-shu-ʿa"  (with the emphasis on the "ho" syllable)

But, according to Numbers 13:16, Moses changed Yehoshua's name to Yeshua, as follows:

The later shorter version of "Joshua:"

Yeshuʿa, pronounced Yay-shoo-a, with the "a" in the first syllable "yay" being long, like in "rake."

Hebrew for the word "Anointed," from which we get the English words "Messiah," and "Christ." (See ; 2 Sam 23:1; 2 Chron. 6:42, Psalm 2:2)

מָשִׁׁיַח Moshiach  Pronounced "maw-shee-ach," the "ch" as in Bach

The Hebrew article, i.e., the word for "the," is the word "ha." So if you wanted to say Jesus the Christ, that is, Jesus the Anointed One, in Hebrew, it would be Yeshua Ha-Moshiach."

Jesus' name in Greek is Ἰησοῦς (Iēsoûs), "Yaysoos," which was a common enough name for Jews in the time of Greek language ascendancy and Hebrew language descendancy. This is the form of the name into which the Jewish scholars of Alexandria, Egypt, translated the name Joshua from the Hebrew into Greek for their translation of the Jewish Bible into Greek a couple centuries before Christ. Thus the title page of the book of Joshua in the Greek translation of the Jewish Bible (the Septuagint or LXX) reads ΙΗΣΟΥΣ ΝΑΥΗ (Iēsoûs Nauē), "Jesus son of Nun." So Iēsoûs (Yaysoos) was the transliteration of the Hebrew יֵשׁוּע yēšûʿa "Yayshua," which was a later form of the Hebrew name of Joshua, יהושע yəhōšuʿa "Y’hoshua." (Numbers 13:16 says Moses changed it.) The "sh" sound of the Hebrew letter ש shin, became the "s" sound of the Greek letter σ, "sigma," because the Greek language did not have the sound "sh." And the "s" was added on to the end of the name for Greek, because that is simply the ending that the Greek language added on to the end of masculine names. The endings of Semitic names were Hellenized (Grecized) in different ways, depending sometimes, for example, on whether they ended in a consonant or a vowel. Names ending with a consonant like Jacob and Eleazar received in their nominative case form a final 'os,' and thus Yacov (Jacob) became Yacobos and Eleazar became Lazaros (Lazarus). Names ending in a vowel, like Levi and Yeshu, received in their nominative form a final 's,' and thus Levi became Lewis (Greek had no v sound) Yeshu became Yesus. The 'Yesus' was in turn transliterated into English, after first passing through Latin, and some initial 'Y's became J's. The route by which the Y of Y’huda (Judah) became the J of 'Jew,' or the Y of Yacov became the J of Jacob, is the same route by which the Y of Yeshua and Yesous became the J of Jesus. In other languages also, Y's become J's. For example in Spanish, the pronoun meaning "I," "yo," is often pronounced "jo."

As for the Z sound, one myth is that the second syllable of the name Jesus came from the Greek god Zeus. In fact, the final 's' as said before was the Hellenization of the name. And the 'z' sound of the middle 's' is simply the common phenomenon of "phonological assimilation." In this case, the normally unvoiced letter 's' experiences a peer pressure 'squeeze' by the voicedness of the vowels before and after it, and so the "s" takes on, 'assimilates,' that voicedness, and becomes the voiced version of s, which is 'z.' This phenomenon occurs in many other English words as well. For example, when we pluralize a word in English, we add the letter "s" to it. When we speak of more than one rock, we add an "s" sound on the end, and say "rocks." When we speak of more than one cliff, we add an "s" sound to the end, and it becomes "cliffs." Now, the final sounds of both "rock" and "cliff" are unvoiced, so the "s" added to them remains unvoiced. However, when we add an "s" to a word that ends in a voiced letter, like a vowel, the "s" assimilates to the voicedness of the vowel. For example, the when we speak of more than one key, we add an "s" to it, but the "s" becomes a "z" sound, which is the voiced version of "s." For another example, when we speak of more than one car, we add an "s" to it, and the result is the word "cars." But now, the "s" has become a "z" sound, which is the voiced version of "s." This is the same principle of phonological assimilation that happens in the word "Jesus." The "s" becomes a "z" sound simply because of the influence of the two voiced vowels surrounding it.

The name Jesus was completely Jewish. In the time of Jesus Christ, many Jews did not speak Hebrew. Hence the need for the Greek Septuagint and the Aramaic "Targums." Hebrew was probably spoken only in and around Jerusalem, by the scribes and priests who were trying to keep it alive. Depending on where they lived, Jews would have spoken Aramaic, Greek or Latin, or two or all of them. According to the Jewish historian Flavius Josephus, the name "Jesus" was a not uncommon name for Greek-speaking Jews in the Greek-speaking era. In Galilee especially, which was a cosmopolitan district, with Latin and Greek being necessary for effective commerce, there would have been many Jews who read their Bible only in Greek, in the Septuagint. There were several Jews named Jesus mentioned in the Septuagint and in Josephus' histories of the Jews.

Yahveh and Adonai in Hebrew font:

YHVH:

יְהוָה  (The letters are in reverse order to English. Unreversed: Yodh-He-Vav-He Sometimes you will see this name spelled "Yahveh," and other times, "Yahweh." Similarly, the name of the letter ג , "vav," is sometimes also spelled "waw." This is because in ancient Hebrew, this ג sound used to be pronounced "w." But now in modern Hebrew it sounds like an English "v." The original Hebrew vav may have acutally been neither like our English V or W, but rather a sound formed similar to a W, but heard like a V, such as there is in Spanish.

This is very easy for a Spanish-speaking person to understand. Because the Spanish language has this same sound, quite close to the "vav" (ו) sound of Hebrew. In most Spanish words, there is neither difference in sound nor method of articulation, between the letters "B" and "V." Take for example, the name "Gustavo." If the name were spelled "Gustabo," they would pronounce it no differently. So also in Hebrew, the letter Beyt (ב) sounds identical and is produced the same way, as the letter "waw" (ו). Only when the Beyt has a dot in the middle (ב) is the Beyt pronounced like our English "B." If you are unable or unwilling to pronounce the "waw" (ו) in "Yahweh" correctly, there is no spiritual disadvantage to you. God’s name is not a magic incantation, or an "open sesame" that is required to be pronounced exactly right or God won't hear you. God has shown perfect willingness over the millennia to answer prayers made to all of his names, in all the different variations of them caused by all the different languages of the world. If you are relying on pronouncing this יְהֹוָ name exactly right, you are on shaky ground, because no one is absolutely certain how it is pronounced, since the Hebrew scribes forgot exactly which vowels used to be included with these four consonants.

Following is the Hebrew for "Said Yahweh to my lord" from Psalm 110:1

One theory is that, since the original Hebrew scriptures did not have vowels marked in them, and the Israelites never uttered Yahveh’s name, they forgot which vowels were in the name, so when the Nakdan and Masorete scribes added vowels after the time of Christ, they decided to put in the vowels from "Adonai" instead. So, the result of forcing the vowels of Adonai into YHVH, was the following fictional word:

This word Jehovah, they say, is not a real word therefore.

But many disagree, including Davidson in The Analytical Hebrew and Chaldee Lexicon, Hendrickson Publishers, page 171, where he says as follows:

the most sacred name of God, expressive of His eternal, Self-existence, first communicated to the Hebrews, Ex. 3:14, comp. chap. 6:3. This name appears to be composed of יְהֹוָה (fut. of הָוהָה, like יְיֵהוָֹה הָוהָה) and הָוהָה (preterite by aphaeresis for יְהֹוָה הָוהָה), the verb to be being twice repeated as in Ex. 3:14. If we supply יְהֹוָה הָוהָה between these words we obtain nearly the same sense as expressed there in the words יְהֹוָה הָוהָה. The Jews who (from an early date) believed this name incommunicable, substituted, in the pronunciation, the consonants of יְהֹוָה הָוהָה, the vowels being alike in both words (with the exception of simple and composite Sheva), and according to these the punctuators suited the vowels of the prefixes when coming to stand before יְהֹוָה הָוהָה, as מַשְׁחַח מַשְׁחַח מַשְׁחַח מַשְׁחַח מַשְׁחַח מַשְׁחַח. Where, however, יְהֹוָה הָוהָה is already preceded by יְהֹוָה הָוהָה, to avoid repetition, they furnished it with the vowels of יְהֹוָה הָוהָה, in order that it be pronounced with its consonants, so that יְהֹוָה הָוהָה is to be read יְהֹוָה הָוהָה. The punctuators seem to intimate the originality of the vowels of יְהֹוָה הָוהָה by not pointing Yod with Hhateph Pattah (יְהֹוָה הָוהָה) to indicate the reading of יְהֹוָה הָוהָה just as they point it with Hhateph-Segol to indicate the reading of יְהֹוָה הָוהָה. We could, moreover, not account for the abbreviated forms יְהֹוָה הָוהָה, יְהֹוָה הָוהָה prefixed to so many proper names, unless we consider the vowels of יְהֹוָה הָוהָה original.
Matthew

Now, the question arises, How important is it that we pronounce God’s and Jesus’ names just right? Here are some points to consider:

• God knows all things. God knows what is in the heart and mind of every one. God therefore also knows when he is being called upon.

• The kingdom of heaven belongs to little children. Little children do not pronounce words just right, yet God never turns them away. Unless you become like a little child, you shall never enter the Kingdom of God.

• The Israelites, the ones who received the pronunciation of Yehovah, lost it. If they don’t know the exact pronunciation, then we today sure don’t.

• All my life I have observed that God honors and answers the prayers of people who pray to “God,” which is a Germanic word related to the word “gut” which meant “good.” Indeed, “good” is one of God’s “names” or character traits.
• God is concerned about our heart attitudes, not that we pronounce things exactly.

• It is a trait of the Pharisees, that they insisted on correctness in such minutiae, but failed to get their attitudes right. And Jesus guaranteed to the Pharisees that they would not escape being sentenced to Gehenna, the lake of fire.

• We all have knowledge. Knowledge puffs up, but Love builds up / edifies. Everything we say and teach should be out of love for our brother / sister, to help him or her succeed in their journey to eternal life.

I have heard many say that Mary (Miryam), the mother of Jesus, since she was a Jew, must have named her son Yeshua. This may well be, but we do not know this for sure. In Galilee, close as it was to the Greek-speaking and Latin-speaking cities Sephoris and Tiberias, they probably spoke both Aramaic and Greek, and even some Latin. Documents found among the Dead Sea Scrolls in the Qumran caves included Greek-language documents, and in the Cave of Letters, personal documents were found that were written in Greek. Jews of Galilee in Jesus’ day were at a minimum bilingual- Aramaic and Greek, and probably spoke at least four languages. Here is a link to a discussion of Greek-language documents found in the Cave of Letters:

For all we know, Mary named her son the Greek name, Yaysoos. I translated the gospel of Luke from Greek to English, and from how Mary quotes the Old Testament in Luke chapter 1, it sure looks like she (or maybe Luke) read and quoted the Greek Old Testament scriptures, the Septuagint. But we don’t know for sure.

The good news about Jesus Christ and his death and resurrection on our behalf, has been spread all around the world. In Spanish, Jesus’ name is pronounced “Hess-oos.” In German it is pronounced “Yay-soos.” The name “Jesus” has saved many in many different cultures and languages, where they pronounce God and Jesus in many different ways. God honors all these pronunciations. Sure, you can pronounce Jesus’ name as “Y’shua” if you like. But since billions of people in the world already know him as “Jesus” and not “Y’shua,” you may come across as strange when you do say "Y'shua," because those billions of people won't know who or what you are talking about.

Some people make the argument that the word "Jesus" does not mean anything, whereas the word "Y'shua" does, means "Ya is salvation." But this argument is not valid. Because "Y'shua" did not mean anything to you until after someone explained to you that it means "Ya is salvation." In the same way also, the gospel of Matthew, in 1:21, explains to you that "Jesus" was named Jesus, "because he shall save his people from their sins." Any competent pastor or teacher would then proceed to explain that "Jesus" comes from a Hebrew name that means "God is salvation." So either way, Y'shua or Jesus, you don't know what it means until someone explains it to you.

Matt. Endnote #2 - Genealogies

Matthew's and Luke's genealogies appear to give conflicting genealogies of Joseph the husband of Mary.

It should be noted that though Matthew states in 1:17 that there are three sets of 14 generations, there are only 13 generations in his 3rd set.
Matthew

He also left out two generations from the second set which would have made that set 16 generations. After Josiah came Jehoiakim and Jehoachin, according to 2 Kings 23:34 – 24:6. Thus it seems Matthew made these sets for some purpose such as to be a memorization aid or teaching aid.

Following is taken from an article on the Internet: http://www.carm.org/diff/2geneologies.htm

Both Matthew 1 and Luke 3 contain genealogies of Jesus. But there is one problem. They are different. Luke’s Genealogy starts at Adam and goes to David. Matthew’s Genealogy starts at Abraham and goes to David. When the genealogies arrive at David, they split with David’s sons: Nathan (Mary’s side) and Solomon (Joseph’s side).

There is no discrepancy because one genealogy is for Mary and the other is for Joseph. It was customary to mention the genealogy through the father even though it was clearly known that it was through Mary.

First, realize that the Bible should be interpreted in the context of its literary style, culture, and history. Breaking up genealogies into male and female representations was acceptable in the ancient Near East culture since it was often impolite to speak of women without proper conditions being met: male presence, etc. One genealogy is of Mary and the other of Joseph, even though both mention Joseph. In other words, the Mary was counted "in" Joseph and under his headship.

Second, do any critics actually think that those who collected the books of the New Testament, and who believed it was inerrant, were unaware of this blatant differentiation in genealogies? Does anyone actually think that the Christians were so dense that they were unaware of the differences in the genealogy lists, closed their eyes and put the gospels into the canon anyway hoping no one would notice? Not at all. They knew the cultural context and had no problem with it knowing that one was of Joseph and the other of Mary.

Third, notice that Luke starts with Mary and goes backwards to Adam. Matthew starts with Abraham and goes forward to Joseph. The intents of the genealogies were different which is seen in their styles. Luke was not written to the Jews, Matthew was. Therefore, Matthew would carry the legal line (from Abraham through David) and Luke the biological one (from Adam through David). Also, notice that Luke’s first three chapters mention Mary eleven times; hence, the genealogy from her. Fourth, notice Luke 3:23, "And when He began His ministry, Jesus Himself was about thirty years of age, being supposedly the son of Joseph, the son of Eli." This designation "supposedly" seems to signify the Marian genealogy since it seems to indicate that Jesus is not the biological son of Joseph.

Finally, in the Joseph genealogy there is a man named Jeconiah. God cursed Jeconiah (also called Coniah), stating that no descendant of his would ever sit on the throne of David, "For no man of his descendants will prosper sitting on the throne of David or ruling again in Judah," (Jer. 22:30). But Jesus, of course, will sit on the throne in the heavenly kingdom. The point is that Jesus is not a biological descendant of Jeconiah, but through the other lineage -- that of Mary. Hence, the prophetic curse upon Jeconiah stands inviolate. But, the legal adoption of Jesus by Joseph reckoned the legal rights of Joseph to Jesus as a son, not the biological curse. This is why we need two genealogies: one of Mary (the actually biological line according to prophecy), and the legal line through Joseph.

Again, the early church knew this and had no problem with it. It is only the critics of today who narrow their vision and require this to be a "contradiction" when in reality we have an explanation that is more than sufficient.

It should also be mentioned that two Hebrew Matthew manuscripts have been found by Jewish textual scholar Nehemia Gordon which say here that this genealogy is of the "father" of Mary. I am not saying they are the true original text; I am simply pointing out that they exist.

Matt. ENDNOTE #3

What O.T. prophecies was Matthew referring to which said of Jesus, "He shall be called a Nazarene"?

Diatess. 3:10; Mt 2:23

PROBLEM: In Matthew 2:23, Matthew says, "And having been warned in a dream, he withdrew to the district of Galilee, and went and lived in a town called Nazareth, so that what was spoken through the prophets would be fulfilled, that he will be called a Nazarene." Greek: Ναζωραῖος - Nazōraios. But there is no passage in the Old Testament prophets which says this.

Note that Matthew says here, "what was spoken through the prophets" with prophets in the plural. This is why I did not put the prediction in quotes, because it is not one specific prophecy, but a general one from more than one prophet. Some interpreters see the key to be the Semitic root word "netser" meaning "branch," which when spoken aloud, sounds similar to the "nazar" of Nazaroian. The Greek sound "dzeta" would be the natural letter for translators to use to render the Hebrew "tsade." Thus, shall be "called" a Nazaroian. And these interpreters thus connect it to Isaiah 11:1 where the Semitic "netser" root was used: "Then a shoot will spring from the stem of Jesse, and a branch from his roots will bear fruit." But since Matthew says "prophets," plural, this one Isaiah passage alone is probably not what he meant. He was probably also alluding to several passages in the Hebrew scriptures that use another related Hebrew word, Isaiah 4:2 "a Branch of Yahweh"; Jeremiah 23:5 "I will raise up for David a righteous Branch, and he shall reign as king..."; Jeremiah 33:15 "I will cause a righteous branch to spring up for David, and he shall execute justice and righteousness in the land"; Zechariah 3:8 "...I will bring my servant the Branch"; Zechariah 6:12 "Behold, the man whose name is the Branch: for he shall branch out from his place, and he shall build the temple of Yahweh." (For what it's worth, the Greek word κορώνη [nezer] in the Septuagint is translated as "crown" in IV Kings 11:12; in our Bible, II Kings 11:12)
Matthew

This term "Nazarene" came to be a general term of contempt, considering the Judeans' view of Galileans and Samaritans as polluted genetically and contemptible. Nazareth was an unlikely place for the Messiah to be from, because Nazareth was held in contempt. Nathaniel said in John 1:46, "Nazareth! Can anything good come from there?" In John 7:52, the Pharisees scorned the temple guards, saying, "Are you also from Galilee? Search and see that no prophet arises out of Galilee." The Pharisees in John 8:48 told Jesus, "Do we not rightly say that you are a Samaritan?" For the town of Nazareth was quite close to Samaria.

Therefore, perhaps Matthew viewed Jesus' living in Nazareth as a fulfillment of several Old Testament prophecies which predict that the Messiah would be despised, combined with Isaiah 9:1,2 which says that a light will dawn on Galilee of the Gentiles, the geographical territory where Nazareth was, an area held in contempt by the Judeans. In fact, after the time of Jesus, his disciples came to be called "Notzri" by Jews who did not believe in Jesus. This is a contemptuous epithet.

"But I am a worm, and no man; scorned by men, and despised by the people."
Psalm 22:6
"He was despised and rejected by men; a man of suffering, and acquainted with grief; and as one from whom men hide their faces, he was despised, and we held him of no account." Isaiah 53:3

"And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing..." Daniel 9:26a

"In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time he will make glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations. The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; those who lived in a land of deep darkness, on them light has shined." Isaiah 9:1-2

Combine this with the fact that Jesus declared that the prophet Jonah was a sign of Him. When people demanded from him a sign from heaven, Jesus several times responded, "This wicked and adulterous generation seeks a sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah."

How was Jonah a sign of Jesus the Messiah? Apart from being in the heart of the earth for three days and three nights, Jonah was a sign of Jesus in another, very important but little known way. "I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their brethren; and I will put my words in his mouth..." Deuteronomy 18:18 Did a prophet come out of Galilee? Yes, before Jesus, a prophet did indeed come out of Galilee: Jonah, from Gath-Hepher, which was on a hill very close to if not the same hill where Nazareth later was! See II Kings 14:25, "...according to the word of YHVH, the God of Israel, which he spoke by his servant Jonah son of Amittai, the prophet, who was from Gath-hepher." There was only one prophet named Jonah, who was the son of Amittai. Jonah was also in Sheol / Hades, as Jesus was (Jonah 2:2). Jonah also volunteered to be killed, in order to save the rest of our souls. Jesus volunteered to be killed, in order the save the rest of our souls.

Matthew 14:21

The Greek word for "without" in Matthew 14:21 is χωρίς (choris), which generally means "without, apart from." Here it could mean "besides, in addition to, not counting.” But it is also possible that there were no women and children present at all.

Let's start with what we know for sure from the narrative: that it was men only who were in the mess-parties or groups of 50 and 100, for that is how they were counted. There would be no point in having women and children included in the groups of 50 if they were not going to be counted. For if women and children were in the groups of 50, and they counted only the men, does that mean that the disciples would go to each group and count, say 25 or 30 men in a group and then move on to count in another group? There would just not be any sense in groups of 50 unless everyone in the groups were counted. The point of the groups of 50 was to count the crowd, everyone in the groups were counted, that's how they knew that there were 5,000: that there were 50 or 100 in each group.

Therefore we must conclude one or the other of the following two scenarios: 1) That women and children may have been present, but segregated, as was the custom in the synagogues, and seated separate and apart from the men. The women and children were not in the groups of 50 and 100. This would fall within the meaning of the word chōrís. Or, (2), That no women and children were among the crowd that "ran together" over to the place (Mark 6:33) and arrived ahead of the boat. This would be reasonable, since the children and the women laden with infants would not be able to "run together" the four miles with the men. For the crowd ran all the way from Capernaum, most likely, as that became Jesus' "own town," and base of operations. They ran from Capernaum to near Bethsaida-Julias, across the lake from Capernaum. This would be a fast run of about four miles. (When you look at the shape of the lake, it would make sense to boat it, to go as the crow flies rather than around the hump in the shape of the lake that separated the two towns.) In addition, John notes that the Passover, the festival of the Jews, was near. This festival was one of the three "pilgrim" festivals, which only required men, not women and children, to "go up" to Jerusalem to present themselves to the Lord (Exodus 23:17). Thus the men were already out journeying, making their way to Jerusalem, for only there could they present themselves. So for both these reasons, it is reasonable to conclude that only adult males were even in the crowd that went out to that remote place. For otherwise, it is puzzling why John made note that it was almost the Passover. Moreover, there is Mark 6:44 that flatly states that the ones eating were five thousand males, and Luke 9:14 says that those present "were about five thousand males." And so the meaning of chōrís in Matthew 14:21 would be that the men were there without women and children. They came without them.

All that said, it would still be difficult to give meaning number 2 to chōrís here for the geographical and temporal considerations stated, but not for the use of chōrís in Matthew’s account of the feeding of the four thousand in 15:38. Thus it seems most reasonable to conclude that women and children were not in the groups of hundreds and fifties, but were still possibly present and fed, only segregated from the men.
Matt. ENDCNOTE #5

HOW DID A ONCE-ONLY ATONEMENT OFFERING BECOME AN ANNUAL TAX?
Diatessaron 17:22, Matthew 17:24
"¹¹Then the LORD said to Moses, ¹²“When you take the census of the Israelites to number them, at the time he is numbered each man shall give a ransom for his life to the LORD, so that no plague may come upon him for being numbered. ¹³Each one who crosses over to those already numbered is to give a half shekel, according to the sanctuary shekel, which weighs twenty gerahs. This half shekel is an offering to the LORD. ¹⁴Each one who crosses over to those already numbered, each who is twenty years old or more, is to give an offering to the LORD. ¹⁵The rich are not to give more than a half shekel and the poor are not to give less when you make the offering to the LORD, the ransom for your lives. ¹⁶You shall take the atonement money from the Israelites and shall designate it for the service of the tent of meeting; before the LORD it will be a reminder of the ransom given for his life.”

Exodus 30:11-16

The money offering in question was clearly a ransom for a man’s life, to atone for the evil act of a man allowing himself to be numbered. There are other scriptures that indicate God’s displeasure with his people being numbered; see for example, I Chronicles chapter 21, and 27:23,24. The atonement offering was to be made only “when you take a census of Israel to number them.” This was said in anticipation of the one “Numbering” of Israel in the book of Numbers. A man only had to pay this atonement when he “crosses over” to join the group of those registered in the book. Where in this scripture is there any command that a man be counted more than once? Or annually? It says no such thing.

The New Testament apostles tell us that the old testament is given to us as examples, or patterns. Old testament lessons are shadows of something real, a real object. Imagine that the light of God is shining upon an object with substance, but all that hits the earth is the outline of the real object in the form of a shadow. This atonement offering was such a shadow, a pattern in the shape of the real thing. The real thing is Christ. The real thing is the crossing over from death to life. Are you numbered among the living? Have you crossed over to join those whose name is registered in the book of life? There was a one time ransom through the Lamb of God. If it is more than one time, it is an indulgence scam. Does God let a man be kidnapped by Satan every year so that God can ransom the same man again?

“So all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah. 2They said to him, ‘You are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways; now appoint a king to govern us, such as all the other nations have.’ 3But when they said, ‘Give us a king to lead us,’ this displeased Samuel; so he prayed to the LORD. 4And the LORD told him: ‘Listen to all that the people are saying to you; it is not you they have rejected, but they have rejected me as their king. 5As they have done from the day I brought them up out of Egypt until this day, forsaking me and serving other gods, so they are doing to you. 6Now listen to them; but warn them solemnly and let them know what the king who will reign over them will do.’ 7Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who were asking him for a king. 8He said, ‘This is what the king who will reign over you will do: He will take your sons and make them serve with his chariots and horses, and they will run in front of his chariots. 9Some he will assign to be commanders of thousands and commanders of fifties, and others to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and still others to make weapons of war and equipment for his chariots. 10He will take your daughters to be perfumers and cooks and bakers. 11He will take the best of your fields and vineyards and olive groves and give them to his attendants. 12He will take a tenth of your grain and of your vintage and give it to his officials and attendants. 13Your menservants and maidservants and the best of your cattle and donkeys he will take for his own use. 14He will take a tenth of your flocks, and you yourselves will become his slaves. 15When that day comes, you will cry out for relief from the king you have chosen for yourselves, and the LORD will not answer you in that day.’ 16But the people refused to listen to Samuel. ‘No!’ they said. ‘We want a king over us. 17Then we will be like all the other nations, with a king to lead us and to go out before us and fight our battles.’ 18When Samuel heard all that the people said, he repeated it before the LORD. 19The LORD answered, ‘Listen to them and give them a king.’

I Samuel 8:4-22

God warned Israel against the dangers of a human government: the king would tax them oppressively, force them into labor, and send their sons to their deaths in economic wars. By choosing a human king, God said, "they have rejected me as their king." Following is what one of their kings did with the Exodus 30:11-16 scripture, the one about the one-time atonement offering.

4, 5 After this Joash decided to restore the house of the LORD. He gathered the priests and the Levites, and said to them, 'Go out to all the cities of Judah and collect money from all Israel that you may repair the house of your God year by year. All the funds for sacred purposes that are brought to the temple of the LORD— the money from everyone who is counted, the money from personal vows, and all the money that any man’s heart prompts him to bring into the temple of the LORD— the priests may take themselves, each from his own acquaintances. However, they must make whatever repairs on the temple may prove necessary.’ ⁶But by the twenty-third year of the reign of King Joash, the priests still had not made needed repairs on the temple. ⁷So King Joash summoned the priest Jehoiada and the other priests. ‘Why do you not repair the temple?’ he asked them. ‘Now therefore, you must no longer take funds from your acquaintances. You shall hand the money over for the repairs.’ ⁸The priests agreed that they would neither take funds from the people nor make the repairs on the temple. ⁹Then the priest Jehoiada took a chest, bored a hole in its lid, and set it beside the pillar on the right side, as one entered the temple of the Lord. The priests who guarded the threshold put in it all the money that was brought into the house of the LORD. ¹⁰Whenever they saw that there was a large amount of money in the chest, the royal secretary and the high priest came, counted the money that had been brought into the house of the LORD and put it into bags. ¹¹When the amount had been determined, they would give the money into the hands of the workmen who had the oversight of the house of the LORD; and they in turn paid it out to the carpenters and the builders who worked upon the house of the LORD, and to the masons and stonemasons, as well as to buy timber and quarried stone for making repairs on the house of the LORD, and for any outlay upon the repairs of the house. ¹²No reckoning was asked of the men who were provided with the funds to give to the workmen, because they were positions of trust.”

II Chronicles 24:4, 5; II Kings 12:4-12, 15

This is the first time in the Bible that it was ever suggested that the census be annual, and that each man pay money every year when he is counted.

Note that Joash decided this. It was not commanded by God. God had been rejected as king. The decision to make the census annual, and accompanied by a “tax,” was the decision of a human king. This was a clear disobedience to God’s command. And therefore, illegal.

Note that each priest collected the money “each from his own acquaintances,” v. 5. Then in verse 7, Joash told the priests to no longer collect from their acquaintances, but apparently they continued to do so, as we will see in the New Testament.
In addition to collecting from their own acquaintances, there was a chest placed at the entrance to the temple for voluntary offerings. This money was then given to Levites in charge of repairing the temple. Note that "No reckoning was asked of the men who were provided with the funds to give to the workmen, because they were positions of trust." This system gave them opportunity to skim from the collections for themselves.

Between the time of King Joash and the time of Nehemiah, the temple was destroyed and the people of Judah were taken into exile. After regaining an opportunity to return to Jerusalem, Ezra and Nehemiah led the people in the effort to rebuild the city and the temple. At that time, the people said:

"We lay upon ourselves the obligation to charge ourselves yearly one third of a shekel for the service of the house of our God"

This time, it is not a king who imposes this "temple tax" upon the people, but the people themselves who "lay upon ourselves the obligation to charge ourselves yearly..."

Here the people themselves have set aside the scriptures in order to set up their own tradition. And is there any human government anywhere, that, if the populace volunteers to pay a tax of some sort, would say, "No, we do not want the money. Do not give us any money"? A voluntary or temporary tax takes on a life of its own, and soon becomes a much larger amount, becomes more frequent, and becomes mandatory. Typical this is of the life of a tax. Such is the fate of a people who reject God as their king and choose a human government.

24And when they arrived in Capernaum, the collectors of the two drachmas approached Peter, and they said, "Does your rabbi not pay the two drachmas?"

25He says, "Yes he does."

And when Peter had come into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, "What do you think, Simon: the kings of the earth, from whom do they collect toll and tribute— from their sons, or from others?"

26And when he answered, "From others," Jesus said to him, "Alright then, the sons are free. 27But, so that we not scandalize them, go to the lake, cast a hook, and the first fish that comes up, take, and when you have opened its mouth, you will find a four-drachma coin. Take that, and give it to them, as mine and yours.”

Matthew 17:24-27 (DRP)

It appears that the custom of the priests collecting money “each from his own acquaintance” was still being practiced. The collectors “came to Peter.” Peter did not seek the collectors out, or pass by a toll booth, or run an errand to a government building. No, these collectors must have been men who knew Peter, for they came to Peter. This happened in Capernaum, Peter’s hometown. That may be why they chose to come to Peter and not to Jesus. They were men of Capernaum, and acquaintances of Peter, and not of Jesus.

The payment at issue in this passage was a Jewish religious matter. Jesus and the disciples were Sons or Citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven, so were not subject to this “tax.” Remember, the Levites did not pay the census atonement fee tax. (Numbers 1:48, 49) All those who become Citizens of the kingdom of God have the same status in regard to this tax as the Levites had. "God has made us kings and priests, and we will reign on the earth." Rev. 5:10 Kings do not pay the tax. And kings are what Jesus and the twelve apostles were.

"Jesus sat down opposite the place where the offerings were put and watched the crowd putting their money into the temple treasury. Many rich people threw in large amounts. But a poor widow came and put in two very small copper coins, worth only a fraction of a penny.

Calling his disciples to him, Jesus said, 'I tell you the truth, this poor widow has put more into the treasury than all the others. They all gave their gifts out of their wealth; but she out of her poverty put in everything — all she had to live on.'” Mark 12:41-44; Luke 21:1-4

So by Jesus’ time, the priests not only still collected “each from his own acquaintance,” but they also collected by means of the chest at the temple entrance.

This is typical of the life of a tax. Whether ancient Israel, or America, if the lawmaking entity adopts a tax, say, for one time only, to be assessed only at the time of the manufacture of, say, a bullet making machine, over time the human government manages to turn it into an annual tax, and make it apply to everyone, who never had anything to do with a bullet making machine at all! The new generations of citizens do not study law, and are not aware of the "intent of congress" when that tax law was written. The schools are government run, so the schools from then on tell them that this tax must be paid annually by everyone.

But here is great news: In the land of the Majestic King,

"You will call to mind what once you feared: 'Where is the one who counted? (for tax purposes) Where is the one who weighed the tribute? Where is the one who counted the treasuries?' No longer will you see these arrogant people...For Yahweh is our judge; Yahweh is our lawgiver." Isaiah 33:18,19, 22

So, store up your treasures in heaven, where moths do not eat, rust does not destroy, thieves do not break in and steal, and bureaucrats do not confiscate under a pretense of law.

Matt. ENDNOTE #6 "the Evil Eye"

What is the "evil eye"? ὀφθαλμός πονηρός – ophthalmós ponērós
Diatessaron 10:2, 14:10, 18:29, 23:50; Matt. 6:23, 20:15; Mark 7:22; Luke 11:34

This phrase ὀφθαλμός πονηρός – ophthalmós ponērós, "evil eye," is not original in the Greek New Testament, but is from יִגַּה הָֹר ע יִ - rāʾāh 'ayin, or, with the article and modifier postpositive, יִגַּה הָֹר ע 'ayin hāra'. This is a concept from the Semitic cultures and the Hebrew scriptures. Ophthalmós ponērós is used only four times in the Greek New Testament. Two of those, Matthew 6:23 and Luke 11:34, are in the same teaching, the "lamp of the body," and so for the purpose of understanding the meaning of the phrase from context, these two passages really count as one context. Thus we have three contexts: the "eye is the lamp of the body" discourse of Matthew 6:23 and Luke 11:34; the set of "evils coming out of the heart of the human being that makes the human unclean" discourse of Mark 7:22; and the Parable of the workers in the field, Matthew 20:15, in which the 11th hour workers receive the same wage as the 3rd hour workers. And in the Jewish translation of the scriptures into Greek, the Septuagint, the phrase is found once, in Deuteronomy 15:9. This makes a total of four contexts from which to glean the meaning of the phrase ophthalmós ponērós.

When so few contexts are available, it is very helpful if the passages themselves designate any antonyms to the word or phrase in question, and this fortunately is such a case. For both the Matthew and Luke versions of the "lamp of the body" teaching show Jesus contrasting the ophthalmós ponērós to the ὀφθαλμός ἁπλοῦς – ophthalmós haploús. This word, in its uncontracted form, ἁπλόος, is used once in the Septuagint, in Proverbs 11:25, where it means "generous." There, the Greek ψυχὴ ἁπλῇ - psuchē haplē, "liberal soul," is translated from the Hebrew נפשׁ בְרָכָ – nepēš brākah, for a giving, blessing, generous person.

The contrast to generosity is easily seen in Deuteronomy 15:9, where the evil eye רָעָהֹ ע יִן - raʿah ʿayin, is a case of resenting the poor, looking on one's poor neighbor with an evil eye, resenting the year of release of debts.

Similar is Matt. 20:15. In that passage the person with the evil eye had objected to the landowner for giving the same amount of pay to someone who had worked one hour as he had given to someone who had worked all day. The Greek says, "Is your eye evil because I am good?" There it seems to be a trait of suspiciousness, ascribing unfairness or evil motives to the landowner. Or it could be simple begrudging of the landowner's generosity, as "Does my generosity arouse your stinginess?" Resentment or suspicion also darken the eye. The aperture of the eye narrows when the soul feels suspicious or stingy. And by stingy itself we mean "tight" and restricted. The word raʿ also can mean "discontented," as in Genesis 40:7. Further, it remains today in Modern Hebrew that ר ע־ע יִן, raʿ-ʿayin means "eye of envy."

Also helpful is to note as many antonyms of ἁπλόος as possible in all the Greek literature. It is the opposite of διπλόος, "two-fold, double;" of ἀκριβής, "strict, accurate;" and of μεμιγμένος, "compound, mixed."

In the Septuagint the concept of the evil eye from the Hebrew נ ע ו, was also translated into the Greek attributive noun βάσκανος - báskanos, and the adjective βασκανία - baskanía. For instances of these words in the Greek scriptures, see Proverbs 23:6, 28:22. In these and other Jewish writings in Greek, such as the Apocrypha and Josephus, the words usually pertain to envy, covetousness, stinginess, or selfishness. An evil eye could be generalized as an attitude of malevolence toward one's neighbor, physically signaled by a narrowing of the eye when regarding the neighbor. The narrowing of the aperture of the eye decreases the light coming into one's own soul, and one's light becomes darkness.

Another aspect of narrowing of the eye is an attitude of scheming as to how one can manipulate things and people for one's own selfish gain, whether gain of power, prestige, or money. This desire arises out of lack of contentment with what situation one already has; thus it is related to "discontented, covetous." Look at the context of Jesus' teachings surrounding the mention of the evil eye. It is the person with the evil eye that is scheming how to manipulate and control in order to ensure financial advantage or security for himself. Even prayer can be used with an evil eye.

But one who is "simple," and relaxes in the knowledge of the fatherly benevolence of Elohim, does not take thought about what he will eat or wear in the coming days. Neither does he covet what he does not have. And rather than take advantage of the weakness and poverty of others, is cognizant that God is the champion of the poor, the widow, the fatherless, the alien, and the traveler.

In Talmudic Judaism historically, there are many connotations of magic to the term "evil eye." There is one aspect of evil magic that pertains to the person who has the evil eye, and there is another aspect of magic in the efforts of others to ward off the evil eye. The magical concept probably came from Babylon, where it was a type of voodoo worked upon others. Some examples of Talmudic mentions of the evil eye pertain to what acts make one vulnerable to the evil eye, and others to what amulets and charms you can use to ward off the evil eye. But teachings similar to Jesus' can be found in Avot 2:14, 2:16.

The voodoo aspect of the evil eye got obscured when translated into Greek because it was translated by more than just the words "evil eye." Deut. 28:54, 56 talk of "hapalos" persons being changed by God's curse, and becoming persons who look with evil eye רָעָהֹ ע יִן - rā'āh 'ayin, on their spouses or neighbors. Here the Greek verb for looking with an evil eye, is βασκαίνω - baskainō. I say this to introduce Galatians 3:1 in the New Testament, where Paul uses baskainō for "bewitch" when he says, "O foolish Galatians, who has bewitched you...? The idea of Galatians chapter three is, "Who has worked the evil eye on you and deluded you into going back to thinking you are perfected by works of the law?"

But throughout, whether in Babylonic, Kabbalistic, Talmudic, or Jesus' teaching, the evil eye radiates. (We can see some connection between baskainō and our English word "bask." We "bask" in the sun's radiation.) An evil eye emits malevolent darkness upon one's neighbor. Jesus says, emit from your eye the benevolent light of the love from God upon your neighbor. If you do this, the forces will work in your favor without your manipulation and narrow-eyed foxiness being necessary.

A fundamental principle of all magic is the belief in the power of thought. Evil people try to use magic to manipulate the environment in order to obtain their own selfish ends. The "evil eye" magically speaking was the focusing of the radiation of one's thought power by means of squinting the eye and beaming the energy out of the eye that way. This idea of squinting is essential to understanding why Jesus speaks of a good eye allowing fullness of light, but an evil eye causing darkness in the body. I am not saying that Jesus legitimized any aspect of magic, but that he was simply using the well known principle of a squinted eye to make a parable about the eye being the lamp of the body, and the idea of your eye letting light in or not.

Jesus, speaking of the eye as the lamp of the body in the Sermon on the Mount (Diatess. 10:2; Matt. 6:22-24; Lk 11:33-36), speaks of a ἁπλοῦς - haploûs eye letting more light through, as opposed to one whose eye is evil, having a body filled with darkness or emitting darkness out through the aperture of the eye. For an evil eye, picture someone with a narrowed eye, out of suspicion, envy, resentment of another's happiness, resentment of another's goodness; plotting, scheming; stingy; having as its antonym ἁπλοῦς - haploûs, which means simple, sincere, guileless like doves (as opposed to scheming foxiness with hidden motive), open, generous, welcoming, unassuming of evil on the part of others.

Whatever makes you look at another with your eye darkened, is generally because that other is blocking your selfish way somehow, whether your own wealth, your aggrandizement as to esteem by comparison to you, or just the fact that the other is causing you an inconvenience as you pursue your own interests. But instead, bask your neighbor in the light of your smile, and wish good upon them. Be relaxed in the knowledge that God knows your needs and will take care of you. But also that God loves your neighbor equally as he loves you. The God above sends his sunshine and rain on both the evil and the good, and is kind to the unthankful and the evil.

How the classic Greek philosophers used the word ἁκρασία. Used in Matthew 23:25.

The Greek word here, ἁκρασία - akrasia, means to have no power over or to exercise no power over one's self, in restraining pursuit of pleasure, the pursuit of one's appetites. But it is hard to say, "the inside is full of an absence of something." I was tempted to say here, "full of addictions,” because that is the ultimate product of lack of restraint, and the decline in usefulness to society spoken of by Socrates and Aristotle on the subject of this word ἀκρασία. Perhaps the regular Biblical way to say addiction would be with the Greek words ἐπιδόσις with τινός (epidosis with tinos), "being given over to something.” Ultimately I decided to use the word intemperance, and to include this endnote to show how the Greek word was used in other Greek literature.

It is not solely a Bible-belt fundamentalist concept that unrestraint in the pursuit of pleasure brings the downfall of civilization, but it is also the belief and teaching of the great philosophers in the history of civilization. See the excerpts below of the classic philosophers, showing how they used the word. It is an antonym of the temperance or self-control that is said to be a fruit of the Holy Spirit in Galatians 5:22, 23. And in another place, I Corinthians 14: 32, Paul says that a trait of a true prophet is that "the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets.” That is, under the control of the prophets. Whatever our station as Christians, our verbal testimony is weak or worse, if we are addicted to shopping, or to eating, or to drinking, or drugs, or pornography, or to romance novels, or to sex, or to television, or to complaining, or cursing, or anything else. Whoever sins habitually is a slave to sin.

The "Majority Text" reads ἀδικίαν here—"unrighteousness"—instead of ἀκρασίας. But the King James Version in this case did not follow the "Majority Text."

Demosthenes, in his Second Olynthiac Speech, spoke of Philip the king of the Macedonians as follows:

Εἶ δὲ τις σώφρων ἢ δίκαιος ἄλλος, τὴν καθ' ἡμέραν ἀκρασίαν τοῦ βίου καὶ μεθήν καὶ κορδακισμοὺς οὐ δυνάμενος φερεῖν, παρεὼσθαι καὶ ἐν οὐδένος εἶναι μέρει τὸν τοιούτον.

"Any fairly decent or honest man, who cannot stomach the licentiousness of his daily life, the drunkenness and the lewd dancing, is pushed aside as of no account."

Socrates, in Xenophon, Memorabilia, Book 4

(Apomnêmoneumatôn Δ)
V. He did also try to make his companions efficient in affairs, as I will now show. For holding that it is good for anyone who means to do honorable work to have self-control, he made it clear to his companions, in the first place, that he had been assiduous in self-discipline; moreover, in his conversation he exhorted his companions to cultivate self-control above all things. Thus he bore in mind continually the aids to virtue, and put all his companions in mind of them. I recall in particular the substance of a conversation that he once had with Euthydemus on self-control.

“Tell me, Euthydemus,” he said, “do you think that freedom is a noble and splendid possession both for individuals and for communities?”

“Yes, I think it is, in the highest degree.”

“Then do you think that the man is free who is ruled by bodily pleasures and is unable to do what is best because of them?”

“By no means.”

“Possibly, in fact, to do what is best appears to you to be freedom, and so you think that to have masters who will prevent such activity is bondage?”

“I am sure of it.”

“You feel sure then that the incontinent are bond slaves?”

“Of course, naturally.”

“And do you think that the incontinent are merely prevented from doing what is most honorable, or are also forced to do what is most dishonorable?”

“I think that they are forced to do that just as much as they are prevented from doing the other.”

“What sort of masters are they, in your opinion, who prevent the best and enforce the worst?”

“And what sort of slavery do you believe to be the worst?”

“Slavery to the worst masters, I think.”

“The worst slavery, therefore, is the slavery endured by the incontinent?”

“I think so.”

“As for Wisdom, the greatest blessing, does not incontinence exclude it and drive men to the opposite? Or don’t you think that incontinence prevents them from attending to useful things and understanding them, by drawing them away to things pleasant, and often so stuns their perception of good and evil that they choose the worse instead of the better?”

“That does happen.”

“With Prudence, Euthydemus, who, shall we say, has less to do than the incontinent? For I presume that the actions prompted by prudence and incontinence are exact opposites?”

“I agree with that too.”

“To caring for what is right is there any stronger hindrance, do you think, than incontinence?”

“Indeed I do not.”

“And do you think there can be aught worse for a man than that which causes him to choose the harmful rather than the useful, and persuades him to care for the one and to be careless of the other, and forces him to do the opposite of what prudence dictates?”

“Nothing.”

“And is it not likely that self-control causes actions the opposite of those that are due to incontinence?”

“Certainly.”

“Then is not the cause of the opposite actions presumably a very great blessing?”

“Yes, presumably.”

“Consequently we may presume, Euthydemus, that self-control is a very great blessing to a man?”

“We may presume so, Socrates.”

“Has it ever occurred to you, Euthydemus—?”

“What?”

“That though pleasure is the one and only goal to which incontinence is thought to lead men, she herself cannot bring them to it, whereas nothing produces pleasure so surely as self-control?”

“How so?”

“Incontinence will not let them endure hunger or thirst or desire or lack of sleep, which are the sole causes of pleasure in eating and drinking and sexual indulgence, and in resting and sleeping, after a time of waiting and resistance until the moment comes when these will give the greatest possible satisfaction; and thus she prevents them from experiencing any pleasure worthy to be mentioned in the most elementary and recurrent forms of enjoyment. But self-control alone causes them to endure the sufferings I have named, and therefore she alone causes them to experience any pleasure worth mentioning in such enjoyments.”
“What you say is entirely true.”

“Moreover, the delights of learning something good and excellent, and of studying some of the means whereby a man knows how to regulate his body well and manage his household successfully, to be useful to his friends and city and to defeat his enemies—knowledge that yields not only very great benefits but very great pleasures—these are the delights of the self-controlled; but the incontinent have no part in them. For who, should we say, has less concern with these than he who has no power of cultivating them because all his serious purposes are centered in the pleasures that lie nearest?”

“Yes, Euthydemus; for how can an incontinent man be any better than the dullest beast? How can he who fails to consider the things that matter most, and strives by every means to do the things that are most pleasant, be better than the stupidest of creatures? No, only the self-controlled have power to consider the things that matter most, and, sorting them out after their kind, by word and deed alike to prefer the good and reject the evil.”

And thus, he said, men become supremely good and happy and skilled in discussion. The very word “discussion,” according to him, owes its name to the practice of meeting together for common deliberation, sorting, discussing things after their kind: and therefore one should be ready and prepared for this and be zealous for it; for it makes for excellence, leadership and skill in discussion.

Isocrates, Speeches and Letters (ed. George Norlin)
Περὶ ἀντιδοσεως

Speech 2: To Nicocles, 219-221

But surely we could not expect to be admired nor to enjoy great honor for sending out disciples of that sort; on the contrary, we should be much more despised and hated than those who are charged with other forms of villainy. And, mark you, even if we could shut our eyes to these consequences, we could not gain the most money by directing a training of that character; for, I suppose, all men are aware that a sophist reaps his finest and his largest reward when his pupils prove to be honorable and intelligent and highly esteemed by their fellow-citizens, since pupils of that sort inspire many with the desire to enjoy his teaching, while those who are depraved repel even those who were formerly minded to join his classes. Who, then, could be blind to the more profitable course, when there is so vast a difference between the two?

Perhaps, however, some might venture to reply that many men, because of their incontinence, are not amenable to reason, but neglect their true interests and rush on in the pursuit of pleasure. I grant you that many men in general and some who pretend to be sophists are of this nature.

Aristotle, Nicomachean Ethics
(ed. J. Bywater) [1145a] book 7

Let us next begin a fresh part of the subject by laying down that the states of moral character to be avoided are of three kinds--Vice, Unrestraint, and Bestiality. The opposite dispositions in the case of two of the three are obvious: one we call Virtue, the other Self-restraint. As the opposite of Bestiality it will be most suitable to speak of Superhuman Virtue, or goodness on a heroic or divine scale; just as Homer has represented Priam as saying of Hector, on account of his surpassing valor–

The son of mortal man, but of a god.

Hence if, as men say, surpassing virtue changes men into gods, the disposition opposed to Bestiality will clearly be some quality more than human; for there is no such thing as Virtue in the case of a god, any more than there is Vice or Virtue in the case of a beast: divine goodness is something more exalted than Virtue, and bestial badness is different in kind from Vice. And inasmuch as it is rare for a man to be divine, in the sense in which that word is commonly used by the Lacedaemonians as a term of extreme admiration—'Yon mon's divine,' they say—, so a bestial character is rare among human beings; it is found most frequently among barbarians, and some cases also occur as a result of disease or arrested development. We sometimes also use 'bestial' as a term of opprobrium for a surpassing degree of human vice.

But the nature of the bestial disposition will have to be touched on later; and of Vice we have spoken already. We must however discuss Unrestraint and Softness or Luxury, and also Self-restraint and Endurance.

Matt. ENDNOTE #8 – Plural of οὐρανός

The Greek word οὐρανός

As used in the New Testament; singular versus plural

BDF §4(2) says that certain plurals such as οὐρανοί and αἰῶνες are Semitisms, specifically, terms connected with Judaism and drawn from the Septuagint. That the pluralization of concrete subjects originally was to denote what is long or wide, or mysterious powers.

In BDF §141(1), Blass says that the plural, οὐρανοί, = the Hebrew "shamaim," yet most authors use it only in a figurative sense as the abode of God (sing. also), while the singular predominates in the literal sense, except for those instances where, according to the Jewish conception, several heavens were to be distinguished.

Bauer also says that for the abode of the Divine, the plural is preferred.

In BDF §141(1) DeBrunner also notes that οὐρανός is always plural when referring to "the Father in heaven" and to "the kingdom of heaven." He notes also that John never uses οὐρανός in the plural, except for Revelation 12:12, and that only because it is a quotation of the Septuagint.

BDF §253(3) notes that οὐρανός is frequently anarthrous (without the article) after prepositions.
Matthew

Uses in the plural:

Matt 3:16 βαπτισθεὶς δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς εὐθὺς ἀνέβη ἀπὸ τοῦ ὦδατος· καὶ ἵδον ἤνεχθησαν οἱ οὐρανοί, καὶ εἰδὲν [τὸ] πνεῦμα [τοῦ] θεοῦ καταβαίνον ὅσει περιστέραν ἐρχόμενον ἐπ’ αὐτόν·

NCV That is how little the Israelites thought he was worth.

Mess the price of the one priced by some sons of Israel

NLT the price at which he was valued by the people of Israel

GW the price the people of Israel had placed on him,

NAB the value of a man with a price on his head, a price set by some of the Israelites

The Good News According to

MARK
Chapter 1

John the Baptizer Prepares the Way

1 The beginning of the good news about Jesus Christ, the Son of God.\textsuperscript{231}
2 As\textsuperscript{232} it is written in the prophets: \textsuperscript{233}

"Behold, I am sending my messenger
before your face,
who will prepare your way,"
3 a voice of one calling in the wilderness,
'Prepare the way for the Lord, make the paths straight for him,\textsuperscript{234}"

4 so\textsuperscript{235} John the Baptizer appeared in the wilderness, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins.
5 And the whole region of Judea was going out to him, even all the Jerusalemites, and were getting baptized by him in the Jordan River, confessing their sins.
6 And John was dressed in camel’s hair, with a leather belt around his waist, and eating locusts and wild honey.

7And he would preach, saying, "After me is coming someone more powerful than I, the thongs of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and untie. 8I have baptized you in water, but he will baptize you in the Holy Spirit."

The Baptism and Temptation of Jesus

9And it came about in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth in Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. 10And going up out of the water he immediately saw the heavens opening, and the Spirit as a dove coming down to him. 11And a voice from heaven said, "You are my beloved Son; in you I have taken good pleasure.”

12And immediately the Spirit thrusts him forth into the wilderness. 13And he was in the wilderness forty days being tempted by Satan, and was with the wild beasts. And the angels were attending him.

The Calling of Simon, Andrew, James, and John

14And after John was put in prison, Jesus went into Galilee, proclaiming the good news of God, and saying, "The time has played out, and the 236 1:13 Greek: οἱ ἄγγελοι διηκόνουν αὐτῷ. The verb διακονέω - diakonèō generally means "to act as a waiter, as an attendant, as a servant." The same word is used in the parallel in Matthew 4:11, but there it sounds more like the angels came only after the temptation was concluded, and that their waiting on him involved feeding him. But in Mark it sounds like the angels were attending him throughout the entire duration of his temptation. Obviously, they were not feeding him during the 40 days, or he would not have been fasting and been tempted over the bread. No, Mark means something else by διακονέω. Mark is known for having a military outlook, and that Jesus was a rough man of action. And here he was amongst the dangers of Satan and wild beasts, and Jesus’ attendants were standing by for him militarily to protect him. Somewhat like armor-bearers were attendants. Yet the world διακονέω encompasses the idea of feeding, and we can understand it to mean that they took care of him, met his needs, both military needs and nourishment needs, at the appropriate times, as they waited on him throughout. We know from Matthew that they were farther away before the temptation was concluded, and when it was over, they approached right up to Jesus and tended to his needs.

237 1:14b τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τῆς βασιλείας A D E W Σ Φ 064 lat syr copahmouth arm geo slav mss Or NA27 {A} ‖ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ θεοῦ mg l t v g ethJer TR RP ‖ εισεχῆσαι τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ μαρτυρίας περὶ τοῦ θεοῦ Π Ψ. The phrase τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ θεοῦ μαρτυρίας περὶ τοῦ θεοῦ "the gospel of God" is found in the gospels only here, so copyists naturally harmonized it to a more familiar "the gospel of the kingdom of God." The biggest flaw by far of the Byzantine text stream in the gospels, is harmonization.

238 1:15 Πεπλήρωται ὁ καιρός - Literally, "the time has been completed or filled." It means another time has come, because the time allotted for the age before it has run out. Bauer’s lexicon says it means, "the age has come to an end." This idea is echoed by the apostle Paul in Acts 17:30: "In the past, God overlooked such ignorance, but now he commands all people everywhere to repent." And very succinct is Galatians 4:4, "But when the fullness of kingdom of God has come near. Repent and believe the good news.”

16 And passing along beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew, Simon’s brother, casting a net in the sea, for they were fishers.

17 And Jesus said to them, “Come, you two. Follow me, and I will make you fishers of people.” 18 And they followed him right away, leaving the nets.

19 And when he had gone a little farther, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and his brother John. They also were on board a boat, mending the nets. 20 At once he called them, and they went off after him, leaving their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired hands.

Jesus’ Teaching Has Authority

21 And they enter into Capernaum, and having gone straight into the synagogue on the Sabbath, he began to teach. 22 And they were amazed at his teaching, because he was teaching them as one having authority, and not like the Torah scholars. 23 And right then there was a man in their synagogue who was in an unclean spirit. And he cried out, 24 saying, "What business do you have with us, Jesus, you Nazarene? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are— the Holy One of God!"

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be quiet and come out of him!"

26 And the unclean spirit shook him violently back and forth and came out of him, shouting very loudly.

27 And all were astonished, such that they were discussing it, saying, time had come, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, in order to redeem those who were under the law...” Jesus himself also taught that the age of the law was passing away; see Matt. 11:13 and Luke 16:16, "The Law and the Prophets were until John. Since that time, the kingdom of God is forcing its way forward, and the aggressive lay hold of it. And if you are willing to accept it, John is the Elijah who was to come."

239 1:22 The corresponding Hebrew word to γραμματεύς is נְשִׁפֵר- sôpfer, active participle of sôpar, to write, to count, to number. The Latin Vulgate rendered it scriba, and in English it is traditionally translated ‘scribe.’ The original meaning was “writer; clerk; copyist,” but after the captivity, it came to mean a member of the class of professional interpreters of the Jewish Law.

240 1:24 Ναζωραῖος - Nazōraios. A Nazarene is someone from the town of Nazareth, just as a Houstonian is someone from the city of Houston. A Nazarene is not to be confused with a Nazirite, someone who took a time-limited vow not to cut his hair or to eat grapes or drink wine. The word Nazarene was sometimes derogatory, depending on who was saying it. Jews of Jerusalem and Judea looked down on people from Galilee as being not as pure in their Jewish blood or religion. Even someone from within Galilee, like the apostle Nathanael, looked down on Nazareth, John 1:46. Nazareth was quite close to Samaria. One way in which Jonah was a sign of Jesus was that they were both from the same home country. The prophet Jonah, son of Amittai, we read in 2 Kings 14:25, was from the town of Gath Hepher, which was at most one or two hills away from where Nazareth later was, if not the same hill. After the time of Jesus, his followers came also to be called “Notzri” by Jews who did not believe in him, a contemptuous epithet.
"What is this? A new teaching, with authority. He even commands the unclean spirits, and they obey him." And immediately the report went out about him everywhere, in the whole region of Galilee.

Jesus Heals All in Capernaum

28 And as soon as they came out of the synagogue, they went into the house of Simon and Andrew, accompanied by James and John. 29 And Simon’s mother-in-law was bedridden, burning a high fever, and right away they are telling him about her. 30 And after approaching her and grasping her by the hand, he lifted her, and the fever left her, and she began to wait on them.

31 And when evening had come, when the sun had set, they were bringing to him all who had an illness, and those being tormented by demons. 32 Indeed the entire town was gathered at the door. 33 And he healed many who were ill with various diseases, and many demons he expelled; and he would not allow the demons to speak, because they knew him.

Jesus Keeps Moving

35 And rising up very early, in the darkness, Jesus went outside and went off to a solitary place, and he was praying there. 36 And Simon and those with him hunted him down, and found him, and they are saying to him, "Everyone is looking for you!"

37 And he says to them, "Let us go somewhere else, to the nearby villages, so I may preach there also. For that is why I have come.”

38 And he went preaching in their synagogues in all of Galilee, and driving out the demons.

A Leper Healed Spreads the Word

40 And a leper comes to him, falling on his knees, and saying to him, "If you are willing, you can cleanse me.”
And filled with compassion, he reached out his hand and touched him, and says to him, "I am willing. Be cleansed." And immediately the leprosy went away from him and he was cleansed.

And he immediately thrust him outside, sternly admonishing him, and saying to him, "See that you don’t tell a thing to anyone. Only go show yourself to the priest, and offer the things Moses commanded for your cleansing, as a testimony to them."

But when he left he proceeded to speak out freely, and to spread the word around, with the result that Jesus could no longer enter a town openly, but stayed outside in deserted places. Yet people were still coming toward him from all directions.

Chapter 2

The Paralytic Lowered Through the Roof

And some days later, he entered again into Capernaum, and it was heard that he was home. And many gathered, so many that there was no room left, not even at the door; and he was speaking the word to them.

Then some arrive, bringing to him a paralytic, carried by four. And not being able to get to him because of the crowd, they removed the roof where he was, and when they had dug through, they lowered the pallet bed on which the paralytic is lying.

And when Jesus saw their faith, he says to the paralytic, "Son, your sins are forgiven."

And some of the Torah scholars were sitting there, and debating in their hearts, "Why does this fellow talk like this? He is blaspheming! Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

And Jesus, knowing immediately in his spirit that they were debating... like this inside themselves, says to them, "Why are you debating these things in your hearts? 9 Which is easier to say to the paralytic: 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say, 'Get up, take your bed and walk'? 10 But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins..." He said to the paralytic, 11 "I say to you, get up, take your bed, and go to your house." 12 And he stood up, and immediately took his bed and went out in front of them all, with the result that they were all astonished, and glorified God, saying, "We have never seen anything like this!"

A Tax Collector Joins Jesus

13 And he went out, along beside the lake again. And the entire crowd came with him, and he was teaching them. 14 And as he went along, he saw Levi son of Halphaeus sitting at the taxes post. And he says to him, "Follow me." And rising up, he followed him.

15 And it comes about that Jesus is reclining at Levi's house, and many tax collectors and sinners were reclining with him and his disciples, for there were many who followed him. 16 And when the Torah scholars of the Pharisees saw that he was eating with sinners and tax collectors, they said to his disciples, "Why does he eat with tax collectors and sinners?"

17 And hearing, Jesus says to them, "It is not the healthy who need a 246 2:15 τελώνης - telōnēs; a combination of the words τέλος for excise off the end tally, and the word ὄνεομαι - ōnéomai which means to "buy." Hence, tax-buyers, or tax owners. The accounts receivable which the due taxes represented were bought by something like collection agencies. The telōnēs were not the holders of the 'tax farming' contracts themselves, (the actual holders were called publicani), but were subordinates (Latin, portitores) hired by the publicani. The higher officials, the publicans, were usually foreigners, but their underlings were taken, as a rule, from the native population, from the subjugated people. The prevailing system of tax collection afforded the collector many opportunities to exercise his greed and unfairness. Moreover, since the tax was forced upon the conquered by the conqueror, the collectors of the tax were personal reminders to the populace that they, the payers of the tax, were conquered. Therefore the collectors of the tax were particularly hated and despised as a class. They were pre-judged to be both embezzlers, and traitors or collaborators with the occupying foreign power.

248 2:16b There is an ambiguity here involving the word ὅτι - hóti. This is because the original manuscripts did not have punctuation, accent marks, or spaces. This word could have been one word, ὅτι, or two, ὅ τι. The former would mean the same as quotation marks, meaning that what immediately follows it is the first word of a direct quote; and the latter would be an interrogative and mean something like "why." Debrunner, §300(2), says this last is Markan, and Bauer, p. 587, beginning of heading 4, says it is doubtful for all the N.T. Later manuscripts, and even Codex Sinaiticus, read διὰ τί or διατί instead of ὅτι, either to clarify the ambiguity, or to harmonize Mark with the Matthew and Luke accounts. It was characteristic of Septuagint Greek that ὅ τι mean "why." As for me I agree with Bauer, that ὅ τι is not used by Mark meaning "why," and since the manuscript evidence points to ὅτι being the correct reading, I interpret it as a quotation mark.

doctor, but the sick. I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners."

Jesus Questioned About Fasting

18 And the disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting. And they come and say to him, "How is it that the disciples of John and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?"249

19 And Jesus said to them, "Are the members of the bridegroom's party able to fast while the bridegroom is with them? So long as they have the bridegroom with them, they are not able to fast. 20 But the days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then, in that day, fast they will.

21 "No one sews a piece of unshrunk cloth onto an old garment. For then, what filled it up pulls away from it, the new from the old, and a worse tear occurs. 22 And no one puts new wine into old wineskins. For then, the wine will burst the wineskins, and the wine is ruined, along with the wineskins. Rather, new wine is put into new wineskins."

Man Over the Sabbath

23 And it came about during a Sabbath that he was passing through the grainfields, and his disciples began to practice a custom, plucking the heads.250 24 And the Pharisees said to him, "Look! Why are your disciples doing what on the Sabbath is not permissible?"251

25 And he says to them, "Have you never read what David did, when he and those with him were in need and hungry? 26 In the account about 249 2:18 The verb "fast" here is in the present linear. This could mean habitual action, repetitive action, or on the other hand, it could mean what was happening right now, presently going on. Are they questioning why they are not fasting right now in this instance? Or why they never are in the habit of fasting? Opinions are split. I take the cue from verse 19, that as long as Jesus was with them, they were not fasting at all. In other words, it was not just that one occasion that they were not fasting.

250 2:23 The phrase translated 'began to practice a way' here is ἤρξαντο ὁδὸν ποιεῖν, which, using the most frequently translated English words, (the "lexical glosses") would be, 'began to make or do a way or path.' See the endnote discussing the difficulties and possibilities of translation. As for the "plucking of the heads," this was the allowable Jewish practice of "plucking the heads," of Deuteronomy 23:25, "If you enter your neighbor's grainfield, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain." Still, this practice was not allowed on the Sabbath day.

251 2:24 The Greek word translated "permissible" is the impersonal participle ἐξεστίν - éxestin, which is derived from the same root as ἐξουσία - exousía, the word for authority. If an activity was ἐξεστίν, that means it was "loosed," or ruled by the rabbis to be something "allowed" by the Torah. If something was not ἐξεστίν, as is the case here, that means it was "bound," that is, the rabbis had adjudged that it was forbidden by the Torah.
Abiathar the high priest, he entered the house of God and ate the bread of offering, which was not permissible to eat, except for the priests, and he gave also to those who were with him.”

27Then he said to them, "The Sabbath came about for humankind, and not humankind for the Sabbath. 28Consequently, the Son of Man also is lord of the Sabbath."

Chapter 3

1And again he went into a synagogue. And a man was there who had a shriveled hand. 2And they were watching him carefully whether he would heal him on the Sabbath, so that they might accuse him.

3And he says to the man with the shriveled hand, "Stand up into view.”

4And he says to them, “Is it permissible on the Sabbath to do good or do evil, to save life or destroy it?” But they were not speaking.

252 2:26 Notice that Jesus does not deny that they were violating the Sabbath, doing something that was unlawful to do on the Sabbath. He admitted that it was unlawful, by comparing it to something David did that was unlawful. Similar to what Jesus said in another place, "Something greater than the temple is here," so also now, "something greater than the Sabbath is here." Gathering even a very small amount of food on the Sabbath day, was unlawful to do. See the instructions on gathering the manna, in Exodus 16:21-30, "Morning by morning they gathered it, each as much as he could eat...On the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers apiece...This is what Yahweh has commanded: 'Tomorrow is a day of solemn rest, a holy sabbath to Yahweh; bake what you will bake, and boil what you will boil, and all that is left over, lay by to be kept till the morning.' ...'Six days you shall gather it; but on the seventh day, which is a Sabbath, there will be none. ...See! Yahweh has given you the Sabbath, therefore on the sixth day he gives you bread for two days; remain every man of you in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day.'"

253 2:27 God rested, i.e., stopped working when he had created man. He rested because he had created man. He created humankind on the sixth day, and therefore he from that day forward did no more work of creation (Gen. 2:3), because humankind was created. For the creation of mankind was the pinnacle of creation, the climax of creation, the end, the goal. See my treatise entitled, "What is Sabbath?" The rendering, "'The Sabbath was made for humankind, and not humankind for the Sabbath," is possible, but not Markan use of the words διὰ nor of γίνομαι. That is, Mark nowhere else uses the word 'dia' as meaning 'for,' and he nowhere else uses the word 'ginomai' as meaning 'create.'

254 3:6 The Herodians were neither a religious sect nor a political party, but people with a certain attitude and outlook, Jews of influence and standing who supported the Herodian rule, and hence also that of the Romans, by whose authority the Herodian dynasty was maintained. In such allegiance they were definitely in the minority, for most Palestinian Jews were strongly opposed to that regime. In the gospels the Herodians are mentioned as enemies of Jesus, once in Galilee (Mark 3:6; Diatess. 8:23), and again at Jerusalem (Matt. 22:16; Mark 12:13; Diatess. 26:1).
The Thronging Crowds Endanger Jesus

7And Jesus departed with his disciples to the lake, and a great multitude from Galilee followed. 8And from Judea and from Jerusalem, and from Idumea and beyond the Jordan, and the vicinity of Tyre and Sidon also, a great multitude, hearing what things he was doing, came to him. 9And he told his disciples that a boat should be kept handy for him, because of the crowd, in case they should crush him. 10For he had healed many, with the result that everyone who had a disease would charge upon him, in order to touch him. 11And whenever the unclean spirits saw him, they would fall down before him and cry out, saying, "You are the Son of God!" 12And he would strongly warn them not to make him known.

The Twelve Apostles

13And he goes up into the mountain, and calls to him those he wanted, and they came to him. 14And he appointed twelve, that they might be with him, and that he might send them out to preach, 15and to have authority to drive out the demons.

16And the twelve he appointed are: Simon, to whom he added the name Peter; 17and James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James, and to them he added a name: Boanerges, which means Sons of Thunder; 18and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James son of Alphæus, and Thaddæus, and Simon of Cana, and Judas of Kerioth, the very one who betrayed him.

Jesus Thought to be Out of His Mind

20 And he goes into a house, and once again a crowd gathered, such that they were not even able to eat bread. 21 And when they heard, his relatives set out to go and take custody of him; for they were saying, "He is out of his mind." 258 22 And the Torah scholars who had come down from Jerusalem said, "He has Baal-zibbul," 259 and, "By the prince of demons he drives out the demons."

23 And calling them to him, he spoke to them in parables: "How can Satan drive out Satan? 24 And if a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand; 25 and if a house is divided against itself, that house will not be able to stand. 26 And if Satan has stood up against himself and was divided, he cannot stand; he has met his end. 27 But in fact, no one can enter the house of a strong man unless he first ties up the strong man, and then, he may plunder his house.

28 Truly I tell you, there will be children of humankind being forgiven of all sin, and of all blasphemy, no matter how they blaspheme, 29 except that whoever blasphemes the Holy Spirit will have no forgiveness ever, but is guilty of an eternal sin." (He said this because they were saying, "He has an unclean spirit.")

Jesus’ Mother and Brothers

31 And his mother and brothers arrive, and standing outside, they sent word to him, summoning him. 32 And the crowd was sitting around him, and they say to him, "Behold, your mother and brothers and sisters are wanting you outside."

33 And answering them he says, "Who are my mother and brothers?"
34 And looking around at the ones sitting around him in a circle, he says, "Behold my mother and my brothers. Whoever does the will of God, that one is my brother and sister and mother."

Chapter 4
The Parable of the Sower

1 And he began to teach beside the lake again, and a very large crowd collects around him, such that he boards a boat to sit on the lake, and all the crowd was on the land up to the water’s edge.

2 And he taught them many things by parables, and in his teaching said to them: 3 "Listen! Behold, the sower went out to sow. 4 And it came about in the process of sowing that some seed fell beside the way, and the birds came and ate it up. 5 And other seed fell on the rocky place, where it did not have much soil, and it sprang up immediately, because it had no depth of soil. 6 And when the sun arose, it was scorched, and it dried up, because it had no taproot. 7 And other seed fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no fruit. 8 And others fell into good soil, and came up, grew, and produced, thirtyfold, and sixtyfold, and a hundredfold."

9 And he said, "Whoever has ears to hear, hear."

The Parable of the Sower Explained

10 And when he was alone, those around him together with the Twelve were asking him about the parables.
11 And he told them, "To you the mystery of the kingdom of God has been given, but to those outside, all things are in parables, so that:

Though seeing, they will look,
and not perceive,
and though hearing, they will listen,

UBS committee: "The reading that predominates in the manuscripts is ἐν, whether accented ἐν or ἐν. and not understand; lest they turn, and be forgiven."

13 And he says to them, "You don't understand this parable? How then will you understand any parable?  14 The sower is sowing the word.  15 And the ones beside the way where the word is sown, these are those who when they hear, immediately comes Satan and takes away the word that was sown in them.  16 And likewise, the ones sown on the rocky places, these are those who when they hear the word, they immediately receive it with joy.  17 Yet they do not have a root in themselves, but are short-lived. When difficulty or persecution come because of the word, they quickly fall away.  18 And others sown among thorns, these are those hearing the word,  19 and the worries of this age, the seductiveness of wealth, and the desires concerning other things, come in and choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful.  20 And the ones sown on the good soil, these are those who hear the word and embrace it, and bear fruit, thirtyfold, and sixtyfold, and a hundredfold."

You Determine How Much You Receive

21 And he said to them, "Does the lamp exist to be put under a bucket or under a bed? Is it not meant to be put on a stand?  22 For there is nothing

261 4:13a Isaiah 6:9-10  The phrase, “lest they turn, and be forgiven,” means that God’s intention was to prevent them from turning and being forgiven.

262 4:13b This does not make much sense without knowing from Luke’s account that the disciples asked him the meaning of the parable of the sower specifically. (Luke 8:9; Diatess. 11:40)

263 4:21 The Greek says literally, "Does the lamp come to be put under a bucket..." This could also possibly be translated, "Is the lamp brought in to be put under a bucket..." It is my belief that the word of God frequently has double meanings intentionally. If we take this latter footnote rendering as the reading, then Jesus is saying that he is not telling the parables only to be never understood by anyone. And that we should, if we have a spiritual ear, listen carefully, and be encouraged that we can take from them. Thus with this latter reading, Jesus is the holder of the lamp. On the other hand, with the reading as I have it in the text of Mark, we the hearers, are the holders of the lamp. We should take our lamp out and use it. Jesus elsewhere tells us, "The eye is the lamp of the body." (Matt. 6:23; Luke 11:34) And in this case, we are not to worry that our eye is bigger than our stomach. We are encouraged to come and get it, and whatever size container we bring, God will fill it, and more. If you think he won’t, then he won’t. If you think he will, then he will. Why not be like the prophet Elisha, and ask, "Lord, give me a double portion of Elijah’s spirit?" (2 Kings 2:9) And of Christ, it is said, "to him God gives the Holy Spirit without measure." (John 3:34) Be not one of those who shrink back in cowardice. For "those who conquer will inherit these things, and I will be their God and they will be my children. But as for the cowardly, the unbelieving, the polluted, the murderers, the fornicators, the sorcerers, the idolaters, and all liars, their inheritance will be the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death." Revelation 21:7-8 hidden that is not meant to be made manifest, nor covered up but to come into view. 23 If anyone has ears to hear, hear."

24 And he said to them, "Consider carefully what you hear. In what size container you measure, it will be measured to you, and increased for you. 25 For whoever has, to him it will be given, and whoever has not, even what he has will be taken away from him."

The Parable of the Automatic Earth

26 And he said, "It is with God’s kingdom the same way a human might scatter seed on the ground, 27 then may sleep and get up, night and day, and still the seed sprouts and lengthens; how, he does not know. 28 Automatically the earth bears fruit; first the grass, then the head, then the full kernel in the head. 29 And when the grain is ready, he immediately sends out the sickle, because the harvest has come.”

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

30 And he said, "How may we compare the kingdom of God? Or in what parable shall we set it forth? 31 It is like a mustard seed, which when sown in the soil is smaller than all the seeds in the soil, 32 yet when it is sown, it grows, and becomes larger than all the vegetables, and makes branches big enough that the birds of the sky can dwell under its shadow.”

33 And with many such parables he was speaking the word to them, as long as they were able to listen. 34 To the crowds, he would not say anything without a parable; but in private with his disciples, he would explain everything.

264 4:32 This is very much like Daniel 4:12. And in Genesis 19:8, Lot took the two angels "under the shadow of his roof." The idea here is, in hot countries, a shadow is shelter from the sun, whereas rain is a very welcome thing to walk in uncovered. Where I am from, people would use umbrellas against the sun, not so much against the rain. This is especially true when "nesting," or in repose, like sitting at a spectator event, for an extended period of time in the sun—out come the umbrellas. This reminds me of Jonah 4:6-9, where Jonah also got shelter from the sun under a vegetable plant, of the cucumber or castor-bean variety. Recall also how God protects his people under the "shadow of his wings," Psalm 17:8; 36:7; 57:1; 63:7; Isaiah 34:15, etc.

265 4:34 The Greek does not have the words “the crowds” here, but only the dative plural article serving as pronoun. But it is referring back to the crowds mentioned in 4:1, as contrasted to how he would explain everything to the disciples when he was alone with them in private with them, 4:10, 34.
Jesus Commands the Elements

35 That same day, when evening had come, he says to them, "Let's cross over to the other side."
36 And leaving the crowd behind, they take him along, just as he was, in the boat. Other boats also were with him.
37 And a great storm of wind is coming up, and the waves crashed into the boat, such that the boat is now filling up.
38 And he was in the stern, sleeping on the cushion. And they rouse him and say to him, "Teacher, doesn't it matter to you that we are perishing?"
39 And when he was awake, he rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, "Hush. Be still." And the wind died down, and there came a total calm.
40 And he said to them, "Why are you afraid? Have you still no faith?"
41 And they were very much afraid, and saying to one another, "Who, then, is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?"

Chapter 5

The Legion of Demons Near Gadara

1 And they went to the other side of the lake into the territory of the Gadarenes.266 2 And as he gets out of the boat, there met him out of the tombs a man in an evil spirit, 3 whose abode was in the tombs, and no longer was anyone able to bind him with a chain, 4 because he had often been bound hand and foot, only to have the chains burst apart and the leg irons broken, and no one had the strength to subdue him. 5 And through all, night and day, among the tombs and in the hills, he was crying out and cutting himself with stones.
6 And seeing Jesus from afar, he ran and fell down before him, 7 and shouting with a loud voice, he says: "What business between you and me, O Jesus, you son of the Most High God? In the name of God, I beg you, do not torture me." 8 For Jesus was saying to him, "Come out of the human, unclean spirit!"
9 And Jesus questioned him: "What is your name?"
And he says to him, "Legion is my name, for we are many."

And he begged him earnestly not to send them out of the area.

And on a hillside near there, a large herd of pigs was feeding, and they pled with him, saying, "Send us into the pigs, so that we may enter into them."

And he allowed them. And coming out, the unclean spirits went into the pigs, and the herd, about two thousand, rushed down the steep bank into the lake, and were drowned in the lake.

And those feeding them fled, and reported to the town and to the farms, and people came to see what it is that took place. And they come near to Jesus, and they see the demon-possessed man dressed and in his right mind, he who had had the legion, and they were afraid. And the ones who had seen how it happened to the demon-possessed man rehearsed it to them, also about the pigs. And they began to beg him to go away from their territory.

And as he was getting into the boat, the man who had been demon-possessed was begging him that he might always be with Jesus. And he did not allow him, but says to him, "Go home to your people and report to them what things the Lord has done for you, and what mercy he has shown you." And he left and began to proclaim in the Ten Cities what things Jesus had done for him. And all were amazed.

And when Jesus crossed back over to the other side, a large crowd had assembled for him, and he was beside the lake. And one of the synagogue rulers comes, Jairus by name, and when he sees him he falls at his feet, and pleads with him earnestly, saying, "My little daughter is at the point of death. Oh, that you might come and lay your hands on her, so that she may be healed and live." And he went with him.

And a large crowd was following with him, and compressing around him. And a woman was there with a flow of blood of twelve years, and had suffered many things under many doctors and spent everything she had, and not been helped, but rather had moved toward the worse. And she had heard the things about Jesus, and coming up behind in the crowd, she touched his garment, for she was saying, "If I can touch even his clothes, I will be healed." And immediately the source of her blood dried up and she knew by her body that she was healed of the scourge.
And Jesus, noticing immediately in himself that power was going out from him, turned around in the crowd and said, "Who touched my clothes?"

And his disciples said to him, "You see the crowd pressing in together around you, and you say, 'Who touched me?'" Yet he was still looking around to see the one who had done this.

The woman then, knowing what had happened to her, came and fell down before him, fearing and trembling, and told him all the truth. 267

And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has healed you. Go with peace, and be free from your scourge."

While he was still speaking, they come from the synagogue ruler's, saying, "Your daughter has died. Why inconvenience the teacher any farther?"

But Jesus, having overheard the message being spoken, says to the synagogue ruler, "Don't be afraid; only believe."

And he did not allow anyone to come along with him, except Peter, James, and John the brother of James. 38 And they are coming into the house of the synagogue ruler, and he sees an uproar, and weeping and much loud wailing. 39 And when he had come in he says to them, "Why are you making a commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but sleeping." 40 And they laughed him to scorn.

Then, having put them all out, he takes the father of the child, and the mother, and the ones who were with him, and he goes in where the child was. 41 And taking hold of the child's hand, he says to her, "Talitha, koum."

267 5:33 The reason for her fear was probably because she knew she had violated the Rabbi's cleanliness. As a woman with a flow of blood, she was perpetually unclean ceremonially (Leviticus 15:25-31), and the others in the crowd, were they to touch her, would be unclean. 268 5:41 The earliest Greek manuscripts of Mark 5:41 say κοῦμ, and later Greek manuscripts say, κοῦμα. There have been two main explanations for the difference: (1) That this is apparently an effort on the part of later copyists to correct the masculine ending to the feminine. For without the i, it is the Aramaic imperative singular masculine form ק食べて - qum; with the i, it is the imperative singular feminine, ק蝈 - qumi. But the masculine form was sometimes used as default, without reference to the gender of the person being addressed. And according to Dalman both forms came to be pronounced alike, because of the phonological phenomenon of a final vowel weakening when it follows a stressed syllable and strong consonant: the final i sound of the feminine imperative falling away because of its position following the stressed penult. See G. A. Dalman, Grammatik des jüdisch-paläst. Aramäisch, 2te Aufl. (Leipzig, 1905), p. 266, n. 1. And (2), the other explanation of the difference in forms is that it is a dialectical difference: the form without the final i was the Mesopotamian form, and the form with the final 'i' was the Palestinian Aramaic form. See J. Wellhausen.

Chapter 6

"No Boy We Knew Could Be a Prophet"

1And he moved on from there, and comes into his home town, and his disciples are accompanying him. 2And when the Sabbath came, he proceeded to teach in the synagogue, and the many hearing were astonished, saying, "Where did this man get these things? Namely, what is this wisdom given to him? And these miracles happening by his hands? Isn't this the carpenter, the son of Mary, and the brother of James, Joseph, Judas and Simon? Aren't also his sisters here with us?" And they were offended by him.

5And he was never able to do any miracles there, except lay his hands on a few sick people; he did heal those. 6And he was amazed at their unbelief.

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve

And he went around the villages in a circuit teaching. 7And calling the Twelve to him, he began to send them out two by two, and he gave them authority over the unclean spirits, and he gave orders to them: that they should take nothing for the trip except a staff only; no bread, no bag, nothing in the money belt, but only the sandals already tied on; also not to put on two tunics.

10And he further said to them, "Wherever you enter into a house, there..."
stay up until when you leave that place.  11 And whatever place does not receive you nor will they listen to you, leaving there, shake off the dust under your feet, as a testimony to them.”

12 And going forth, they proclaimed that people should repent.  13 And many demons they expelled, and many sick ones they anointed with oil and healed.

John the Baptizer Beheaded

14 And Herod the king heard, for his name had become well known, that some were saying, "John the Baptizer has been raised from the dead; that is why miraculous powers are at work in him.”

15 But others were saying, "He is Elijah.”
And still others were saying, "He is a prophet, as though one of The Prophets.”

16 But when Herod heard this, he kept saying, "John, the man I beheaded, has been raised from the dead!”

17 For Herod himself, sending orders, had seized John and bound him in prison, because of Herodias his brother Philip’s wife, whom he had married.
18 For John had been saying to Herod, "It is not permissible for you to have your brother’s wife.”
19 And Herodias had been maintaining a grudge against him, and was wanting to kill him, and could not, for Herod feared John, knowing him to be a righteous and holy man, and he protected him. And when he listened to him, he had much difficulty, yet heard him gladly.

20 And a suitable day came, when Herod in his birthday celebration made a supper for his courtiers, and the chiliarchs, and the prominent of Galilee.  21 And when the daughter of Herodias herself came in and

There at first appears to be some disagreement between Josephus, Mark, Matthew and Luke (or the copyists thereof) about Herod’s family tree. For example, who was Herodias’ first husband? Some mss of Matthew follow the early mss of Mark on that question, while others are changed to agree with Josephus. Compounding all this is how broadly words such as father, son, brother, and daughter were used (for example, “daughter” could also mean niece or granddaughter). But the following is what can be distilled from all accounts. Herodias’ first husband, named Philip in the Bible and Herod in Josephus, was also known as Herod Philip. They were the same man. Herodias then divorced Herod Philip and married Herod Antipas, who was Herod Philip’s half brother (the father of both was Herod

So the king said to the girl, "Ask me anything you want, and I will give it to you." 23 And he swore to her, "Whatever you ask for, I will give it to you, up to half my kingdom."

24 And going out, she said to her mother, "What shall I ask for?"

And she said, "The head of John the Baptist."

25 And she went in at once to the king with speed, saying this request: "I wish that you would give to me right now the head of John the Baptist on a platter."

26 And the king became greatly distressed. He did not want to refuse her, because of the words of oath and those reclining. 27 And the king immediately gave orders to bring his head, sending an executioner. And he went, and beheaded John in the prison, 28 and brought his head on a platter and gave it to the girl. And the girl gave it to her mother. 29 And when his disciples heard, they came and took his corpse and laid it in a tomb.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

30 And the apostles are collecting around Jesus, and they reported to him all the things that they had done, and what they had taught. 31 And he says to them, "Come by yourselves to a remote place and rest a little." For those coming and going were many, and they did not even have opportunity to eat.

32 And they went away in a boat by themselves to a remote place. 33 And many saw them leaving and knew, and ran together there on foot from all the towns and arrived ahead of them.

34 And getting out he saw the large crowd, and felt compassion for them, because they were like sheep not having a shepherd, and he began to teach

1, king of Judea, 4 B.C., who had eight wives in his lifetime. Herod Philip’s mother was Mariamne II, the third wife, and Herod Antipas’ mother was Malthake, the fourth wife. Josephus says that Herodias already had a daughter named Salome before she married Herod Antipas (p 485 of The Works of Josephus, trans. William Whiston, Hendrickson, 1988; or Antiquities book 18, chapter 5, secs. 136-137). So if it was Salome that danced for Herod Antipas, she was both his half-niece and step-daughter. Both niece and step-daughter would be a not-unheard-of usage of the word daughter. But, the earliest manuscripts of Mark say, "his daughter Herodias." If Herod Antipas had another daughter, whether by Herodias or otherwise, such a daughter is not mentioned anywhere else. In summary, then, though the earliest Greek manuscripts say "Herod’s daughter Herodias," some translations dated just as early (Sinaitic and Curetonian Syriac, Bohairic Coptic, and Gothic, all 4th century) or earlier (Sahadic Coptic, 3rd century) than those Greek manuscripts, read, "Herodias’ daughter," as does also Tatian’s Diatessaron. Because of the combined testimony of these witnesses along with Josephus, I am confident that the dancer in question was Salome, the daughter of Herod’s wife Herodias.

35 And now as an advanced hour comes, his disciples approached him and said, "The place is remote, and it's now an advanced hour. 36 Dismiss them so that they may go into the surrounding farms and villages and buy for themselves something to eat."

37 But he in answer said to them, "You give them something to eat."

And they say to him, "Are we to go and buy two hundred denarii\(^{274}\) of loaves of bread and give it to them to eat?"

38 And he says to them, "How many loaves do you have? Go see."

And finding out, they say, "Five, and two fish."

39 And he instructed them to get all to recline in dining fellowships\(^{275}\) on the green grass. 40 And they reclined, in groups of a hundred and in groups of fifty. 41 And taking the five loaves of bread and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed\(^{276}\) and broke the loaves of bread and gave to the disciples to set before the people. The two fish also he divided for all.

42 And they all ate and were satisfied, 43 and they picked up twelve large baskets\(^{277}\) full of fragments from the loaves of bread, and from the fish. 44 And there were five thousand men eating the loaves.

45 And he immediately told his disciples to get into the boat and go on ahead of him to the other side to Bethsaida, while he would dismiss the crowd. 46 And after saying farewell to them, he went away into the hills to pray.

That is, "Get them to recline messparty messparty; and they reclined group group...by hundreds and by fifties" The 'symposia' are in the accusative case; 'prasiai's in the nominative. This is an example of 'distributive doubling,' a vulgarism, and probably a Hebraism. Now notice the variety of words for dining groups; Some see this as typical of Mark, in choosing very particular words around the leitmotif of bread and eating.

\(^{276}\) The Greek word is εὐλογέω – eulogéō. There is an ambiguity here as to whether Jesus blessed heaven, or blessed the loaves. On the whole, Biblically speaking, it is more likely that he "blessed heaven (God) for the loaves." In other words, he said good words about God and to God for supplying the loaves. But the ambiguity remains: compare John 6:11, where εὐχαριστέω - eucharistéō, the word for "giving thanks" is used, and it is clear that Jesus is thanking God, whereas on the other hand in Luke 9:16, the Greek is clear that Jesus blessed them, that is, the loaves and the fish. Paul says in Romans 14:6 that all food is clean if the eater gives thanks to God for it; thus in a sense the food is blessed by reason of the giving thanks. See also I Timothy 4:4-5, all food is sanctified if by prayer.

\(^{277}\) κόφινος a large, heavy basket for carrying things. Interestingly, the baskets used in the feeding of the 4,000 later on were a smaller basket. In the accounts of the feeding of the 5,000, all four gospels use the Greek word κόφινος, but in the account of the feeding of the 4,000, both the gospels containing the story used the Greek word σπυρίς. A κόφινος was used for many things, including carrying manure, while a spuríς was a smaller basket used for carrying edibles.

47 And after evening had come, the boat was in the middle of the lake, and he was alone on the land. 48 And about the fourth watch\(^{278}\) of the night, when he saw them being sorely taxed in the process of rowing, because the wind was against them, he goes toward them, walking on the lake, and was intending to pass them. 49 But when they saw him walking on the lake, they thought it was a ghost, and cried out. 50 For they all saw him, and were disturbed by it.

But he immediately talked with them, and he is saying to them: "Take courage! It is I. Don't be afraid."

51 And he went up into the boat with them, and the wind stopped. And they were very much, extremely stunned within themselves. 52 For they had not learned from the incident of\(^{279}\) the loaves of bread; their hearts had become hardened.\(^{280}\)

53 And crossing over, they came ashore at Gennesaret and anchored.

54 And as soon as they got out of the boat, people recognized him and ran around that whole region, and those who had invalids began to carry them around on pallets to where they heard that he was. 55 And wherever he would go, into villages, or into towns, or into countryside, they would place the invalids in the plazas, and the invalids would implore him that they could just touch the tassel of his cloak. And they were being healed, as many as touched him.

\(^{279}\) οὐ συνῆκαν ἐπὶ τοῖς ἄρτοις (not understood upon the loaves). The verb generally means 'understand,' but in all other cases where it is transitive in the NT, its object is in the accusative case. Here it is coupled with the preposition 'upon,' and the word 'loaves' is in the dative case. So they "had not reached a state of understanding based upon the incident of the loaves" or, "they had not put two and two together by reflecting on the miracle of the loaves," or, "they were not any wiser because of the loaves." Indeed, since they did not learn from this incident, Jesus put them through it again, soon afterward, with the feeding of the four thousand. And still, even after that, Jesus expressed frustration with them (Mark 8:17-21; Diatess 14:31, 35) at their lack of intelligence. For intelligence is the main meaning of this verb: to be able to connect things, integrate and put it all together.

4 And they do not eat from the marketplaces unless they wash. And there are many others which they have received instruction to keep, the baptizing of cups, pitchers, and kettles.

281 7:2 Koinos hands, that is, common, not consecrated, having touched anything and everything without having that washed off. Also in verse 5.

282 7:3a The meaning of πυγμῇ here is uncertain. It has been translated: "along with the fore-arms," or "to the wrist;" "up to the elbow;" "carefully;" "in the proper way;" or also: "in a way in which one clenched fist is turned about in the hollow of the other hand;" or, "with a fistful of water;" or "rubbing with the dry hand." This difficulty in understanding the significance of "with the fist" in the context of Jewish ceremonial washing prompted some copyists of the Greek manuscripts to omit it, and others to replace it with a word that gives a better sense, such as pnukna, which can mean 'often' or 'thoroughly.' Some italic manuscripts read, momento, 'in a moment,' or another, primo, 'first.'

283 7:3b Ezra had set up a group of men called the Sopherim, whose task it was to teach the Torah to the people. This was well and good. But the Sopherim decided that to make absolutely sure that no one broke one of the 613 Mosaic laws, they would make a "fence" around those 613 laws by making some more finely tuned laws, which, if people obeyed these latter, they would be assured of not even getting close to breaking one of the 613 Torah laws. The Sopherim (scribes) acknowledged that only the Torah was authoritative, and that their "fence" laws could be debated. A few generations later, other teachers of the law arose, called the Tanaim. These made another fence around the fence laws of the Sopherim. Now, however, the Tanaim's laws were considered debatable, but the laws of the Sopherim were considered as final authority. Into this situation Jesus Christ was born, where the laws of the Sopherim were considered greater in authority than the actual Torah. In fact, where the "fence" laws conflicted with the Torah, the "fence" laws were considered to have priority. These laws were called the Mishnah, or the Oral Law, or here called the Tradition of the Elders. You were considered to have sinned if you broke one of them, just as if you had broken one of the laws of Moses.

284 7:4a The abruptness of this phrase prompted a few copyists to add the words "when they come," thus, "they do not eat when they come from the marketplaces unless they wash." That could be the meaning, or also, "they do not eat anything from the marketplaces unless they wash it."

285 7:4b Most manuscripts, βαπτίσωνται, while the earliest Alexandrian manuscripts read ῥαντίσωνται, sprinkle. Although it can be argued that the less familiar hrantísei was replaced by the more familiar baptísei to make a "fence" around those 613 laws by making some more finely tuned laws, which, if people obeyed these latter, they would be assured of not even getting close to breaking one of the 613 Torah laws. The Sopherim (scribes) acknowledged that only the Torah was authoritative, and that their "fence" laws could be debated. A few generations later, other teachers of the law arose, called the Tanaim. These laws were called the Mishnah, or the Oral Law, or here called the Tradition of the Elders. You were considered to have sinned if you broke one of them, just as if you had broken one of the laws of Moses.

286 7:4c Most later manuscripts further read, 'and beds.' For in that time and culture, they ate while reclining on couches which also served as their beds. It is difficult to decide whether the words 'and beds' were added by copyists who were influenced by the legislation of Leviticus 15, or whether the words were omitted (a) accidentally because of homoioteleuton or (b) deliberately because the idea of washing or sprinkling beds seemed to be quite incongruous.

287 7:8a It is difficult to know the exact shade of meaning for διδάσκω, the Greek word here for "teach," which I translated "drill." For the Hebrew scriptures used 12 different words for teaching, and the Greek only half that, with the vast majority of instances being the word didáskō. The verse Jesus is quoting here is a rendering of the Hebrew of Isaiah 29:13. (Though in the N.T. Greek it bears far more resemblance to the Septuagint than the Masoretic Text Hebrew.) Here in the Greek N.T. the participle is διδάσκοντες, and in the Hebrew the corresponding participle is הֹמְלֻמָדָה - melummādāh, the pual (passive intensive) participle of לָמַד - lāmad, to instruct, to train. An intensive training would be a drilling. In fact, לָמַד - lāmad is the root word for Talmid, the word for the most scholarly Rabbi, and for Talmidim, such a Rabbi's apprentices; and rote drills were in fact the way things were taught. Also illuminating is to look at another word derived from לָמַד - lāmad, which is מְלָמְד - malmēd, the word for "ox goad." The ox became accustomed to being goaded with the goad, being trained by it. This is effective training in one sense, but, this is not service from the heart, but rather merely becoming accustomed to submitting to pressure and pain. Compare also Jesus' discouraging of repetitious prayers, in Matt. 6:7; Diatess 9:27.

288 7:8b "Mitzvot," plural of mitzvah. This is the word used here in the Hebrew text of Isaiah 29:13. It means commandments, precepts, rules, and was used of commandments both from God or from men.

289 7:9 Some manuscripts say τηρήσετε, 'keep'; some say στήσετε, 'set up.' Quoting the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Society's Greek NT, "It is most difficult to decide whether scribes deliberately substituted 'establish' for 'keep,' as being the more appropriate verb in the context, or whether, through inadvertence in copying and perhaps influenced by the preceding phrase 'the commandment of God,' they replaced 'establish' with 'keep.' The Committee judged that, on the whole, the latter possibility was slightly more probable." In other words, it is more likely that later copyists 'refined' by changing 'set up' to 'keep.' In conclusion, it is slightly more probable that 'set up' is the original.
entering him is able to make him unclean. Rather, the things coming out of a human being are the things making the human being unclean.”  [16] If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear.”]

17 And when he had entered a house, away from the crowd, the disciples asked him the meaning of the parable.

18 And he says to them, "Are you also this obtuse? Do you not understand that everything entering a human being from the outside is unable to make him unclean, since it is not entering his heart but his stomach, and then goes out into the sewer?” (He is declaring all foods clean.)

20 He went on: "What comes out of a human being, that is what makes the human being unclean.

This sentence was added before the time of the breaking up of the text into verses with numbers. The UBS textual commentary says that though present in the majority of witnesses, it is absent from important Alexandrian witnesses. It appears to be a scribal gloss, derived perhaps from 4:9 or 4:23, introduced as an appropriate sequel to verse 14.

291 7:19 Or, "...then it goes out into the sewer, rendering all foods clean." There are problems either way. With the latter, how does a sewer or latrine purify foods? This problem appears to have prompted the copyist(s) who produced Codex Bezæ, 5th century, to change their manuscript from 'latrine' to 'intestinal canal,' as it would make more sense to them to say that the intestines remove uncleanness from all foods. In a similar vein, attempts have been made to trace the etymology of βρῶμα, 'food,' as a back-formation from the Modern Greek ἡ βρόμα (stench, filth) and add it to the variant reading of "intestinal canal" and thus come up with the rendering, "through the intestinal canal, purifying all filth." But in fact, according to DeBrunner, the meaning "stench, filth" would be a back-formation from the Modern Greek βρῶμα to the ancient Greek word βρόμοις, 'din,' or βρομεῖν, 'to roar,' and not to βρῶμα, 'food.' And as for the problem with the former option, (the way I have it in the Bible text above, the sentence in parentheses), the Greek as it reads does not seem be an agreeably complete sentence ('rendering clean' is just a participle without an agent for subject, followed by 'all foods'); however, it is typical of Mark to be very abrupt and brief, for example, 3:30, and also to make small explanatory statements for the benefit of his non-Jewish readers, to explain what is going on from a Jewish religious point of view. Elsewhere in Mark, his explanatory statements are brief, seemingly incomplete sentences. As for the participle, it is nominative, singular, masculine. So with which earlier substantive is it agreeing in case, number and gender? There has been much discussion about this being a 'solecism,' that is, a case of inattention to inflectional agreement, thus making uncertain whether it is agreeing with 'everything entering' in Mark 7:18, or with 'sewer' just prior to the participle. However, one form of soleicism customarily frequent in NT Greek is that of the 'circumstantial participle' being in the nominative rather than an oblique case. It seems the best explanation for this participle is that it is connected with the 'he says' at the beginning of verse 18; that is, the participle is circumstantial in that it sets the circumstances or reason for Jesus' saying everything in between. Happily, the most important truth here remains unaffected: that is that Jesus is declaring that all foods are clean. For if his point is that the waste ejection system purifies the foods, then he is saying all foods are clean for that reason. But if he is acting with Rabbinical authority and declaring all foods permissible and ceremonially clean, then the effect is still the same. The apostle Paul says all foods are clean, Romans 14:14, 17, 20, especially since the eater gives thanks to God in prayer for it. Also, remember the experience of Peter, the apostle to the Jews. In Acts chapters 10 and 11 God commanded Peter in a vision to eat all sorts of foods that were not Torah in Peter's upbringing.

And getting up, he departed from there into the vicinity of Tyre. And entering a house, he wanted no one to know, yet he could not escape notice. And she kept begging him that he...

But in answer she says to him, "Lord, even the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs."

And he said to her, "Because of this reply, go your way; the demon has left your daughter."

And going away to her house, she found the child lying on the bed, and the demon gone.

Jesus Does All Things Well

And going back out of the district of Tyre, he went through Sidon, down to the Sea of Galilee, into the midst of the region of the Ten Cities.

And they bring a man to him, deaf and speaking with difficulty, and they are begging him to place his hand on him.

And taking him aside privately, away from the crowd, he put his fingers into his ears. And after spitting on his fingers, he touched the man's tongue. And looking up to heaven he sighed, and he says to him, "Eppatach!" (which means, 'Be opened!).

And his ears were opened, and the bond of his tongue was immediately released, and he began to speak normally.

And he was ordering them that they tell no one. But as much as he ordered them, all the more they were talking about it.

And they were being overwhelmed with admiration, saying, "He has done everything well. He makes both the deaf to hear and the mute to speak."

And his disciples answered him, ”Where here in the desert will anyone be able to get enough loaves of bread to fill these people?”

And he asked them, ”How many loaves do you have?”

And they said, ”Seven.”

And he directs the crowd to recline on the ground. And taking the seven loaves of bread, giving thanks he broke them, and gave to his disciples, for them to serve. And they served the crowd. They also had a few fish, and blessing them, he ordered them to be served as well. And they ate and were filled, and they picked up the fragments left over, seven basketfuls. And they were about four thousand; and he dismissed them. And immediately boarding the boat with his disciples, he went to the area of Dalmanutha.

The Yeast of the Pharisees and Herod

And the Pharisees came forward and began to debate with him, asking him for a sign from heaven, testing him.

And sighing deeply in his spirit, he says, ”Why does this generation ask for a sign? Truly I say to you, a sign will certainly not be given this generation!” And leaving them, he got back into the boat and went away to the other side.

And they had forgotten to take bread; and except for one loaf, they had none with them in the boat. And he started warning them, saying, ”Take heed, be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees, and the yeast of Herod.”

And they were discussing with one another the fact that they had no bread loaves.

And knowing, he says to them, ”Why are you discussing with one another the fact that you have no bread loaves? Are you still not understanding, nor putting it together? Have you completely hardened hearts? You have eyes; can’t you see? And you have ears; can’t you hear?

300 B:12 This is an implied oath or asseveration, strongly in the Hebraistic style, except leaving off, and only implying, the first part of the formula. The Greek literally says, ”if a sign will be given to this generation!” If the formula were complete here, the whole sentence would be something like, ”Be it done to me ever so severely, if a sign is ever given to this generation!”
And do you not remember? 19 When I broke the five loaves of bread to the five thousand, how many basketfuls of fragments did you pick up?"

They say to him, "Twelve."

20 "When I broke the seven to the four thousand, how many basketfuls of fragments did you pick up?"

And they say, "Seven."

21 And he said to them, "Do you still not understand?"

The Healing of a Blind Man at Bethsaida

22 And they come to Bethsaida. And they bring a blind man to him, and they are begging Jesus to touch him. 23 And taking hold of the blind man's hand, he led him outside the village. And after spitting in his eyes and placing his hands on him, he asked him, "Do you see anything?"

24 And looking up he said, "I see people, that I am perceiving as trees walking around."

25 Then he put his hands on the man's eyes again. And he looked for a while, and his sight was restored, and he saw everything clearly again. 26 And he sent him home, saying, "Do not go into the village."

Peter's Confession of Messiah

27 And Jesus and his disciples went on to the villages of Caesarea of Philip, and on the way, he was inquiring of his disciples, saying to them, "Who do the people say I am?"

28 And they informed him, saying, "John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; and still others, one of the Prophets."

29 And he asked them, "And you, who do you say I am?"

Peter in answer says to him, "You are the Messiah."

30 And Jesus warned them that they should tell no one about him.

Peter Opposes Jesus' Death

31 And he began to teach them that the Son of Man had to suffer many things and be rejected by the elders and the chief priests and the Torah scholars, and must be killed, and after three days, rise again. 32 And he was stating the matter plainly. And Peter, taking him aside, started correcting him.

33 But he, turning around and seeing his disciples, corrected Peter. And he says, "Get behind me, Satan! For you are not thinking of the things of God, but the things of human beings."

34And calling the crowd to him, together with his disciples, he said to them, "If someone wants to come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. 35For whoever tries to save his life will lose it, but whoever will lose his life for my sake, and of the good news, will save it. 36For what good will it do a human being to gain the whole world, only to be penalized his soul? 37And what could a human being tender in trade for his soul? 38For if anyone is ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful age, the Son of Man will also be ashamed of him, when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels."

Chapter 9

1Then he was saying to them, "Truly I say to you, there are some standing here who will certainly not taste death before they see the kingdom of God having come with power."

The Transfiguration

2And after six days Jesus takes Peter and James and John, and he is leading them up into a high mountain, alone in private. And he was transfigured in front of them, 3and his clothes became an exceedingly brilliant white, such as no launderer on earth is able to whiten. 4And Elijah appeared to them, together with Moses, and they were conversing with Jesus.

5And Peter is responding and saying to Jesus, "Rabbi, it is good for us to be here, and we should make three shelters, one for you, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah." (For he had not known what to say, because they were so frightened.)

6And there came a cloud overshadowing them, and a voice came from the cloud: "This is my beloved Son. Listen to him."

7And suddenly, when they looked around, they saw no one else anymore, but only Jesus, along with themselves.

8And as they were coming down out of the mountain, he admonished them so that they would not report the things they had seen to anyone, except until such time the Son of Man should rise from the dead. 10And

301 The Greek word, ψυχή - psuchē, means either life or soul, as throughout this passage.
they kept the matter to themselves, discussing what the words "rise from the dead" meant.

11 And they queried him, saying, "Why do the Torah scholars say that Elijah has to come first?"

12 And he said to them, "Elijah indeed having come first will restore all things. And why is it written about the Son of Man, that he would 'suffer much and be rejected'? 13 But I tell you that Elijah has indeed come, and they did to him whatever they wished, just as it is written about him."

Disciples Accused of Impotence to Heal

14 And as they were coming near the other disciples, they saw a large crowd around them, and the Torah scholars debating with them. 15 And all the crowd were overcome with awe as soon as they saw him, and they were running up to him, greeting him.

16 And he asked them, "What are you debating with them?"

17 And one from the crowd answered him, "Teacher, I brought my son to you, who has a spirit of speechlessness. And wherever it seizes him, it convulses him. And he foams at the mouth, and gnashes his teeth and becomes rigid. I asked your disciples to drive it out, and they did not have the power."

302 8:12a Malachi 4:5-6 (3:23-24 in some Bibles); Luke 1:17; Diatess. 1:5
303 8:12b This word ἐξουδενέω – exoudenēo – éō has been translated throughout both the Old and New Testaments as both "despised" and "rejected." Isaiah 53:3 says "He was despised and rejected by men, a man of sorrows and familiar with suffering." 304 8:13a or, "also."
305 8:13b This statement of Jesus is a problem if you interpret him as saying the scriptures predicted something that would in the future happen to John the Baptist. But perhaps that is not what Jesus was saying at all, but simply referring back to the scriptures that talk about Elijah, not John. There were some similarities. Both operated under a hen-pecked king, whose wives wanted the prophet dead: Elijah under Ahab and Jezebel, 1 Kings 19:1-10, and John under Herod Antipas and Herodias, Mark 6:14-29; Diatessaron 6:1-2; 13:1-10.
306 9:18a ὅπου ἐὰν means "wherever," not "whenever." I know, Bauer says that ὅπου means "where" in all instances except for four instances, those like here where ὅπου ἐὰν occurs with an aorist subjunctive verb and means "whenever," because it resembles Semitic syntax. But in all the instances Bauer mentions, "wherever" makes fine sense as Greek. As for here, the most harmful to the boy is "wherever." For example, near the cooking fire, or in a little boat, or walking on a ridge of a mountain on a journey somewhere, these are "where" instances where great harm could easily come to the boy if suddenly was convulsed. Indeed, in verse 22 you will see this is exactly what is meant: the danger of proximity to fire and water. These are "whenever." It is true that, in a sense, matters of proximity are also matters of timing. But the word ὅπου means where, and where does work, so I left it where.
The boy's father tells us in v. 22 that the spirit was purposely trying to harm him, and so it makes sense that the spirit would convulse the boy "where" there was fire or water. All that said though, it does sound odd to our English ears to lead out with "wherever" before the context is established. So I can well accept the rendering of "whenever."
307 9:18b What is it that irritated Jesus so? The boy's father had said that the disciples oôx
And in answer to them, he says, “O unbelieving generation, how long shall I stay with you? How long shall I put up with you? Bring him to me.”

And they brought him to him. And seeing Jesus, the spirit immediately convulsed him violently, and falling onto the ground, he was rolling over, foaming at the mouth.

And he asked his father, "Over what period of time has this happened to him?"

And he said, "From childhood. And it has often thrown him into both fire or water, trying to kill him. But if you can do anything, take pity on us and help us."

Jesus said to him, "If I can? All things are possible to one who believes."

Immediately the boy’s father cried out saying, "I do believe! Help my unbelief!"

Then Jesus, seeing that a crowd is running together, rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, "You mute and deaf spirit, I command you, come out of him. And you may no longer go into him."

And it came out, with shrieking and much convulsing. And he appeared as dead, so as to cause many to say, "He’s dead." But Jesus, taking him by the hand, lifted him, and he stood up.

And after he went into a house, his disciples asked him in private: "Why weren’t we able to drive it out?"

And he told them, "This kind cannot be made to go out by anything except prayer."

The word, the verb ἰσχύω is usually translated here as something like, "they could not." It is illuminating that in v. 23 Jesus throws the onus back on the man making the request: "All things are possible to one who believes." In other words, it is not an issue of how much power the disciples or anyone else has, or if they have power at all, but that one need only believe God, in God’s power. In Luke 17:5 the disciples asked Jesus to “increase their faith.” But Jesus responded that it was not an issue of how much faith they had, but if they had any at all, in God.

Church history shows that as time went on, ascetic elements gained influence, emphasizing the necessity of fasting. But important representatives of the Alexandrian, the Western, and the Caesarean types of text resisted adding this. The apostle Paul warns us about this trend in Colossians 2:23 - "These indeed have an appearance of wisdom in promoting rigor of devotion and self-abasement and severity to the body, but they are of no value in checking the indulgence of the flesh." Aside from the textual evidence, consider the following four points. 1.) Jesus succeeded in casting this demon out, and he did not have to fast to do it. (2.) Jesus told the disciples very clearly and specifically, that the reason they could not cast this demon out, was because of their unbelief, not their lack of fasting. In fact, in the parallel passage in Matthew 17:20, Jesus said you don’t even have to have faith any bigger than a mustard seed to do it, so fasting won’t improve your faith. (3.) If fasting...
And moving on from there, they were passing through Galilee, and he did not want anyone to know, because he was teaching his disciples. And he told them, "The Son of Man is being transferred into the hands of human beings. And they will kill him. And three days after being killed, he will rise again." But they did not understand the statement, and they were afraid to query him.

Who is the Greatest?

And they came to Capernaum. And when he was in the house, he asked them, "What were you arguing about on the way?" But they were keeping quiet, because on the way they had argued over who was greater.

And sitting down, he called the Twelve and says to them, "If anyone wants to be first, he shall be last of all, and servant of all."

And taking a child he set him in the midst of them. And wrapping him in his arms, he said to them, "Whoever welcomes one child like this on the basis of my name, is welcoming me; and whoever welcomes me is welcoming not me but the one who sent me."

Do Not Hinder Other Camps of God’s Little Ones

John said to him, "Teacher, we saw someone who is not following with us driving out demons in your name, and we forbade him, because he was not following with us."

But Jesus said, "Do not forbid him, for there is no one who shall do a miracle on the basis of my name, who can then be quick to speak evil of me; for someone who is not against us is for us. For whoever gives you a cup of water because you are of Christ, truly I tell you: he will by no means lose his reward. And whoever causes one of these believing little ones to fall, it would be better for him to wear a millstone around his neck and be thrown into the depths of the sea.

And if your hand causes you to fall, cut it off. It is better for you to go into life maimed, than with both hands to go away into Gehenna, into the fire unquenchable, where is indeed necessary to cast out this kind of demon, then how long must you fast? A fast means going without meals, so that would have to be at least half a day, to even begin to be considered a fast. What do you do with the demoniac in the meantime, while you are fasting? Imprison him? Shackle him? Drug him? (4.) There is not a single instance in the Bible where Christ or his apostles had to fast in order to cast out any demon. In fact, it was important to deal with the demon immediately, and there is not time to fast.

into life crippled, than with both feet to be thrown into Gehenna, into the

Jesus Tested on Divorce

1And getting up to leave from there, he goes into the territory of Judea and beyond the Jordan. And once again, crowds are going along with him, and as was his custom he again was teaching them. ⁴And some Pharisees came and, testing him, asked him, "Is it permissible for a husband to release a wife?"

³In answer he said to them, "What did Moses command you?"

4They said, "Moses permitted one to write a release of interest form\textsuperscript{313} and to release."

As a result, they are no longer two, but one flesh.\textsuperscript{317} 9What therefore God has joined together, a human being must not separate."

10And when back in the house, the disciples were questioning him about this. 11And he says to them, "Whoever releases his wife and marries another commits adultery against her,\textsuperscript{12} and if she after releasing her husband marries another, she commits adultery."

\textit{Little Children Come to Jesus}

13And people were bringing little children to him to have him touch

\textsuperscript{313}\textsuperscript{104} Deuteronomy 24:1; but note that in the same passage in Deuteronomy, in verse 4, it says that such a release defiles her. This word ἀποστάσιον – apostásion, "release of interest form," was used to signify the relinquishment of property. A quit-claim deed, if you will. In the culture of ancient Israel there was never any provision for a wife to quit her property claim in her husband, since the wife was considered property of her husband, and never the other way around. The apostle Paul in the New Testament, however, states in I Corinthians 7:4, "The wife has not authority over her own body, but rather the husband: and likewise also the husband has not authority over his own body, but rather the wife." This is a consequence of being "one flesh."

\textsuperscript{315}\textsuperscript{107a} Later manuscripts added the phrase "and be united to his wife," probably to harmonize Mark with the parallel passage in Matthew 19:5 (and Genesis 2:24). And possibly also, that without this phrase, the words "the two" in verse 8 might be mistaken to refer to "father and mother" of verse 7. But "the two" can be fairly easily understood to mean the "male and female" of verse 6. I am confident that the earlier reading of Codices Sinaiticus and Vaticanus – without the phrase "and be united to his wife," is the correct one, because it is consistent with a pattern I see when translating this whole passage from the Greek: I see throughout it a marked difference from Matthew in that Mark in three instances shows an intent to be more gender-inclusive. The most obvious instance is the whole of verse 12, the concept of a woman divorcing her husband. This was a concept foreign to Jews, but not to Mark’s Roman target audience. The second instance is what was first discussed above, leaving out "and be united to his wife," possibly so as to allow the reader to include in his mind the idea of "being united to her husband." And thirdly, whereas Matthew in 19:8 says, "Moses in view of your hardness of heart permitted you to release your wives," Mark in verse 5 avoids the gender-specificity of that phrase and says: "In view of your hardness of heart he wrote you this instruction."

them, but the disciples scolded them.

14seeing this, Jesus was indignant, and said to them, "Let the little children come to me. Do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God is made of such as these. 15Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a little child will certainly not enter it." 16And wrapping them in his arms, he is blessing them, placing his hands on them.

The Rich Young Man

17And as he was going forth onto the road, someone ran up to him and fell on his knees before him, asking him, "Good teacher, what should I do so that I will inherit eternal life?"

18And Jesus said to him, "Why are you calling me good? No one is good except one, God. 19The commandments you know: Do not murder, do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not give false testimony, do not defraud, honor your father and mother." 318

20And he said to him, "Teacher, all these I have kept since my youth."

21And Jesus looked at him and loved him, and said to him, "One thing you are lacking. Go sell what things you own and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come follow me." 319

22But he with face aghast220 because of this word, went away regretting, for he was owner of much property.

23And looking around, Jesus says to his disciples, "How hard it will be for the ones who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God."

24The disciples were astonished at his words. But in response Jesus says to them again, "Children, how hard it is to enter the kingdom of God. 25It is..."
easier for a camel\textsuperscript{321} to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter into the kingdom of God."

26And they became even more astonished, saying to each other, "Who, then, can be saved?"

27Jesus looking at them says, "With human beings it is impossible, but not with God. For all things are possible with God."

28Peter began to tell him, "Behold how we have left everything and followed you."

29Jesus said, "Truly I tell you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or mothers or children or fields for my sake and for the cause of the good news, \textsuperscript{30}who will not receive a hundred times as much in this present time, of houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and fields, along with persecutions, and, in the coming age, eternal life. \textsuperscript{31}But many first ones will be last, and the last ones first."

\textbf{Jesus Again Predicts His Death}

32And they were on the road, going up to Jerusalem,\textsuperscript{322} and Jesus was going on ahead of them; they were stunned, while those following were fearing. And taking the Twelve aside again, he began to tell them the things about to happen to him. 33"See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and to the Torah scholars. And they will condemn him to death, and hand him over to the Gentiles. 34And they will mock him, and spit on him, and flog him, and execute him. And after three days he will rise again."

\textsuperscript{322} \textbf{10:32} This does not mean it was a road that led to Jerusalem, necessarily. The phrase "going up" here probably is referring to the pilgrimage to Jerusalem required by one of the three "pilgrim festivals" for which the adult men would "go up" to Jerusalem. Exodus 23:14-17 stated that the men must present themselves to the Lord. And the temple was where the Presence of the Lord was. It was the one temple of the One God, for the one people of God. The festival for which they were "going up" here was most likely the Festival of Unleavened Bread, Exodus 23:14-15.
The Ambition of James and John

35 And James and John the sons of Zebedee come up to him, saying to him, “Teacher, we wish that you would do for us whatever we will ask you.”
36 And he said to them, “What do you want me to do for you?”
37 And they said to him, “Grant to us that in your glory, we may sit one on your right, and one on your left.”
38 And Jesus said to them, “You don’t know what you are asking. Are you able, to drink the cup I am drinking, or to be baptized the baptism I am being baptized?”
39 And they said to him, “We are able.”
40 And Jesus said to them, “The cup which I drink you will drink, and the baptism I am baptized you will be baptized. But to sit on my right or on my left is not for me to grant; they belong rather to those for whom they have already been prepared.”
41 And when the ten heard, they began to be angry with James and John.
42 And Jesus calling them together says to them, “You know that the ones considered to be rulers among the nations, lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. Not so among you. Instead, whoever wants to be great among you must be your servant, and whoever wants to be first among you shall be slave of all. For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many.”

An Obnoxious Beggar Gets His Wish

46 And they come into Jericho. And as he was going away from Jericho, plus his disciples and a large crowd, Bartimaeus (the Son of Timaeus), a blind beggar, was sitting beside the road.
47 And hearing that it is Jesus the Nazarene, he began to shout, and say, “Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!”
48 And many were telling him to be quiet. But he kept shouting much more: “Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!”
49 Jesus stopped and said, “Call him.”
50 So they call the blind man, saying to him, “Take heart! Get up! He’s calling you!”
51 In answer to him, Jesus said, “What do you want me to do for you?”
52 The blind man said to him, “Rabboni, that I could see.”
53 And Jesus said to him, “Go. Your faith has healed you.” And immediately he saw, and was following him in the way.
Chapter 11

The Triumphal Entry

1 And when they had come close to Jerusalem, to Bethphage and Bethany on the Mount of Olives, he sends two of his disciples, 2 and tells them, "Go into the village ahead of you, and just as you enter it you will find a colt 3 tied, upon which no one has ever yet sat. Untie it and bring it. 3 And if anyone says to you, 'Why are you doing that?' say, 'The Lord needs it and is sending it back here shortly.' "

4 And they went, and found a colt tied at a doorway, outside in the street. And they are untying it. 5 And some people standing there said to them, "What are you doing untying the colt?"

6 And they said to them as Jesus said, and they allowed them. 7 And they bring the colt to Jesus, and throw their cloaks on it, and he sat on it.

8 And many people spread their cloaks on the road, and others, fronds cut from the fields. 9 And those proceeding ahead of him, and those following after, were shouting:

"Hosha na!" 324
"Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!" 325 10 "Blessed is the coming kingdom of our father David!"
"Hosha na in the highest!"

11 And he went into Jerusalem to the temple, and after looking around at everything, he went out to Bethany with the Twelve, since the hour was now late.

323 11:2 πῶλος, a young mount animal, a word used for the foals of both donkeys and horses. But we know from the other accounts that this was the foal of a donkey.
324 11:9A Ὦσαννά = Aramaic ὦ ὡσάνα, similar to the Hebrew ֹהֹושׁעָנָּא - הוֹשִׁיעָה נָ, an expression reminiscent of the ֹהֹושִׁיעָה נָ in Psalm 118:25 meaning "Help" or "Save, I pray," an appeal that became a liturgical formula, and as part of the Hallel (Ps. 113-118), it was familiar to everyone in Israel. The Septuagint Psalm 117:25 has Ὢ Κύριε, σῶσον δὲ, "O Lord, save now!" or "Save indeed!") No doubt some in the crowd accompanying him expected him, as the Messiah ben David, to literally "save now," and deliver them from the Romans and set up the kingdom of David.
325 11:9B Psalm 118:26
Jesus Clears the Temple

And the next day as they were on their way from Bethany, he was hungry. And seeing from afar a fig tree that had leaves, he went, if perchance he would find something on it. And coming upon it he found nothing but leaves. (For it was not the season of figs.) And in response he said to it, "May no one ever eat fruit from you again." And his disciples heard.

And they come into Jerusalem. And when he had entered the temple, he proceeded to drive out the ones selling and the ones buying in the temple, and the tables of the moneychangers and the seats of the ones selling doves he overturned, and he did not allow anyone to carry stuff through the temple courts.

And he started teaching, and said to them, "Is it not written:

" 'My house will be called a house of prayer for all nations'? But you have made it 'a den of robbers.'"

And the chief priests and the Torah scholars heard, and they were looking for a way to kill him, for they feared him, because the entire crowd was being held enrapt during his teaching.

The Withered Fig Tree

And when it got late, they would go outside the city.

And early, as they were traveling along, they saw the fig tree, withered from the roots.

And reminded, Peter says to him, "Rabbi, look! The fig tree you cursed has withered."

326 11:16 σκεῦος - skeuos; This is usually translated, "vessel." But it comprises the containers, equipment, and product objects of any kind involved in an enterprise. The English word "stuff" best encompasses all these ideas. Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary defines the noun "stuff," at definition no. 1, as follows: "materials, supplies or equipment used in various activities..." See I Samuel 30:24 in the King James Version as an example of this usage of the English word "stuff." In this verse, when the translators of the Septuagint translated the Hebrew into Greek, they translated it into the Greek word σκεῦος which is the same word as here in Mark 11:16.

329 11:18 ἐπὶ with the dative; a temporal indicator. The entire crowd was always taken away from the Torah scholars when Jesus was teaching. This would surely be disturbing to them.
And in response Jesus says to them, "Have faith in God. Truly I tell you, whoever can say to this mountain, 'Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,' and it is not being questioned in his heart, but he is believing that what he is saying is happening, it will happen for him.

Therefore I tell you, all things, whatever you are asking for in prayer, believe that you have received it, and it will happen for you. Also, when you stand praying, forgive, if you are holding anything against anyone, so that your Father in heaven may also forgive you your trespasses. But if you do not forgive, neither will your Father in heaven forgive your trespasses."

The Authorities Question Jesus’ Authority

And they arrive again in Jerusalem, and as he was walking in the temple, the chief priests and the Torah scholars come up to him, along with the elders, and they were saying to him, "By what authority are you doing these things? Or, who gave you this authority, that you may do these things?"

And Jesus said to them, "I will ask you one question. You answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I am doing these things. John’s baptism— was it from heaven, or from human beings? Answer me."

And they were discussing it among themselves, as follows: "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say, 'Then why didn’t you believe him?’ On the other hand, dare we say, 'From human beings?’" (They were fearing the people, for the people all held that John really was a prophet.)

And in answer they say to Jesus, "We do not know."

And Jesus says to them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I do these things."

11:24 The aorist is used here, according to Metzger, in a sense corresponding to the Semitic usage of the prophetic perfect, which expresses the certainty of a future action. In other words, "if you believe that it is as good as done." Many later copyists, perhaps because they did not understand this, changed the verb to "you are receiving," and others, for the same reason plus possibly being influenced by the Matthew parallel passage, changed it to the future, "you will receive." And others changed it to the present tense "you are receiving" perhaps in order to make it the same tense as the "is happening" in v. 23 just prior.
Chapter 12

1 And he began to speak to them in parables. "A man planted a vineyard, and put a hedge around it, and dug a winepress, and built a watchtower, and leased it out to tenant-farmers, and journeyed away. 2 And in the time of harvest he sent a servant to the tenants, that he might be paid by the tenants out of the fruit of the vineyard. 3 And seizing him they beat him, and sent him away empty-handed. 4 And again he sent a servant to them, a different one. That one they wounded in the head and insulted. 5 Yet another he sent, and that one they killed. And he sent many others; some they beat, some they killed.

6 One alone he still had, a beloved son. Finally, him he sent to them, saying, 'They will respect my son.' 7 'But those tenants said among themselves, 'This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.' 8 And taking him, they killed him, and cast him outside the vineyard.

9 What will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and kill the tenants, and he will give the vineyard to others. 10 'Have you not read this scripture:

' A stone which the builders rejected,
this one has become the chief cornerstone;
11 from the Lord this came about,
and it is marvelous
in our eyes?"

12 And they were looking for a way to arrest him, for they knew he had told the parable in reference to them. Yet they were afraid of the crowd. And they went away, leaving him alone.

Paying the Tribute Tax to Caesar

13 And they send some of the Pharisees and Herodians, in order to trap him in a saying. 14 And coming, they say to him, "Teacher, we know that you are honest, and it matters not to you about anyone, in that you pay no attention to the personage of people, but rather on the basis of truth you teach the way of God. Is it permissible to pay\textsuperscript{32} the tribute\textsuperscript{33} to Caesar, or not? Should we pay, or should we not pay?\textsuperscript{32}

15But he, perceiving their hypocrisy, said to them, "Why are you testing me? Bring me a denarius, so that I may look at it."  16And they brought one. And he says to them, "Whose image is this, and inscription?"

They say to him, "Caesar’s."

17And Jesus said to them, "Caesar’s things give back to Caesar, and God’s things to God."

And they were amazed at him.

\textit{Marriage and the Resurrection}

18Then some Sadducees come up to him (Sadducees say there is no resurrection), and they questioned him as follows: 19"Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man’s brother dies and leaves behind a wife and does not leave behind a child, that the brother of the deceased should take the woman and raise up descendants for his brother.\textsuperscript{334}

20There were seven brothers. And the first one took a wife, and dying, he left no descendant. 21And the second one took her, and he died, leaving no descendant. It was the same with the third. 22Indeed, the seven left no descendant. Last of all, the woman also died.

23In the resurrection, when they rise again, of which of them will she be \textsuperscript{32} \textit{Mark 12:14A} The verb here is δίδωμι, 'give,' and also in the next sentence, 'should we give or should we not give.' And the verb Jesus used in v. 17 is ἀποδίδωμι, 'give back,' or, 'give up.'

\textsuperscript{33} \textit{Mark 12:14B} The Greek word translated "tribute" is κῆνσος, a loan word from the Latin word \textit{census}, which means just what you would think it means– a head count. The Roman Caesar would charge a head tax (capita tax) based on a head count or census. The Latin root word for head is \textit{cap}. Thus, this tax was a \textit{per capita} tax, or a \textit{capitation}. It was a flat tax, having no relation to graduated percentages, or ability to pay. It was not an \textit{income} tax. Every head had to cough up the same amount. Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Ed., defines a Capitation tax thusly: "A poll tax. A tax or imposition upon the person. It is a very ancient kind of tribute, and answers to what the Latins called ‘tributum,’ by which taxes on persons are distinguished from taxes on merchandise, called ‘vectigalia.’" Remember, a census was forbidden by God, and King David incurred God’s wrath when he numbered the people. (A census tax or capita tax is also the kind expressly prohibited by the Constitution for the United States of America.) Black’s Law Dictionary defines Tribute in turn as: "A contribution which is raised by a prince or sovereign from his subjects to sustain the expenses of the state. A sum of money paid by an inferior sovereign or state to a superior potentate, to secure the friendship or protection of the latter." Now as for coinage, Jesus obviously knew some principles of law. When he said in verse 17, "Caesar’s things give back to Caesar," he recognized that every single coin circulated that bore Caesar’s portrait and inscription, already belonged to Caesar. And everything purchased using Caesar’s coins also belonged to Caesar. The Jewish religious taxes, on the other hand, were paid in weight of silver– shekels, or even drachmas, but not in Roman coins.

wife? For all seven had her as wife."

24 Jesus said to them, "Is this not the reason you are mistaken, that you know neither the scriptures nor the power of God? 25 For when they rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like the angels in heaven. 26 Now about the dead, that they do rise, have you not read in the scroll of Moses, at the part about the bush, how\textsuperscript{335} God spoke to him, saying, ‘I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob’?\textsuperscript{336} 27 He is not the God of dead people, but of living. You are badly mistaken!"

\textit{The Weightiest Commandment}

28 And one of the Torah scholars who had approached, after listening to them debating, recognized that Jesus had answered them well. He asked Jesus, "Teacher, out of all of them, which commandment is primary?"

29 Jesus answered, "Primary is this: ‘Hear, O Israel, Yahweh is our God, Yahweh alone.’\textsuperscript{337}

30 And you shall love Yahweh your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your \textsuperscript{336} 12:26 \textit{Exodus }3:6. The point is that at the time of God’s saying, "I am," present tense, "am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and of Jacob," those three people had long since passed on from the earth. But Jesus’ point is: the saying of God to Moses proved that Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were not dead people, but living at the time God said this. The Sadducees considered Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob to be dead people, and this was one of their errors.

\textsuperscript{337} 12:29 The Greek word represented by "alone" above is εἷς - heis, basically meaning "one." But using the word "one" would be a poor translation, since most readers today would take it to have some significance in rebuttal of the "trinity." But nothing of the sort was underlying God’s words. The context of God’s original words was idolatry. God’s commandments did not arise out of a vacuum, but arose out of a need to counteract some error of humankind. In this case it was that God’s people should have no other gods before Him. The situation was that there were many other so-called gods, but \textit{יְהוָה}, YHVH, alone was to be their God. Paul says, "There may be many so-called gods, and many lords, but \textbf{for us} there is only one God, and only one lord," I Corinthians 8:5-6. (See also Mark 2:7; 10:18 for similar uses of the Greek word εἷς. The Hebrew word, echad, was also used meaning "alone," "only," or even, "first," as the "first" day of the month.) Now God was not comparing himself to other gods in that other gods were many lords in contrast to our God being one lord. From small childhood I have puzzled over the odd thought, found in my Bible, represented by the phrase "The Lord our God is one Lord." It didn’t say ‘God is one God.’ Instead, it said ‘God is one Lord.’ God is one Lord? So then it must be otherwise conceivable that one God could be many lords? You see, "The Lord our God is one Lord" makes no sense. The problem with "The Lord our God is one Lord" is that it wasn’t supposed to be saying "Lord" at all, for "LORD" was the substitute for the Tetragrammaton, \textit{יְהוָה}, YHVH, the name of God, which the Israelites refused to pronounce, for fear of taking God’s name in vain. Thus, when the Jewish scholars in Egypt translated the Hebrew scriptures into Greek, they perpetuated this misnomer even more, for in the Septuagint, the word "kurios" or "lord" is used instead of Yahweh, and the quote above in Mark appears to be taken from the Septuagint. To lessen confusion, it is best to throw out the word "lord" completely; for indeed, it is not only confusing, but inaccurate.
strength.'

31Secondmost is this: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.'

There is no other commandment greater than these."

32And the Torah scholar said to him, "Well done, Teacher. It is on true basis you have said, that there is one, and there is no other but him; and to love him with all your heart, with all your intelligence, and with all your strength, and to love your neighbor as yourself, is more important than all the burnt offerings and sacrifices."

33And Jesus, having seen him, that he had answered thoughtfully, said to him, "You are not far from the kingdom of God." And no one dared to ask him any more questions.

Whose Son Is the Messiah?

35And continuing to teach in the temple, Jesus said, "How do the Torah scholars say that the Messiah is the Son of David?"

David himself said, by the Holy Spirit,

"Yahweh said to my Lord:
"Sit at my right hand
until such time I put your enemies under your feet.""

37David himself calls him 'Lord,' so how is he his son?"

And the large crowd was listening to him with delight.

Jesus Denounces the Torah Scholars

38Also in his teaching he was saying, "Look warily at the Torah scholars, those loving to walk around in robes, greetings in the marketplaces, and chief seats in the synagogues, and places of honor at banquets; who eat

\textit{The Widow’s Offering}

41 And while sitting opposite the temple treasury, he was watching how the crowd was dropping copper into the donation chest. And many rich people put in much. 42 And when one poor widow came, she put in two lepta (which is equivalent to one quarter of a penny).

43 And calling his disciples to him, he said to them, "Truly I tell you, this poor widow has put in more than all the others putting into the treasury. 44 For they all put in out of the extra they had. But she out of her lack put in everything, all she had to live on."

\textit{Signs of the Times}

1 And as he is going forth out of the temple, one of his disciples says to him, "Teacher, look! What large stones. What great buildings."

2 And Jesus said to him, "Do you see all these great buildings? By no means will there be a stone left upon a stone that will not be thrown down."

3 As he was sitting on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew asked him privately, "Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign that these are all about to be \textsuperscript{342} 12:40 \textit{kατασθίω} - \textit{katesthío}, the preposition \textit{kata} attached to \textit{ἐσθίω,} the verb for eat, serving to perfectivize, or alternatively, to repetitivize, the verb. Here the verb is also linear (continuous, progressive) in aspect, showing that there is a gradual process to the eating up, or alternatively a habitual process, leading to a conclusion of complete devourment. Psalm 14:4 used this same Greek word in the Septuagint for financial oppression of people. But how can one oppress a house? In the context of property, \textit{kατασθίω} means to appropriate property illegally. We must remember that the Hebrew scriptures, like Deuteronomy 23:19, Psalm 15:1-5, declared it illegal to charge your fellow Israelite interest on a loan. Yet many did so, including or even especially the priests and officials, such that the interest "ate up" the equity in the houses of widows, at which point the lenders would re-possess the houses. Jesus was not the first or the last man of God to decry this practice of charging fellow believers interest. Nehemiah in 5:10-11, said to the officials, "Stop this taking of interest!...Give them back, this very day, their fields, their houses..." Ezekiel 22:12, "...you take both advance interest and accrued interest, and make gain of your neighbors by extortion..." James 2:6, "Is it not the rich who oppress you? Is it not they who drag you into court?" The Pharisees were lovers of money, Luke 16:14. Another theory on what this means is that the Pharisees used their position as judges to get insider information or use trickery in their office, to fraudulently obtain title to property, or as the trustees or financial managers of widows to use up their household finances, or to eat up their estates. Or perhaps to make unjust rulings in cases in which they had a pecuniary interest. They may have done all of the above. As usual, the law of the Spirit is a higher standard than the letter of the law of Moses. Jesus not only forbade lending with interest, he commanded to lend without expecting even the principal back, Luke 6:35.

5 And Jesus proceeded to tell them, "See that no one misleads you. Many will come in my name, saying, 'I am He,' and they will deceive many.

6 But when you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not be alarmed. Such must happen, but the end is not yet. 7 Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be earthquakes in various places, there will be famines. These are the beginning of birth pains.

9 "But you, you watch yourselves. They will deliver you over to courts, and you will be beaten in synagogues, and you will be stood before governors and kings, for my sake, to be a witness to them. 10 Indeed the gospel must first be preached to all nations.

13 "So when they take you delivering you to trial, do not concern yourself beforehand what you will speak. Rather, whatever is given you in that hour, that you are to speak. For you are not the ones speaking, but the Holy Spirit.

14 "But when you see the abomination of desolation standing where it should not, (Reader, understand), 15 then the ones in Judea should flee to the mountains, 16 the one on the rooftop should not come down or go inside to take anything out of his house, 17 and the one in the field should not turn back to take his coat. 18 And alas for the ones who are pregnant, and the ones giving milk during those days! 19 And pray that it not happen in winter. 20 For those will be days of suffering, such that has not happened from the beginning of creation which God created until now, nor ever will again. 21 And if the Lord had not made those days short, no flesh would survive. But, because of the elect, those whom he has chosen, he has made the days short.

343 13:14 or, "he." The BDF grammar says this is a Contractio ad sensum. Sec. 134(3) A masculine participle referring to a neuter noun which designates a personal being. Revelation says that people will be forced to worship an "image" of the beast. Is an image an "it" or a "he"? Both. The image is given the power of speech. Daniel 9:27 says that the ruler who is to come will set up the abomination, so the abomination is not the antichrist himself, but something he sets up. Sounds like the image of the beast, Rev. 13:15. This is why I used the pronoun "it" and not "he." The abomination is not the antichrist himself, but something he sets up.

345 13:20 This word in the Greek for "made short" is κολοβώ - kolobódi. It has traditionally been translated here as "those days will be shortened." But that raises more questions than Messiah!' or, 'Look, there!' do not believe it. 22 For false Messiahs and false prophets will appear, and they will do signs and miracles, trying to deceive, if possible, the elect. 23 But you, you be watchful; I have told you everything ahead of time.

24 "But in those days, after that suffering,

" the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, 25 and the stars will be falling from the sky, and the forces in space will be shaken."

26 "And at that time they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds, with great power and glory. 27 And at that time he will send forth the angels, and they will gather together his elect out of the four winds, from the farthest points of the earth to the farthest points of the horizon.

28 "Now learn the parable from the fig tree. When its twig has already become tender and it puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near.

29 And likewise you, when you see these things happening, you know that it is near, right at the door. 30 Truly I tell you: by no means will this age pass are answered. Questions such as, will those days start out as regular 24-hour days, but then be shortened to days of less than 24 hours each? No, it means that "that period of time" will be shortened. So then, does it mean God changed his mind, that is, that he had originally planned for that period of time to last X amount of days, but at some point decides to shorten that period of time? No, that would not be consistent with what is written in either the prophets, or in the New Testament. Thus Mark puts it in the past tense: "He (the Lord) has made those days short." It has already been decided by the Lord how long that period of time will be. Their duration will not be changed. They will not be shortened. The point of this verse is that, if that period of time went on longer, no flesh would survive.

346 13:25A Possibly, "the heavenly bodies," referring to the planets, stars, and constellations to which power was ascribed by idolaters and astrologers. Of course, bodies of mass do have power or force of gravity, and therefore exercise force upon other bodies, including the earth. Indeed, in the parallel passage in Luke 21, verse 25, it says nations will be in anguish over the violence of the sea and surf, which we know is affected among other things by the moon. If there is also a rise in sea level from global warming, it would be even worse. In Isaiah 34:4, the stars and planets are called the armies of heaven, and armies are forces. Moreover, the principle of parallelism probably applies here, so this line is to be understood in some meaning parallel to the stars and the sky of the previous line. At any rate, the heavenly bodies would not be shaken without the forces in space being involved.

347 13:25B Isaiah 13:10; 34:4; Joel 2:31

348 13:30 ἡ γενεὰ αὕτη; Or, this "generation." The verse following this is a Hebraistic parallelism; that is, "the sky and earth" being a parallel to the "age" or "world" mentioned here. See the same Greek phrase in Genesis 7:1, for the "generation" before the flood. God destroyed the entire world, not just the "generation" or those of the same age as Noah. God destroyed that whole world and scheme of things, and started a new age. So also here, Jesus is not talking about a small period of time of one human lifespan, but rather the away before all these things have happened. 31 Sky and earth will pass away, 349 but my words will not pass away.

No One Knows the Day or Hour

32 But as to that day or that hour, no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, not even the Son, but only the Father. 33 Watch, be alert, for you do not know when the time is. 34 It is like a man going away on a journey, leaving his house and giving the authority of it to his servants, each his task, and the doorman he admonished to keep watch. 35 Thus you must keep watch, for you do not know when the lord of the house is coming, whether in the evening, or at midnight, or when the rooster crows, or at dawn; 36 no good if he comes suddenly, and finds you sleeping. 37 And what I am saying to you, I am saying to all: 'Keep watch!'

Mary Anoints Jesus at Bethany

1 And the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread were two days away. And the chief priests and the Torah scholars were seeking how they might kill him after arresting him in stealth. 2 For they were saying, "Not in the festival, or there will be a riot of the people." 3 And when he was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the Leper, and reclining, a woman came holding an alabaster bottle of very expensive perfume ointment, pure oil of nardroot. Breaking the alabaster, she poured down upon his head.

4 But there were some who were saying indignantly to themselves, "Why has this waste of perfume occurred? 5 For this perfume could have been sold for over three hundred denarii 350 and given to the poor." And they were scolding her.

whole age or aion. The theme of the context was clearly set in vv. 28-29, by the example of the budding of leaves showing the change of seasons. We are talking about seasons and times, not generations in a genealogical or racial sense. Furthermore, it is striking how similar is Peter's parallelism in 2 Peter 3:6-7. There, Peter compares the destruction of Noah's generation ὁ τότε κόσμος, "the then world," in comparison to οἱ νῦν οὐρανοὶ καὶ ἡ γῆ "the present heavens and earth."

349 13:31 "Sky and earth," traditionally translated "heaven and earth," but the heavens are the skies, or everything you see when you look up. Compare Isaiah 34:4, Psalm 102:25-26, Hebrews 1:10-12.

350 14:5 A single denarius was the usual daily wage for a laborer, so 300 denarii would be worth about a year's wages.

6But Jesus said, "Leave her alone. Why are you causing her hardship? She has performed a good work with me. 7For the poor you always have with you, and you can do well with them whenever you want, but me you do not always have. 8She did what was available to her. She was early to anoint my body in preparation for its burial. 9Truly I tell you, wherever the good news is preached throughout the whole world, what she has done will also be told, as an honorable remembrance of her."

10And Judas of Kerioth, one of the Twelve, went to the chief priests, to betray him to them. 11And hearing this delighted them, and they promised to give him silver. Then he was planning how he might betray him the most timely.

The Passover Supper

12And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they would sacrifice the Passover lamb, his disciples say to him, "Where are you wanting us to go to make preparations so you may eat the Passover?"

13And he sends two of his disciples and tells them, "Go into the city, and a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him. 14And wherever he enters say to the owner of the house, 'The Teacher says: Where is my guestroom, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?' 15And he will show you a large upper room furnished and ready. And there you shall make preparations for us."

16And the disciples left and went into the city, and found things just as he had told them. And they prepared the Passover.

17And as evening is coming on, he arrives with the Twelve. 18And as 351 14:6 Greek: ἐν-εν, "in," with dative of "me"; in other words, she has done a good work in the circumstance of me. She has done a good work by means of my being here. From context we can see that it is a dative of happenstance, of the conditions; or even a "temporal dative;" for example, "you can always do good works with the poor, but me you do not always have with you," and Jesus' comment that "she did what was available to her." (Of the 22 English translations I have on hand, 4 say "on me," 6 "to me," 10 "for me," 1 "as to me," and 1 "towards me." Sometimes ἐν is simply a substitute for the dative inflection.)

352 14:7 Deuteronomy 15:11

353 14:8 proλαμβάνω, literally, "take ahead." Compare the same word in I Cor. 11:21. The Lidell & Scott lexicon lists this Mark 14:8 occurrence as the only one with an infinitive accompanying; which DeBrunner, § 392 (2), says is an Aramaism meaning "early to do something." As we first see in Luke 10:38-42, Mary from the beginning showed a good trait of zeroing right in to what was most important: the person of Jesus, and dropping everything else. Her sister was occupied with the meal and housework, but Mary was attentive to Jesus himself, while he was still with them. They could always do housework when Jesus was gone, and they could always eat when Jesus was gone. It is no wonder that one who attended to and treasured Jesus so much, would be the first to prepare his body for its burial.
they are reclining and eating, Jesus said, "Truly I tell you: one of you will betray me. One who is eating with me."

19They began to be very sad and to say to him one by one, "Surely not I?"

20And he said to them, "It is one of the Twelve, the one dipping into the bowl with me.  21Therefore indeed the Son of Man is going just as it is written about him. But woe to that one through whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would be better for that man if he had not been born!"

22And when they were eating, Jesus, after taking a loaf of bread and blessing God, broke it and distributed to them, and said, "Take ye. This is my body."

23And taking a cup and giving thanks, he gave it to them, and they all drank from it.

24And he said to them, "This is my blood of the covenant, being shed on behalf of many.  25Truly I tell you: By no means will I drink of the fruit of the vine any more, until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God."

26And when they had sung a hymn, they went out toward the Mount of Olives.

Jesus Predicts Peter's Denials

27And Jesus is saying to them, "You will all be scandalized, for it is written: 'I will strike down the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered.'

28But after I am raised up, I will go ahead of you into Galilee."

29But Peter said to him, "Even if everyone else will be scandalized, not I."354

30And Jesus says to him, "Truly I tell you: today, this very night, before the rooster crows two times, you yourself will disown me three times."

31But he kept saying vehemently, "Even if I have to die with you, no way will I disown you." And the rest of them were saying things similar.

354 14:29 The word 'else' is not in the Greek, but its meaning is there. The Greek says literally, "Even if everyone will be tripped up, in contrast, not I." Peter is contrasting himself to everyone else. As for the word "scandalized," there are almost as many opinions of how to translate this as there are translators. The most basic meaning is "tripped by a stumbling block." In the New Testament it usually has an aspect of being defeated in one’s faith, sometimes of a temporary lapse and sometimes of a permanent one; and in some passages, even of falling away to the extent of becoming apostate.
And they come to an orchard the name of which was Gethsemane, and he says to his disciples, "Sit here while I pray." And he takes Peter, and also James and John with him. And he began to be overwhelmed with dread and heaviness. And he says to them, "My soul is too sad, to the point of death. Remain here and stay awake." And going forward a little, he dropped to the ground, and prayed that if it is possible, the hour might pass aside from him. And he was saying, "Abba, Father, all things are possible for you. Remove this cup from me. Nevertheless, not what I will, but what you will."

And he comes back, and finds them sleeping, and he says to Peter, "Simon, are you sleeping? Had you not the self-control to keep awake one hour? Keep awake and pray, that you not come into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

And going away again, he prayed, saying the same thing. And when he returned, he again found them sleeping, for their eyelids were weighing down; and they didn't know what to say to him.

And he comes the third time and says to them, "Are you still sleeping and resting? Enough! The hour has come. Behold, the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. Get up, let us go. Behold, the one betraying me has come near."

355 14:32 Χώριον - χώριον; a "little field, little farm" a word used in I Chronicles 27:27 for a "treasure vineyard," and used in some other literature for a suburb. I get the picture of an orchard or grove in the suburbs that has become a public park because of the proximity of the big city. In the N.T., χώριον usually just means "a spot; a place," but considering that the place was associated with "the Mount of Olives," Luke 22:39, and also called by John in 18:1 "a garden," and that the word "Gethsemane" itself means "oil-press," or, according to Jerome, "oil valley," therefore "an olive orchard having come into disuse and now become a public park" seems most reasonable. It was on the western slope of the Mount of Olives, just across the Kidron Valley.

356 14:34 τὰς θαυμάσεις; τὰς indicating the upper limit of possibility. In other words, he could not be more sad, for if he was any sadder, he would die.

357 14:41 These verbs, sleep and rest, are inflected in the Greek such that they could be either indicative or imperative mood, for in Greek morphology the indicative and imperative forms were identical more often than not. I am not convinced that they were intended as indicative mood. Translating Mark has led me to believe that Jesus was sharp in speech more often than many are willing to believe. And if these verbs are indeed imperatives, then in the light of what immediately follows, one can only interpret them as bitter irony or satire. If the verbs are imperatives, it might be translated something like, "Go ahead, sleep soundly and get your beauty rest. It is over anyway." The verb translated as "resting" is ἀναπαύω, which contains the idea of refreshment and cheering up. Jesus had already used another verb, καθεύδω, for sleeping soundly, so this second verb could have some other purpose, the purpose of irony. Jesus could have said it out of profound disappointment with his "friends." Remember also that this takes place shortly after he had told them they would all abandon him. Moreover, there is definitely a recurrent theme in Mark of Jesus chiding the disciples for various forms of spiritual unconsciousness.
The Arrest of Jesus

And right then while he was still speaking, Judas comes, the one of the Twelve, along with a crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the Torah scholars and the elders.\(^{358}\)

And the one betraying him had given them a signal, saying, "Whomever I kiss is he; him you arrest and lead away under guard." 45 And coming straight up to him, he says, "Rabbi," and fervently kissed him. 46 And they laid hands on him and arrested him. 47 Then a certain one of those standing near drew a sword and struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

And Jesus said to them in response, "As though after a bandit, you have come out with swords and clubs to capture me? 49 Day after day I was right next to you in the temple, teaching, and you never arrested me. But, may the scriptures be fulfilled." 50 Then everyone fled, abandoning him.

And a certain young man had accompanied him, a linen wrap\(^{359}\) thrown over his bare body. And they are seizing him, but he escaped naked, leaving the linen behind.

Jesus' Trial by the Sanhedrin

And they led Jesus away to the high priest, and all the chief priests and the elders and the Torah scholars are gathering together. 54 And Peter followed him at a distance, right up to within the courtyard of the high priest, and remained, sitting with the guards and warming himself by the fire.

And the chief priests and the whole Sanhedrin were trying to find evidence against Jesus in order to put him to death, and they were not finding it. 56 For many were bearing false witness against him, yet their statements were not consistent.

Then some appeared and bore false witness against him as follows: 58 We heard him saying, 'I will destroy this handmade temple, and by three \(^{358}\) 14:43 The three elements composing the Sanhedrin. The posse was sent from the Sanhedrin. Those doing the actual arresting were probably temple police officers or soldier types, for the Sanhedrin was authorized by the Romans to have a company of guards with powers of arrest.

\(^{359}\) 14:51 σινδών - sindon is just the word for linen, and could possibly mean just a sheet, or a night gown, or even a shirt. But the way it says "thrown over his nakedness" seems to indicate that it was not daytime clothing.
days I will build another, not handmade.’” Yet not even their testimony was so consistent.

60 And after standing up in front of them all, the high priest examined Jesus, saying, "You are not making any answer? What about this testimony these are bearing against you?” 61 But he was keeping silent, and making no answer at all.

Again, the high priest was examining him, and saying to him, "Are you the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One?"

62 And Jesus said, "I am, and you will all see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of Power, and coming with the clouds of heaven."

63 Then the high priest tearing his robes says, "What more need do we have for witnesses? 64 You have heard the blasphemy. What does it look like to you?" And they all condemned him as deserving to be put to death.

65 And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face and punch him, and say to him, 'Prophesy!' The guards also took him with slaps.

Peter Disowns Jesus

66 And with Peter still below in the courtyard, one of the maidservants of the high priest comes, 67 and having seen Peter warming himself, and having

360 14:58 Jesus’ actual statement was, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it." (John 2:19; Diatess. 5:34) The perjurers added the word "handmade," and switched the destroying agent from his hearers, to Jesus himself. (And remember, the statement of Jesus in question took place right after he had destroyed the operation of the currency exchangers in the temple, lending some crediblity to the notion of Jesus potentially destroying their temple.) Now this saying which they were attributing to him could be a saying far more inflammatory than meets the eye. The English word "handmade" is translated from the Greek word, χειροποίητος - cheiropoíētos, which in all ten occurrences in the Jewish Greek Bible (the Septuagint) means "Idol." Especially significant is Isaiah 31:7, where χειροποίητος is used twice for "idol," and is then followed by the phrase, "which their hands have made," with the constituent words of χειροποίητος broken up and used separately. In the other occurrences of this word in the New Testament, however, it is not used as meaning idol exactly. But when these witnesses made their statement, their words could have had a ring insulting to the temple, at least in the ears of any that had read the Jewish Greek Bible, of which surely there must have been some. Considering that the bulk of Jesus' enthusiasts were from Galilee, and that Galilee was far more cosmopolitan than Jerusalem and Judea, and thus more likely to be the residence of Hellenistic (Greek-speaking) Jews who read the Bible in Greek, the Septuagint, perhaps this testimony was staged in a way calculated to turn the Galileans against Jesus. For since this word in the Bible had up to that point only meant "idol," the alleged statement by Jesus could have sounded to the Greek-speaking Jews like this: "I will destroy this idol temple of yours, and by three days I will build another, not idolatrous."

361 14:62 The Power being The Mighty One, or God. Yet the right hand is also the position of "power." The right hand signifies the stronger hand, and therefore the one with which to hold one's weapon or staff. The left hand is the distaff. The Son of Man can even hold God in his right hand as a weapon. See Psalm 110:5. Also, Psalm 16:8, "Because Yahweh is at my right hand; I shall not be shaken." Here Jesus combines Psalm 110:1 with the title "the Son of Man" from Daniel 7:13-14, where the Son of Man is given authority over all the nations.
peered at him, she says, "You were also with that Nazarene, Jesus."

68But he denied it, saying, "I neither know nor understand what you are saying." And he moved away, outside into the forecourt. 69And the maidservant who had seen him began again to say to those standing around, "This fellow is one of them." 70Again, he was denying it.

And after a little while, again, those standing around were saying to Peter, "You surely are one of them, for you also are Galilean."

71Then he began to curse and to swear: "I do not know this man of whom you are speaking." 72And immediately a rooster crowed a second time. And Peter remembered the statement as Jesus had said it to him: "Before a rooster crows two times, you will disown me three times." And when he thought upon it, he wept.

Chapter 15
Jesus’ Examination by Pilate

1And as soon as it was early morning, the chief priests, having made a consultation with the elders and Torah scholars and the whole Sanhedrin, after first restraining Jesus, led him away and handed him over to Pilate.

2And Pilate examined him: "Are you the king of the Jews?"

And he in answer to him says, "You are the one saying it." 3And the chief priests were charging him with many things. 4So Pilate again examined him, as follows: "You are not answering anything? Look how many things they are charging you with!"

5But Jesus made no further answer, causing Pilate to be astonished.

6Now every Festival he would release for them one prisoner, whomever they would make plea for. 7And there was one named Barabbas, bound with the rebels who had committed murder during the uprising. 8And when the crowd came up, they began to ask Pilate that he do for them just as 362 14:68 Σὺ λέγεις. This means literally, "You are saying" or, "Are you saying?" This was a Jewish idiom, and you can find some Rabbinic examples where it was understood as a Yes, and some where it would obviously NOT be understood as a yes. Therefore, we have to conclude that it is not a yes of any kind. At the same time, it is not a denial. Which sometimes some people might take as a yes. But as for translation, it should be translated literally, and left at that. No helper words should be added that might imply an affirmative answer. See the endnote on this topic at the end of this document.

9 And Pilate answered them, saying, "Do you wish that I release to you the king of the Jews?" 10 For he knew it was because of envy that the chief priests had handed him over.

11 But the chief priests had stirred up the crowd to ask that he release Barabbas to them instead.

12 And Pilate when he answered again, said to them, "What then should I do with the one you call the king of the Jews?"

13 And they shouted back, "Crucify him."

14 And Pilate said to them, "Why? What crime has he committed?"

But they shouted all the more, "Crucify him!"

15 So Pilate, wanting to make the crowd contented, released Barabbas to them, and Jesus, after scourging him, he handed over to be crucified.

The Soldiers Mock Jesus

16 And the soldiers led him away, inside the palace, that is, the Praetorium, and they are calling together the whole cohort. 17 And they are draping on him a purple robe, and setting around him a crown of interweaving thorns. 18 And they began to salute him: "Hail, King of the Jews!" 19 And they were striking his head with a cane, and spitting on him. And dropping their knees, they were doing homage to him. 20 And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the purple robe and put his own garments on him.

The Crucifixion

And they are leading him out to crucify him. 21 And a certain Simon passing by, a Cyrenian coming from the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, they conscript to carry his cross. 22 And they bring him to the place Gulgolta, which when translated is "skull" place. 23 And

A cohort, if a complete one, was a thousand soldiers, (one tenth of a legion) commanded by ten centurions, who commanded a hundred men each. The number here could have been from 600 to 1,000 soldiers, assuming that all the men were present at that moment.

G golgothān tópon "Golgotha place." The nominative form, η Γολγοθᾶ, is probably due to Greek phonological dissimulation from Γολγόθα, Golgothā, (Mt. 27:33 Δ) - Aramaic כְּלוּגָלָה - which means skull. The "Gulgolta" in the English rendering above represents more the Hebrew than the Aramaic. The place was probably a higher piece of ground. It was to the northwest, outside the walls built by Herod the Great, but inside the walls built by Agrippa under Claudius subsequent to these events.
they were holding out to him wine mixed with myrrh. He, however, did not take it. And they crucify him. And they divide his garments, casting a lot for them, who would take what.

25 And it was the third hour when they crucified him. 26 And the notice of the charge against him was written above him: THE KING OF THE JEWS. 27 And with him they crucify two bandits, one to the right and one to the left of him. 28 And those passing by were defaming him, shaking their heads and saying, "Aha, the one destroying the temple and building in three days! Save yourself by coming down from the cross."

31 Likewise also the chief priests, making fun with one another along with the Torah scholars, were saying, "Others he saved. Himself he cannot save. 32 Let the Messiah, the king of Israel, come down now from the cross, so that we may see and believe."

Even the ones crucified with him were shaming him.

The Death of Jesus

33 And when it was the sixth hour, darkness came over the whole land, until the ninth hour. 34 And at the ninth hour Jesus cried out in a loud voice, "Elohi, Elohi, ləma šəaqatani?" — which when translated is, "My God, my

It had already frequently been used as a place for executions, hence the name.

15:23 Myrrh is part of Eastern incense blends for meditation and centering. Ancient Greek and Roman physicians used the herb to treat wounds. It also removes mucus from the respiratory tract, acts as a lung tonic and stimulant, and as an anti-inflammatory agent. And wine of course is a sedative, and you "give wine to those in bitter distress," Proverbs 31:6

15:25 That is, the third hour from 6 a.m. when the daytime starts, which makes this 9:00 a.m. So also the remaining references to time in Mark: the darkness came over the land at noon, and lasted until 3:00 p.m., when Jesus cried out to the Father. See the endnote in my Diatessaron regarding the differing clock systems and divisions of the day used by the synoptic evangelists in contrast to John.

15:28 The earliest and best witnesses of the Alexandrian and the Western types of text lack ver. 28. It is understandable that copyists could have added the sentence in the margin as a note pointing out Lk 22:37, and from there it got put into the text of Mark itself. There is no reason why, if the sentence were present originally, it should have been deleted. It is also significant that Mark very seldom expressly quotes the Old Testament.

15:32 "Let come down" represents the one Greek word "come down," which is in the 3rd person imperative. In English we do not have a 3rd person imperative, and this has traditionally been signaled by the word "let." But the reader must not think it is a command to the soldiers to "let him come down." It is rather a command to someone whom the speakers are not actually addressing.

15:33 or "the whole earth."

15:34 Metzger: The reading ηλει ηλει of Codex Bezae et al represents the Hebrew נלי נלי ("my God"), and has been assimilated to the parallel in Mt 27:46. The great majority of God, why have you forsaken me?"

35 And some of the bystanders hearing were saying, "Behold, he is calling Elijah." 36 And one ran, and after filling a sponge with sour wine, stuck it on a reed and was helping him to drink, saying, "Back off. Let's see if Elijah comes to take him down."

37 But Jesus expired, letting out a loud cry.

38 And the veil of the temple was rent in two from top to bottom. 39 And the centurion, standing across from and facing him, seeing the way that he died, said, "This man truly was the Son of God."

40 And there were also women watching from a distance, among whom were both Mary the Magdalene and Mary the mother of James the younger and of Joses; and Salome, 41 they who when he was in Galilee used to follow him and provide for him, plus many others who had come up to Jerusalem with him.

The Burial of Jesus

42 And evening had now come, and since it was Preparation Day, that is, before the Sabbath, 43 Joseph of Arimathea comes, a respected council member, himself also looking forward to the kingdom of God, who, taking courage, went in to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. 44 But Pilate doubted that he was already dead, and calling the centurion to him, asked uncials and minuscule manuscripts read ελωι ελωι, which represents the Aramaic ℎָלָהִי ("my God"), the ω (ο) for the a sound being due to the influence of the Hebrew ℎָלָהִי. The spelling לָהִי (K, C, 72, al) represents the Aramaic נְלָהִי ("why"), which is also probably behind the לָהִי of A, whereas the לָהִי of B, D, al represents the Hebrew הָלָה ("why"). All Greek manuscripts except Codex Bezae read αφασβαοι or something similar, which represents the Aramaic נְלָה ("thou hast forsaken me"). The reading זָפְתַבַּא of D is a scholarly correction representing the Hebrew of Psalm 22:1, which is רַמָּה ("thou hast forsaken me").

373 15:42 The word "evening" at first causes confusion. For if evening had already come, then a new day had started, right? So it was no longer "Preparation (Day)," because evening had come and the Sabbath had started, right? No, in fact the word "preparation" always means the day of the week we call Friday; see Luke 23:54; John 19:14, 31; Josephus: Jewish Antiquities xvi. 6. 2 §163. (There is no word "day" in the Greek here.) The point is, "Preparation Day" does not mean the 24 hours leading up to the evening that starts the Sabbath. Instead it means simply "Friday." Even the word "day" in the Bible, both Old and New Testaments, unfortunately would sometimes mean that period of time during which it is "daytime" or "sunlit," and other times it also means the 24 hours "between the evenings." As in all languages, most words of the Biblical languages have more than one meaning, but when it comes to matters like this that require precision, it is frustrating. This very problem was the reason for there being held at that time two differing interpretations regarding the Biblical timing of the Passover. The Pharisees and the Galileans and Jesus had one timing for the Passover, and the Sadducees (and the temple that year) had another.

374 15:44 There are three main interpretations of this statement about Pilate's reaction to him if he had already died. 45 And knowing from the centurion, he granted the corpse to Joseph.

46 And having bought linen, he took him down and wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a tomb which was hewn out of the rock, and rolled a stone up against the entrance of the tomb. 47 And Mary the Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joses were watching where he was laid.

Chapter 16

The Empty Tomb

1 And when the Sabbath had passed, Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, bought spices so that they might go and anoint him. 2 And very early on the first day of the week, they are coming upon the tomb, as the sun broke. 3 And they were saying to each other, "Who will roll away for us the stone from the entrance of the tomb?" 4 And when they look up, they behold: the stone has been rolled away! For it was very large. 5 And entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, dressed in a white robe. And they were greatly alarmed.

6 But he says to them, "Do not be alarmed. You are seeking Jesus the Nazarene. He is risen! He is not here. Behold the place where they laid him. 7 But go tell his disciples and Peter, that he is going ahead of you into Galilee. There you will see him, just as he told you."
And going out, they fled from the tomb. For trembling shock was holding them; and they said nothing to anyone, because they were afraid.

376 16:8a τρόμος καὶ ἐκστασις means literally "tremors and ecstasy," but Greek sometimes used a method of modifying a word whereby you place a second word following with an "and" in between. This is called parataxis. One could render this above, "tremors of shock." (But the singular number of the verb here for "hold," ἔχω, is not a factor. The rules governing number agreement of verbs state that when a verb has two or more co-ordinate words as its subject, and the two subjects are both singular and separated by καί, and the verb stands before the first subject, as is the case here, then the verb agrees in number with the first subject. So here, the Greek verb would be singular either way, parataxis or not.) For another example of this kind of parataxis, see Luke 2:47, "amazed at the intelligence and his answers," meaning, "amazed at his intelligent answers." As for the meanings of the words, they must have experienced trauma that caused them to be put out of their senses (out of their senses = ecstasy, shock, bewilderment, being spaced out) accompanied by tremors, anxiety, and racing heart beat. That is what medically is called shock.

377 16:8b "They said nothing to anyone" is subordinate to the "for" at the beginning of the sentence. It is part of the idea of their fleeing from the tomb. That is to say, they said nothing to anyone who was there at the tomb, but instead fled from the tomb because of their trembling, bewilderment, and fear. For there were in fact other people there outside the tomb, the guards at least. See my Diatessaron.

378 16:8c Some interpreters maintain that the Greek word here for "they were afraid," ἐφοβοῦντο, should be translated "they were afraid of..." They maintain that this verb is always transitive, and requires an object. See the endnote at the end of this document, entitled "Does the Greek verb PHOBEW require an object?" which explores this question.

In the narrative prose of the gospel of Mark, practically every sentence begins with one of the above words for "and." (The split between the two is something like 90% καί and 10% δέ.) The problem is, in English it is bad style to start many sentences with "and," let alone all of them. So the translator is left with the tension between on the one hand not letting even one letter pass from God's word, and on the other hand the desire for good English style and therefore wanting to drop the initial "and"s.

I shall first address Mark's use of καί. I have read of several factors that may have come to bear as to why Mark began so many of his sentences with καί.
1. Semitic Influence. The writer, being Jewish, and whose native language was Aramaic and whose scriptures were Hebrew and Aramaic, and probably also the Jewish-Greek of the Septuagint, wrote a brand of Greek influenced by the syntax of those Semitic languages. Since Hebrew had no other mechanism to indicate past, present, or future, and neither did it show relationship between clauses, like subordination, purpose and result, it instead added clauses and events together in a long chain connected by "and"s. Thus to one idea which was complete in itself, a second idea is added, also complete in itself, connected usually in Hebrew by י(ו) and in Greek by καί, and then a third complete idea in like manner connected, and so on.

2. Vulgarity or Unsophistication. Yet the above chaining with "and" was not at all exclusively Semitic. Aristotle, in Rhetorica 3.9, p. 1409a, 24 following, describes two opposing styles of Greek: the εἰρομένη (running and continuous) style, like the above described chain of complete ideas separated by καί, in contrast to the κατεστρομένη (compact) or ἐν περιόδοις (periodic) styles. The former was the plain and unsophisticated language of all periods, and the latter the more artistically developed prose.

3. Demarcation of Sentences. The Greek New Testament was originally written using only capital letters; and there were no spaces between words, and there were no spaces in between sentences. Neither did they use any punctuation like periods. So there was no way you could tell when one sentence ended and another began. Or was there? Some speculate that the conjunctions καί and δέ served as markers of the beginning of a new sentence.

If this third theory is valid, then the translator may properly render those sentence-initial conjunctions into the equivalent coding employed by English to demarcate sentences: By using a period, followed by two spaces, followed by a capital letter. So if a translation drops the "and" and instead uses these English markers, the period and spaces, etc., where the Greek had a καί, then that translation does in fact translate the καί. The English equivalent of the Greek is in fact provided. That is what translating is.

Yet, if this were in fact the way to signal the beginning of sentences, why did only Mark use it consistently? John, for example, uses οὖν in somewhat the same way. But in a book in the N.T. written with more literary sophistication, like the epistle to the Hebrews, the sentences are begun with much greater variety of conjunctions and particles.

In Mark, however, even if those conjunctions were in fact employed for sentence demarcation, they would not always have been there for that reason. It is a matter of some interpretation, therefore, as to whether they are there to mark the beginning of a sentence, or whether they mean something like, "and," "also," "then," "even." Also, the "and" may in fact be there in the middle of a sentence, and a difference of interpretation exist as to where the sentences begin and end. When a present-day printed Greek New Testament edition capitalizes a letter to indicate the beginning of a new sentence, that merely reflects the interpretation of those editors as to where the new sentence began. This is a matter of interpretation, as are also paragraph divisions. By leaving all the "and"s in there, the English reader is allowed the opportunity to see other possibilities of sentence division, and other possible turns of meaning involving καί and δέ.

4. By "turns of meaning involving καί and δέ," I am speaking in terms of "discourse analysis." Specifically here, thematic development, continuities, discontinuities, points of departure, parentheticality, etc. Some discourse analysis of New Testament Greek has been done by a linguist associated with the Summer Institute of Linguistics, Mr. Stephen H. Levinsohn. In his book entitled Discourse Features of New Testament Greek, Dallas, SIL, (1992), Levinsohn treats this issue of the conjunctions καί and δέ beginning sentences, but largely only as found in the gospels of Matthew, Luke, and John, and in Acts.

His general observations are found on page 31, that passages characterized by the use of the coordinate conjunction καί may be considered "straight narrative." He goes on:

If the verb is initial in the sentence, the event concerned is in natural sequence with the previous one. If some constituent precedes the verb, this generally occurs at a point of discontinuity in the story, and indicates the point of departure for what follows, as well as the basis for relating what follows to the context. Sentences in the narrative are associated together or separated from each other solely on the basis of such features.

Though Koine Greek writers can and do present some passages of straight narrative, they have the option of linking sentences in other, more marked ways. One way is through a developmental conjunction such as δέ. (Footnote: More accurately, δέ is a developmental-antidevelopmental conjunction, since it also introduces parenthetical comments.)
His observations regarding the gospel of Mark specifically are limited to the following on page 32:

In Matthew, Luke and Acts, δέ is used to mark development both between incidents (high-level usage) and within incidents (local usage). In Mark's gospel, however, δέ generally functions locally; it is rarely used to indicate development from one incident to another.

and on page 39:

Mark practically never uses δέ to introduce a new incident (1:32 and 7:24 are rare exceptions). In other words, Mark seldom presents one incident as developing from the previous one. Even Mark’s local usage of δέ is generally limited to specific contexts.

Most commonly, δέ is used in Mark's gospel in instances involving switch or contrast, whether or not there is a point of departure.

Examples of δέ in connection with a point of departure include:
- a contrastive condition, as in 2:21-22;
- a temporal setting with contrasting overtones, as in 4:29;
- other points of departure involving contrast, as in 4:11, 34;
- a reference to the new individual through whom the story will develop, as in 5:33, 36 and 6:22.

Examples of sentences containing δέ which begin with a verb, when there are contrastive overtones, include Mark 2:20 and 6:16. Only occasionally does δέ occur in sentences with an initial verb when there are no contrastive overtones. Examples include Mark 7:20 and 9:25.

Another function of δέ is to introduce parenthetical comments, particularly those that are significant for the further development of the story, as in Mark 1:30a and 2:6.

(Palmer’s note: the above bulleted "reference to the new individual through whom the story will develop, as in 6:22" is from a variant of the Greek text found in neither the UBS 4th edition nor the Nestle-Aland 27th Edition.)

I Dave Palmer have observed that in many modern English translations, when the Greek conjunction δέ is used to mark a parenthetical statement, it is translated with the English word "now." One example is Mark 2:6, in the context of Jesus teaching and healing in the Capernaum synagogue, verse 6 is often rendered: "Now some scribes were sitting there..." However, I am loath to use the word "now," preferring that it be reserved as a time marker, since time markers are so rare. When you read my translation, you can know, that when you see the word "now," it means "now."

The gospel of Mark has the distinction of being the book in the New Testament most extreme in its frequency of beginning sentences with the two conjunctions. There are three other gospels, Matthew, Luke and John, each with its own distinctive style. Why force all four of them into one identical style of English, when God deliberately gave us four different accounts authored by four unique individuals with their own style? Why not allow the author of Mark to be seen as unsophisticated and vulgar in style, which in fact he was? Why not let the four gospels be recognizably different in style even after rendered into English? This, plus my willingness to let the readers make their own interpretations of the "and"s, led me to leave them all in there.

Therefore, please, let no one pounce judgmentally upon a translation for dropping a lot of the "and"s, condemning the translator for "taking away from God’s word," and neither should others make condescending conclusions about a translation that retains all the "and"s, as surely having been done by an unskilled translator using an interlinear and lexical glosses.

Mark Endnote #2

Mark’s frequent use of the present tense for the past

The gospel of Mark very frequently uses present tense verbs intermixed with past tense verbs, even alternating several times back and forth within the same sentence. This is something found far more frequently in Mark than anywhere else in the Greek New Testament. The only pigeon-hole in the grammars into which to potentially file this practice, has the label on it, "historical present."

The definition of the historical present states that the present indicative form of a verb (present time, linear or continuous aspect, statement of fact) can be used to replace the aorist indicative form (past time, punctiliar aspect, statement of fact) in a narrative, in describing events at which the narrator imagines himself present right now, and gives the readers also a feeling of being right there themselves. Supposedly, according to the definition, the aspect remains punctiliar in spite of the present linear form. This device gives the narrative an increased vividness and immediacy.

DeBrunner, in discussing "historical presents" in the gospel of John, sees that the circumstances, or all that is secondary, are given in a past tense, and the main action is likely to be represented by the present, and then the concluding events are again put into the aorist because there, an historical present would not be natural.

In a way, Mark’s usage conforms essentially to this definition, but not completely. Take for example Mark 6:1, Καὶ ἐξῆλθεν ἐκείθεν, καὶ ἔρχεται εἰς τὴν πατρίδα αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἀκολουθοῦσιν αὐτῷ οἱ μαθηταί αὐτοῦ, "And he moved on from there, and comes into his home town, and his disciples are accompanying him." Here the first verb, "moved on," is in the aorist, and is secondary in importance to the present tense verbs, "comes" and "are accompanying." The present tense verbs "comes" and "accompanying" are setting the scene for the next story, while the past tense verb, "he moved on," is hardly as important. But ultimately, Mark is doing the opposite of DeBrunner’s description of John: Mark is using the present tense to set the circumstances, and the aorist for the main event, which follows: "He began to teach in the synagogue," 6:2. Another way in which Mark does not conform to the above formal rule of historical presents is that Mark often uses them with their linear (continuous) aspect where such linear aspect is clearly intended or appropriate.

The comment of Blass about this in Mark specifically is that the Aramaic participial sentence may have contributed to its frequency. I agree that the effect in Mark is similar to the "circumstantial participle." In fact I say that the effect is better than that of the participle when put into English. Let’s rephrase the above Mark 6:1 making the ἀκολουθοῦσιν participial in English rather than present tense: “And he moved on from there, coming into his home town, his disciples accompanying.” The use of the present indicative makes it more clear than does the participle.

Here is the same verse using aorists instead of the presents: "And he moved on from there and came into his home town, and his disciples accompanied him." Well, it’s okay. But if you read Mark at his brisk pace, with an endless string of simple past statements of fact, it gets monotonous. The present tenses liven it up, and truly, it is more like the way most English speakers I know, actually speak.
See how familiar the following quote sounds to you. "I'm walking through Northgate Mall, and I run into Ashley, and she says, 'What are you doing?' And I'm like, 'Duh, I'm going shopping.'"

This narrative is describing events that took place in the past. The narrator uses six verbs, but not a single one of them is past tense. Yet this is acceptable to the ears of most English speakers, apart from perhaps the most ivory tower of English professors. No doubt most people would admit it is not the paragon of English style. As for reading my translation of Mark, the present tenses may sound a bit strange to you at first. But if you continue reading, after a while you get used to it. At any rate, it is Mark’s style. And the flip side of Mark’s unsophistication is his honesty and unpretentiousness, thanks to which we get some of the most frank descriptions of the disciples and of other elements in the narrative.

Though it is often that Mark uses present indicative verbs participially, he does at least as often use them with a punctiliar aspect, just as the mall girl above said, "and I run into Ashley..." The verb run is in the present tense, yet is something that happens once and is concluded, for she does not keep running into Ashley repeatedly. Nor is she saying that it is her custom or way of life to run into Ashley. Thus, though Mark’s usage often does not conform to the formal definition of the historical present, it often does.

To show just how often Mark uses present tense for the verbs, here is a three-verse chunk of text from chapter 5, verses 38-40, in which there are only a couple past tense verbs in the narrative. And I am not saying this is the largest such chunk; it merely happened to be close to the previous passage I was referring to above, and I caught sight of it.

38 And they are coming into the house of the synagogue ruler, and he sees an uproar, and weeping and much loud wailing.
39 And when he had come in he says to them, "Why are you making a commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but sleeping."
40 And they laughed him to scorn. Then, having put them all out, he takes the father of the child, and the mother, and the ones who were with him, and he goes in where the child was.

Note: The words in v. 39 "and when he had come in" are not from a past tense verb, but an aorist participle, and participles do not tell past-present-future. Same with the "having put them all out" in v. 40- aorist participle.
The meaning of the aorist in the participle is that the action takes place in "punctiliar kind of action," that is, at one point, as opposed to progressively over a longer period of time, or continuously, or habitually, or repetitively. Only when in the indicative mood do the verbs potentially tell us past-present-future.

Following is a catalogue of the verbs in the above passage:

Of the four gospel authors, Luke uses this "historical present" device the least, because, according to Blass, Luke regarded it as vulgar. This is quite to be expected, since Luke was the most educated of the four gospel authors. But the fact is, the same style as Mark may be found in the Septuagint, the papyri, Josephus, modern Greek, and yes, in the great classical Greek writers. In this world, there are rules, whether of grammar or whatever else, and then there is what people actually do.

I doubt that as Mark was writing his account, he was cognizant of any grammatical rules governing the "historical present." And if he had been, I doubt that he would have followed them all the time anyway. In conclusion, if there is a well defined "historical present," Mark does not come close to always conforming to it. And even if he did, he would have been over-using it, for Mark uses a present-tense verb for the past very, very frequently. No, whatever the formal nomenclature for it, if there is such, Mark's use of present tense verbs for the past is simply an unsophisticated, every-day, man-on-the-street style, which is also very common in the English of our time. And translating Mark's present tenses into English presents does work, so I see no compelling reason not to do so.

Indeed, in this decision I am in good company. There is another English translation that translated all the Greek present tenses into English present tenses, and that translation is only the best-selling piece of English literature of all time on the planet Earth, the King James Version Bible. Ironically, it is held up as having great "literary beauty," and being great English. The fact is, the King James Version was written in common, popular English, such as using the present tense for the past. It also more closely followed Greek word syntax than do modern translations. To some of us, 400 years later, the phrase, "And Jesus saith unto him" sounds sophisticated. But in fact, the word "saith" was the present tense, third person, singular form for "say." In modern English, "Jesus says to him."

No doubt there are other interpretations of Mark's use of the historical present, but that is all the more reason to leave the verbs in the present in English: so that the reader may have the opportunity to see them and so interpret them.

Mark Endnote #3

Mark 2:23, ἤρξαντο ὁδὸν ποιεῖν

This phrase if translated using the most frequently translated English words, (the "lexical glosses"), would be, 'began to make or do a way or path.' The form ἤρξαντο is the 3rd person, plural, aorist, indicative, middle voice, of the verb ἀρχω or ἀρχομαι (árchō or árchromai), which means to begin. We must understand that they began to do something they were not doing up to that point. (These grammatical details are pertinent to my argument, so please bear with me as it develops.)

The word ποιεῖν (poiēin) is the linear infinitive form of the word ποιέω (poiēō) meaning 'to do' or 'to make,' depending on the context. The combination of ἤρξαντο (3rd pl.) or ἤρξατο (3rd sing.) with a following infinitive is very common in both the New and Old Testaments, found well over a hundred times.

This passage here in Mark is usually translated something like, 'as they made their way,' or, 'as they went along.' I find these simply unacceptable. The first adds the possessive pronoun 'their,' which is unwarranted, and the second is a little better, but they both ignore the fact that the word ἀρχομαι when in the aorist middle, ἤρξαντο, as here, always takes the infinitive. The infinitive here is ποιεῖν (poiēin), to do or to make. We can absolutely rule out 'plucking' as what the disciples were beginning to do.
And the disciples were not 'beginning to go along,' or 'beginning to make their way.' Because the verse had already stated that they were 'passing through the grainfields.' For the Greek infinitive is translated as an English participle like “making” only when it is with the article, but the article is not present here. No, we must show them starting some new activity once they were already passing through the grainfields. That is what ἄρχομαι means.

The 3rd person aorist middle of ἄρχομαι (ἥρξαντο or ἥρξατο) occurs well over a hundred times in both the New Testament and the Old, and it is always followed by an infinitive. I have not found an exception. Vincent in his Word Studies says this phrase is a Latinism, where he says Mark adopts the Latin phrase iter facere, "to make a way." But this conjecture violates the required presumption that the writer used ordinary grammar. Since Mark did in fact use this exact ἄρχομαι construction 25 times elsewhere in the ordinary Greek way: with an infinitive, and Mark’s examples in fact comprise one third of the occurrences in the whole New Testament, the burden to overcome the presumption that Mark used ordinary grammar is too great to be overcome by a conjecture of a Latinism.

Then Vincent says, 'The same idiom occurs in the Septuagint, Judges 17:8; ποιῆσαι ὁδὸν, 'as he journeyed.' " But Vincent neglects to point out that, first of all, the whole thing is a genitive phrase, preceded by τοῦ, "belonging to or characterized by his to journey," and secondly, it is not preceded by ἥρξατο. So I do not see the comparability. He also fails to mention that ὁδὸν is followed by the word αὐτοῦ, which would make it say "his journey," which possessive pronoun we do not have here in Mark. There is in Mark simply no indication that a possessive pronoun is called for, as: "their way." It is true that in Greek, as in German and some other Indo-European languages, the possessive pronoun need not be supplied where possession is obvious. But, in that situation in Greek, from what I have seen, the article is found instead. Here we have no article. Neither is possession obvious. I again fail to see the comparability.

Another argument against the phrase ἥρξαντο ὁδὸν ποιεῖν being a Latinism meaning, "to make their way," in my mind, is that the Douay-Rheims translators did not see it that way. You see, the Douay-Rheims was a Roman Catholic translation based muchly on the Latin Vulgate. The NAB is also a Catholic translation, whose translators we can presume, know Latin. And they did not see this as a Latinism either. I reject the argument of Vincent and others, therefore, that this phrase in the Greek represents a Latinism.
And others in their attempt to justify departing from the "ἠρξαντο followed by infinitive" rule, point to Acts 11:4, where Peter explained starting from the beginning, ἅρξαμενος ἐξετίθετο. But there, archomai is a linear participle. There is no infinitive there in Acts, so I fail to see the comparability.

Still another argument is that ἄρχομαι is a pleonasm here, that is, an extra wordiness not adding anything significant to the meaning. I strongly disagree. I have never seen ἄρχομαι used pleonastically in the gospel of Mark, not in the third person, aorist, middle voice, indicative aspect; it always signals the beginning of an activity.

Even if they were not "beginning to make a way," they were certainly not "beginning to pluck," since "pluck" is a participle instead of the required infinitive. So what was it the disciples were 'beginning' to do that they were not already doing?

Some have translated this phrase "they began to make a path" through the grain. But this does not seem sensible, for there would be no need to make a path through the grain, because one can pluck from the plants that are right next to the road. Yet it is possible there was no road, or that they were taking a shortcut right through a particularly large field of grain. Perhaps those translating it such, had in mind the finely developed doctrine of the scribes as to what constituted unlawful harvesting on the Sabbath. Over the centuries it was decided that it was permitted to walk through a grainfield if the plants were only ankle high; but if the plants were at least knee high, it was not permissible, for then one's legs might inadvertently knock some of the ripened grain off the heads, and thereby 'work' by doing what constituted 'threshing.' But here, it was not that the disciples were inadvertently knocking off heads of grain, for they were deliberately plucking them off and de-husking them between their hands. Still, this interpretation has merit, and I consider it the second best interpretation. At least it is faithful to the ἠρξαντο - infinitive rule. Jesus' response is revealing, as to the comparison he used, to illustrate what his disciples were doing. David, he says, broke the law because he was hungry and in need, and that is a valid excuse in Jesus' mind. So also now, the disciples may be technically breaking the law by doing what officially constituted "threshing," but since they are hungry and in need, mercy and compassion are weightier matters of the law than those technicalities.

Now in Mark's phrase ἢρξαντο ὁδὸν ποιεῖν, "began to do or make a way," the word ὁδὸν is the accusative case, singular form of the word ὁδός (hodós), which means 'way' or 'road' or 'journey.' But just like our English word 'way,' it is very often used metaphorically, as meaning 'a systematic course of action,' or also "a way of doing something." The Bible speaks of the 'way of peace' (Isaiah 59:7-8; Rom. 3:17), the 'ways of the Lord,' etc. In the early days of the church, when people referred to the first Jewish believers in Jesus as the Messiah, they called their set of beliefs and practices ἡ ὁδός, (ἡ hodόs), 'the way,' Acts 9:2, 19:9, 23, 22:4, 24:14, 22.

Aristophanes in "Plutus" at 506 used hodόs to mean a course of action: εἰ παύσει ταύτην βλέψας ποθ' ὁ Πλοῦτος, ὁδόν ἤντιν' ἵων τοῖς ἀνθρώποις ἀγάθ' ἵν μείζω πορίσειν, "if Plutus...drove out [Poverty], it would be the greatest blessing possible for the human race."

Plato used the word hodόs as follows in his Laws, 810e: θαρροῦντα τὴν νῦν ἐκ τῶν παρόντων λόγων τετμημένην ὁδόν τῆς νομοθεσίας πορεύεσθαι, "to proceed boldly along the path of legislation marked out in our present discourse..."

I have not seen the word ποιέω used for the idea of "make a road." Thucydides in his Histories, at 2.100.2, when describing improvements to a country made by king Archelaus, including the making of roads, did not use ποιέω, but said Ἀρχέλαος...καὶ ὁδοῦς εὐθείας ἑτεμε..., "Archelaus...also cut straight roads."

In Tragedy, the verb ἀνύειν was used in phrases with ὁδόν or κέλευθον meaning "make one's way," or "win."

Ποιέω often means the same as πράσσω. Ποιέω was used, for example to say "good doings or practices." Herodotus used ποιέω this way in his Histories, 3.75.1 about king Cyrus: ἔλεγε ὅσα ἀγαθὰ Κῦρος Πέρσας πεποιήκοι, "he recounted all the good that Cyrus had done to Persia..."

In fact ποιέω can itself mean something similar to the metaphorical hodόs, i.e., "practice" or "custom." Speaking of polygamy in Histories, at 5.40.2, Herodotus said ...γυναῖκας ἔχων δύο διξὰς οἴκεε, ποιέων οὐδαμῶς Σπαρτιητικά. "...he had two wives and kept two households, a thing which is not at all customary at Sparta."

In light of the above word studies, the ὁδόν ποιεῖν in Mark 2:23 could even be a Hebraistic redundancy: "they practiced a practice." If it means something like, "they began to do a custom," or "began to practice a way," then it could be explained a couple of ways. One, that since they were all unemployed, and perpetual travelers, it was a way of life for them to eat from the fields of others. Or two, more like Plato’s ὁδόν τῆς νομοθεσίας πορεύεσθαι, "to proceed along the path of legislation..."

Thus in my humble opinion the most satisfactory explanation of these words is that Mark is explaining Jewish things to us, as he often does, thanks be to God. Mark is here editorializing, as he often does for the benefit of his non-Jewish readers. In this case he is explaining lest the readers think the disciples were doing something wrong like stealing or trespassing. Mark probably wanted them to know that this was an acceptable way of the Jews, the allowable Jewish practice of "plucking the heads," of Deuteronomy 23:25, "If you enter your neighbor's grainfield, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain."

It may well be that it was foreseen that this passage would be scandalous in the eyes of many future readers. To wit, if Mark had not explained this for us in his gospel, then wherever this gospel is translated throughout the world, into the remotest tribal language, this passage would raise eyebrows among the tribespeople, as follows. "Jesus and his disciples would trespass and steal their neighbors' food!" I assure you that the stealing of food is what tribespeople will zero in on, and continue to do so, even after you explain any Sabbath issue. Thus it is that Mark tells us that this practice was acceptable; it was a "path of legislation." It was an acceptable way, a Jewish way, a custom.

Mark 3:9; πλοιάριον προσκαρτερή...ἵνα μὴ θλίβωσιν αὐτόν

I see three possibilities of interpretation here:

(1) This clause expresses a concern that something might happen, or is like a δίως clause, or also like the "infinitive of result," expressing a result, with the previously stated condition as a deterrent to prevent the result. Since θλίβωσιν is the present subjunctive, this theory is possible. That idea would be that Jesus wanted to use the presence of the boat as a threat to deter the people, that if they would not queue up in a civilized manner to be healed in turn, he would get into the boat, and then none of them could be healed. Thus, "he told his disciples that a boat should be on hand for him, because of the crowd, so that they would not crush him."

But, I see two problems with this interpretation; one, is that it does not say that Jesus actually got into the boat at this time; and two, that it seems out of character for Jesus to threaten them with withdrawal, out of concern for his own injury. One thing I perceived out of translating Mark is how "close to the edge" Jesus lived; indeed, a few paragraphs later we see that his family did not approve. Jesus was not a wimp as far as fear and desire for self-preservation. The point is that Jesus would not be concerned about the crowd merely pressing in upon him. Instead, here I think that he was in mortal danger of being literally crushed under a pile of bodies. The Greek word ἐπιπίπτω – epiπtô originally meant an attack, like when an army or a lion would "fall upon" its prey (though it can also be used figuratively). One might even translate it here, "leaped upon" him. I picture Jesus struggling to stay standing, because at the very least, he was getting knocked from a domino effect, if not actually having people landing on him after leaping over the people that had been in their way. At any rate, I do not think the mere presence of a boat nearby would succeed in deterring the desperate crowd of sick people.

(2) On the other hand, the present subjunctive in this situation could also mean something similar to μέλλει - méllēi, that something is about to happen. And ἵνα μὴ sometimes is an expression of apprehension, BDF §370(1), cf. LXX Daniel 1:10. Thus, "a boat should be kept handy for him, because of the crowd, in case they should crush him." In other words, Jesus would use the boat in the event that the crowd got too overwhelming.

I have chosen stronger shades of meaning of the words than some. I don't think the scene was very genteel. Picture people without medicine available as we know it, and without money even if it was, who had heard that Jesus could and did completely heal any ailment, and they walk, in desperation, from as far away as Idumea, and Sidon, and when they arrive to Jesus, they merely "press upon him"? Since people dug through a roof above him to get to him when he was in a house, imagine what hordes of desperate people would do when Jesus was standing out in the open, on the beach. Jesus simply wanted to have an escape route ready, in order to prevent his suffocation, in case it came to that, so that he could continue doing the Father's work. His time had not yet come for him to die. But I think he wanted to heal as many people as possible, not withdraw from them on the boat just out of reach.

(3) The third possibility is that the present subjunctive of προσκαρτέρω, "that a boat be continually at hand," is meant as a wish for the near future. Thus, "he told his disciples that in the future a boat should be ready for him, because of the crowd, so that then they would not crush him."

This latter seems the most likely, for later, and only later, do we see, in Mark 4:1, that Jesus used the new strategy to deal with large crowds: "a very large crowd collects around him, such that he boards a boat to sit on the lake, and all the crowd was on the land up to the water's edge." Boarding the boat and floating separate from the crowd made it possible for Jesus to teach them at all, for it is hard to teach when you are trying to keep your footing.

Mark 14:72, ἐπιβάλλω - epiballô

The words "when he thought upon" are translated from the Greek word ἐπιβάλλω (epiballô), which hyper literally means "throw upon," or, "throw over," and which is in the punctiliar participle form. There are three schools of thought on how to translate this: one, as I have it above.

The second school objects, saying the idea of "think upon" is redundant since it already states that Peter "recalled" the statement. And they point to uses of the word where it appears to mean somewhat the same as ἄρχομαι (árchomai), or "begin to do something," and they render it something like, "And he broke down and wept," or, "he burst into tears." As for the objection regarding the redundancy of "thinking upon," I see them as two quite different actions: merely remembering something is very different from reflecting upon something.

The third school translates epiballô as a reflexive, which is in fact possible, since there are plenty of examples of transitive active verbs of action being used reflexively, that is, as though in the middle voice, where the agent acts upon himself. In fact epiballô (along with its compounds) is one of the two verbs with which this is most common, according to Blass. This school would translate this something like, "And after having thrown himself down, he wept." I consider this possible, since the word is also used in the New Testament for "pour." Thus, "And having poured himself upon [the ground], he wept," or, "having flung himself, he wept." This latter is what I had chosen for my first edition of my Diatessaron. This solution has the attractive trait to it that one need not supply any English words as being implied, unlike with the other two possibilities. And it seems to fit well with Matthew's account which says he wept "bitterly." I can easily imagine one dropping to the ground because of the bitterness or strength or abandon of one's sobbing.

Mark Endnote #6

Mark 15:2, Ὡ λέγεις - Ὡ λέγεις

In Mark 15:2, Jesus' answer to Pilate's question, "Are you the king of the Jews," the words I translated: "You are the one saying that," the words in the Greek are Ὡ λέγεις – Ὡ λέγεις. This means literally, "You are saying," or, "Are you saying?" Is this an affirmative response or not?

On the one hand, the presence of the personal pronoun "su" is not necessary for the sense, nor for the completeness of the sentence (because the suffix on the word for "say" indicates 2nd person). This can mean that "su" is being emphasized. So some contrast could be indicated, contrasting what "you" say, to what "I" say. This is more clearly so in John 18:34, where Jesus says, ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ σὺ τοῦτο λέγεις – "Of yourself do you say this, or have others told you about me?" And in John 18:37, where Jesus says Ὡ λέγεις ὅτι βασιλεύς εἰμι. Ἐγὼ εἰς τοῦτο... "You are saying that I am a king; I am saying that for this: I came into the world to testify to the truth." See DeBrunner, § 277 (2). There is also some contrast intended by "su" in Matthew 26:64, Ὡ εἶπας· πλὴν λέγω ὑμῖν... (plēn légō humȋn), "You said it. But I say to you,...". And if Jesus wanted to be unambiguously affirmative, he could have answered as he did in Mark 14:62 to the high priest's question, "Are you the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One?" There, Jesus' answer was an unmistakably affirmative, ἐγώ εἰμι (egō eimi), "I am."

Bauer interprets the Ὡ λέγεις here as, "That is what you maintain." Or perhaps it is a question like in John's account: "Is that what you maintain?" For such uses of λέγειν see Mark 6:14-15; 8:29. In this sense, I could see it as a response arising out of Jesus' awareness of the prosecutorial import of Pilate's question. That is, Pilate was considering charging Jesus with claiming to be a king, an act treasonous to Caesar. And a non-answer on the part of Jesus would better fulfill his destiny as given in Isaiah 53:7, that like a lamb that is led to slaughter, and as a sheep before its shearers is silent, so he did not open his mouth.

On the other hand, in some contexts where the phrases Ὡ λέγεις and the similar Ὡ εἶπας (you said) are given in answer, we have reason to believe they were understood by the hearers as affirmative answers. In Matthew 26:25, after Jesus had declared to his disciples that one of them would betray him, they each in turn said, "Surely not I, Lord?" When Judas Iscariot asked the same, Jesus' answer to him was, Ὡ εἶπας. "You said it." And in Luke 22:70 when the Sanhedrin asked Jesus if he was the son of God, Jesus answered, ὑμεῖς λέγετε ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι (you are saying that I am). This was taken by the Sanhedrin as a blasphemous "yes," for they then said, "Why do we need any more testimony? For we ourselves have heard from his own mouth." However, knowing the more complete text of the conversation as found in Matthew, the reaction of the Sanhedrin could have been in response to his later saying, as in Matthew 26:64, "You said it. But I say to you, from now on you will see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven."

If someone wanted to simply say "Yes" as an answer to a question, all they had to say in Greek is Ναί, of which there are many examples in the Greek New Testament. In Matthew alone:

9:28 Ἐλθόντι δὲ εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, προσήλθον αὐτῷ οἱ τυφλοί, καὶ λέγει αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Πιστεύετε ὅτι δύναμαι τοῦτο ποιῆσαι; Λέγουσιν αὐτῷ, Ναί, κύριε.

13:51 Ἡγεί αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Συνήκατε ταῦτα πάντα; Λέγουσιν αὐτῷ, Ναί, κύριε.

17:25 Λέγει, Ναί. Καὶ ὅτε εἰσῆλθεν εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, προέφθασεν αὐτὸν ὁ Ἰησοῦς, λέγων, Τί σοι δοκεῖ, Σίμων; Οἱ βασιλεῖς τῆς γῆς ἀπὸ τίνων λαμβάνουσιν τέλη ἢ κῆνσον; Ἀπὸ τῶν υἱῶν αὐτῶν, ἢ ἀπὸ τῶν ἄλλων;

21:16 καὶ εἶπον αὐτῷ, Ἀκούεις τί οὗτοι λέγουσιν; Ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς λέγει αὐτοῖς, Ναί: οὐδέποτε ἀνέγνωτε ὅτι Ἐκ στόματος νηπίων καὶ θηλαζόντων κατηρτίσω αὐτοίνοι;

If we take Jesus' Σὺ λέγεις as an affirmative response, however, it would not be accurate to translate it as simply, "Yes." Better would be something like "As you say," or "You've got it," or "You are saying rightly."

When translating this phrase in Mark, Sù légeis, it is impossible to stay completely neutral by simply translating the Greek words literally, and adding no English words. For in English, the words "You are saying" would not be a complete sentence. The English word "say" is always transitive, requiring an object in the sentence. In other words, the sentence must tell what is said. Thus, when you look at various English translations, you will find distinct differences.

We would be remiss if we did not consider the question, in light of other sources as well, as to whether Jesus actually considered himself the king of the Jews. And we must consider both ideas in the question: first, there is the question of kingship at all, and secondly there is the question whether he is king of the Jews. He admitted to being God's Anointed One, when Peter declared so in answer to Jesus' question, "Who do you say I am?" (Matthew 16:15-20) But significantly, Jesus used this as a segue to say, "I will build my church."

All four gospels have Pilate asking Jesus, "Are you the king of the Jews," Mt 27:11, Mk 15:2, Lk 23:3, Jn 18:33. And in all four gospels Jesus' answer contains the words σὺ λέγεις. But The three synoptic gospels have no detail in the conversation between Jesus and Pilate; they have Σὺ λέγεις as Jesus' entire answer. The gospel of John, however, it takes four verses after Pilate asks him if he is the king of the Jews, to cover Jesus' answers and Pilate's responses. In John, the words Σὺ λέγεις are found both immediately after Pilate's question, in verse 18:34, which all translations interpret as a question, "Are you saying this...?" and then also three verses later the words Σὺ λέγεις are found as a statement, "You are saying that..." Thus John's gospel is by far the most detailed in its recounting of Jesus' conversation with Pilate, and sheds the most light on the question at hand, that is, whether Jesus considered himself the king of the Jews.

In John's gospel, Jesus admits to being a king, but makes three qualifications to his kingship: (1.) His kingship is not of this world, 18:36; (2.) His kingship is not from this place, 18:36; and (3.) kingship is not the reason he was born into the world, 18:37.

Throughout Jesus' ministry, he urged secrecy upon those he healed, and upon demons, that they not reveal who he was. After the feeding of the 5,000, John tells us Jesus knew that many in the crowd wanted to come and take him to make him king by force (6:15). Jesus circumvented even the possibility of that. It seems that the possibility of his being King of the Jews was to be first offered to and considered by the Sanhedrin. (Jesus himself said they sit in Moses' seat, Matthew 23:2.) If they were willing, John was the Elijah who was to come, Matthew 11:14. But the leaders were not willing. They alone did not submit to John's baptism, Luke 7:29-30. True, when Jesus made his triumphal entry into Jerusalem, he did not refute or controvert those hailing the arrival of the Son of David, the King of Israel. Then when tried by the Sanhedrin, Jesus acknowledged being the Messiah, the Son of David, and hence the King of the Jews. The Sanhedrin however rejected him as such, and thereby rejected him on behalf of the whole nation of Israel. Then kicked in Jesus' prophecy that "the kingdom will be taken away from you and given to a people who will produce its fruit," Matthew 21:43. So by the time Jesus was tried by Pilate, Jesus had ceased to be officially offered as the Messiah. Yet could it be that God in his patience once again was holding out his Son to the leaders through Pilate: "Would you have me release to you the King of the Jews?" But they once again responded, "No, let his blood be on us and on our children!" Shudder at the words. And so it would be.
Does this leave open the possibility that Jesus answered affirmatively to Pilate that he was the king of the Jews? I think not. Pilate's reaction is telling. We are told that Pilate is astonished that Jesus gave no answer, not to even a single charge. You see, according to Mark 15:26, "king of the Jews" was the charge against him that was made notice of over his head at his crucifixion, the charge for which the Sanhedrin executed him. Thus, we may say that the Sanhedrin alleged that he claimed to be king of the Jews, and Pilate asked him if this charge was true, and Jesus says to Pilate, "Are you alleging so?" In Roman law, an averment when unrebutted, thereafter stood as valid. Jesus did not rebut, to the astonishment of Pilate. But this was Jesus' destiny: "As a sheep before its shearsers is silent, so he did not open his mouth." Jesus neither confirmed nor denied the charges. Prophecy states that Jesus would not answer the charges. And he did not answer.

Something else to consider, is that Jesus had already consistently avoided disclosing that he was the king of the Jews, avoided disclosing it to the general Jewish populace. Why would he now readily admit it to the Roman governor?

I concluded ultimately to render the phrase Σὺ λέγεις as I did, because there is no compelling evidence from other Biblical Greek usage that it is an idiom for simply "Yes." I have been shown some Rabbinic examples where it was understood as a Yes, and some where it would obviously not be understood as a yes. Therefore, I have to conclude that it is not a yes of any kind. At the same time, it is not a denial. Which sometimes some people might take as a yes.

But as for translation, it should be translated literally, and left at that. No helper words should be added that might imply an affirmative answer. Because it was not always an affirmative answer.

Here are a couple Rabbinic examples:

As cited by Thayer in 1894, pp. 40-41:

Jerusalem Talmud, ed. Wagenseil, Tract Sota, p. 1001; see also tract. Kilaim, fol. 32, col. 2. Thayer states it this way:

"The story relates to the famous Judah 'Hakkodesh,' who in the second century is reputed to have codified the Mishna. The substance of it ... runs as follows: "When Rabbi Judah was on his dying bed and the fatal hour was at hand, the inhabitants of Sepphoris (where he dwelt) in an excess of sorrow spread abroad the saying, “Whoever shall tell us that the Rabbi is dead we will slay.” Therefore, when he had breathed his last, the son of Kaphra betakes himself to them, with head covered and raiment torn, and addresses them as follows: “Holy men and heavenly powers laid hold at the same time on the Tables of the Law, and each party endeavorerd to get possession of them, but the heavenly powers prevailed, and they carried off the Tables.” Thereupon the citizens of Sephoris inquire, “Has Rabbi Judah fallen asleep?” The son of Kaphra replies, “Ye have said.” Then they rent their robes, etc.”

On p. 42 Thayer suggests a Hebrew phrase such as ken dibarta as the equivalent.

Here is a blog entry that was brought to my attention, apparently posted by a Matt Colvin. I think it has some very good points.

Alastair has asked me to blog about something Jesus said during His earthly ministry. This being Lent, I thought it might be good to focus on something he repeats three times during the Passion week. Thrice Jesus answers a question by su eipas “you have said (it),” or su legeis “you say (it)”. With this reply, He is answering momentous questions: “Is it I [who am to betray you], Lord?” by Judas (Mt. 26:25); “Are you the Christ, the Son of the Blessed One?” by the High Priest (Mt. 26:64); and “You are the king of the Jews?” by Pilate (Mt. 27:11, Mk. 15:2, Lk. 23:3, Jn. 18:37). The reply to all three is mistranslated by many Bibles as “It is as you say,” i.e. a direct affirmation of the proposition put in the question. It is amusing to look at the NKJV and find “It is as you say” – the italics indicating the translators’ supplements.

David Daube, in an article on Judas, traces Jesus’ utterance to the Hebrew ‘amarta, which Strack-Billerbeck equate with wie du sagst, so ist es: “as you say, so it is.” But this is not the true meaning of the phrase. Daube cites an episode from t. B. K. Kelim 1:6, which concerns a dispute over whether a certain entrance to the Temple had required a washing of hands and feet. After the war with Rome, Rabbi Simon the Modest, in the presence of Rabbi Eliezer ben Hyrcanus, professed that he used to enter that particular gate without washing. “Whereupon Eliezer, a giant in learning and piety yet rudely domineering, asked him which was more esteemed, he or the High Priest. Simon kept silent. Eliezer: “You are ashamed to admit that the High Priest’s dog was more esteemed than you.” Simon: “Rabbi, you have said it.”
Eliezer: “By the Temple service, they would break even the High Priest’s head with their clubs [were he to enter unwashed]; what would you do that the guard might not find you?”

R. Simon’s use of ‘amarta is a reply to Eliezer’s rude comparison of himself with the High Priest’s dog. It is a mistake to read it as “Yes, you’re absolutely right.” It is far more subtle than that: something more like, “I take no responsibility for the proposition you have just put. It came out of your mouth, not mine. To say more would be to cross a line into impropriety.”

Consider: a straight “Yep” would be absolutely inappropriate in Judas’ case. “One of you is going to betray me.” Judas: “Is it I, Rabbi?” Jesus: “Bingo.” This would be mere fatalism, not Biblical prophecy. Judas becomes a sort of Oedipus, betraying the Messiah malgré lui. But Jesus’ answer is a non-denial, not a straight affirmation. Judas will betray, but not because Jesus has compelled him.

The answers given on the witness stand before the Sanhedrin and Pilate would be less troublesome if they were reduced to “yes.” But there, too, Jesus has His reasons for evasion. Of course, Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One. And the reaction of His opponents to his use of su eipas is to treat it as a “yes.” But this is because in their eyes only a denial of His Messiahship would do. As for Pilate, N.T. Wright points out that his question is in the form of a statement: “You are the king of the Jews” – su ei ho basileus twn Ioudaiwn. The answer “Thou sayest” has a further nuance to it: You think you are asking, but you are in fact declaring. Pilate will end by writing Jesus’ title on a sign over His head.

Jesus’ answer before the Sanhedrin and Pilate is of a piece with the rest of His earthly ministry. He never denies His messiahship, but He seldom asserts it verbally. Rather, by His actions, He lets the Father and Spirit testify of Him, while He testifies of Them. Of course, He is the king of the Jews. But recall to what lengths he had gone to avoid oral professions of it. When John’s disciples asked him if He was the Coming One, “or do we wait for another”, Jesus directed them to “Tell John what you have seen and heard,” and adverted to His miracles and His preaching of the kingdom. When confronted by the Pharisees about the crowds who were hailing Him as Messiah, He replies that if they do not do it, the stones will cry out. He tells the Jews that “If I testify about myself, my testimony is not true…There is one who testifies.” What wonder then that when on the witness stand, Jesus still refuses to testify? “You will see the Son of Man coming in the clouds, and sitting at the right hand of God.” The Father will vindicate Him. He does not need to argue His way to a “not guilty” verdict.

Klaas Schilder likes to point out that though Jesus is in the dock, it is really the Sanhedrin and Pilate who are on trial. Jesus is pronouncing sentence on them. He has come to Israel and done the works of His Father. All Israel is on trial to see what she thinks of God’s anointed. Peter passed the same test with his profession: “You are the Christ, the son of the living God,” and Jesus congratulated him. But then He immediately commanded his disciples to tell no one (Mt. 16:20).

The Jews of Jesus’ day took His reticence for a “yes”: “What further need of witnesses? You have heard the blasphemy.” But many modern Jews take it as a “no.” A. Kolatch, The Second Jewish Book of Why, p. 71:

Many Jewish scholars believe that Jesus considered himself a prophet only. They reject the contention of Christian scholars that when Jesus used the phrase “Son of Man” in his preaching (first mentioned in Daniel 7:13, where the Aramaic phrase bar enash is used), he was referring to himself as the Messiah. The phrase “Son of Man,” in the Jewish view, is used in the third person, and more likely than not, when Jesus used the phrase he was referring to someone other than himself. Jewish scholars also point to the fact that there is little evidence in the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke) – the earliest account of the life of Jesus – that Jesus regarded himself as the Messiah.

“Little evidence”?? What kind of evidence did Kolatch want? Miracles?

The trial continues to this day. Who do you say that He is?

The above Rabbinic example shows that the idiom does not mean “It is as you say.” It really is a non-answer. Sometimes it was understood as yes, sometimes not. So, we should just translate it literally.

There is no example of this exact phrase in the Septuagint that is an answer to a yes-or-no question. What instances there are in the LXX are below:
1 Kings 3:23 Σὺ λέγεις means “you are claiming.” This is the famous dispute between the two women as to whose son it was that was the living baby, and King Solomon wisely settled it. He said to one of them, “You are claiming ‘My son is the living one.’” Then in the same verse, σὺ λέγεις appears again, when he says to the other woman, “You say, ‘No, on the contrary, my son is the living one.’”

1 Kings 18:11 And now you are saying, ‘Go tell your master…’

1 Kings 18:14 you are saying, same as 18:11

2 Esdras 15:12 οὕτως ποιήσομεν, καθὼς σὺ λέγεις. “This we have done, just as you say.”

2 Esdras 16:8 καὶ ἀπέστειλα πρὸς αὐτὸν λέγων ὡς οἱ λόγοι οὗτοι, οὓς σὺ λέγεις, ὅτι ἀπὸ καρδίας σου σὺ ψεύδῃ αὐτούς. Here it means “these words which you are saying.” Nothing like “yes.”

Amos 7:16 καὶ νῦν ἄκουε λόγον κυρίου Σὺ λέγεις Μὴ προφήτευε ἐπὶ τὸν Ἰσραηλ. “And now, listen: A word of the Lord: ‘You say, ‘Do not prophesy against Israel…’”

Jeremiah 39:25 καὶ σὺ λέγεις πρὸς με Κτήσαι σεαυτῷ ἄγρον ἀργυρίου. And you say to me, “Buy yourself the field with silver”

Jeremiah 39:36 καὶ νῦν οὕτως εἶπεν κύριος ὁ θεὸς Ἰσραηλ. ἐπὶ τὴν πόλιν, ἢν σὺ λέγεις Παραδοθήσεται εἰς χέιρας βασιλέως Βαβυλώνος ἐν μαχαίρᾳ καὶ ἐν λιμῷ καὶ ἐν ἀποστολῇ. “And now thus the Lord God of Israel has spoken concerning this city, of which you say, ‘It shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon by the sword…’”

Jeremiah 39:43 καὶ κτηθήσονται ἕτεροι ἐν τῇ γη, ἢ σὺ λέγεις Ἀβατός ἐστιν ἀπὸ ἀνθρώπων καὶ κτήτορός καὶ παρειδοθησαν εἰς χέιρας Χαλδαιῶν. And there shall still yet be fields bought in the land, about which you say, ‘It shall be destitute of man and beast…’”

Jeremiah 47:16 καὶ εἶπεν Γοδολίας πρὸς Ιωαν τῇ ποιήσει τὸ πράγμα τούτο, ὅτι ψευδή σὺ λέγεις περὶ Ἰσμαηλ. But Godolias said to Joanan, “Do not do the thing, for you are saying lies about Israel.”

Mark Endnote #7

DOES THE GREEK VERB ΦΟΒΕΩ REQUIRE AN OBJECT?

Some interpreters maintain that the Greek word in Mark 16:8 for “they were afraid,” ἐφοβοῦντο, should be translated “they were afraid of...” They maintain that this verb always requires an object. The answer to this question would have much bearing on whether the longer ending of Mark naturally follows, or if the original ending was lost.

Friederich Blass says in § 149 that this verb (he lists verbs in present infinitive form, i.e., φοβεῖσθαι) is usually transitive. Bauer’s lexicon does comment that “for they were afraid of...” is an odd way to end the eighth verse. My opinion is that, if this verb is required to be transitive there, it is the guards that they were afraid of, since the guards were probably still present at the tomb. See my Diatessaron.

Further, some say that it is odd for a sentence to end with γάρ, but this is not true. There is nothing unusual about γάρ being placed either before or after other words. Even in English this word order would not be odd. The word γάρ is an explanatory word which might nicely be rendered as “they were afraid, you see.”

The verb φοβέω - phobēō is in the imperfect in Mark 16:8, so I have located all occurrences of this verb in the imperfect to be found in the Greek New Testament, and typed them below. It can be seen that only very rarely is φοβέω - phobēō not transitive. The intransitive ones are Mark 10:32, only one out of twelve.

ἐφοβοῦντο (third person, plural, imperfect, as in 16:8)

Mark 9:32 οἱ δὲ ἤγνωσον τὸ ὄνομα, καὶ ἐφοβοῦντο αὐτῶν ἐπερωτήσαι.

32 But they did not understand the statement, and they were afraid to query him.
Mark 10:32 Ἡσαν δὲ ἐν τῇ ὁδῷ ἀναβαίνοντες εἰς Ἰεροσόλυμα, καὶ ἦν προάγον αὐτοὺς ὁ Ιησοῦς, καὶ ἑθαμβοῦντο, οἱ δὲ ἀκολουθοῦντες ἐφοβοῦντο.

32And they were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was going on ahead of them; they were stunned, while those following were fearing. And taking the Twelve aside again, he began to tell them the things about to happen to him.

Mark 11:18 καὶ ἦκουσαν οἱ ἀρχιερεῖς καὶ οἱ γραμματεῖς, καὶ ἐζήτουν πῶς αὐτὸν ἀπολέσωσιν ἐφοβοῦντο γὰρ αὐτὸν

18And the chief priests and the Torah scholars heard, and they were looking for a way to kill him, for they feared him, Mark 11:32 ἀλλὰ εἴπωμεν, Ἐξ ἀνθρώπων; – ἐφοβοῦντο τὸν ὄχλον, ἀπαντες γὰρ εἶχον τὸν Ἴδαννην ὄντας ὅτι προφήτης ἦν.

32On the other hand, dare we say, 'From human beings?" (They were fearing the people, for they all held that John really was a prophet.)

Mark 16:8 καὶ ἔξελθοσαί ἔφυγον ἀπὸ τοῦ μνημείου, εἶχεν γὰρ αὐτᾶς τρόμος καὶ ἐκστάσεις· καὶ οὐδὲν οὐδὲν εἶπαν, ἐφοβοῦντο γὰρ.

Luke 9:45b ὥσκαι ἐφοβοῦντο ἐρωτήσαι αὐτὸν περὶ τοῦ ὁμήματος τούτου.

And they were afraid to ask him about this statement.

2and the chief priests and the Torah scholars were still yet looking for a way to put him to death, because they were still yet fearing the people.

And all the things announced they shortly reported to those around Peter. And after these things also Jesus himself sent out through them, from the rising as far as the setting of the sun, the holy and enduring proclamation of eternal salvation. Amen.

The Longer Ending:

9 And having risen early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, from whom he had expelled seven demons.
10 She went and reported to the ones mourning and weeping, who had been with him.
11 And they, when they heard that he was living and was seen by her, did not believe it.
12 And after these things he was manifested in a different form to two of them as they were walking along in the country.
13 And those went and reported to the rest; neither did they believe those.
14 And finally, once when they had reclined, he was manifested to the Eleven themselves, and he denounced their disbelief and hardness of heart, in that they had not believed the ones who had seen him risen.

(W) And they excused themselves, saying, "This age of lawlessness and unbelief is under Satan, who does not allow the truth and power of God to prevail over the unclean things dominated by the spirits. Therefore reveal your righteousness now." They spoke to Christ; and Christ responded to them, "The limit of the years of Satan's power is completed, but other terrible things draw near. And for those who have sinned I was handed over to death, that they might return to the truth and no longer sin, in order that they might inherit the spiritual and incorruptible glory of righteousness in heaven. But after you have gone into all the world,..."

15 And he said to them, "After you have gone into all the world, proclaim the good news to the whole creation.
16 "The person who believes and is baptized will be saved, but the person who does not believe will be condemned."
17 "And these signs will accompany those who believe: in my name they will drive out demons, they will speak in new tongues,

18 "they will pick up serpents, and should they drink something deadly it would in no wise hurt them; they will lay their hands on sick ones, and they will have health again."

19 And so the Lord after speaking to them was taken up to heaven, and sat at the right hand of God.

20 And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord co-working and confirming the word by the signs accompanying.

The last twelve verses of Mark as found in the King James Version, verses 9-20, are known as The Longer Ending of Mark. The paragraph before verse 9 is called The Shorter Ending, and is found in one Italic manuscript as the only ending to the gospel, and in some other manuscripts is found in combination with verses 9 through 12 as shown. The paragraph beginning with (W) remains in only one Greek manuscript today, Codex Washingtoniensis, or "W," although Jerome speaks of others extant in his time. These latter two passages are so undoubtedly inauthentic that they will not be examined here.

Mark 16:9-20, known as "The Longer Ending of Mark:"

PROBLEM 1: The connection between verse 8 and verses 9-20 is abrupt and awkward. Verse 9 begins with the masculine nominative participle anastas, which demands for its antecedent a masculine topic, i.e., Jesus; but the subject of the last sentence of verse 8 is the women, not Jesus" (Zondervan's NIV Bible Commentary, Vol II p 204):

8 And going out, they fled from the tomb. For trembling shock was holding them; and they said nothing to anyone, because THEY were afraid.

9 And having risen early on the first day of the week, HE appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, from whom he had expelled seven demons.

There is a lack of transition from the plural female topic of verse 8 to the masculine singular of verse 9. That is not how Greek worked. That is not even how English works. Even by English rules, when you change the subject of narrative or conversation, you have to use a proper noun. If you change the subject with a pronoun, no one knows who or what you are talking about. This problem is one indicator that verses 9-20 were not originally part of the gospel of Mark.

PROBLEM 2: The last twelve verses of the gospel of Mark as found in the King James Version, or footnoted in recent translations, (chapter 16, verses 9-20) are not found in the two earliest complete Greek manuscripts of the New Testament. As the UBS textual commentary states, they are also absent from many of the oldest translations of Mark into other languages, for example, the Latin, Sinaitic Syriac, and Georgian translations. Clement of Alexandria and Origen show no knowledge of the existence of these verses; furthermore Eusebius and Jerome attest that the passage was absent from almost all Greek copies of Mark known to them. The original form of the Eusebian sections (drawn up by Ammonius) makes no provision for numbering sections of the text after 16:8. Not a few manuscripts which contain the passage have scribal notes stating that older Greek copies lack it, and in other witnesses the passage is marked with asterisks or obeli, the conventional signs used by copyists to indicate an inauthentic addition to a document. Other manuscripts which do contain the passage place it in differing locations in Mark, and still another Greek manuscript that contains the long ending has a large addition following verse 14. There is also another ending entirely, a shorter one, found in other Greek manuscripts. Add to all this the internal consideration that none of the endings are written in Mark’s style and vocabulary. Another major internal consideration is how awkwardly verse 9 connects the line of thought from verse 8, or rather fails to connect.

See Metzger, Bruce M., A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament, on behalf of and in cooperation with the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies’ Greek New Testament: Kurt Aland, Matthew Black, Carlo M. Martini, Bruce M. Metzger, and Allen Wikgren (Stuttgart, United Bible Societies, Corrected Edition, 1975) for the details, which are compelling evidence in favor of the spuriousness of the passage. The Editorial Committee concludes:

"Thus, on the basis of good external evidence and strong internal considerations it appears that the earliest ascertainable form of the Gospel of Mark ended with 16:8. (Three possibilities are open: (a) the evangelist intended to close his Gospel at this place; or (b) the Gospel was never finished; or, as seems most probable, (c) the Gospel accidentally lost its last leaf before it was multiplied by transcription.) At the same time, however, out of deference to the evident antiquity of the longer ending and its importance in the textual tradition of the Gospel, the Committee decided to include verses 9-20 as part of the text, but to enclose them within double square brackets to indicate that they are the work of an author other than the evangelist."

It is true that Mark 16:9-20 was utilized in the 180’s by Irenaeus, in the 170’s by Tatian, around 160 by Justin, and probably by the unknown author of Epistula Apostolorum, around 150. Many other patristic writers, such as Hippolytus, Ambrose, and Augustine, also used the passage.

Eusebius of Caesarea, a church father who died in the year 339, said, in “Questiones ad Marium” published by Cardinal Mai, in his “Nova Patrum Bibliotheca” (Romae, 1847,) vol. IV, pp. 255-7 the following:

Πῶς παρὰ μὲν τῷ Ματθαίῳ ὅπερ σαββάτον φαίνεται ἐγεγερμένος ὁ Σωτήρ, παρὰ δὲ τῷ Μάρκω προὶ τῇ μιᾷ τῶν σαββάτων.

The key section is translated as follows: "For, on the one hand, the person who rejects the passage itself – the pericope which says this – might say that it does not appear in all copies of the Gospel of Mark. At any rate, the accurate copies end their text of the Marcan account with the words of the young man who appeared to the women and said to them, "Do not fear. You are seeking Jesus the Nazarene" and so forth, proceeding to where it says, ‘And having heard, they fled, and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.’

"That is where the text does end, in almost all copies of the Gospel according to Mark. The material that comes next seldom appears; it is in some copies but not in all, and may be spurious, especially since it implies a contradiction to the witness of the other Gospels. This, then, is what someone might say to avoid and completely do away with a superfluous question.

"On the other hand, someone else, who dares to set aside nothing at all which appears, by whatever means, in the text of the gospels, says that the reading, like many others, is double, and each of the two must be accepted, in that they are approved in the opinion of the faithful and pious; not this one instead of that one, or that one rather than this one.

"Well then, allowing this portion [of Mark] to be really authentic, our business is to interpret the sense of the passage."

End Quotation of Eusebius. You can read this on page 113, download Roger Pearse's PDF of this free here.

We see from the above that scribes were far more afraid to omit anything, however suspect it was, than to add something to the text. Which is another prop for the tenet, that the shorter reading is generally to be preferred. That tenet has that going for it, that scribes were more afraid to remove anything than to add something, at least for longer passages. If just one word or one letter, omissions are more likely than additions.

I say that, since Eusebius indicates that some people stated that the Gospel of Mark ended at verse 16:8 in "almost all the copies" in the 4th century, it bolsters the reputation of the two or three manuscripts currently extant which omit the long ending of Mark, and these must therefore be considered the most significant manuscripts for consideration. Thus we can say, that though a majority of late copies now contain it, the "majority text" used to omit it. What value is there, then, in a "majority text" derived from counting up only the recent and late copies, when in the 3rd and 4th centuries, the majority of manuscripts read so differently from the present majority?

The conclusion is, most Textual Criticism scholars agree, we must "weigh" each manuscript and witness, not "count" them. Thus, the testimony of Codex Vaticanus is more important than the testimony of 4,000 cursives from the much later centuries.

Some might refer us to John William Burgon, and his book, "The last twelve verses of the Gospel according to S. Mark vindicated against recent critical objectors established,", pp. 41-51. In it Burgon attempts to lessen the impact of the testimony of Eusebius and Jerome about the the longer ending of Mark not being found in the accurate copies, and being absent in almost all the copies of Mark.

Burgon spends some time questioning the authenticity of the document provided by Cardinal Mai entitled "Quaestiones ad Marinum," and its quotations of Eusebius. Why? Because it appears to be a CONDENSED version of Eusebius, Burgon says. But then, on p. 44, Burgon says, "Let it, however, be candidly admitted that there seems to be no reason for supposing that whenever the lost work of Eusebius comes to light, (and it has been seen within about 300 years,) it will exhibit anything essentially different from what is contained in the famous passage which has given rise to so much debate...."

In the succeeding pages, Burgon's main point seems to be that Eusebius is playing Devil's advocate, that "some may say that..." Well, Eusebius does not contradict or refute or dismiss those statements from such advocate.

Burgon's purpose was to show that Eusebius did not question the authenticity of the passage. In fact, Burgon himself quotes Eusebius, on p. 45, where Eusebius says about the last 12 verses of Mark, Καὶ δὴ τοῦδε τοῦ μέρους συγχωρουμένου εἶναι ἀλήθος, προσήχει τὸν νοῦν διερμηνεύειν τοῦ ἀναγνώσματος: "Well then, allowing this portion to be really authentic, our business is to interpret the sense of the passage."

Thus, Burgon himself shows us that Eusebius did in fact question the authenticity of the longer ending of Mark. Eusebius only allows for the sake of argument that it is "really genuine." That does not sound to me like Eusebius believed it to be authentic. Eusebius did not include the passage in his “Eusebian Canons.”

Some interpreters of this Eusebius passage make a point something along these lines: that Eusebius was only quoting other people's statement that the longer ending of Mark was absent from most of the copies, and thus we cannot say for certain that it was a fact that it was so absent. But would Eusebius really allow such a weighty statement to go uncontradicted, if the statement were not true? I think it is obvious that he would not. Thus it is safe to conclude that it was common knowledge, and accepted as fact in the 4th century, that many, if not most, Greek manuscripts at the time, did not
The trail of evidence of the Longer Ending being added to Mark is fairly clear:

Eusebius (4th century) in his letter to Marinum shows indication that most manuscripts of Mark in his day ended at 16:8, and did not contain the Longer Ending of Mark. The Eusebian canons did not include 16:9-20 either.

Victor of Antioch (5th century) in his commentary on the gospel of Mark admits that the verses 16:9-20 "do not appear in the existing Gospel with most copies." But he says that the better Palestinian copies included it, and he and others added together what material was in the Palestinian gospel about the Resurrection, to the other copies. This comment appears in many minuscules. [Note that Victor is not saying “Egyptian manuscripts” lack the Longer Ending of Mark. He is ‘of Antioch.’]

Translation:

"But even if the words "And having risen early" along with the words following, do not appear in the existing Gospel with most copies, as they are considered spurious, we however, having found them in most of the accurate copies, and in accordance with the Palestinian Gospel, exactly as the truth of Mark is, we have added together also the that in it, that follows the Master's resurrection, after the words "for they were afraid," that is, from "And having risen early on the first day of the week" and so on, up to the words "by the signs accompanying. Amen." "

Severus of Antioch (520 CE), in his Homily 77, says at that time "In the more accurate copies, therefore, the gospel according to Mark has the end until the [statement]: "For they were afraid." [verse 8] But in some (copies) these things, too, stand in addition: And having arisen early on the first day of the week he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons."

Thomas of Harkel in the year 616 published his translation of the NT into Syriac, called the "Harklean Syriac." We have 8 manuscripts of his work surviving today, and 6 out of those 8 contain a marginal note very similar, as follows: "In a few of those more accurate manuscripts, the Gospel of Mark finishes at ‘for [they were afraid].’ But in others, instead, they add even...

So we see that it is not a trait of Alexandrian manuscripts to omit the Longer Ending of Mark, but rather in fact the LE was absent from most of the accurate Greek manuscripts of the Syrian region as late as the 7th century.

PROBLEM 3: The passage contains a statement that is contrary to the gospel of Luke.

The statement is found in verses 12 and 13 about the two walking to Emmaus:

12 And after these things he was manifested in a different form to two of them who were walking along in the country.
13 And those went and reported to the rest; neither did they believe those.

This is contrary to Luke 24:13, 33-35 where we read:

13 And behold, two of them during that same day were making their way toward a village sixty furlongs from Jerusalem, which was called Emmaus...
33 And they got up and returned that same hour to Jerusalem, and found the Eleven and those with them assembled together, 34 saying, 'The Lord really has risen, and he appeared to Simon,' 35 And the two told what things happened on the way, and how Jesus was recognized by them when he broke the bread.

Luke says the rest responded "The Lord really has risen," thus agreeing with the two. The others agreed that Jesus was alive, because Simon Peter had already come back and told them the same thing as the two were telling them. But "Mark" 16:13 says the rest disbelieved the two. Thus, Mark 16:12-13 contradicts what Luke 24:33-35 says. So then, we either have to believe that the scriptures contain an error, or else believe that one of these passages is not scripture. The problem of the contradiction is solved, by concluding from the objective external evidence that the longer ending of Mark is not scripture, therefore we do not have a case here of scripture contradicting other scripture.

Some say that there is not a contradiction between Mark in the TR and Luke, because later in Luke, in 24:40-41, it says

"40 And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet. 41 But, since they were still not believing, out of joy and astonishment, he said to them, "What do you have to eat in this place?"

But I say this is another event. Both the passages I compared are about people walking in the countryside. Mark says the apostles did not believe that specific report, and Luke said the apostles did believe that specific report. This is not about some unbelief generally, but about this specific report of the ones who returned from a walk in the country. It is indeed a contradiction.

There are other contradictions involving the ending of Mark also, that do not show themselves until you do a harmonization of the gospels, as I have. My harmonization, called Palmer's Diatessaron, will come out when I have finished translating all four gospels. But for now, see the excerpt at the end of this document, of the resurrection portion of the existing Palmer's Diatessaron.

PROBLEM 4: The passage contains another statement that is impossible to harmonize with the other gospels. Mark 16:9 says, “…he appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, from whom he had expelled seven demons.”

This statement is impossible to reconcile with the other gospels, particularly John. It appears that Jesus first appeared to all the other women EXCEPT Mary the Magdalene, as they were heading back from the tomb to the apostles. Then, Jesus went back to the tomb and appeared to Mary the Magdalene alone, since she had stayed longer than the other women at the tomb. See my harmony of the gospels.

PROBLEM 5: The passage can be easily taken to teach doctrines that are contrary to teachings found elsewhere in the New Testament.

Verses 17-18 say Jesus said,

17 And these signs will accompany those who believe: in my name they will drive out demons, they will speak in new tongues, 18 they will pick up serpents, and should they drink something deadly, it would in no wise hurt them; they will lay their hands on sick ones, and they will have health again.

In the book of I Corinthians, chapter 12, verses 7-11, 29-31, on the other hand, the apostle Paul teaches that not all believers will speak in tongues and not all believers will have the gift of healing. A new Christian, unfamiliar with the rest of scripture, might question whether he has truly believed, thinking, "These things have not happened in my life, so I must not be a real Christian.” How discouraging this was to me personally at one time. And if the new Christian were to deliberately drink deadly poison, he would be putting God to the test, as Satan urged Christ to do when he suggested that he throw himself off the highest point of the temple. Jesus responded that although the scriptures promise the believer that God’s angels will not allow his foot to strike against a stone, it would be sin to deliberately put oneself in harm’s way (for example, drinking deadly poison), for the scriptures also say, “Thou shalt not put the Lord your God to a test.” But, in violation of this prohibition, there is a practice by some churches, based on this passage, of handling deadly snakes in church. Scores of Christians therefore die each year from snake bites in church, giving unbelievers a legitimate and justified basis to mock Christians.

SUMMARY: The evidence, both external and internal, is conclusive that the Mark 16:9-20 pericope is not part of the original Gospel of Mark. In addition, it cannot be harmonized with the Gospel of Luke. It appears that the author of Mark 16:9-20 considered verse 8 to be an inappropriate ending and felt the need to add to it a better conclusion. I suggest that the following is what he did: In verses 9-14, he summarized the endings of Matthew, Luke and John, plus Acts, and perhaps Colossians 1:23, but carelessly. Then the contents of verses 15-20 are for the most part taken from the book of Acts. He took some historical happenings of miraculous events such as tongues speaking, healing of the sick, and the apostle Paul being bitten by a snake but not being harmed, and tacked them on following Mark 16:8 because he knew from his vantage point looking back, that these are what in fact happened next. The problem is that the way it is written, he has in effect put them into Jesus' mouth as if Jesus was saying that all people who believe in him would have these things happen to them.

It is true that there is a great deal of early testimony from early church writers in favor of the long ending of Mark. This evidence, however, does not convince me that the long ending of Mark was penned by Mark. What it shows is that verses 9-20 were added quite early.

In view of these things, I did not include Mark 16:9-20 in my "Palmer's Diatessaron." I believe it is very clear that Mark 16:9-20 is not scripture. I believe that to include Mark 16:9-20 in the text of the New Testament does far more harm than good.

I believe that one important impetus for the making of and the popularity of Tatian's Diatessaron was the fact that Mark's gospel did have such a seemingly incomplete ending. People wanted the material from Luke and John included with Mark's material.

To read a harmony, a blending of the four gospels into one seamless story, read my “Palmer's Diatessaron,” which you can download free in PDF. Here is the link as well:

The Good News According to

Chapter 1

Introduction

1Since many have undertaken to draw up an account of the things fully attested among us, 2as delivered to us by the original eyewitnesses who became stewards of the word, 3it seemed good to me also, having meticulously traced everything again from the top, to write it down in sequence for you, O most excellent Theophilus, 4so that you may know the reliability of things you have been told.

The Birth of John the Baptizer Foretold

5It came about in the time of Herod, king of Judea, that there was a priest, Zechariah by name, of the rotation of Abijah. 6He had a wife from the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. 7Both were upright in the sight of God, walking blamelessly in all the commandments and requirements of the Lord. 8But a child they did not have, because Elizabeth was barren. And they were both advanced in age.

8And it came about, that once when his rotation was on duty and he was serving as priest before God, his lot fell 9(normal custom for the priesthood) to go into the temple of the Lord, and to burn incense. 10The hour of incense came, and all the people in the assembly were

NOTE regarding the critical apparatus in these footnotes. Due to feedback I have received about what manuscripts I cite, that there was some "cherry-picking" of which minuscules to cite, I have changed my footnotes. In order to make it objective, I now use only one criteria that is objective: I only cite witnesses 8th century or earlier, and I cite all witnesses 8th century or earlier that I have access to. The result is very revealing.

1:2 Or, "as delivered to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and servants of the word." The word I translated "became" is the Greek word γίνομαι - gínomai, which usually means became, or came about, or happen. But Luke often uses γίνομαι in place of the simple word in Greek for "to be." That is why most translations translate it here as simply "were." But the reason I did not translate it that way, is that it would result in a non-Lukan use of the title "the Word" for Jesus. For you see, if we say, they were eyewitnesses and servants of the word from the beginning, that would be the only possible explanation of the idea of "being eyewitness of the word." That means they beheld Jesus as the word, in the Johannine concept of I John 1:1 and John 1. Otherwise, what would it mean? That they saw Jesus write the word down? But I do not believe that is what Luke is saying. I believe he is saying that the men who were the first eyewitness of Jesus, were given the trust of being stewards of the word, of the message. See Acts 1:21-22, which Luke also wrote. There we read how it was decided that the original eyewitnesses became official stewards of the word.

1:5 The priests were divided up into divisions that took turns in rotation, doing the priestly duties.

1:9 It is said that a priest received only once in his lifetime, if at all, the privilege to enter inside the shrine to burn incense. The Levites were divided into 48 semi-annual rotations. So a particular priest’s rotation was on duty only about twice a year. Then as to the individual who would go inside to burn incense, it was the custom of the priesthood to decide whose turn it was by casting lots. Zechariah’s lot fell.
praying outside. 11 Then an angel of the Lord appeared to him, standing at the right side of the altar of incense. 12 Seeing it disturbed Zechariah, and fear fell over him. 13 But the angel said to him: "Fear not, Zechariah, for your request was heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you shall call his name John. 14 Joy and gladness will be with you, and many will rejoice over his birth. 15 For he will be great in the eyes of the Lord. Wine and intoxicating beverages by no means shall he drink, and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit, beginning yet in his mother’s womb. 16 He will turn many of the children of Israel toward the Lord their God. 17 And he will proceed in front of Him, in the spirit and power of Elijah, such that the hearts of fathers will turn toward their children, and the disobedient toward the outlook of the righteous: a prepared people will be arranged for the Lord.”

18 Zechariah said to the angel, "By what will I know this? For I am old, and my wife is well advanced in age."

19 And in answer the angel said to him, "I am Gabriel, one who stands in the presence of God, and I have been sent to speak to you and to tell you these glad announcements. 20 And behold, you will be silent and unable to speak, until the day these things take place, because you did not believe my words, which will be fulfilled in their time."

384 1:12 See the Septuagint, Psalm 54:5.
385 1:17A The Greek says John will proceed in the power of Elijah "to turn." The verb for turn, ἐπιστρέφω - epistrephw, is in the infinitive form, ἐπιστρέψαι - epistrepsai. This is an "infinitive of result," a Hebraism.
386 1:17B The wording "the Fathers," in English tends to mean "all the fathers." But in this context, the number of fathers is set by verse 16, "He will turn many." Thus, there would be many fathers whose hearts will turn ἐπὶ τέκνα - epi tekna (toward children.) There is no possessive pronoun "their" here in the Greek. But if we leave it out here, in English, if someone's heart "turns toward children," that might be understood to mean, he decides he now wants to have children. This verse must be an allusion to Malachi 4:6 in the Hebrew, and not the Septuagint. In the Hebrew it is fathers, plural, and children, generic. The Septuagint says ὧς ἀποκαταστήσει καρδίαν πατρός πρὸς υἱὸν, "who will turn the heart of the father to the son." Several translations make the word πατήρ (pater) generic here, and so translate it as "parents to their children." I can understand that. But so many people already have an understanding of this verse, based on what seems to be a reality in this world that there are more children and fathers estranged, than children from their mothers. For example, the Bible says "Who ever heard of such a thing as a mother killing her child and eating him?" Apparently, it is harder to believe that a mother would do that to her child, than a father. Note that Malachi in the Hebrew also says that He will turn the hearts of the sons to the fathers. The question is, what is broken? Is it more fathers estranged from their children, and children angry at their fathers? Or mothers to the same extent? I think it is the former. That is why I am leaving it fathers and children, because that is more what is broken in the absence of the power of the Spirit.
387 1:18 Zechariah may have felt his question justified in that Abraham asked the same thing- for a sign. See Genesis 15:8. But this reflects a lack of belief in God's statements. Jesus said later, "A wicked and adulterous generation asks for a miraculous sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah." (Diætess. 11:17-18; Mt 12:38-39; Lk 11:16, 20) The apostle Paul said, "For Jews require a sign, and Greeks seek after wisdom..." (I Cor. 1:22)
And the people were waiting for Zechariah, and wondering about his delay in the temple. And when he came out, he was not able to speak to them, and they knew: a vision he had seen in the temple. He kept motioning to them, and remained mute. And when his days of service were completed, he went home.

After those days, his wife Elizabeth conceived, and she hid herself for five months. "The way the Lord has done this for me," she said, "these are days he has looked with concern upon me, to take away my disgrace among the people."

The Birth of Jesus Foretold

And in the sixth month, the angel Gabriel was sent out from God, to a town in Galilee named Nazareth, to a virgin pledged to be married to a man named Joseph, of the house of David. And the virgin’s name was Mary. And the angel went in to her, and said, "Hail, O favored one! The Lord is with you."

She was very troubled by the utterance, and wondered what sort of greeting this might be. Then the angel said to her, "Fear not, Mary, for you have found favor with God. You shall conceive in your womb, and shall bear a son, and you are to call his name Jesus. This man will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High. And the Lord God will give him the throne of his father David, and he will reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there will be no end."

And Mary said to the angel, "How will this happen, since I am not knowing a man?"

And in answer the angel said to her, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. For this reason also, the one to be born will be called holy, the Son of God. And behold, Elizabeth your relative, even she in her old age, has conceived a son, and..."

this is the sixth month with her, she who was called barren. 37 Therefore with God, nothing will be impossible.”

38 “Here am I, the slave girl of the Lord,” Mary said. “May it be to me according to your statement.” Then the angel left her.

Mary Stays With Elizabeth

39 At that time Mary got up and went with speed to the hill country, to a town of Judah, 40 where she entered the house of Zechariah, and greeted Elizabeth.

41 And it came about that when Elizabeth heard Mary’s greeting, the baby in her womb did leap, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit.

42 And she shouted out in a loud voice, saying, “Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! 43 And why does it come to me, that to me the mother of my Lord should come? 44 For when the sound of your greeting came into my ears, the baby in my womb did leap in exultation.

45 Blessed is she who believed that there will be a completion of the things announced to her from the Lord!”

Mary’s Song

46 And Mary said:

“My soul does magnify the Lord,”

391 Luke 1:37 Literally, "Because with God every saying will not be impossible," ὅτι οὐκ ἀδυνατησει παρὰ τοῦ θεοῦ πᾶν ῥῆμα. The BDF grammar states that ῥῆμα - hrēma here is Hebraistic in use: "thing, matter, event," and that οὐκ...πᾶν is also a Semitism, resulting in the whole to mean, "nothing will be impossible with God." But I can't help but feel that Mary's response, "Let it be to me according to your statement," harks back to the use of hrēma by the angel, and that the angel told of Elizabeth's case as assurance that "therefore, in view of this, as for my statements to you also, not one statement will be impossible." Still, this is reminiscent of Genesis 18:14 in the Septuagint: Μὴ ἀδυνατησει παρὰ τοῦ θεοῦ ῥῆμα; "Is anything too hard for the LORD?" That was when the angel of the LORD had announced to the aged Sarah that she would bear a son. There, the word ῥῆμα - hrēma is used as meaning "anything."

392 Luke 1:44 Leapt in ἀγαλλιάσις - agalliasis. This word is found only in Biblical and ecclesiastical literature. It refers primarily to messianic exultation. Some of the other occurrences are: later in this chapter, v. 46, where Mary rejoiced in "God my Savior," i.e., God + a form of the word Yeshua; in Psalm 44:8, exulting in God; Hebrews 1:9, the Messiah is anointed with the oil of gladness more than his peers; Acts 2:46, the church fellowshiped in Messianic exultation; and Jude 24, it is an exceeding joy found in the presence of God himself.

393 Luke 1:46 Mary probably had in mind Psalm 34:3, "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together," and "My soul shall make its boast in the Lord," Psalm 34:2. And so she says, "My soul does magnify the Lord." It is reminiscent also of the "Bless the Lord, O my soul...bless his holy name" of Psalm 103:1; and also of 104:1, 35, and 146:1, where in the Septuagint the Greek sentence is startlingly identical to Mary's, only that the imperative mood of the verb 'magnify' is changed to the indicative. Note: It was Semitic to use the nominative case for vocative, so Mary could still have been addressing her soul, as in the Psalms, i.e., "Magnify the Lord, O my soul." The songs of Mary and Zechariah are the most and my spirit did rejoice in God my Savior, because he looked toward the lowly station of his servant.
So behold: all generations after now will consider me blessed, because the Mighty One did great things for me.
And holy will be his name, and his mercy
to those who fear him, into age after age.
Power he wrought with his arm.
He scattered those who were proud in the thoughts of their heart.

Mary through the anointing of the Holy Spirit looks both backward and forward:
backward to the "from everlasting to everlasting, to generation of generations" of Psalm 103:17, and forward, as in Psalm 146:10, "into age after age," in harmony with Paul in Ephesians 2:7, that God sent Yeshua "so that in the ages to come he might show the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus." In Psalm 89:1, the "From everlasting until everlasting" covers both past, present and future. But the "time" tense here is still relative to and set by verse 48 as the future, where she speaks of "all the ages from now on." Her phrase in the Greek, "into age after age," εἰς γενεὰς καὶ γενεὰς, is almost identical to the Greek phrase of Psalm 146:10. This same phrase is also used in Lamentations 5:19, and Psalm 49:11 (and many others) as a parallelism to "for ever." Psalm 146 is clearly a Psalm she loved. Psalm 45:17 says, "I will cause your name to be celebrated in all generations; therefore the peoples will praise you for ever and ever." This shows that "all generations" is a parallelism to "for ever and ever." See the preceding footnote about the verb "is" being omitted when expressing possibility. "And holy may be his name, and his mercy to those who fear him."
He pulled down rulers from their thrones and lifted high the humble.
Hungry ones he filled up with good things and rich ones he sent away empty.
He helped his servant Israel, and remembered about mercy
"to Abraham and his seed for ever,"
as he said to our fathers.

Mary remained with her about three months, and then returned to her home.

The Birth of John the Baptist

And the time was fulfilled for Elizabeth to give birth, and she produced a son.
Her neighbors and relatives heard that the Lord had magnified his mercy to her, and they rejoiced with her.
And it came about that on the eighth day, they came to circumcise the child, and they were about to call him by the name of his father, Zechariah, and his mother responded and said, "No! He shall be called John."
And they said to her, "There is no one among your relatives called by that name."
Then they signaled to his father, to find out what he wanted him to be called.
And he asked for a tablet, and wrote as follows, "His name is John." Everyone was surprised.
And immediately his mouth was opened, and also his tongue, and he spoke, blessing God.
An awe came over everyone who lived around them, and all through the hill country of Judea these things were being discussed.

For the hand of the Lord was certainly with him.

1:54 The Greek verb is an infinitive, an infinitive of illustration or result, a Hebraism; so also several instances in Zechariah’s song.
1:63 Literally, "he wrote, saying...,” ἔγραψεν λέγων, a Semitism for "he wrote as follows..."
Zechariah’s Song

And his father Zechariah was filled with the Holy Spirit, and he prophesied, saying:

"Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, because he has turned to concern himself and has accomplished redemption for his people. He has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of David his servant as he has said through the mouths of his holy prophets since eons ago, salvation from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us—to demonstrate mercy to our fathers to remember his holy covenant, the oath he swore to our father Abraham: to give us rescue from the hand of our enemies, that we may serve him without fear in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

Yes and you, child, will be called a prophet of the Most High; for you will go on before the Lord to prepare his paths, to give his people the knowledge of salvation through the forgiveness of their sins, because of the tender feelings of our God with which the Sunrise from on high will look over us to appear to those sitting in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet along the path of peace."

Horn in the Old Testament symbolizes strength.
Chapter 2

The Birth of Jesus

1And it came about in those days, that a decree went out from Caesar Augustus, that all the inhabited earth should be registered. 2This was the first registration that took place while Quirinius was governor of Syria. 3And all were making their way to be registered, each to his own town.

4Thus Joseph also went up, from the town of Nazareth in Galilee, to Judea, to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was from the house and line of David; 5to be registered along with Mary, the one pledged to him, who was pregnant. 6And it came about that while they were there, the days for her to give birth were completed, 7and she bore her firstborn son. And she swaddled him and placed him in a feeding trough, because there was no room for them in the inn.

The Shepherds and the Angels

8And there were shepherds in that same region, camping out in the fields, keeping watch over their flocks by night. 9And an angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone all around them, and they 399 21 The whole inhabited earth... This is hype, commonly used in order to magnify the emperors. The meaning is the whole empire. The registration here is the recording of the names for the purpose of adding everyone to the tax rolls. The phrase could also be translated that a census should be taken of all the inhabited earth. The tax is a poll tax, or head tax, or a capitation, as forbidden in the constitution for the U.S.A. This was a form of tribute forced upon the conquered by the conqueror.

400 27 Or swathed, or podded. In this practice, the baby was bound up tight with bands of cloth -band-ages, for reasons which may be reasonably guessed. The cloth would absorb any blood, amniotic fluid and wax still present after cleaning; this would have both practical and ceremonial cleanness ramifications, since the mother's blood was ceremonially unclean. The dead were wrapped somewhat similarly. Furthermore, the infant wrapped in such a way would be prevented from rolling. This last reason could have been especially applicable in Jesus' case, since he was placed in a stone feeding trough. The stone surface was not necessarily level or even. In addition, swaddling could have prevented the infant from rolling or flopping its limbs during travel on an animal. Native Americans swaddled a papoose to a sled of sorts to facilitate traveling. Traveling or not, a woman of that circumstance had a heavy burden of chores, and the swaddling could have kept the infant out of trouble while mother's eye was not upon it. Many Mediterranean lands practiced swaddling well over a thousand years later. See also Job 38:8,9; Ezekiel 16:4-6. Note that the Ezekiel passage implies that a baby not swaddled, is unclean, and undignified. (The passage refers to Jerusalem.) It is important that a translation of this Luke text use the same word as used in Job and Ezekiel, so that the reader catches the connection.

were terrified. 10 And the angel said to them, "Fear not. For behold, I am announcing to you a great joy that will be with all the people. 11 Because for you is born this day, in the town of David, a Savior, who is Messiah the Lord. 12 And this will be a sign to you: you will find a baby swaddled, and lying in a feeding trough."

13 And suddenly, there was with the angel a great company of the army of heaven, praising God and saying, 14 "Glory to God in the highest realms! And on earth peace, good will toward men!"

15 And it came about that when the angels had departed from them into heaven, the shepherds were saying to one another, "Let's go over to Bethlehem, and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has made known to us."

16 And they went speeding, and found both Mary and Joseph, and the baby lying in the feeding trough. 17 And once they had seen, they gave an exact report of the message spoken to them concerning this child. 18 And all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds said to them. 19 As for Mary, she memorized the words, and pondered them in her heart. 20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God, because of the fact that all the things which they had heard and seen, were just as it had been told to them.

Similarly, later in this gospel, a voice from heaven says about Jesus, "You are my beloved son; in you I had good pleasure." See Galatians 6:16. Interesting that the same people who object to the NA27 text in Luke 2:14 where instead of "peace, goodwill toward men," it limits the blessing to "men of his good pleasure," yet in Revelation 22:21 where the NA27 text says "the grace of the Lord Jesus be with all," they object, and prefer that that blessing be only to the saints. This shows that the TR-only and KJV-only mentality is not reasonable, neither spiritual, but a cult following of one translation, and carnal, like where Paul says some say, "I am of Paul," and others, "I am of Apollo," etc.

Jesus Presented in the Temple

21And when the eighth day had arrived, the time to circumcise him, he was called the name Jesus, the name called by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

22And when the days of their cleansing according to the Law of Moses had been completed, they took him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord, as it is written in the Law of the Lord, "Every male to open a womb shall be called holy to the Lord," and to offer a sacrifice, in keeping with what is said in the Law of the Lord: "a pair of doves or two young pigeons."

25And behold, a man was in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon. This man was righteous and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was upon him. It had been communicated to him by the Holy Spirit, that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord’s Anointed.

27And he came by the Spirit into the temple, at the same time that the parents of the child Jesus brought him to do for him what the custom of the Law required. And Simeon took him into his arms and blessed God, and said:

29"Now, Master, keeping your word, you are dismissing your slave in peace.

30For my eyes have seen your salvation,

31which you have prepared in the sight of all the peoples;

32a light to be a revelation for the Gentiles, and the glory of your people Israel."

407 In a physical sense, as is intended here, a Gentile is any person or nation that is not Israelite; that is, not a blood descendant of Jacob. (God had changed Jacob’s name to Israel.)
408 In some Greek manuscripts I read ‘Joseph’ instead of ‘father’; in my opinion it has been changed by someone who feared that Joseph be called Jesus’ father.
being said about him. And Simeon blessed them, and said to Mary, his mother: "Behold, this one is being laid down to cause the stumbling or rising of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be continually denounced—yes a sword will be run through your own soul too—so that the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed."

And there was also a prophetess, Hannah, daughter of Penuel, of the tribe of Asher. This woman had grown to be very old, having lived with a husband for seven years after her virginity, and then being a widow to eighty-four years of age, one who hardly left the temple, but served night and day, in fasting and praying. And coming up at that very time, she gave thanks to God, and spoke about the child to all those expecting redemption in Jerusalem.

And when they had completed everything required by the Law of the Lord, they returned to their own town of Nazareth. And the child grew and became strong; he was filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him.

The Boy Jesus at the Temple

Now his parents would go every year to Jerusalem for the festival of Passover. And when he turned twelve years old, they went up, ("In Graecis aliquot codicibus lego pro pater, Joseph; quod arbitror immutatum a quopiam, qui revereretur Joseph vocare patrem Iesu..."; 'aliquot' added in 1519—ASD VI–5, p. 484 ll. 42–44; similarly in Resp. ad annot. Ed. Lei, ASD IX–4, p. 126 ll. 506–509). So we see that Erasmus figured that copyists changed the original "father" to Joseph, for the very same reasons that KJV Onlyists prefer the reading "Joseph." But they forget that the KJV calls Joseph Jesus' father in several other passages. Erasmus was correct, but the KJV does not follow him here.

And when the Magi knew of Jesus’ birth and came from the east, they were astrologers. For them, signs involving the planet Jupiter (Zeus) represented royalty and kings. So if there was a sign or conjunction involving Jupiter, the Magi would take note. Jupiter was in retrograde motion in April of the year 6 B.C. Thus, that star would "stand still." We know from the gospel of Luke that the shepherds were "keeping watch over their flocks by night." They only did that during birthing time, to protect the ewes and newborn lambs. In other words, they did that during Spring time. Furthermore, Luke
And when the days were completed and they were returning home, the boy Jesus remained in Jerusalem, and his parents were not aware of it. Thinking he was in their company, they went a day’s journey, and then began looking for him among their relatives and acquaintances. And when they did not find him, they went back to Jerusalem to look for him. And it came about that after three days they found him, sitting in the temple, in the midst of the teachers, both listening to them and questioning them. And all those who heard him were amazed at the understanding of his responses. And when his parents saw him, they were stunned. His mother said to him, "Son, why have you treated us this way? Look at how distressed your father and I are, searching for you."

And he said to them, "Why would you be searching for me? Shouldn’t you have known that I would have to be among my Father’s things?"

But they did not understand what he said to them.

Then he went down with them and arrived in Nazareth, and continued to subordinate himself to them. But his mother was recording all these words in her heart. And Jesus kept growing in wisdom and sayshere that Jesus turned 12 years old around Passover time. Astronomer Michael Molnar (http://michaelmolnar.com/) has found that there was a conjunction of Jupiter (while retrograde and "standing still") with the moon, in Aries, on April 17, 6 B.C. This would harmonize with Luke’s spring timing, and also with the fact that both Matthew and Luke say Jesus was born during the reign of Herod, who died in 4 B.C. Thus I say it is practically certain that Jesus was born in spring time, and that April 17, 6 B.C. is the best theory put forth yet as to his exact day of birth. One thing we know for certain is that his birthday was not December 25th, or any time in the winter, when the sheep in Judea would be in pens, and not in the field in the cold.

Interesting that most translations of the Byzantine text, or of the Textus Receptus, do not show that the verb εγνωσκω is singular. For example, the KJV says "Joseph and his mother knew not of it." In contrast, the Geneva Bible shows that the verb is singular, by rendering it as follows: "Ioseph knew not, nor his mother." What is really potentially informative here is the word coming before the more famous variant. Which form of the verb γινωσκω came first and led to the other, and why?

The Greek says literally, "were amazed at his understanding and his responses." This is probably an example of hendiadys, which according to BDF §442(16), when used with the conjunction και (and), accomplishes the coordination of two ideas, one of which is dependent on the other, and serves in the NT to avoid a series of dependent genitives. Blass gives this verse, Lk 2:47, as an example of hendiadys.

Jesus is not remarking against the fact that his parents came to find him, but that it took them a 3-day search to find him but Jesus is saying that no searching around was necessary because they should have figured he would be in the temple, and look there first. For the temple is "his Father’s things." Compare Genesis 37:11.
stature, and in favor with God and with people.

Chapter 3

John the Baptizer Prepares the Way

1In the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, with Pontius Pilate governor of Judea, and Herod as tetrarch\(^{417}\) of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea and Trachonitis, and Lysanias as tetrarch of Abilene, 2during the high priesthood of Hananiah\(^{418}\) and Kayafa, the word of God came upon John the son of Zechariah in the desert. 3And he appeared, in all the areas around the Jordan, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for forgiveness of sins, 4as it is written in the scroll of the words of Isaiah the prophet:

4\(^{419}\)  "The voice of one calling in the desert,
   Prepare the way for the Lord,
   make the paths straight for him.
5Every valley shall be filled up, every mountain and hill laid low.
   The crooked places shall be made straight,
   the rough ways smooth.
6And all flesh shall see the salvation of God. 4\(^{419}\)"

7So John would say to the crowds coming out to be baptized by him, 7"You spawn of snakes! Who warned you to flee from the coming wrath? 8Then produce fruit characteristic of repentance. And do not begin to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father.' For I tell you that God can raise up children for Abraham from these stones. 9Even now the axe is poised at the root of the trees, and every tree that does not produce good fruit will be cut down and thrown into the fire."

10And the crowds would ask him, "What should we do then?"

11And in answer he would say to them, "The person who has two tunics

\(^{417}\) \text{3:1} \text{ From the Greek tetra, four, and arche, to rule. As a monarch is a one and only ruler of a realm, in the same way a tetrarch is a ruler of one fourth of a realm. (Which implies that there must exist three other one-fourth divisions of the realm.)}

12Revenue agents also came to be baptized, and they asked him, "Teacher, what should we do?"

13He said to them, "Collect nothing in excess, beyond what is prescribed for you."

14Some soldiers were also questioning him, saying, "And us, what should we do?"

And he told them, "You should no longer shake down anyone, nor frame anyone, always staying content with your pay."

15And all the people were waiting expectantly, wondering in their hearts if John might possibly be the Anointed One.

16John responded speaking to everyone, "I baptize you in water, but one who is more powerful than I is coming, the thongs of whose sandals I am not worthy to untie. He will baptize you in the Holy Spirit and in fire: 17his winnowing fork is in his hand to clear out his threshing floor, gathering the wheat into the barn; but the chaff he will burn up in unquenchable fire."

18And with many and varied other exhortations John was preaching the good news to the people.

19But when Herod the Tetrarch was rebuked by him, regarding Herodias his brother's wife, and all the other evil things he had done, 20Herod piled this on top of them all: he shut John up in prison.

The Baptism of Jesus

21When all the people were being baptized, Jesus was baptized too. And as he was praying, the heavens were torn open, 22and the Holy Spirit descended on him in the bodily form of a dove. And a voice came from heaven said, "You are my Son, whom I love; with you I am well pleased."

The trouble with that is that the words "his ministry" are not in the Greek. The usual reasoning for this rendering is that the word "began," ἄρχω is reminiscent of Luke's use of the same word, and in the same middle voice, in Acts 1:1, where he says he wrote about all that Jesus "began both to do and to teach." I find this an unacceptable leap. The KJV says,"And Jesus himself began to be about thirty years of age..." The trouble with that is, how can you begin to be about thirty? The thirtieth year has a beginning, but "about

The Temptation of Jesus

1 Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the desert, being tempted forty days by the devil. And he ate... nothing during those days, and at the end of them he was hungry.

3 And the devil said to him, "If you are the Son of God, speak to this stone, that it become a loaf of bread."

4 And Jesus responded to him, "It is written, 'A human being shall not live on bread alone.'"

5 Then leading him upward, the devil showed him all the kingdoms of the inhabited earth, in a moment of time. 6 And he said to Jesus, "All this authority and their glory I will give to you, for it has been handed over to me, and I give it to whomever I wish. 7 Now then, if you worship in front of me, it will all be yours."

8 In answer Jesus said to him, "It is written: 'You shall worship Yahweh your God, and him only shall you serve.'"

9 Then the devil led him into Jerusalem, and had him stand on the gable of the temple. And he said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here."

10 For it is written:

'He will command his angels concerning you to guard you carefully, and they will bear you up in their hands, so you will not strike your foot against a stone.'

12 Jesus answered and said to him, "It says: 'You shall not test Yahweh your God.'"

13 And having carried out every sort of temptation, the devil left him until an opportune time.

Jesus Begins to Preach

14And Jesus returned to Galilee in the power of the Spirit, and a rumor about him spread throughout the whole region. 15And he taught in their synagogues, being praised by everyone.

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

16And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, as was his custom. And he stood up to read. 17And the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was handed to him. Unrolling the scroll, he found the place where it is written:

18"The Spirit of Yahweh is upon me, because he has anointed me;
He has sent me431
to preach good news to the poor, to announce release for the prisoners and sight for the blind, to send off the crushed into liberty,

The standard textual criticism arguments are: (1), lectio brevior lectio potior (“the shorter reading is the better reading” - unless homoioteleuton or otherwise explains omission), and (2), that the first reading best explains the other reading; that is, there is no good explanation why scribes might have omitted the phrase, but an explanation why scribes might have added the phrase is that the additional phrase completes the gap compared to the Isaiah passage - it harmonizes Luke to Isaiah. But there would be nothing remarkable about Jesus selecting and reading only the phrases that were pertinent to what he wanted to say. Indeed, all Greek editions agree that Jesus did not finish the sentence from Isaiah; and that is why some translations, including mine, end the quotation with an ellipsis...” Moreover, Jesus also adds a phrase from a totally different passage in Isaiah, 58:6, “to set at liberty those who are oppressed.” To me, the fact that Jesus selected another phrase from a completely different passage as well, just proves how selective he was being for phrases, and that lends more credibility to the idea that he skipped one phrase from the Isaiah 61 passage. Another interesting fact is that the phrase sight to the blind here in Luke 4:18 is not found in the Hebrew of Isaiah 61, but only in the Septuagint, the ancient translation of the Old Testament into Greek.

down. The eyes of everyone in the synagogue were fastened on him. 21 And he began to speak to them: "Today this scripture is fulfilled in your hearing."

22 All were speaking well of him and amazed at the gracious words coming from his mouth. And they were saying, "Isn't this Joseph's son?"

23 And he said to them, "No doubt you will quote to me this proverb: 'Physician, heal yourself! The things we heard were happening in Capernaum, do here in your home town.'"

24 And he said, "Truly I tell you, no prophet is accepted in his home town. 25 I tell you, in Elijah's days, during the three years and six months that the sky was shut and there was a great famine covering the whole land, it is a fact that there were plenty of widows in Israel. 26 Yet it was not to any of them that Elijah was sent, but to Zarephath in the country of Sidon, to a widow woman there. 27 Again, in the case of Elisha the prophet, there were plenty of lepers in Israel, and not one of them was cleansed; only Naaman the Syrian."

28 And all the people in the synagogue were furious when they heard these things. 29 They got up and drove him outside the town, intending to throw him down the cliff. 30 But he walked right through them, and went on his way.

Jesus' Teaching Has Authority

31 And he went down to Capernaum, a town in Galilee, and on the Sabbath began to teach them. 32 And they were amazed at his teaching, because his word was authoritative.

33 And in the synagogue there was a man who had a demon, an unclean spirit. He shouted out with a very loud voice, 34 "Ha! What business do you have with us, Jesus, you Nazarene? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are— the Holy One of God!"

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be quiet and come out of him!" And the demon threw him down before them all and came out of him, doing him no damage.

36 And astonishment overwhelmed them all, and they spoke to each other, saying, "What is this message, that with authority and power he commands unclean spirits, and they come out?" 37 And a rumor went out about him into every place in that region.
Jesus Heals All in Capernaum

38 And rising up out of the synagogue, he went into the home of Simon. And Simon’s mother-in-law was suffering a high fever, and they asked him about her. 39 So he stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her. And she got up at once and proceeded to wait on them. 40 And as the sun was setting, everyone who had anyone ill with various kinds of sickness brought them to him, and laying his hands on each one of them, he was healing them. 41 Moreover, demons were coming out from many, shouting and saying, “You are the Son of God!” And he would rebuke them, not allowing them to speak, because they knew him to be the Messiah.

Jesus Keeps Moving

42 And when day came, he left and went off to a solitary place. And the crowds were searching for him, and they came up to him and detained him from leaving them. 43 But he said to them, “I must preach the kingdom of God to the other towns also, because on that basis I was sent.” 44 And he kept on preaching in the synagogues of Jewdom.

Chapter 5

The Calling of Simon, Andrew, James, and John

1 And it came about that as he was standing by the Lake of Gennesaret, with the crowd pressing urgently around him and listening to the word of God, 2 he saw two boats standing idle by the lake; the fishers had gotten out of them, washing the nets. 3 And getting on board one of the boats, which was Simon’s, he asked him to put out a little from shore. And sitting down, he taught the people from the boat. 4 And when he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, “Put out into the

There are five different readings here in the Greek manuscripts. Where the earliest say he was preaching in the synagogues "of Judea," some manuscripts say, "of the Jews," others say, "to the Jews," others (the majority) say, "of Galilee," and others say "their synagogues." It is apparent that the copyists responsible for the reading "of Galilee" were trying to correct the seeming difficulty of the words "of Judea," when the context before and after indicates that Jesus was traveling in Galilee; and other copyists were motivated by the desire to harmonize Luke with the accounts of Matthew and Mark. The reading "of Judea," however, can be translated as "the land of the Jews," or something to that effect, which in meaning would be inclusive of Galilee.

depth, and let down your nets for a catch.”

5And in response Simon said, "Master, working hard through the whole night we took nothing. But on the basis of your word, I will let down the nets."

6And when they had done so, they had enclosed a great number of fish, and their nets were beginning to tear. 7So they signaled to their partners in the other boat to come and help them, and they came, and they filled both the boats, such that they began to sink.

8And when Simon Peter saw this, he fell at Jesus’ knees and said, "Go away from me Lord; I am a sinful man!" 9For astonishment had seized him and all those with him, at the catch of fish that they had taken, and likewise also James and John the sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon.

10But Jesus said to Simon, "Don't be afraid. From now on you will be catching human beings." 11And when they had pulled the boats to shore, they gave it all up and followed him.

A Leper Healed Spreads the Word

12And it came about that he was in one of the towns, and behold, a man covered with leprosy. And when he saw Jesus, he fell on his face and begged him, saying, "Lord, if you are willing, you can cleanse me."

13And reaching out his hand, he touched him, saying, "I am willing. Be cleansed." And immediately the leprosy left him.

14And he ordered him to tell no one, but "Go, show yourself to the priest, and offer for your cleansing what Moses commanded, as a testimony to them.”

15But word about him was spreading all the more, and many crowds would walk alongside to listen, and to be healed of their sicknesses. 16And he would take retreat in deserted places, and pray.

The Paralytic Lowered Through the Roof

17And it came about during one of the days that, as he was teaching, Pharisees and teachers of the Torah also were sitting there, who had come from every village of Galilee and from Judea and Jerusalem. And the power of the Lord was present for him to heal the sick.

18And behold, men carrying on a pallet a man who was paralyzed. And they were trying to carry him in, to lay him before him. 19And not finding a way to carry in because of the crowd, they went up onto the roof, and lowered him with his bed down through the tiles, into the middle, in front of Jesus.

20And when Jesus saw their faith, he said, "Friend, your sins are forgiven you."

21And the Torah scholars and Pharisees began to reason as follows: "Who is this fellow who speaks blasphemy! Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

22But knowing their reasonings, Jesus in response said to them, "Why are you debating this in your hearts? 23Which is easier: to say 'Your sins are forgiven you,' or to say, 'Get up and walk'? 24But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins..." He said to the paralyzed man, "I tell you, get up, pick up your mat and be on your way home." 25And immediately he stood up, in full view of them, and taking up that upon which he had been lying, he went away toward home, praising God. 26Everyone was stunned with amazement. And they glorified God, and were filled with awe, saying, "We have seen remarkable things today."

A Revenue Agent Joins Jesus

27And after these things he went out, and he saw a revenue agent by the name of Levi, sitting at the taxes post, and he said to him, "Follow me."

28And he rose up and followed him, giving it all up.

436 5:21 The Greek for blasphemy is in the plural, an idiomatic pluralization of abstract topics that frequently serves as a designation of concrete phenomena. Here it would mean something more like "words of blasphemy," referring to the one incident of blasphemy in verse 20. Other examples of this kind of plural are Matthew 14:9, 15:19.

437 5:27 The Greek word here translated "revenue agent" is τελώνης, a combination of the words τέλος for excise off the end tally, and the word ὦνέομαι which means to "buy." Hence, tax-buyers, or tax owners. The accounts receivable which the due taxes represented were purchased by something like collection agencies. According to Bauer, the τελώναι were not the holders of the 'tax farming' contracts themselves, (the actual holders were called publicani), but were subordinates (Latin, portitores) hired by the publicani. The higher officials, the publicans, were usually foreigners, but their underlings were taken, as a rule, from the native population, from the subjugated people. The prevailing system of tax collection afforded the collector many opportunities to exercise his greed and unfairness. Moreover, since the tax was forced upon the conquered by the conqueror, the collectors of the tax were personal reminders to the populace that they, the payers of the tax, were conquered. Hence the collectors of the tax were particularly hated and despised as a class. They were pre-judged to be both embezzlers, and traitors or collaborators with the occupying foreign power.
Then Levi held a great banquet for him at his house. And there was also a large crowd of revenue agents and others who were reclining with him. And the Pharisees and their Torah scholars grumbled to his disciples, saying, "Why do you eat and drink with revenue agents and sinners?"

And Jesus responded and said to them, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but those who are sick. I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

Jesus Questioned About Fasting

They then said to him, "The disciples of John are often fasting and making prayers, and likewise those of the Pharisees, but yours go on eating and drinking."

And Jesus said to them, "Can you make the members of the bridegroom's party fast during days in which the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come. Yes, when the bridegroom is taken away from them, then in those days they will fast."

And he also spoke a parable to them: "No one tears a patch from a new garment and places it onto an old garment. For then, he will both tear the new, and the patch from the new will not match the old. And no one puts new wine in old wineskins. For then, the new wine will burst the wineskins, and it will be spilled, and the wineskins will be ruined. On the contrary, new wine must be put in new wineskins. And no one after drinking old wine wants the new, for he says, 'The old is better.' "

Man Over the Sabbath

1And he happened during a Sabbath to be passing through grainfields, and his disciples were plucking and eating the heads, rubbing them in their hands. 2But some of the Pharisees said, "Why are you doing what on a Sabbath is not permissible?"

3And in answer to them Jesus said, "Have you never read what David did when he and those with him were hungry? 4How he went into the house of God, and taking the loaves of offering, he ate, and gave to the ones with him, which was not permissible to eat, except for the priests only?"

5Then he said to them, "The Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath."

6And it came about that on another Sabbath, he went into the synagogue and was teaching, and a man was there whose right hand was shriveled.

7And the Torah scholars and the Pharisees were carefully watching him, whether he would heal on the Sabbath, in order to obtain cause to prosecute him. 8But he knew their reasoning, and said to the man with the shriveled hand, "Get up and stand in view." And he got up and stood.

9Then Jesus said to them, "I ask you, is it permissible on the Sabbath to do good or to do evil, to save life or to destroy it?"

10And looking around at them all, he said to him, "Stretch out your hand." He did so, and his hand was restored.

11And they were filled with rage, and discussed with each other what they should do to Jesus.

(Perhaps some copyist introduced πρώτῳ as a correlative of ἐν ἑτέρῳ σαββάτῳ in ver. 6, and a second copyist, in view of 4:31, wrote δευτέρῳ, deleting πρώτῳ by using dots over the letters—which was the customary way of cancelling a word. A subsequent transcriber, not noticing the dots, mistakenly combined the two words into one, which he introduced into the text.)"

442 6:1 This was the allowable practice of "plucking the heads," see Deuteronomy 23:24, 25, "If you enter your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat grapes until you are fully satisfied, but do not put any in a container. If you enter your neighbor's grainfield, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain."

443 6:2 The Greek word translated "permissible" is the impersonal participle ἐξεστὶν - ἐξεστίν, which is derived from the same root as ἐξουσία - exousía, the word for authority. If an activity was ἐξεστίν, that means it was "loosed," or ruled by the rabbis to be something "allowed" by the Torah. If something was not ἐξεστίν, as is the case here, that means it was "bound," that is, the rabbis had adjudged that it was forbidden by the Torah.

444 6:11 Greek, ἀνοία - anoia, a word much like our English word 'mad,' which can mean both anger and insanity. You could say Jesus' opponents went out of their minds with rage.
The Twelve Apostles

12And it came about in those days that he went out into the hills to pray, and spent the whole night praying to God. 13And when it was day, he called his disciples to him, and from them he selected twelve, whom he then designated apostles: 14Simon, whom he also named Peter, and his brother Andrew; James and John; Philip and Bartholomew; 15Matthew and Thomas; James son of Alphæus and Simon the Zealot; 16and Judas son of James; and Judas of Kerioth, who became a betrayer.

Blessings and Woes

17And when he came down, he stopped at a level place with them and with a large crowd of his disciples, and with a great multitude of the people from all of Judea and Jerusalem, and from the coastal areas of Tyre and Sidon who had come to hear him and to be healed of their diseases. And those oppressed by unclean spirits were being cured. 19And the entire crowd was trying to touch him, because power was going out from him, and curing everyone.

20And he lifted his eyes toward his disciples, and began to speak:

"Blessed are you who are poor, for yours is the kingdom of God.
21Blessed are you who go hungry now, for you will be satisfied.
Blessed are you who weep now,
for you will laugh.
22Blessed are you
when people hate you, excommunicate you and shame you and cast out your name as evil, because of the Son of Man.

Anger often overcomes better judgment. Thus anoia is often translated as 'folly.'

6:16b This man's name is usually written Judas Iscariot. "Iscariot" is probably from the Hebrew words יִשְׁרָיֵית, ish Qerioth, which mean a man from Kerioth. Kerioth was a town in southern Judea, which would make this Judas the only one in the circle of thirteen (Jesus and the twelve disciples) that was not from Galilee.

451 7:2 A Roman military officer commanding from 50 to 100 men, 100 if the cohort was a complete one. A full cohort—1,000 men, would have ten centurions, each commanding 100 of the men.

452 7:4 Interestingly, this message from the Roman centurion in Luke 7:4 contains a Latinism in the Greek. In the phrase ‘Αξίως ἐστιν ὃ έπείξαν τοῦτο, the use of the relative pronoun instead of the customary ἵνα is a Latinism: dignus qui with the subjunctive.

453 7:7b The Greek verb for heal here, ἰάομαι, is in the 3rd person, singular, aorist, imperative, passive form, ἰαθήσεται. This is difficult to construe, and that is why later copyists changed it to the simple future indicative passive form ἰαθητεί σαι in conformity with the Matthew account in 8:8. Perhaps the copyists thought that the imperative form reflected badly on the centurion as being too demanding, as thus: "Say in a word, and let my servant be healed." And if the copyists felt a desire to do this, it is also very possible that here is an instance of Matthew making more palatable the Greek of a written Greek Spruchquelle as compared to Luke’s more conservative and word for word reproduction, rather than the scenario that Matthew translated the Aramaic of an Aramaic Spruchquelle into the future indicative in Greek, but Luke into the aorist imperative. As for the word ‘and’ here, καί, it is here used as an explicative καί and introducing a command in indirect quotation; in other words, to particularize the word to be spoken, as thus: "but say in a word, namely, that my slave be healed." This use of καί is not terribly uncommon in the New Testament, and this rendering preserves an imperative mood. Moreover, it is preceded here by εἰπον, which regularly precedes discourse. As for the centurion’s peremptory tone, how remarkable is it that a soldier, and a commanding officer at that, would have that kind of personality? He was a bold man, but he humbled his tone well authority, having soldiers under myself. And I say to this one, ‘Go,’ and he goes; and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes; and to my slave, 'Do this,' and he does."

9And when Jesus heard these words, he was amazed at him, and turning to the crowd following him, he said, "I tell you, not in Israel have I found such faith."

10And when the ones who had been sent returned to the house, they found the slave well.

Jesus Raises a Dead Man at Nain

11And it came about that on the next day, he went into a town called Nain, and his disciples and a large crowd went along with him. 12And as he approached the town gate, behold, a dead person was being carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow. And a considerable crowd from the town was with her. 13When he saw her, the Lord was moved with pity for her, and he said to her, "Don't cry."

14And he went up to the coffin and touched it, and the pallbearers stood still. And he said, "Young man, I say to you, rise up!" 15And the dead man sat up, and began to speak. And he gave him back to his mother.

16And fear took hold of all, and they praised God, saying, "A great prophet has been raised up among us," and, "God has come to help his people." 17And this news about him spread throughout the land of the Jews and the surrounding country.

Jesus and John the Baptizer

18And John's disciples reported to him about all these things. And after calling two of his disciples to him, John sent word to the Lord, as follows: "Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect another?"

19And when they had come to him, the men said, "John the Baptist sent us to you saying, 'Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect another?'"

20In that same hour he healed many people of diseases and sicknesses enough by twice stating that he was not worthy. It is commendable to be bold in this way, as indeed the Lord commended him for it. But how bold really was it? For after all, he had heard that Jesus was already doing such things as he was requesting, and was doing it for everybody who asked, and also some who did not ask. So it wasn't so bold and demanding after all, with the exception of expecting the same for a Gentile, which he covered by admitting his unfitness.
and evil spirits, and gave sight to many who were blind. 22 And in answer, he said to them, "Go and report back to John what things you saw and heard: The blind see again, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and good news is preached to the poor. 23 And tell him, 'Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me.' "

24 And as John's messengers were leaving, he began to speak to the crowd about John: "What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed getting swayed to and fro by the wind? 25 On the contrary, what did you go out to see? A man dressed in delicate clothes? Behold, those in expensive clothes and living in luxury are in royal palaces. 26 On the contrary, what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes indeed I tell you, and more than a prophet. 27 This is the one about whom it is written:

'Behold, I am sending my messenger
before your face,
who will prepare your way
before you."

28 I tell you, among those born of women, no one is greater than John the Baptist. Yet the one who is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he."

29 (And all the people who heard, even the revenue agents, vindicated God, having been baptized with the baptism of John. 30 But the Pharisees and the lawyers, not baptized by him, rejected the purpose of God for themselves.)

7:23 Why did Jesus tell John this? Would John be offended by all the good works here recently listed? Not likely. It is more likely that what John would be offended by was Jesus' non-abstentious lifestyle, or even what in John the ascetic's view might be "shady" practices. John had already testified earlier, emphatically and with certainty, that Jesus was the Expected One. But now it appears, John was having his doubts about him. Jesus was apparently a contrast to John in the following: He did not worry too much about ceremonial washing (Diatess 5:45, 14:1-10; 5:25; Matt. 15:1-20; Mark 7:1-23; John 3:25,26, John 2:6). He de-emphasized the concept of clean v. unclean foods (Diatess 14:9; Matt. 15:11,17; Mark 7:15-19). He did not fast, or at least did not teach his disciples to fast (Diatess. 7:24; Matt. 9:14; Mark 2:18; Luke 5:33). He drank alcohol, enabling Pharisees to dare call him a "drunkard," (Luke 7:33, 34; Matt. 11:18-19; Diatess. 10:30). He associated with "shady" characters (Diatess 7:22, 10:30, 10:35-36, 21:1, 24:19; Matt. 9:11; Mark 2:16; Luke 5:30; Matt. 11:19; Luke 7:34, 7:39, 15:1-2, 19:7). He violated the Sabbath by allowing his disciples to husk grain (Mark 2:23-28; Matt. 12:1-8; Lk 6:1-5). He did not pay the two-drachma tax, except for only the 2 people who were discovered, out of the total of 13 in his party (Diatess. 17:22-26; Matt. 17:24-27. On this tax, which was voluntary at best, and illegal at worst, see my endnote in my translation of the gospel of Matthew.) It remains today, that some who consider themselves righteous are offended by these truths about Jesus' lifestyle. But "Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me." "For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit." Romans 14:17

45 7:27 This quote appears to be a blend of Exodus 23:20 and Malachi 3:1.
"To what, then, shall I compare the people of this generation? And what are they like? They are like children sitting in the marketplace and calling out to one another and saying:

'We played the flute for you, and you didn't dance; we sang a dirge, and you didn't cry.'

For John the Baptizer came neither eating bread nor drinking wine, and you say, 'He has a demon.' The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and you say, 'Behold a glutton and a drunkard, a friend of revenue agents and sinners.' Regardless, wisdom is vindicated by all her children."

A Prostitute Washes Jesus’ Feet with her Tears

But one of the Pharisees asked him to eat with him, and he went to the Pharisee's house and reclined. And behold, a woman who was being a sinner in that town came, who having learned that he is reclining at the Pharisee's house, had brought an alabaster bottle of perfume, and appeared behind Jesus, weeping at his feet. And with the tears she began to bathe his feet. And with the hairs of her head she was wiping off, and earnestly kissing his feet, and anointing them with the perfume.

When the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he thought to himself as follows, "If this man were a prophet, he would know who and of what sort is the woman touching him — that she is a sinner."

And Jesus spoke up, and said to him, "Simon, I have something to tell you."

"Tell me, teacher," he says.

"Two men were debtors to a certain moneylender. One owed five hundred denarii, and the other fifty. And as they did not have the money to pay him back, he freely forgave them both. Now which of them [456] 7:35 Greek τέκνων; perhaps a misunderstanding of the Aramaic for "works." Which would make sense: emphasis on ALL. You have to look at ALL the works of a person, not judge on superficial things like eating and drinking, which in fact Paul says in Romans 14:17, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit.

[457] 7:36 In that time and culture, those eating a meal lay on a futon of sorts, on their sides and resting on an elbow, with their feet off the floor. That is how the woman could both stand behind him at his feet, and wipe his feet with her hair.

will love him more?"

43In answer Simon said, "I suppose the one whom he freely forgave more."

And he said to him, "You have judged correctly." 44And turning toward the woman, he was saying to Simon, "Do you see this woman? Your house I entered. Water you did not give me for my feet, but this woman bathed my feet with her tears, and wiped them off with her hair. 45A kiss you did not give me, but this woman, from the time I entered, has not stopped earnestly kissing my feet. 46With oil you did not anoint my head, but this woman with perfume anointed my feet. 47For which reason, I tell you, her many sins have been forgiven, that she loved much. But someone who has been forgiven little, loves little."459

48And he said to her, "Your sins have been forgiven."

49And those reclining with him began to say to themselves, "Who is this who even forgives sins?"

50But he said to the woman, "Your faith has saved you. Go with peace."

Chapter 8

Jesus’ Financiers

1And it came about after this that he traveled about through one city and village after another, proclaiming the good news of the kingdom of God. The Twelve were with him, 2and also some women who had been cured of evil spirits and diseases: Mary, called the Magdalene, from whom seven demons had come out; 3and Joanna the wife of Kuza, the manager of Herod’s household; and Susanna; plus many others; these women were providing for them out of their own means.

459 7:47 Verse 47 is difficult in terms of Greek exegesis, and can’t help but be influenced by one’s existing beliefs regarding sin and salvation. Are the woman’s many sins forgiven because she loved much? Or does she love much because her many sins are forgiven? Consult the many English translations, and you will be surprised to see which falls on which side of this problem. Nevertheless, a few things are clear: Jesus means to point out that the woman loved more because she was forgiven more. And also clear is where Jesus declared in verse 50 that it was her faith that had saved her. And it was not faith without repentance. For her weeping and humility could indicate repentance, and since Jesus knew the hearts of all humans (John 2:24-25; Diatess. 5:36), he apparently knew that in her was true repentance.

460 8:2 A Magdalene is someone who is from the town of Magdala, just as a Seattleite is someone who is from the city of Seattle.
Luke

The Parable of the Sower

4And when a great crowd was coming together, people from every one of those towns coming toward him, he spoke by means of a parable: 5“The sower went out to sow his seed. And in the process of sowing, some seed fell beside the way and was trampled on, and the birds of the sky devoured it. 6And other seed fell on rock, and after it grew, it withered, having no way to get moisture. 7And other seed fell in the midst of thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it. 8And other seed fell into good soil, and when grown it produced fruit a hundredfold.”

After he said these things, he called out, "Whoever has ears to hear, hear."

The Parable of the Sower Explained

9And his disciples asked him the intent of this parable, 10and he said, "To you it is given such that you will know the mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to the rest in parables, 462 so that,

"Though seeing, they will not see, and though hearing, they will not understand."

11"This, then, means the parable: The seed is the word of God. 12And

461 The Greek word is the 3rd person, singular, present, optative form of the verb 'to be.' It says, literally, "What is the being of this parable?" Except in optative mood. "What is this parable supposed to be?" Except there must be a word which encompasses both 'meaning' and 'reason for being.' Thus, "What is this parable meant to accomplish?" The word 'essence' comes to mind, but 'essence' does not include the "reason why you speak in parables" idea. The word 'intent' encompasses the meanings "import, significance, and meaning," and also the mood of potential. We know this 'why' meaning must be part of the meaning of the disciples' question, both because of Jesus' answer, explaining 'why' he used parables; and also from the parallel account in Matthew 13:10, where the disciples say simply, "Why do you speak to the people in parables." (In Mark it is very ambiguous.) Luke elsewhere in his Greek uses the word 'to be' for the meaning and intent of impersonal events. See for example, Acts 2:12, where in reference to the disciples' speaking in dozens of languages simultaneously, the onlookers say, literally, "What does this wish to be?" But instead of the verb 'to be' in the optative mood, 'to be' is an infinitive, and the verb 'thelo' for 'wish, will' is used with it. However, Luke uses the exact same inflection of this same verb in Luke 3:15 as here in 8:9, where the crowd wonders if John the Baptist might possibly be the Messiah.

462 8:10a Or, "To you it is granted (perfect tense) to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to the rest in parables, so that..." The problem with this latter reading is determining what verb is to be implied or supplied for the phrase "but to the rest in parables." This is why I interpreted the infinitive as one of result: "such that you will know." Then the same idea, that is the idea, "in such a way," easily carries over to the "but to them in parables."

the ones beside the way are those who when they hear, next comes the devil, and takes away the word from their heart, so that they will not believe and be saved. 13And the ones on the rock are those who when they hear, receive the word with joy. They are also ones who have no root, and believe for a time, and in the time of trial shrink back. 14And the seed falling in the thorns, these are those who hear, and as they go, are choked by the worries and riches and pleasures of life, and do not bear fruit to the end. 15And the seed in good soil, these are those who when they hear the word, retain it in a good and worthy heart, and bear fruit with perseverance.

16"Now no one after lighting a lamp covers it with a bucket, or puts it under a bed, but instead puts it on the lamp stand, so that those coming in may see the light. 17For there is nothing hidden that will not be made manifest, nor secret, that will not become clearly known, and come into illumination. 18Watch therefore how you listen, for whoever has, it will be granted him, and whoever has not, even what he seems to have will be taken away from him."

Jesus’ Mother and Brothers

19And his mother and brothers came to him, and were not able to get near him because of the crowd. 20And it was reported to him, "Your mother and brothers are standing outside, wanting to see you."

21But he in answer said to them, "These are my mother and brothers, the ones hearing and doing the word of God."

Jesus Commands the Elements

22And it came about during one of those days that he and his disciples had gotten into a boat, that he said to them, "Let's cross over to the other side of the lake." And they put out to sea.

23And as they sailed, he fell asleep. And a storm of wind came down onto the lake, and they were being swamped, and in great danger.

24And after approaching him, they roused him, saying, "Master, we are going to die!"

And when he was awake, he rebuked the wind, and the roughness of the water, and they stopped, and it was calm. 25And he said to them, "Where is your faith?"

But they were amazed and fearful, saying to one another, "Who then is this? For he even commands the wind and the water, and they obey him!"

The Legion of Demons Near Gadara

26And they sailed down into the territory of the Gadarenes, which is opposite Galilee. 27And as he was going on shore, a man from the town met him, demon-possessed, and not having put clothes on for quite some time, and who was living not in a house but in the tombs.

28And when he saw Jesus, he fell down before him crying out, and in a loud voice he said: "What business is there between you and me, O Jesus, you son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torture me!"

29For Jesus was commanding the evil spirit to come out of the man. For many times it had possessed him, and he would be bound with chains and leg irons and guarded, but tearing the bonds apart, he would be driven by the demon into solitary places.

30And Jesus questioned him: "What is your name?"

And he said, "Legion." For many demons had entered into him.

31And they were pleading with him that he not order them to depart into the Abyss.

32And a considerable herd of pigs was feeding there on a hillside, and they begged him to allow them to enter into them, and he allowed them.

34And seeing what had happened, the herders fled, and reported it to the town and to the farms. 35And they came out to see what had happened. And they came to Jesus, and found the man from whom the demons had gone out sitting at Jesus' feet, dressed, and in his right mind, and they were afraid. 36And the ones who had seen reported to them how the demon-possessed man had been cured. 37And all the population of the neighborhood of the Gadarenes asked him to go away from them, for they were overcome with great fear. So he got into the boat and turned back.

464 8:26 Some manuscripts say Gerasenes, some Gadarenes, some Gergesenes. Topographically (the right cliffs, and the prepositional phrase of Lk 8:26, "down to the territory of..."), and culturally (the raising of pigs), Gadarenes is the most likely, which is the reading of Matthew 8:28. For Luke 8:26, both the UBS4 and NA26 read Γερασηνῶν, and the UBS4 gives that a [C] rating of certainty.

465 8:30 Among the Romans a legion was a select body of soldiers— a complete army of cavalry and infantry, numbering from 4,200 to 6,000 men, usually with approximately an equal number of auxiliary troops, thus totaling about 10,000. The legion was divided into ten cohorts of 1,000 each. In this case, a more general meaning of the word legion probably applies: a very large number.
38But the man from whom the demons had gone out was begging to accompany him. But Jesus sent him away, saying, 39"Return to your house, and recount all the things God has done for you." And he went, throughout the whole town, proclaiming what things Jesus had done for him.

A Dead Damsel and a Sick Woman

40And it came about that upon his return, a crowd was welcoming him, for they were all expecting him. 41And behold, a man had come whose name was Jairus, and this man was a synagogue ruler. And falling at Jesus' feet, he begged him to come to his house, 42because he had an only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she was dying.

And as he was on his way, the crowds were pinching him in. 43And a woman suffering a flow of blood since twelve years, who had spent everything she owned on doctors and not been able to get healing from anyone, 44came up behind and touched the tassel of his cloak, and immediately her flow of blood stopped.

45And Jesus said, "Who was it touching me?"

When everyone denied it, Peter said, "Master, the crowds are pushing in together and jostling you."

46But Jesus said, "Someone touched me, for I sensed power go out from me."

47Then the woman, seeing that she was not going unnoticed, came, trembling. 467 And falling at his feet, she related before all the people the reason she had touched him, and how she had been instantly healed. 48And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has healed you. Go with peace."

49While he was still speaking, someone comes from the synagogue ruler's, saying, "Your daughter has died. Don't trouble the teacher any more."

50But having heard, Jesus responded to him, "Don't be afraid. Only believe, and she will be healed."

51And when he went into the house, he did not allow anyone to enter with him except Peter and John and James, and the father of the maiden and the mother. 52And all were weeping and wailing for her. But he said, "Do

466 See Numbers 15:38, Deut. 22:12 467 The reason for her fear was probably because she knew she had violated the Rabbi's cleanness. As a woman with a flow of blood, she was perpetually unclean ceremonially (Leviticus 15:25-31), and the others in the crowd, were they to touch her, would be unclean as well.
not weep. She is not dead but sleeping." And they laughed scornfully at him, knowing that she had died.

Then, holding her hand, he called out, as follows: "Damsel, wake up!" And her spirit returned, and she stood up at once, and he ordered that she be given something to eat. And her parents were astonished.

Then he charged them not to tell anyone what had happened.

Chapter 9

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve

1 And having called the Twelve together, he gave them power and authority over all the demons and diseases, in order to heal. 2 And he sent them to proclaim the kingdom of God and to cure, and said to them: "Take nothing for the journey— neither staffs, nor knapsack, nor bread, nor silver, neither have two tunics each."
Luke

4"And into whatever house you might enter, there remain, and from there go forward. 5 And all the places that do not welcome you, going forth from that town, shake the dust off your feet, as a testimony against them."

6And going forth they went throughout all the villages, preaching the good news, and healing everywhere.

Herod Hears of Jesus

7Now Herod the tetrarch heard about all that was going on, and kept becoming perplexed, because it was said by some that John had been raised from the dead, 8 and by some that Elijah had appeared, and still others that a prophet, one of the Ancients, had come back to life.

9But Herod said, "John, I beheaded. Who, then, is this I hear such things about?" And he tried to see him.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

10And when the apostles returned, they reported to him what things they had done. Then he took them, and retreated in private toward a town called Bethsaida.

11But the crowds who knew, followed him. So, welcoming them, he spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and the ones having need of healing, he cured.

12But the daylight began to decline, and the twelve approached and said to him, "Dismiss the crowd, so they can go to the surrounding villages and

I think the great variety of readings in the Greek manuscripts here arose from many scribes’ simplistic understanding of the preposition εἰς having to mean “into Bethsaida,” or “in Bethsaida,” and then changing the text in order to eliminate a perceived contradiction. But Luke in his gospel and Acts often uses the preposition εἰς to mean “toward,” “in the direction of.” There is no contradiction here in the UBS/NA28 text with other gospels, since the rendering, “retreated toward Bethsaida” allows them to have stopped before reaching Bethsaida, stopped in a deserted place. The reading in the UBS text best explains the rise of all the other readings, and is original. The usual renderings of the Majority Text, such as “retreated into a deserted place belonging to the city of Bethsaida” sound concocted and unnatural do they not?
farms to sleep and find supplies. Because here, we are in a remote place.”

And he said to them, "You give them something to eat."

But they said, "We have no more than five loaves and two fish, unless we were to go and buy food for all this crowd.” 14 For there were about five thousand men.

And he said to his disciples, "Get them to recline in groups of about fifty each.” 15 And they did so, and got them all to recline. 16 And taking the loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them and broke them, and gave to the disciples to set before the people.

And they all ate and were satisfied, and their leftovers picked up were twelve large baskets of fragments.

Peter’s Confession of Messiah

And it came about that, when he was praying in private, the disciples were with him, and he queried them, saying, "Who do the crowds maintain me to be?”

And they in answer said, "John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; and others that a prophet, one of the Ancients, has risen again.”

And he said to them, "But you, who do you maintain me to be?"

And Peter in answer said, "The Christ of God."

Jesus Predicts His Death

But he, admonishing them, charged them to tell this to no one, saying, "The Son of Man must suffer many things and be rejected by the elders, the chief priests, and Torah scholars, and be killed, and on the third day be raised again.”

Then toward everyone he was saying, "If someone wants to come after me, he must deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me. For whoever wants to save his life will lose it; but whoever loses his life for my sake, this one will save it. For how does it benefit a human being when he has gained the whole world, but has lost or been forfeited his very self? For whoever is ashamed of me and of my words, that person the Son of Man will be ashamed of, when he comes in his glory, and of the Father, and of the holy angels. 27 But truly I say to you: There are some, of the ones standing here, who will certainly not taste death until they see the kingdom of God.”

The Transfiguration

28 And it came about, something like eight days after these words, that having taken Peter and John and James, he went up into the mountain, to pray. 29 And it came about that as he prayed, the appearance of his face was different, and his clothes were a glistening white. 30 And behold, two men were conversing with him, who were Moses and Elijah, 31 who, having been made visible in glory, were relating about the exodus of him, which was soon to be coming true in Jerusalem.

32 But Peter and the ones with him were heavy-eyed with sleepiness. But when they had fully woken up, they saw his glory, and the two men standing with him. 33 And it came about that as those were moving off from Jesus, Peter said to him, “O Master, it is good for us to be here, and we should make three shelters, one for you and one for Moses and one for Elijah.” (Not knowing what he is saying.)

34 And as he was saying these things, a cloud came, and it began to overshadow them. And they were afraid as they went into the cloud. 35 And a voice came from the cloud, saying, “This is my Son, the Chosen One; listen to him.” 36 And when the voice happened, they found Jesus alone. And they kept quiet and told no one in those days anything that they had seen.

The Disciples Accused of Impotence to Heal

37 And it came about that during the following day, as they were coming down from the mountain, a large crowd met him. 38 And behold, a man in the crowd shouted out, saying, "Teacher, I beg of you to look at my son;
because he is my only born, and behold, a spirit takes over him and he suddenly cries out, and it convulses him with foaming at the mouth. And it hardly goes away from him, wearing him out. And I pleaded with your disciples that they cast it out, and they were not able to.”

And in response Jesus said, “O unbelieving and perverted generation, how long must I be with you, and put up with you? Bring your son here.”

And even as he was approaching Him, the demon dashed him to the ground, and thrashed him back and forth. But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and the child was restored to wholeness, and He gave him back to his father. And all were struck by the majesty of God.

And while everyone marvelled at all that he was doing, he said to his disciples, “You place into your ears these words. For the Son of Man is about to be transferred into the hands of human beings.”

But they were not understanding this statement, and the meaning was being kept hidden from them, with the result that they did not see it. And they were afraid to ask him about this statement.

Who Is the Greatest?

So contention came into them, as to who of them was greatest.

And Jesus, knowing the contention of their hearts, took a child by the hand, and stood him next to himself. 48And he said to them, "Whoever welcomes this child on the basis of my name, is welcoming me, and whoever welcomes me, is welcoming the one who sent me. For the person who is smallest among you all, that is who is great."

Do Not Hinder Other Camps of God’s People

49And in response, John said, "Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, and we tried to stop him; for he is not following you together with us." 484

50But Jesus said to him, "Do not stop such, for someone who is not against you is for you."

Jesus Rejected by a Samaritan Village

51And it came about that the days leading to his being taken up were running out, and he set his face to head toward Jerusalem. 52And he sent out messengers before his face. And when they proceeded forth they went into a Samaritan village, so as to prepare it for him. 53And they did not welcome him, because his face was heading toward Jerusalem.

54And when they saw this, the disciples James and John said, "Lord, do you will that we command fire to come down from heaven and consume them?" 485 on, to a different village.

The Cost of Following Jesus

57 And as they were proceeding on the way, someone said to him, "I will follow you, wherever you might go."

58 And Jesus said to him, "The foxes have dens, and the birds of the sky, nestling places, but the Son of Man has nowhere he can lay his head."

59 And to another man, he said, "Follow me."

But he said, "Lord, give me leave to first go and bury my father."

60 But Jesus said to him, "Leave those who are dead to bury their dead themselves; and you, after you have come away, 488 you publicize the kingdom of God."

61 And another also said, "I will follow you, Lord. But first give me leave to say farewell to my household."

62 But Jesus said, "No one putting hand to plow and looking back to the things behind, is cut out for the kingdom of God."

Chapter 10

Jesus Sends Out the Seventy-Two

1 And after these things, the Lord appointed another seventy-two, 489 and sent them out two by two before his face, into every town and place where he himself was about to go. 2 And he was saying to them, "The crop is large, but the workers are few. Request therefore of the lord of the harvest, that he send out workers into his harvest. 3 Be on your way. Behold, I am sending you out like sheep in the midst of wolves. 4 You must carry no moneybag, no knapsack, no sandals, and greet no one along the way. 490

5 "And into whatever house you enter, first you say, 'Peace to this house.'

488 9:60 Or, "after you have gone away." It could mean, either after the man leaves Jesus, or after the man leaves (comes away from) the dead. In Greek, the word for "come" was the same as the word for "go." The context here allows the possibility of either. Something else to think about is that in this one conversation between Jesus and the man who wanted to bury his father, three different Greek words are used that could be translated "leave" in English: ἐπιτρέπω ("give me leave"), ἀπέρχομαι (twice, "go off" and "come away"), and ἀφίημι ("leave").

490 10:4 The meaning of the Greek is such that these commands and prohibitions are generally valid, for the whole campaign, and not just right now as they are first leaving.
And if a child of peace is there, your peace will settle upon him. Otherwise, it will bounce back onto you. And in that same house you are to remain, eating and drinking the things belonging to them; for the worker is worthy of his pay; you are not to be moving from house to house.

"And into whatever town you enter that they welcome you, eat the things being set before you, and heal the sick in it, and say to them, 'The kingdom of God has drawn over you.' But into whatever town you enter that they do not welcome you, go out into the streets of it, and say, Even the dust sticking to us from your town onto our feet, we are shaking off to you. Even so, know this, that the kingdom of God has drawn near.' I assure you, it will be more bearable for Sodom in That Day, than for that town.

Woe to you, Khorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the miracles that took place in you took place in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. In any case, it will be more bearable in the judgment for Tyre and Sidon than for you. And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted up to heaven? You will go down to Hades!

The person who listens to you is listening to me, and the one rejecting you, is rejecting me. And the one rejecting me, is rejecting the one who sent me."

And he said to them, "I was watching as Satan fell from heaven like lightning.

491 10:8 A Hebraism, the substituting of קכ for קק. Also in verse 10.
491 10:15 This sentence is quite different in the Majority Text, as also Matthew 11:23. It appears that what I have above, is the original reading. But various transcriptional factors involving the way Greek was written without spaces between words (see the UBS Textual Commentary) and also seemingly a better contextual sense, caused copyists to change the verbs from "will you be exalted" to "you who are exalted," and from "you will go down," to "you will be brought down." Regarding the "You Capernaum, you who are exalted to heaven," the context speaks of what chance each city had to see the light, and experience the kingdom of God having drawn near over them. It does make sense to me, as perhaps to some of the manuscript copyists, that the point Jesus is making is that Capernaum, having been Jesus' base of operations, and his "own town," had already been lifted up to heaven, compared to any other town, in terms of the kingdom of heaven having drawn near. But the UBS textual commentary says, "The unexpected expression, 'And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven?' is a sharp and startling interrogation, entirely in the manner of Jesus' use of vivid language."

19 Behold, I have given you authority to tread upon snakes and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing will by any means harm you. 20 Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this, that the spirits submit to you; but rejoice that your names are written down in heaven."

21 In that same hour, he exulted in the Holy Spirit, and said, "I praise you, Father, O Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the learned and intelligent, and revealed them to babes. Yes, O Father, for that is what was pleasing in your sight.

22 "Everything has been turned over to me by my Father, and no one knows who the Son is, except the Father; and who the Father is, except the Son, and those to whom the Son decides to reveal it."

23 And after he had turned toward his disciples privately, he said, "Blessed are the eyes that see what you see. 24 For I tell you, many prophets and kings wanted to see what you are seeing, and did not see it, and to hear what you are hearing, and did not hear it."

The Parable of the Good Samaritan

25 And behold, a lawyer arose, testing him, saying, "Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?"

26 And he said to him, "What is written in the law? What is your reading of it?"

27 And he in answer said, "You shall love Yahweh your God from your whole heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind, and your neighbor as yourself."

28 And He said, "You have answered correctly. Do this, and you will live."

29 But wanting to justify himself, he said to Jesus, "And who is my neighbor?"

30 In reply, Jesus said, "A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and he fell among bandits. And they, when they had stripped him and inflicted wounds, went away, leaving him half dead. 31 And by chance a priest was going down that road, and when he saw him, he

And mounting him on his own animal, he took him to an inn and took care of him. 35 And on the morrow, he took out two denarii, gave them to the innkeeper, and said, 'Take care of him, and whatever you spend beyond this, I will reimburse you when I return.' 36 "Which of these three seems to you a neighbor for the one who fell among bandits?" 37 And he said, "The one who did the mercy with him." And Jesus said to him, "Go yourself and do likewise."

Jesus at Mary and Martha’s House 38 And when he moved on, he entered a certain village. And a woman by the name of Martha hosted him for dinner. 39 There was also a sister to that one, named Mary, and she having sat down at the Lord’s feet, was listening to his word. 40 But Martha was being drawn away by many chores of hospitality. But when she did come over, she said, "Lord, doesn’t it concern you that my sister has left me to serve alone? Tell her therefore that she should help carry the load with me.”

41 But in answer, Jesus said to her, "Martha, Martha. You are getting concerned and agitated over many things. But there is only one thing that warrants it. For Mary has selected the good portion, which will not be taken away from her.”

Prayer

1And it came about when he was praying in a certain place, that as he was finishing, one of his disciples said to him, "Lord, teach us to pray, even as John taught his disciples."

2And he said to them, "When you pray, say:

"Father, hallowed be your name.

May your kingdom come.

3Give us each day our daily bread.

4And forgive us our sins, for we ourselves also forgive everyone who is indebted to us.

And lead us not into temptation.' "

5And he said to them, "Suppose one of you shall have a friend, and will go to him at midnight and say to him, 'Friend, lend me three loaves, because a friend of mine has shown up, from a journey toward me, and I have nothing to set before him."

7"That one inside may say in answer, 'Do not cause me hassles. The door is already shut up, and my children are in bed with me. I can't get up to give you something.'

8I tell you, even if he will not get up and give you something because of being your friend, yet because of brash persistence on your part he will get up, and give you as much as you need.

9So I say to you: Keep asking, and it will be given to you; keep seeking, and you will find; keep knocking, and it will be opened to you.

44"Woe to you!⁵¹⁴ For you are like graves that are not marked, and the people when walking over them do not know it."⁵¹⁵

45And in response, someone from the class of lawyers says to him, 'Teacher, in saying these things, you are insulting us also.'

46But he said, "And to you lawyers also, woe! For you make people carry loads oppressive to bear, and you yourselves, not one of your fingers do you touch to such loads.

Jesus segues from that to the idea of the inside of their warehouse, or perhaps their platter, being loaded up with goods, which is evil in itself; but if they give what is lying inside to the poor, the inside of their vessel will be clean. Another play on words is that in New Testament Greek, "vessel" sometimes means your body, which is your container or dish, so to speak.

⁵¹¹ 11:42 Another garden herb, Anemone graveolens. Deuteronomy 14:22 commands the Israelites to give God a tithe from all their crops. But according to the Mishnah (Shebi'ith IX 1; cf. Billerb. II 189) it was not necessary to tithe the rue. Hence Jesus' words, "even" the rue.

⁵¹² 11:41b A variable here is the dative case of the words meaning "for you" in the phrase πάντα καθαρὰ ὑμῖν ἐστιν. Some translations say "for you," others "to you," and others leave it untranslated altogether. The rendering "clean for you" is easy enough to understand. Clean "to you" could be an "ethical dative," meaning "clean in your sight." For the N.T. teaches that some things are clean to some people, but unclean to others, depending on their conscience. Perhaps here, the giving to charity changes the evil conscience of the rich. When a rich person is rich selfishly, he has an evil conscience, and his wealth can be unclean in his own eyes, whereas if he is generous, he no longer feels guilty? Something to think about. Paul said in Romans 14:14, "to him that thinks anything to be unclean, to him it is unclean."

52 Woe to you, lawyers! For you have taken away the key to the door of knowledge. You yourselves have not gone in, and the ones going in you have barred. 516

53 And then as he went forth from there, 517 the Torah scholars and Pharisees began to be extremely hostile, and to provoke him to speak unpreparedly 518 about a great variety of topics, 54 ambushing him, to pounce on something coming from his mouth. 519

Warnings and Encouragements

1 When a vast multitude had gathered, such that they were trampling on one another, he began to say to his disciples first, "Be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. 2 But there is nothing covered up that will not be revealed, and nothing secret that will not be made known. 3 Therefore, what things you have said in the darkness, will be heard in the light, and what you have spoken close to an ear in the cellars, will be proclaimed on the housetops.

516 11:52 The Greek verb I translated "barred" is κωλύω, which is related to the word for "limb" of the body, κῶλον. Thus we get a picture of someone blocking the way by putting their arm across the way, like a bar. So even after someone figured out how to enter, in spite of the key being withheld, the lawyers would still further block the way, probably by passing a law against it, and enforcing that law. Even as the international pictogram for something which is forbidden by law, is the picture of the activity, with a bar across it. Even when not making it illegal, the "clergy" down through the ages to the present time, have in other ways led the "laity" to believe that the Bible is either too hard to understand or translate without their key, without being initiated into their clergy club, or else it is against church policy, or something like that.

517 11:53 α κακειθεν εξελθοντος αυτου κακειθεν εξελθοντος αυτου ταυτα προς αυτους ενωπιον παντος του λαου ⁷⁵

518 11:54 ινα ευρωσιν κατηγορησαι αυτου Ινα κατηγορησουσιν αυτου Ινα κατηγορησω δου ταυτα προς αυτους ενωπιον παντος του λαου

519 12:2 The particle δε is meant to make a contrast here, between hypocrisy, in v. 1, and the disclosure of v. 2. For hypocrisy entails a covering up of one’s true inner motives, a pretention. A hypocrite has a secret life.
Luke 4

4"I tell you, my friends, do not be afraid of the ones killing the body, and after that having nothing worse left to do. 5But I will suggest to you whom you should fear. Fear the one who after the killing, has the power to cast into Gehenna. Yes, I tell you, fear him.

6"Are not five sparrows sold for a penny?

521 And not one of them is forgotten before God. 7But in your case, even the hairs of your head, each is numbered. You should not be afraid. You matter more than many sparrows.

8"But I tell you, whoever stands up for me before human beings, the Son of Man also will stand up for him before the angels of God. 9Whereas the one disowning me before human beings, will be disowned before the angels of God. 10And everyone who will speak a word against the Son of Man, it will be forgiven him. But to the person who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven.

11"And when they deliver you over to the synagogues, and to the rulers and to the authorities, do not worry how or what you should defend, or what you should say. 12For the Holy Spirit will instruct you in that very hour what needs to be said."

False Financial Security

13And someone in the crowd said, "Teacher, tell my brother to divide the inheritance with me."

14But he said to him, "Man, who appointed me judge or arbiter over you two?"

15And he said to them, "Watch out, and be on your guard against every form of covetousness. For the life of one is not in the abundance of one's possessions."523

521 12:6 Literally, "two assarion," which were little fragments of brass coin. It means, practically, "a pittance, a trifle, a doit." We say, "I sold it for peanuts." We don't say exactly how many peanuts, like "I sold it for three peanuts." That is not the point.

522 12:8 This is not a standard Greek sentence, but "Biblical Greek," like that in the Septuagint, which is to say, Greek influenced strongly by the Semitic languages. Here we have a very unusual use of the Greek preposition ἐν, the lexical gloss of which is "in" in English; thus: "Whoever confesses in me before humans, I will also confess in him before the angels of God." It is a Semitic principle of, "You do something in my advantage, something 'for' me, and I will do something in your advantage, something 'for' you, in exchange." Blass, §220(2), and Bauer, IV 5, say it means "whenever acknowledges me before men, him also I will acknowledge before the angels of God."

523 12:15 Greek: οὖν ἐκ τῶν ὑπαρχόντων αὐτῷ. The preposition ἐκ (from) is the word posing some difficulty. Bauer, 3 f, says this means, "He does not live because of..." For the whole 3 f section he gives the meaning, "of the reason which is a presupposition for something: by reason of, as a result of, because of." This calls to my mind the verse in Proverbs...
And he spoke a parable to them as follows: 'The land of a certain rich man yielded abundantly, and he was thinking to himself, 'What shall I do? For I have no place where I can stack my produce.'

And he said, 'This is what I will do. I will pull down my warehouses, and build bigger ones, and there I will stack all my wheat, and all my goods.

And I will say to my soul, "Soul, you have much goods sitting there into many years. Relax, eat, drink, be merry."'

But God said to him, 'You fool, this very night they are demanding your soul back from you, and the provisions you have made, whose will they be?'

Such is the person saving up for himself, and not becoming rich to God.\(^{524}\) where it says, "Guard your heart, for out of it are the issues of life."

\(^{524}\) 12:20 Bauer says this is a figure of speech, found in other writers such as Cicero, and Epictetus, using the concept of a human being's life as a loan. And that now, "they," the creditors, are demanding payment in full, of the loan, "calling in the loan." The Greek verb for "demand back," ἀπαιτέω, is used only twice in the N.T., both times by Luke, one time here, and the other time being in the Sermon on the Mount in Luke 6:30b, "...from the one forcefully taking your things, do not demand them back." It is used nine times in the Septuagint: four times for the demanding of repayment of loans, twice for extortion; once for the demand by Pharaoh for all the gold and silver of the land; and finally, one time in Isaiah 30:33, very much like Luke's use here. That occurrence is also for God's demanding of someone's life prematurely, the life of the king of Assyria. The exact phrase there is Σὺ γὰρ πρὸ ἡμερῶν ἀπαιτηθήσῃ, the same 3rd person, singular, passive inflection on ἀπαιτέω as on the verb ἐκζητέω in Luke 11:50, "so that the blood of all the prophets that has been spilled from the foundation of the world, would be demanded of this generation.

However, here in Luke 12:20 we have 3rd person plural, and active voice: "they are demanding." Apart from Bauer's explanation, this reminds me of the place in the prophet Daniel, in chapter 4 verses 13 & 17, where it says, "This sentence is by the decree of the angelic watchers, and the decision is the command of the holy ones, in order that the living may know that the Most High is ruler over the realm of mankind..." It implies in v. 17 that there exists a council of some sort, composed of "holy ones," that is, angels, who make decisions on behalf of God. See also Psalm 82:1, "God stands in the assembly of gods, and in their midst, he judges gods." Sometimes angels are referred to as gods, or "sons of god." But the point I am making is that such a council of angels, like the group who decided when Nebuchadnezzar was to die, are a "they," plural, like when God told the rich man here in Luke, "they are demanding your soul back from you." So in this instance, it would make sense to render it "This very night they are demanding your soul back from you." Most English translations render this as a passive with an unexpressed subject or agent, i.e., "your soul is being demanded of you." This is because in Indo-European languages this syntax is a phenomenon called the "3rd person plural with unexpressed indefinite subject used to form a passive." It should be noted that this is not an Aramaism or Semitism. In the long list of Semitisms in Koine Greek in the BDF grammar on p. 273, this "3rd person plural with unexpressed indefinite subject" is not to be found. Indeed, examples of this syntax may be found in classical Greek writings, in Latin, German, Spanish and French etc. as well. In fact, in Indo-European languages in general, a passive sentence may be formed with a third person plural verb form with or without an impersonal subject. But in the Greek New Testament, this is not consistently rendered as passive in English by Greek scholars. For example, in Revelation 12:6: ἵνα ἐκεῖ τρέφωσιν αὐτὴν is rendered in the KJV as "that they should feed her there." Though most do, such as the NASB: "so that there she would be nourished." But why should Greek do that, when it has the common passive verb forms? In Revelation 12:14, just 8 verses later, and even talking about the same subject, the Greek in Revelation uses the passive form of the same verb: τρέφεται!

22And to his disciples, he said, "Because of this I say to you, do not worry about life, what you will eat, nor about the body, what you will wear.
23For life means more than food, and the body more than clothes.
24"Consider the ravens, that they neither sow nor reap, and God feeds them. How much higher priority you are than birds!
25"Now which of you by worrying is able to add onto his lifespan one foot? If therefore you cannot accomplish even this very little thing, why do you worry about the rest?
26"Consider the lilies, how they grow. They neither labor nor weave. But I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor, was bedecked like one of these. 28Now if God thus clothes the wild grass, which is here this day and the next is thrown into the stove, how much more would he rather clothe you, O you of little faith?
29"And you also should not seek after how you will eat and how you will drink; that is, do not be anxious. 30Because all these things, the nations of the world are striving for. But your Father knows that you have need of these things. 31Only seek instead his kingdom, and these things will be included for you.
32"Do not be afraid, little flock; for it has given your Father pleasure to give you the kingdom. 33Sell your possessions, and give to the poor: make for yourselves money bags unfailing, a stockpile not shrinking; in the heavens, where neither a thief ever gets close, nor a moth ever destroys.
34For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

Be Ready

35“You must keep your waists girded and your lamps burning, 36 and you must be like people waiting for their own master, waiting for when he returns from the wedding celebrations, so that when he arrives and is knocking, they may immediately open for him. 37 Happy are those slaves who when the master arrives, he finds watching. Truly I tell you, he will gird himself and bid them recline, and after coming in, he will serve them. 38 Those slaves are happy, whether he arrives in the second watch and finds them so, or even in the third watch. 39 And this you know, that if the manager of the household knew what hour the thief was coming, he would not have allowed his house to be broken into. 40 You also must be the same, because the Son of Man is coming at an hour you would not think he would.”

41 Then Peter said, “Lord, are you saying this parable to us, or to everyone else as well?”

42 And the Lord said, “So who is the faithful and sensible steward, whom the master will place over his domestic service, to be giving out rations in due time? 43 Happy will be that slave who when his lord comes, he finds doing so. 44 Truly I tell you, he will place him over all his possessions.

45 But if that slave says in his heart, ‘My master is taking his time to come,’ and he begins to slap around the workboys and the workgirls, and to eat and drink and get drunk, 46 the master of that slave will come at an hour he is not expecting, and at a time he does not know, and will cut him in two, and appoint him his inheritance with the unbelieving.

47 And that slave, knowing the will of his master, and not having prepared or done in accordance with his will, he will be lashed many times. 48 Whereas the one not knowing, and having done things deserving of scourgings, he will be lashed few times. So then, anyone to whom much has been given, much will be required of him, and from him to whom much has been entrusted, that much more will be demanded.

Jesus Causes Division

49 I have come to cast fire upon the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled! 50 But I have a baptism to be baptized, and how tormented I am until that has been accomplished.

51 You think that I have come to provide peace on the earth. Not at all, I tell you, but rather division. 52 For from now on, five in one household will be divided: three against two, and two against three.   53Father will be divided against son, and son against father; mother against daughter and daughter against mother; mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law.”

Judge For Yourselves

54And he was also saying to the crowds, "When you see a cloud rising in the west, right away you say, 'A rainstorm is coming,' and it happens so.
55And when the south wind blows, you say, 'It will be hot,' and it happens.
56Hypocrites! The face of the earth and sky you know how to interpret, but this present time you do not know how to interpret?
57And why also do you not judge equity yourselves?
58For as you are going with your adversary to court, on the way make every effort to be free of him, lest he drag you before the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and the officer throw you in prison.
59I tell you, no way will you come out of that place, until you have paid back the very last penny.”

Chapter 13

Repent or Perish

1And some who were present at that time, were reporting to him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with the blood of their sacrifices.
2And in response he said to them, "Do you think that because they suffered these things, those Galileans were sinners, more so than all the rest of the Galileans?
3Not at all, I tell you; but on the other hand, if you do not repent, you shall all likewise perish.
4Or those eighteen, on whom the tower in Siloam fell and killed them, do you think they were debtors worse than all the rest of the people living in Jerusalem?

6And he continued with this parable: "A man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard. And he came seeking fruit on it, and did not find any.
7And he said to the vine dresser, 'Look, it has been three years already I have been coming, seeking fruit on this fig tree and not finding it. Cut it down. Why 527 12:58 That is, by satisfying him, coming to a settlement with him.

528 13:1 Bauer says this means, "whom Pilate ordered to be slain even as they were sacrificing." And so, their own blood would mingle on the ground with the blood of the animal they were sacrificing. A literal rendering of this is a vivid and grabbing figure of speech, and it is a shame to turn this into a bland dynamic equivalent in English.
is it still using up the soil?’

8"But in answer, he says to him, 'Sir, leave it for this year also, until such time I have dug and put manure around it; 9and if in the future it does produce fruit, so much the better. But if not, then you would cut it down.'"

A Crippled Woman Healed on the Sabbath

10And he was teaching in one of the synagogues during the Sabbath.
11And behold, a woman having had a spirit of disability for eighteen years was there. And she was bent over double, and not able to look up at all.
12And when Jesus saw her, he called to her and said to her, "Woman, be set free from your disability." 13And he laid hands on her; and she became erect at once, and was praising God.

14But in response, the synagogue ruler, being indignant that Jesus had healed during the Sabbath, was saying to the crowd, "There are six days in which you are supposed to work; you should therefore be coming during those to be healed, and not during the day of rest." 15But the Lord answered him, and said, "You hypocrites!  Who among you on the Sabbath does not free his ox or his donkey from its stall, and after leading it out, give it drink?  16But this woman, a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan has kept bound lo these eighteen years, she should not be freed from this bondage on the day of rest?!"
17And with his saying these things, all his opponents were being humiliated, and the whole crowd was cheering, for all the glorious things being accomplished by him.

The Parables of the Mustard Seed and the Yeast

529 13:9 The words "so much the better" are not in the Greek text, but we have to put something there. This is a legitimate ellipsis. The Greek says only, "And if indeed in the future it does produce fruit— but if not, then you would cut it down."
530 13:16 The number six signifies human effort, which falls short of seven, God's perfection or completion. This woman was enslaved for eighteen years, three times six, three times the normal human effort. What better day than the seventh, the day of rest, for someone to be set free from the slavery of working six days three times?  See Deuteronomy 15:1, "Every seventh year you must cancel debts."  And 15:12, "If a fellow Hebrew, a man or a woman, sells himself to you and serves you six years, in the seventh year you must let him go free."  This woman was kept in bondage three sets of six years, and not being set free.
Yet this synagogue ruler was telling her to keep working six days for the rest of her life!
For a fuller discussion of this important concept, see my treatise entitled, "What is Sabbath?"
Then he said, "What is the kingdom of God like? And to what may I compare it? It is like a mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his garden, and it grew and became a tree, and the birds of the sky nested in its branches."

And again he said, "To what may I compare the kingdom of God? It is like yeast that a woman took and folded into three measures of dough until the whole was leavened."

_The Narrow Door_

And he was going through every city and village teaching, even as he was making his journey toward Jerusalem. And someone said to him, "Lord, are those being saved going to be few?"

And he said to him, "Make every effort to go in through the narrow door. For many, I tell you, will try to enter, and not be able to. Once the master of the house has gotten up and closed the door, after that you may begin to stand outside, and knock on the door, saying, 'Lord, open to us,' and in answer he will say to you, 'I don't know where you are from.' At that time you will begin to say, 'We ate and drank in your presence, and you taught in our streets.' And then at that time he will say to you as follows: 'I don't know where you are from. Get away from me, all you workers of unrighteousness.' In that place there will be weeping, and gnashing of teeth, when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and you are being cast outside, and people will have come from the east and the west, and from the north and the south, and be reclined in the kingdom of God. And behold, there are those who are last, who will be first; and there are those who are first who will be last."

_Jesus Laments Jerusalem_

In that hour, some Pharisees came up to him, saying to him, "You should move on, and get out of this place, because Herod is trying to kill you."

And he said to them, "Go tell that fox: 'Behold, I am casting out demons and accomplishing healings today and tomorrow, and on the third day I will reach my goal.' Regardless, I would have to be continuing on 532 13:32 The Greek for the last phrase, καὶ τῇ τρίτῃ τελευτῶσα could also possibly be

34“O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that kills the prophets, and stones those sent to it! How often I have wished to gather your children, as a hen does her brood under her wings, and you were not willing. 35Behold, your house is now abandoned to you. 36I tell you, you will not see me, until the day when you say, ’Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

Chapter 14

Jesus at a Pharisee’s House

1And it came about that when he went into the house of a certain ruler of the Pharisees on a Sabbath, to eat bread, they were watching him closely.

2And behold, a man with dropsy was right in front of him.

4But they kept quiet. And after grasping him, he healed him, and dismissed him.

translated, "and on the third day I will be finished." But this saying of Jesus seems related to verse 22 of this same chapter, that he was making his way to Jerusalem. The verb τελείω can also mean to reach the end of something, like a journey, so it makes sense to translate it that way in view of what he says in verse 33. That verse implies that he will reach Jerusalem in three days. Reaching his goal of arriving in Jerusalem, he says, is essential, because it is not possible for a prophet to be killed outside of Jerusalem.

13:35a The Greek pronoun for "you" is plural, as also the "you" all three times in this same verse.

Psalm 118:26

14:2 The sentence opens with καὶ ἵδε ὁ - καὶ ἵδε, "And behold." Perhaps the "behold" could mean similar to the exclamation, "what do you know." Like this: "And what do you know, there was a man with dropsy right in front of him.” At any rate, it was apparently a set-up.
And he said to them, "Who among you whose son or ox should fall into a pit during the Sabbath day, would not immediately pull him out?"

And they were not able to rebut these words.

And toward those who had been invited, he was speaking a parable, referring to how they were claiming the most prestigious seats, saying to them as follows: "When you are invited by someone to a banquet, do not recline at the place of honor, in case someone more distinguished than you is invited by him, and the one who invited both you and him comes and says to you, 'Yield place to this person.' And then you would proceed with embarrassment to make for the last seat.

Instead, when you are invited, make your way to the least desirable place and recline, so that when the one who invited you comes, he will say to you, 'Friend, move up to a better place.' Then there will be honor for you in front of all your fellow dinner guests.

For anyone who exalts himself will be humbled; and the one who humbles himself will be exalted."

And he was also saying to the man who had invited him, "When you make a breakfast or dinner, do not call your friends, or your siblings or relatives or rich neighbors, lest they also invite you back in return, and that would be repayment for you.

Instead, when you make a banquet, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind; and you will be blessed, because they do not have the means to repay you. For it will be repaid to you, you see, at the resurrection of the righteous."

And after hearing these things, one of the dinner guests said to him, "Blessed is the person who will eat bread in the kingdom of God."

And Jesus said to him, "A man was holding a great banquet, and..."

invited many people. 17 And at the hour of the banquet, he sent his slave out to tell those who were invited, 'Come, for it is now ready.'

18 And they all alike began to ask to be excused. The first one said to him, 'I have bought a field, and I urgently have to go out and see it. I ask you, consider me excused.'

19 And another one said, 'I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I'm on my way to try them out. I ask you, consider me excused.'

20 And another one said, 'I have married a wife, and for this reason I am not able to come.'

21 And when he came back, the slave reported these things to his master. Angered then, the master of the house said to his slave, 'Quick, go out into the boulevards and lanes of the town. And the poor, the crippled, the blind, the lame, lead them here.'

22 And the slave said, 'Master, what you have commanded has been done, and still there is room.'

23 And the master said to the slave, 'Go out into the trails and the fence lines, and urgently invite them to come in, so that my house will be filled. 24 You can be sure, I tell you, that not one of those men who were invited, will taste of my banquet!'

Jesus Qualifies the Crowds

25 And great crowds were going along with him, and he turned around, and said to them, 26 "If someone is coming with me, and does not spurn his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, and yes, even his own life, he cannot be my disciple. 27 Anyone that does not take up his own cross and follow after me, cannot be my disciple.

28 "For who of you wishing to build a tower, does not first sit down and count the cost, whether he has enough for completion? 29 It would be no good if he lays the foundation, and not being able to finish, all those observing start to ridicule him, 30 saying, 'This fellow began to build, and was not able to finish.'

31 "Or what king, going out to another king to meet in battle, does not first sit down to consider whether he is strong enough with ten thousand, to match the one who is coming against him with twenty thousand? 32 For indeed if not, while he is still at a distance he sends out a delegation, and asks what are the conditions for peace.

33 "In the same way, then, any of you who does not say good-bye to everything that he has, cannot be my disciple.

34 "Salt then is a good thing; but if the salt itself becomes bland, what will it be spiced with? 35 It is fit neither for the soil, nor for the manure pile; they throw it out.

"Whoever has ears to hear, hear."

Chapter 15

The Parable of the Lost Sheep

1 And all the tax collectors and the sinners were coming up next to him, to listen to him. 2 And both the Pharisees and the Torah scholars were complaining, saying, "This fellow welcomes sinners, and eats with them."

3 But he spoke this parable to them, as follows: 4 What man among you who has a hundred sheep and is missing one of them, does not leave behind the ninety-nine in the desert, and go out after the lost one, until he finds it? 5 And when he has found it, he places it on his shoulders, rejoicing. 6 And upon returning home he calls his friends and neighbors together, saying to them, 'Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep that was lost.' 7 I tell you, in just the same way, there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner repenting, than over ninety-nine righteous persons having no need of repentance.

14:32 DeBrunner, §155(2), regarding double accusatives, says this phrase ἐρωτᾷ τὰ πρὸς εἰρήνῃ, with both τὰ and εἰρήνῃ being accusative case, is equivalent to the Hebrew שֶׁלֶם, and that it means "he inquires after his well-being." He says there are several examples in the Septuagint, and refers us to R. Helbing, "Die Kasussyntax der Verba bei den Septuaginta," 40. Another possibility according to DeBrunner, is: "he greets him (and pays homage to him)." He then refers us to Foerster. This translator does not have access to Helbing's or Foerster's works, so looked for LXX examples himself, and the closest thing he found was Psalm 122:6, ἐπιτύπωσε δὴ τὰ εἰς εἰρήνην Ἱεροσολύμων, "Pray now for the things that lead to the peace of Jerusalem."

14:35 For salt at that time, do not picture purely refined, white, fine-grained sodium chloride like we use now. There are many speculations as to what this verse implies about the salt of that day. Bauer says that salt was sometimes used as fertilizer. Another scholar says that salt was sometimes used to make the soil of one's enemies infertile! And why would someone put salt on a dung heap? To preserve it? Or was it to amend it, stretch it? The best explanation I have heard is that the word salt would have been understood to mean any substance that tasted salty, including, say, potassium nitrate, which could be used for fertilizer. And Ben Crick of England says that the word salt would have been used of any chemical salt, which would include a whole range of substances called "halides" (the Greek word for salt here is "halas"), such as fluorine, chlorine, bromine, iodine and astatine. Fortunately, the moral of the parable remains clear: unless you give up all your possessions, and take up your cross and follow like Jesus, you are salt that is not salty, so is not useful for anything.
The Parable of the Lost Coin

8"Or what woman having ten drachmas, if she loses one drachma, does not light a lamp and sweep the house clean, and search diligently until such time she finds it? 9And when she has found it, she calls her friends and neighbors together, saying, 'Rejoice with me; for I have found the drachma that was lost.' 10In just the same way, I tell you, rejoicing breaks out among the angels of God over one sinner repenting."

The Parable of the Lost Son

11And he said, "A certain man had two sons. 12And the younger of them said to the father, 'Father, pay out to me the applicable share of the holdings.' So he divided to them the life savings. 13And not many days later, having gathered everything together, the younger son journeyed off, to a far away country, and there he wasted his estate, living indulgently. 14And after he had spent everything he had, a severe famine took place over that whole country, and he himself began to be without. 15And so going forth, he joined on with one of the citizens of that country, who sent him into his fields to tend swine. 16And he was craving to be fed of the carob pods that the swine were eating, and no one gave him any.

17And when he came to himself, he was saying, 'How many hired men of my father’s have more than enough food, and here I am, perishing.'

Chapter 16
The Shrewd Money Manager

1And then toward his disciples he was saying: "There was a rich man, who had a business manager. And accusations were brought to him against this man, that he was wasting his property. 2So having summoned him, he said to him, 'What is this I am hearing about you? Surrender the records of your management; for you can no longer be manager.'

3"And the manager said to himself, 'What will I do, now that my master is taking away the management from me? I am not strong enough to dig. I am ashamed to beg. 4I know what I will do, so that after I am removed from my management, people will welcome me into their homes.'

5"And calling in each and every one of his master's debtors, he said to the first one, 'How much do you owe my master?'

6"And he said, 'A hundred baths of olive oil.'

"And he told him, 'Take your bill, and sit down quickly and write "fifty."'

7"Then, to another one he said, 'And you, how much do you owe?'

"And he said, 'A hundred kors of wheat.'

"He says to him, 'Take your bill and write "eighty."'

8"And that master gave credit to the unrighteous manager, in that he had acted shrewdly. For the children of this age are more shrewd toward their own generation than are the children of light. 9And as for me, I say to you, make friends for yourselves by means of the undependable\textsuperscript{549} wealth, so that when it fails, they may welcome you into perpetual dwellings.

10"The person who is faithful with little, is also faithful with much, and the one who is undependable with little is also undependable with much.
11If therefore you do not prove faithful with the undependable wealth, who will trust you with the true?  12And if with someone else's property you have not turned out to be faithful, who will grant you property of your own?

13"No house slave is able to serve two masters; for he would either spurn the one and love the other, or devote himself to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Wealth.'

14And the Pharisees had been listening to all this and, being moneylowers, were sneering at him.

\textsuperscript{549} 169 The Greek word "adikos" here is usually rendered "unrighteous, but can also mean "untrustworthy, undependable," as indeed Jesus uses it here and in vv. 10-11 with that meaning. Jesus is also making a play on words, on the word Mammon (here rendered Wealth), which word is based on a Semitic root for "dependable, reliable." The idea of mammon was a wealth to such an extent that one could relax and feel secure and confident financially. But Jesus here is saying that it will fail. Jesus calls it the wealth that is ἀδικίας, which means "unrighteous, unreliable, fraudulent, false, undependable." When Jesus says "unrighteous Mammon," he is saying something like "insecure security." And this is the same word he used to describe the manager. A false manager, an undependable manager.
Another play is the contrast of the undependable property with the "true" or "real" property. Wherever I have the word "undependable," you can substitute the word "false, dishonest" as in whoever is false with little, is also false with much; and, "false wealth."
And he said to them, "You are ones who justify yourselves before human beings, but God knows your hearts. For what is highly esteemed among human beings, is detestable in God's sight.

The law and the prophets were until John; from that time on the kingdom of God is being proclaimed, and everyone is pushing their way into it. But it is easier for sky and earth to pass away, than for one serif of the law to fall. Anyone who dismisses his wife and marries another is committing adultery, and he who marries her who has been dismissed by a husband, is committing adultery.

The Rich Man and Lazarus

Now a certain man was rich, and used to put on a purple robe and fine linen, and live it up splendidly every day. But a beggar, Lazarus by name, was laid at his gate, covered with sores, and he kept longing in vain to eat the scraps dropping from that rich man's table. In contrast, the dogs would at least come and lick his sores.

Now the beggar came to die, and was carried off by the angels to Abraham's bosom. And the rich man also died, and was buried. And in Hades, when he lifted up his eyes, from being in torment, he sees Abraham far away, and Lazarus in his bosom. So after calling out to him, he said, 'Father Abraham, have pity on me, and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water, to cool my tongue, because I am in agony in this fire.'

But Abraham said, 'Son, recall that in your lifetime, you received your good things, while Lazarus likewise received his bad; so now here, he is comforted, and you are suffering. And besides all this, between us and you a great chasm has been fixed, such that those who want to go from here to you are not able to, neither can anyone cross over from there to us.'

And he said, 'Then I beg you, father, please send him to my father's 550 16:16 There is no verb in this sentence in the Greek. But the only word in Greek customarily allowed to be omitted but implied, is the simple copula. That is, the verb "is." And since it is talking about something that was in the past, and plural, therefore we supply the word "were."

551 16:18 Why is this said here, at this time? The context is Jesus scolding the Pharisees for being apparently righteous, but being detestable in God's sight. Therefore I believe that what is happening here is that the Pharisees commonly divorced and remarried, and would justify it somehow. But Jesus was known to have taught a stricter view of divorce than even the strictest school of the Pharisees.

552 16:23 Also in v. 22, εἰς τὸν κόλπον Ἀβραάμ "Abraham's side." Compare John 13:23, where John's place at the Passover meal was ἐν τῷ κόλπῳ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ "in the bosom of Jesus," and John 1:18, where Jesus Christ the Son is said to be εἰς τὸν κόλπον τοῦ πατρὸς "in the bosom of the Father."
house, 28 since I have five brothers, in order that he solemnly warn them not to also come to this place of torment.'

29 “But Abraham says, 'They have Moses and the Prophets; let them take heed to them.'

30 “And he said, 'Hardly, father Abraham; but if someone from the dead goes to them, they will repent.'

31 “And he said to him, 'If they are not taking heed to Moses and the Prophets, neither will they be persuaded if someone arises from the dead.'"

Chapter 17

A Brother Who Sins

1 And he said to his disciples, 'It is not possible for there not to come things that cause people to fall. Nevertheless, woe to that person by whom such comes! 2 It would be better for him if a mill stone is lying around his neck and he is thrown into the sea, than that he cause one of these little ones to fall.

3 "Watch yourselves. If your brother sins, rebuke him, and if he repents, forgive him. 4 And if he sins against you seven times in a day, and seven times he turns toward you, saying, 'I repent,' you must forgive him."

Faith and Duty

5 And the apostles said to the Lord, "Give us more faith."

6 But the Lord said, "If you have faith as small as a mustard seed, you could say to this mulberry tree, 'Be uprooted and planted in the sea,' and it 554 17:4a Or possibly, as some translations say, "seven times a day." This latter reading would be a great deal more forgiving to do. Yet, Jesus in another place said we must forgive someone "seventy times seven" times, or perhaps "seventy-seven times." It seems to me, that the spirit of the teaching would also apply if someone sins against you seven times every day, but does turn to you seven times each day, saying, "I repent." Because really, that about describes our relationship with God, how many times he has to forgive us. And most of us don't even repent that many times a day, though we have need of it.

7"Now who of you having a servant plowing or tending the sheep, when he comes in from the field would say to him, 'Come right over here and recline'? 8Would he not instead say to him, 'Fix something I can eat, and after you have girded yourself, serve me while I eat and drink, and after these things, you shall eat and drink'? 9Neither does he thank the servant that he has done what he has been told. 10In the same way, you also, when you have done all the things that were prescribed for you, you should say, 'We are unprofitable servants; we have done what we are supposed to have done.'"

Ten Healed of Leprosy

11And it came about that as he was on his way to Jerusalem, he was passing through the middle of Samaria and Galilee. 12And as he was coming into a village, ten men who had leprosy met him, who stopped and stood at a distance. 13And they called out loudly, saying, "Jesus, Master, have pity on us!"

14And when he saw this, he said to them, "Go show yourselves to the priests." And it came about that as they went, they were cleansed.

15And one of them, when he saw that he had been healed, turned and came back, praising God with a very loud voice. 16And he fell on his face at Jesus' feet, thanking him. And he was a Samaritan.

17So in response Jesus said, "Were there not ten cleansed? Where then are the other nine? 18Were none found to have come back to give glory to God, except this foreigner?"

19And he said to him, "Get up and go your way; your faith has saved you."

The Coming of the Kingdom of God

20And when he was questioned by the Pharisees as to when the kingdom of God was coming, he answered them as follows: "The kingdom of God does not show with careful observation, 21neither will people say, 'Behold, here,' or 'Behold, there.' For behold, the kingdom of God is within you."

22And he said to the disciples, "Days are coming, when it is one of the days of the Son of Man you will long to see, and you will not have that experience. 23And people will say to you, 'Behold, there!' or 'Behold, here!' Do not go, neither follow after them. 24For just as lightning shines forth flashing from one end of the sky to the other, so shall it be with the Son of Man in his day. 25But first he must suffer much at the hands of this generation and be rejected.

26And just as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of Man. 27People were eating, drinking, marrying, being given in marriage, up until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28It was just the same in the days of Lot. People were eating, drinking, buying, selling, planting, building, 29but the day that Lot left Sodom, fire and sulfur rained down from heaven, and destroyed them all.

30Along those lines will be the day in which the Son of Man is being revealed. 31In that day, if someone is on the roof, and his stuff is in the house, he should not go down to get it, and the one in the field should likewise not turn back around. 32Remember Lot’s wife. 33Whoever tries to save his life will lose it, and whoever loses it will keep it alive. 34I tell you, in that night there will be two men on one couch; one will be taken, and the other left. 35There will be two women together grinding grain; one will be taken, and the other left.”

37And they in response are saying to him, "Where, Lord?"

And he said to them, "Where the body is, there also the eagles will be gathered."

556 17:36 The King James Version has verse 36, "Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left." But if you read an original 1611 King James Version, you will find a marginal note that says that the verse 17:36 was absent from most of their Greek manuscripts. You can view an actual scan of this marginal note, from just such a KJV, at: http://www.bibletranslation.ws/gfx/luke17-36.jpg 557 17:37 Greek: ὁ άετός - ho aetós, a word used for both eagles and vultures. Yet this is apparently a quote by Jesus of the parable in Job 39:30, where the parallel in the Septuagint to ho aetós is τήρος - hierax, a hawk, v. 26. Both Aristotle and Pliny in their Histories class the vulture among the eagles. Both eagles and vultures are classified as unclean in the law of Moses, Lev. 11:13, Deut. 14:12, in that they both eat carrion (in Job 39:30 ho aetós is eating carrion). Yet generally speaking, where ho aetós is eating carrion, vultures may be assumed to be meant. Now T.W. Manson, in "Sayings of Jesus," says the eagle would emphasize the swiftness of the coming of the Day of the Son of man. It is true that the eagle in passages such as Job 9:26, and Rev. 12:14, is a symbol of swiftness. I also get some amount of meaning in this verse that the eagles are acting as a form of messenger, which again, the eagle sometimes symbolizes, but not vultures as much. But the main emphasis here about the bird is not that of messenger, but that of a clear sign in the sky. Still, either ‘eagles’ or ‘vultures’ would be an acceptable rendering here.

Chapter 18

The Parable of the Persistent Widow

1And he was speaking a parable to them, with the moral that they ought always to pray, and not to lose heart, as follows: 'There was a judge in a certain city, who had no fear of God, and no regard for man. 2But there was a widow in that city, and she kept on coming to him, saying, 'Give me redress from my adversary.'

4"And for some time he had been refusing, but after all this, he said to himself, 'Even if I don't fear God, nor have regard for man, just because this widow is causing me trouble, I will avenge her, lest all her coming in the end wears me out.'"

6And the Lord said, 'Listen to what the unjust kind of judge was saying. So God, would he not bring about the avenging of his elect, who keep crying out to him day and night? And is he slow to respond to them? 8I tell you, he would bring about justice for them, in short order. However, when the Son of Man comes, will he find any faith on the earth at all?'

The Parable of the Pharisee and the Revenue Agent

9And also, to some, who were convinced within themselves that they were righteous, and looking down on everyone else, he told this parable: 10"Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee, and the other a revenue agent. 11When the Pharisee stood, he was praying inside himself as follows: 'O God, I thank you that I am not like other people, who are swindlers, dishonest, adulterers, or indeed, like this revenue agent. 12I fast twice a week, I tithe of everything I get.'

13"But the revenue agent, standing a distance off, was not even willing to lift his eyes toward heaven, but was beating his chest, saying, 'O God, be merciful to me, a sinner.'

14"I tell you, this latter went down to his house justified, rather than the former. For all who exalt themselves will be humbled, and those who humble themselves will be exalted."

558 18:8 "any at all" is from the Greek ἀρα, a particle not directly translatable, but which indicates irritatedness or impatience or displeasure.

559 18:14 Though the Greek pronouns and articles in this sentence are singular, I have felt free to generalize and neuterize to the plural, in view of the fact that the sentence begins with the Greek word πᾶς - pās, which means "all" or "everyone." This is a general and plural subject.
Luke

The Little Children and Jesus

15And people were bringing little children to him, so that he would touch them. But when the disciples saw this, they started rebuking them. 16But Jesus called them over to him, saying, "Allow the children to come to me, and stop preventing them, for of such is the kingdom of God. 17Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child will certainly not enter it."

The Rich Young Ruler

18And a certain ruler queried him as follows: "Good teacher, with what done will I inherit eternal life?"

19And Jesus said to him, "Why are you calling me good? No one is good, except God alone. 20The commandments you know: Do not commit adultery, Do not murder, Do not steal, Do not give false testimony, Honor your father and mother."

21And he said, "All these I have kept since childhood."

22And when Jesus heard this, he said to him, "There is still one thing lacking with you. Everything you have, sell and hand out to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven, and then come follow me."

23But hearing these words made him very sad, for he was extremely wealthy. 24And when Jesus saw this, he said, "How hard it is for those who have wealth to go into the kingdom of God. Indeed, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for the rich to enter into the kingdom of God."

26And those who heard said, "Who then CAN be saved?"

27And he said, "Things impossible with human beings are possible with God."

28And Peter said, "Behold, we have left behind our own things to follow you."

29And he said to them, "Truly I say to you, there is no one who has left house or wife or siblings or parents or children, for the sake of the kingdom

560 18:25 Just as it is impossible, humanly speaking, for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, Jesus says in v. 27 that it is "impossible" for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God. Some people teach that Jesus really instead said "rope to go through the eye of a needle," because he was speaking in the Aramaic language, and the Aramaic word for camel was also the word for a kind of rope. Regardless, Jesus would want to invent a simile that was in line with his main point: "something impossible." His illustration must demonstrate something that is impossible, naturally speaking. "Camel" is more impossible than "rope," so at worst, camel works just fine, and at best, camel is the best rendering because it is more impossible. of God, who will not receive back many times as much in this present time; and in the coming age, eternal life.”

\textit{Jesus Again Predicts His Death}

31 And after having taken the twelve aside, he told them, “Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written by the prophets about the Son of Man will be carried out. 32 For he will be handed over to the Gentiles, and be made fun of and mistreated and spit upon, 33 and after scourging him they will kill him, and on the third day he will rise again.”

34 And they understood none of these things. Indeed, this statement was hidden from them, and they did not realize the things being said.

\textit{An Obnoxious Beggar Gets His Wish}

35 And it came about that when he was drawing near to Jericho, a blind man was sitting beside the road, begging. 36 And when he heard the crowd going through, he was inquiring what this was all about. 37 And they informed him that Jesus the Nazarene was passing by. 38 Then he cried out, saying, “Jesus, son of David, have mercy on me!”

39 And those leading the way were rebuking him, that he should be quiet. But he was shouting that much more, “Son of David, have mercy on me!”

40 And after stopping, Jesus ordered that he be brought to him. And when he had come near, Jesus asked him, 41 “What do you want me to do for you?”

And he said, “Lord, that I could see again.”

42 And Jesus said to him, “See again; your faith has saved you.”\textsuperscript{561} 43 And at once he saw again, and he was following him, giving glory to God. And all the people also, when they saw, gave praise to God.

\textbf{Chapter 19}

\textit{Zacchaeus the Revenue Officer}

1 And he entered, passing on through Jericho. 2 And behold, there was a man called by the name of Zacchaeus, and he was a revenue officer, and he was rich. 3 And he was trying to see who Jesus was, but being prevented by the crowd, since he was small in stature. And after running on forward ahead, he climbed up onto a sycamore tree, so that he could see him, for he was about to pass that way.

And when Jesus arrived to the place, he looked up and said to him, "Hurry down, Zacchaeus, for today I need to stay at your house."

And he hurried down, and took him in gladly.

And all who had seen this were complaining, saying, "He has gone in to stay the night with a sinful man."

And Zacchaeus stood up, and said to the Lord, "Look, one half of all I possess, Lord, I am giving to the poor, and where I have defrauded anyone of anything, I am making restitution threefold."

And Jesus said in reference to him, "Today, salvation has come to this house, in view of the fact that this man too is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost."

The Parable of the Ten Servants

And as they were listening to these things, he included and spoke another parable, because he was drawing near to Jerusalem, and they thought that the kingdom of God was about to be appearing shortly. He said therefore, "A certain man well born journeyed off to a far country, to receive for himself a kingdom and then return.

Now after calling ten of his servants, he had given to them ten minas, and said to them, 'Do business until such time I return.'

But his subjects hated him, and they sent ambassadors behind him saying, 'We do not want this man to be king over us.'

562 19:8 Some translators interpret ἵστημι here as "stopped," seeing the situation as the grumblers grumbling while Zacchaeus and Jesus were still in their presence. So then Zacchaeus would have stopped and said the things he said in response to those complaining. I do not see it that way. I think that Jesus and Zacchaeus had already gone into Zack's house and were reclined, when Zack stood up to say what he says in verse eight. I could be wrong.

563 19:10 Jesus is the Good Shepherd of Ezekiel 34:16, and not a false shepherd of Ezekiel 34:4, and does search for that which was lost, as in Ezekiel 34:11. The exact same form of the Greek article and noun for "the lost,"τὸ ἀπολωλός, occurs also in the Septuagint in Ezekiel 34:4, 16. The translator should word the Ezekiel passages and here exactly the same way, so that the readers get the connection.

564 19:13 That is, he gave the ten servants one mina each. The mina, which was originally a Semitic word that the Greek language had long since borrowed, was equivalent to 100 drachmas. One drachma was not insignificant in purchasing power. Culling Greek literature, you can find quite a variance: some times and places, one drachma could buy you one sheep, but was only one-fifth the price of an ox. Other times, one drachma could buy you an ox. Either way, a mina was worth at least 100 sheep. That is a lot of money. Anyone could take that amount of money and by investing, turn it into more.
And it came about that when he returned, he had received the kingship. And he ordered his servants to be summoned to him, those to whom he had given the money, in order to find out what they had earned.

So the first one came, reporting as follows: 'Lord, your mina has grown to ten minas.'

And he said to him, 'Well done, good servant. Since with a little you have proven faithful, be therefore ruler over ten cities.'

And the second one came, saying, 'Your mina, Lord, has become five minas.'

So he said to that one, 'And you, you shall be over five cities.'

And the other one came, saying as follows: 'Lord, here is your mina, which I have been keeping laid away in a napkin. For I was afraid of you, since you are a demanding man; you collect what you did not deposit, and reap what you did not sow.'

He says to him, 'By your own mouth I judge you, you wicked servant. You knew, did you, that I am a demanding man, collecting what I did not deposit, and reaping what I did not sow? Why then did you not put my money in the bank, and I having returned would collect it with interest?'

And to some standing there he said, 'Take the mina away from him, and give it to the one who has ten minas.'

And they said to him, 'Lord, he has ten minas!'

'I tell you, to everyone who has, it will be given, but the one who has not, even such that he has will be taken away from him. But as for my enemies, those who had not wanted me to be king over them, bring them here, and slay them in front of me.'

There is a theory that this parable of the Ten Minas is drawn from Matthew's parable of the Ten Talents of 25:14-30, in which there are only three servants, and here Luke has "fatigued" of maintaining his version's uniqueness from Matthew, and reverted back to following Matthew's version exactly. On the other hand, Jesus may well have used modified versions of the parable at various times. Still, there are things about this Lukian version that do not add up, literally. The first servant is given one mina, and then in most translations, he says, "Your mina has made ten minas more." Then Jesus says in verse 24, 'Take the mina away from him, and give it to the one who has ten minas.' But, if he started with one mina, and made ten minas more, wouldn't he have eleven minas, and not ten? So, perhaps the aforementioned theory is true; or else, the phrase usually translated, "made ten minas more," can be translated something like I have it: "increased to ten minas." Note also that the "western text" omits v. 25.

There seems to be confusion as to whether the lord speaking is the lord character within the parable, or the Lord himself outside the parable.
The Triumphal Entry

28 And having said these things, he was pressing his way onward, going up to Jerusalem. 29 And it came about that as he drew near to Bethphage and Bethany at the hill called the Mount of Olives, he sent away two of his disciples, 30 saying, "Go into the village ahead of you, in which as you are entering you will find a colt, tethered, upon which no one has ever yet sat, and you are to untie it and bring it. 31 And if someone asks you, 'Why are you untying it,' say this, 'The Lord needs it.'"

32 And when the ones who were sent went, they found things just as he had told them. 33 And as they were untying the colt, the owners of it said to them, "Why are you untying the colt?"

34 And they said, "The Lord needs it."

35 And they brought it to Jesus, and after throwing garments of theirs on the colt, they mounted Jesus upon it. 36 And as he was proceeding along, people were spreading their cloaks in the road beneath.

37 And having come near now to the descent of the Mount of Olives, the whole company of disciples started rejoicing, to lift God up with a loud voice for all the miracles that they had seen. 38 They were saying,

"Blessed is the king who comes in the name of the Lord!"

Peace in heaven, and glory in the highest!"

39 And some Pharisees in the crowd said to him, "Teacher! Rebuke your disciples!"

40 And he in answer said, "I tell you, if these go silent, the stones will cry out."

41 And as he drew near and saw the city, he wept over it, 42 saying, "If you, yes ironically you, had only known what would bring you..."
peace on this very day! But now it is hidden from your eyes. For the days will come upon you that your enemies will throw a palisade up against you, and encircle you, and press in on you from every side, and throw you to the ground, you and your children within you, and there will not be left within you a stone upon a stone, in retribution for the fact you did not recognize the time of your gracious visitation.”

Jesus Clears the Temple

And when he had entered the temple, he proceeded to drive out the vendors, telling them, "It is written, 'And my house shall be a house of prayer,' but you have made it 'a haunt of bandits.'"

And he was teaching daily in the temple. And the chief priests and the Torah scholars, along with the leaders of the people, were trying to kill him. Yet they were not finding any way they could do it, because the entire crowd was hanging on him, listening to him.
Chapter 20

The Authorities Question Jesus’ Authority

1And it came about during one of those days of his teaching the crowd in the temple and preaching the good news, that the high priests and Torah scholars and elders came up, and they said to him as follows: "Tell us, by what authority are you doing these things? Or, who is the one who gave you the authority for these things?"

3And in answer Jesus said to them, "I will also ask you something, that you must tell me: 4John’s baptism, was it from heaven, or from human beings?"

5So they discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say, 'Then why didn’t you believe him? ’ 6But if we say, 'From human beings,' all the people will stone us, because they are convinced that John was a prophet.”

7And they professed not to know where it was from. 8And Jesus said to them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I do these things."

The Parable of the Tenants

9And he began to speak this parable to the crowd: "A man planted a vineyard, and leased it out to tenant-farmers, and journeyed away for quite some time. 10And in the time of harvest, he sent a servant to the tenants, so they could pay him rent out of the fruit of the vineyard. But the tenants, after beating him, sent him away empty-handed. 11And he proceeded to send a another servant; and that one also, after beating and insulting him, sent him away empty-handed. 12And he proceeded to send a third; and that one also they threw out, after injuring him.

13"So the owner of the vineyard said, ‘What should I do? I will send my beloved son; maybe him, they will respect.’

14"But when they saw him, the tenants discussed it among themselves, saying, ‘This is the heir. Let us kill him, so that the inheritance will be ours.’ 15And they threw him outside the vineyard and killed him. ‘What then will the owner of the vineyard do to them? ’ 16He will come, and he will kill those tenants, and he will give the vineyard to others.’

And those who heard this said, "May it never be!"

17But he, after looking at them, said, "Why then is this written:

'A stone which the builders rejected,
this one has become the chief cornerstone'?

18Everyone who trips over that stone will be broken into pieces; upon whomever the stone falls, it will turn him into powder."

19And at that time, the Torah scholars and high priests wanted to lay their hands on him, yet they were afraid of the people. For they knew that he had spoken this parable in reference to them.

Paying the Tribute Tax to Caesar

20And beginning to watch him closely, they sent spies presenting themselves as sincere, in order to catch some statement of his, such that they could hand him over to the jurisdiction and authority of the governor.

21And they questioned him as follows: "Teacher, we know that you talk straight, and you teach straight; that is, you do not acknowledge personage, but only on the basis of truth you teach the way of God. 22Is it permissible for us to pay the tribute tax to Caesar, or not?"

23But he perceived their trickery, and said to them,

24"Show me a denarius.  Whose image does it bear, and whose inscription?"

And the said, "Caesar’s."

25And he said to them, "Well then, Caesar’s things give back to Caesar, and God’s things to God."

579 20:17 Psalm 118:22
580 20:22 The Greek word translated "tribute" is φορος. The Roman Caesar would charge a head tax (capita tax) based on a head count or census. The Latin root word for head is cap. Thus, this tax was a per capita tax, or a capitatio. It was a flat tax, having no relation to graduated percentages, or ability to pay. It was not an income tax. Every head had to cough up the same amount. Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Ed., defines a Capitation tax thusly: "A poll tax. A tax or imposition upon the person. It is a very ancient kind of tribute, and answers to what the Latins called 'tributum,' by which taxes on persons are distinguished from taxes on merchandise, called 'vectigalia.'" Remember, a census was forbidden by God, and King David incurred God’s wrath when he numbered the people. (A census tax or capita tax is also the kind expressly prohibited by the Constitution for the United States of America.) Black’s Law Dictionary defines Tribute in turn as: "A contribution which is raised by a prince or sovereign from his subjects to sustain the expenses of the state. A sum of money paid by an inferior sovereign or state to a superior potentate, to secure the friendship or protection of the latter." Now as for coinage, Jesus obviously knew some principles of law. When he said in verse 25, "Caesar’s things give back to Caesar," he recognized that every single coin circulated that bore Caesar’s portrait and inscription, already belonged to Caesar. The Jewish religious taxes, on the other hand, were paid in weight of silver– shekels, or even drachmas, but not in Roman coins.

And they were not able to catch him in a saying in the presence of the people; and having been astonished by his answer, they remained silent.

Marriage at the Resurrection

Then some of the Sadducees approached (Sadducees say there is no resurrection), and they questioned him as follows: "Teacher, Moses wrote for us, 'If a man's brother dies having a wife, and that deceased is childless, that the man should take the wife of his brother, and raise up descendants for his brother.'

Well, there were seven brothers. And the first one, who had taken a wife, died childless. And the second one took her, and the third one, and in fact, all seven in the same way, left behind no child, and died. Last of all, the woman also died.

"So the woman, in the resurrection, whose wife is she going to be? For all seven had her as wife."

And Jesus said to them, "The children of this age marry and are given in marriage; but those considered worthy to taste of that age and of the resurrection from the dead, will neither marry nor be given in marriage, nor will they be able to die any more, for they will be like the angels and be children of God, since they are children of the resurrection.

But that the dead are rising, even Moses intimated so, at the part about the bush, the way he says Yahweh is the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Now God is not the God of dead people, but of living, for to him all of those are alive."

And one of the Torah scholars said in response, "Teacher, well said."

Whose Son Is the Messiah

Indeed, no longer did any of them dare to question him. So he said in reference to them, "How do they maintain the Messiah to be the son of David? For David himself says in the scroll of the Psalms,

"Yahweh" said to my Lord:
"Sit at my right hand
until such time I make your enemies a footstool for your feet.\textsuperscript{585}"

\textsuperscript{44}So, David calls him Lord. How then is he his son?"

These will receive greater condemnation."

\textbf{Signs of the Times}

7And they questioned him as follows, "Teacher, so when will these things be, and what sign will happen when they are all about to take place?"

8And he said, "See to it that you are not led astray. For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am He,' and, 'The Lord is near.' Do not go off after

The UBS editorial committee says it is slightly more probable that the reading of Codex Sinaiticus and many other early witnesses, is the correct one, which have the verb κτάομαι - κτάομαι in the imperative mood. That would be a command to the disciples to preserve their lives. The committee says it would be more likely that copyists would have changed this verb to conform it to the future tense of the rest of the verbs in the context, more likely than the other way around. Note that the other gospels have the same idea in the future indicative. In some languages the difference between the two readings would not be translatable. I note that in the UBS4 apparatus, the reading of the Syriac is not given. (Is there a translatable difference between "you will gain your lives" and "you shall gain your lives"?) There is also discrepancy as to the reading of it 59.

588 21:20 The Greek word for "know" here, γινώσκω, is in the form of γνωστε, which could be either imperative or subjunctive mood, since in this case the form would be identical. Imperative would be in English, "when you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then know - or then you should know," that her desolation is near." Subjunctive would be in English, "when you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then you know - or would know - or will know - or should know, that her desolation is near."

589 21:22 In the Greek, the word for "day" is anarthrous here, that is, without the article. You will see some translations saying "the days" or "the time," and others saying "days," or "a time." This question regarding the Greek definite article is one of the translation issues most revealing of the translators' doctrinal preconceptions. Here, for example, it can reveal whether you believe that the prophecies will have a double fulfillment, or only one fulfillment. That is, are these prophecies partially fulfilled in the time and deeds of Titus in 70 A.D., and more fully fulfilled in the tribulation? Or are they solely fulfilled during the fulfillment of all that is written. 23 Alas for the ones who are pregnant, and the ones giving milk during those days! 27"And then at that time they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. 28 So when these things are beginning to take place, stand yourselves tall and lift up your heads, because your redemption is drawing near."

29 And he spoke a parable to them: "Consider the fig tree, indeed all the trees. 30 When they are now putting forth leaves, you see for yourselves and know that summer is now near. 31 So also you, when you see these things taking place, you know that the kingdom of God is near. 32 Truly I tell you: this age will by no means pass away until this all has taken place. 33 Sky and earth will pass away, but my words will certainly not pass away.

time of Titus? Or solely or primarily fulfilled in the tribulation? And prior to the time of Titus, some of God’s people no doubt believed that these prophecies had been fulfilled during the time and deeds of Antiochus Epiphanies, either partially or primarily. I have 24 English translations on hand, and they split down the middle; half say "the days" and half say "days" or equivalent. We must interpret this passage by the rest of scripture, and do it in reliance on the anointing of the Holy Spirit, which leads us into all truth. We also must use common sense in light of the context here. This passage, in light of v. 24, seems to be including the destruction of the temple in 70 A.D. Therefore, we must say in v. 22 about the Great Tribulation, that those are "days" of tribulation, not the only ones.

Chapter 22

The Contract on Jesus

And the Festival of Unleavened Bread, called Passover, was approaching, and the chief priests and the Torah scholars were still yet looking for a way to put him to death, because they were still yet fearing the people.

Then Satan entered into Judas, the one called Ish Keriot, who was one of their number, of the Twelve. And he went away, and discussed with the chief priests and the commanders of the temple guard how he might hand him over to them. And they were delighted, and contracted to give him money. And he accepted, and was looking for the best time for handing him over to them, without the crowd.

The Passover Supper

And the day of Unleavened Bread arrived in which it was customary to slaughter the Passover. And he sent Peter and John, saying, "Go, prepare the Passover for us so we can eat it."

And they said to him, "Where do you want us to prepare it?"

And he told them, "Behold, at the point of your arriving into the city a man carrying a water jar will encounter you. Follow him to whatever house he goes into. And say to the owner of the house, The teacher says to you, "Where is the guest room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?"

594 22:2 This verse makes no sense unless you take into consideration the imperfect aspect of the Greek verbs for 'trying' and 'fearing.' Imperfect here means just that: incomplete and ongoing action. They had been trying to kill him already since Luke 19:47-48, and 20:19. The reason they still had not accomplished killing him, was because they were STILL YET fearing the people. So if someone tells you that the aspect (continuous vs. punctiliar) of N.T. Greek verbs is unimportant, don't believe them, no matter how big a name they are. Those big names are the ones who came up with the nonsensical mainstream rendering, as follows: "And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how to kill him, for they feared the people." This makes it sound like the reason they wanted to kill Jesus was that they were afraid of the people. But that is not the case. The exact opposite is true: their fear of the people was what was still preventing them killing Jesus. See Endnote #4, at the end of this document, which discusses this more fully.

595 22:7 Greek: θύω. It could also be translated "to sacrifice," or, "to celebrate" the Passover. But the meaning "celebrate" only applied when the celebration included the slaughtering of something.
And that person will show you a large upstairs room all furnished. You shall prepare it there.

So when they went, they found things just as he had told them; and they prepared the Passover.

And when the hour had come, he reclined, and the twelve disciples along with him. And he said to them, "It is with great longing and anticipation I have wanted to eat this Passover with you before my suffering. For I tell you: I will certainly not eat it again until such time it has been fulfilled in the kingdom of God."

And after taking hold of the cup, he gave thanks, and said, "Take this, and share it among yourselves; for I tell you: By no means will I drink of the fruit of the vine from this point on until such time the kingdom of God has come."

And after taking the bread and giving thanks, he broke it and gave it to them, saying, "This is my body, being given for you. This you should do as a commemoration of me."

And the cup after the meal in the same way, saying: "This cup is the new covenant in my blood, being poured out for you."

But lo, the hand of the one betraying me is with mine on the table.

Therefore indeed the Son of Man is going out exactly as is planned. Even so, woe to that man through whom he is betrayed!

And they began to debate with each other which of them therefore might be the one about to do this.

Then there also arose another dispute among them, as to which of them was considered to be greater.

And he said to them, "The kings of the nations lord it over them, and those exercising authority over them are called 'benefactors.' But not so with you. Rather, the greatest among you should be like the youngest, and the leader as the one who serves."

Footnotes:
596 22:16 ὧτι οὐ μὴ φάγω is not in the Greek, but implied. Thus, some copyists apparently felt obliged to add the Greek word οὐκέτι, to both clarify the meaning, and also to harmonize Luke with Mark 14:25, and perhaps also with Matthew 26:29, which says, "from now on."
597 22:19 "This you should do" is referring to the Passover. From now on, they and we should do the Passover in commemoration of Jesus' death on our behalf. Both the unleavened bread and the Passover lamb or kid are His body figuratively. Note that Codex D has a much shorter reading of vss. 19-20, but it is alone in this, and is notoriously unreliable. So no serious consideration should be given it when it is all alone.
598 22:20 Or possibly, "with" the meal.
599 22:26 The youngest, as in Acts 5:6, customarily performed the menial tasks, and submitted to the elders.
reclining, or the one serving? Is it not the one reclining? Among you though, I am as the one serving.

28"But you are the ones who have stuck with me through my trials; 29and I am assigning to you a kingdom, just as my Father did to me, 30such that you will eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Jesus Predicts the Disciples’ Crisis of Faith

31"Simon, Simon, behold, Satan has obtained permission to have you all, to sift you all like wheat. 32But I have prayed for you, that your faith will not completely die. And you, when you have come back around, strengthen your brothers."

33But he said to him, "Lord, I am prepared to go with you both to prison and to death."

34But Jesus said, "I tell you, Peter: the rooster will not crow this day, until you have denied three times that you know me."

35And he said to them, "When I sent you without purse, knapsack and sandals, did you lack anything?"

And they said, "Nothing."

36Then he said, "But now, he who has a purse should bring it, or a knapsack likewise, and he who does not have a sword, should sell his cloak and buy one. 37For I tell you, this which is written has to be fulfilled in me:

'And he was considered one of the outlaws.'

Yes indeed, that about me is reaching fulfillment."

38So they said, "Lord, look. There are two swords here."

And he said to them, "That is enough."

Gethsemane

39And after going out, he proceeded as was his custom to the Mount of Olives; and his disciples followed him also. 40 And coming upon the place he said to them, "Pray not to come into temptation." 41 And he withdrew from them, about a stone's throw away. And having dropped his knees, he was praying, 42 as follows: "Father, if you are willing, remove this cup from me. However, not my will, but yours be done." 43 And an angel from heaven appeared to him, strengthening him. 44 And being in agony, he was praying more earnestly; and his sweat became like drops of blood falling onto the ground. 603

45 And after rising from prayer and returning to the disciples, he found them sleeping, out of sorrow. 46 And he said to them, "Why are you sleeping? Get up and pray, that you not go into temptation."

Jesus Arrested

47 While he was yet speaking, behold, a crowd, and the one called Judas, one of the Twelve, was leading them. And he came up to Jesus, and kissed him. 604 48 But Jesus said to him, "Judas, with a kiss you betray the Son of Man?"

49 And seeing what was going to be happening, those around him said, "Lord, shall we strike with swords?" 50 And one of them struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. 51 But in response Jesus said, "Let that be enough of that." And he touched his ear and healed him.

52 Then, toward those coming against him, the chief priests, temple officers and elders, Jesus said, "As though after a bandit, you have come out with swords and clubs? 53 Every day with me being next to you in the temple you didn't lay your hands on me. But this is the hour for you, and the authority of darkness."

Peter's Denials

54 And after seizing him, they took him and led him into the house of the high priest; and Peter was following at a distance. 55 And since people had lit a fire in the middle of the courtyard and were all sitting together, Peter 603 22:43-44 Some consider the words in these verses to be an extra-canonical tradition which got added to the gospel of Luke. They are absent in very early and geographically widespread manuscripts and witnesses. See Endnote #3 at the end of this document which discusses this.

was sitting among them. 56 But a maidservant noticed him sitting toward the fire, and after studying him, she said, "This man also was with him."

57 But he denied it, saying, "I don't know him, woman."

58 And shortly thereafter, another person who saw him was saying, "You are also one of them."

And Peter was saying, "Man, I am not."

59 And after about an hour had passed, someone else was affirming, saying, "Definitely, this man was also with him; he is also Galilean."

60 But Peter said, "Man, I do not know what you are talking about." And immediately as he was still speaking, a rooster crowed. 61 And the Lord turned and looked at Peter, and he remembered the statement of the Lord, how he had said to him, "Before the rooster crows today, you will deny me three times." 62 And he went off outside, and bitterly wept.

Before the Sanhedrin

63 And the men guarding Jesus were making fun of him as they beat him up. 64 After blindfolding him, they were asking him, "Prophesy, who is it that hit you?" 65 And they were saying many other insulting things against him.

66 And as the day broke, the elders of the people and the high priests and the Torah scholars were assembled, and they brought him over into their Sanhedrin, 67 saying, "Tell us whether you are the Christ."

And he said to them, "If I told you, you would certainly not believe, 68 and if I asked questions, you would certainly not answer. 69 Nevertheless, from now on, the Son of Man will be sitting at the right hand of the power of God."

70 So they all said, "You are the Son of God then?"

And he was saying to them, "You are saying that I am."
And they said, "What more need do we have for witnesses? For we ourselves have heard from his own mouth."

Chapter 23

Jesus Before Pilate and Herod

And the whole assembly of them got up, and they took him before Pilate.

And they began to accuse him, as follows. "We found this man misleading our nation and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar, and claiming to be a king himself, the Christ."

So Pilate examined him, saying, "Are you the king of the Jews?"

And he in answer to him was saying, "You are the one saying that."

And Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, "I find no causa capitalis in this man."

But they were getting more insistent, saying, "He incites the people, teaching throughout the entire land of the Jews, starting from Galilee and all the way to here."

And when Pilate heard this, he asked, "Is the man a Galilean?"

And when he had confirmed that he was in fact from Herod’s jurisdiction, he referred him to Herod, who was in Jerusalem too for those days.

Now Herod was very glad when he saw Jesus. He had been wanting for quite some time to meet him, because of hearing about him, and he hoped to see something miraculous happening through him. So he was plying him with a considerable amount of questions; but Jesus never gave any response at all.

And the chief priests and the Torah scholars were standing there throughout, vehemently accusing him.

Jesus had already said here earlier, in 22:69, that Jesus would be seated at the right hand of God, that would be offense enough. What is different about Luke here, is that he uses ἔφη, the imperfect form of φημί here, which I translated "kept saying." Luke does not use the continuous aspect indiscriminately or insignificantly.

The Greek says literally, "You are saying." See footnote on 22:70, and on Mark 15:3. It is not a "yes" answer.

That is, basis for capital punishment. It was understood that the only reason the Jewish authorities would bring a criminal to Pilate, was for adjudication of the death penalty and execution. The Jewish authorities otherwise were allowed to execute judgment with their own courts and laws, short of execution; see John 18:31.

The word εἰ here (usually "if") being an interrogative particle, introducing direct interrogative discourse, taking the place of ὅτι. See BAGD V.; BDF § 440(3).
Then Herod, together with his soldiers, after treating him with contempt and mocking him by draping a splendid robe around him, sent him back to Pilate. Which caused Herod and Pilate to become friends with each other that same day (for they had previously always been hostile toward each other).

And Pilate summoned the high priest, together with the rulers and the people, and he said to them, "You have brought this man up to me as someone inciting the people to treason, and here now is my finding after trying him in your presence. I have found in this man no basis for the charges you are bringing against him. And neither has Herod, for he has sent him back to us. So you see, nothing being done by him is worthy of death. Therefore, having scourged him, I will release him." [[Now he was obligated by custom according to the festival to release one person to them.]]

But they all together shouted back, saying, "Away with this man! Release to us Barabbas!" (He was someone who had been thrown in prison because of a certain uprising and murder that took place in the city.)

But Pilate, wanting to release Jesus, called out to them again. But they cried out, saying, "Crucify him, crucify him!"

But a third time, he said to them, "Why? What crime has this man committed? Having scourged him therefore, I will release him."

But with loud shouts the crowd kept urgently demanding that he be crucified. And their shouts prevailed, and Pilate decided to grant their request. And he released the man who had been thrown into prison for insurrection and murder, the one whom they had asked for, and Jesus he handed over to their will.

The Crucifixion

And as they led him away, they seized a Cyrenian, Simon, who was returning from the country, and they placed the cross on him, to carry it behind Jesus. And a great multitude of the people were following him, and women who were mourning and lamenting him.

But Jesus turned to them, and he said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children. For behold, days are coming in which they will say, 'Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bore, and the breasts that never nursed.' At that time they will begin to say to the mountains, 'Fall on us,' and to the hills, 'Cover us.'

For if they do these things when the tree is green, what will happen when it is dry?"

Now two others, criminals, were also being taken with him to be executed. And when they came to the place called The Skull, there they crucified him, along with the criminals, one on his right and one on his left. And Jesus said, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing." And they cast lots, for dividing out his clothing.

And the people stood there, watching. Now the rulers were also there, sneering at him, saying, "He saved others; he should save himself, if this is the one chosen the Christ of God."

And the soldiers, when they were approaching bringing him vinegar, also made fun of him. They also were saying, "If you are the king of the Jews, save yourself."

Now there was also a notice inscribed above him: "THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS."

And one of the criminals hung there was deriding him, saying, "You are the Christ, aren't you? Save yourself and us."

But in response the other one was rebuking him, saying, "Don't you fear God at all, considering that you yourself are in this same judgement?"
And we indeed justly; for we have gotten back what was fitting to how we have lived. But this man, he has done nothing wrong."

And then he was saying, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom."

And Jesus said to him, "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in Paradise."

And it was now about noon, and darkness came across the whole land until 3:00 p.m., for the sun was darkened.

And the curtain of the temple was torn in two.

And crying out with a loud voice, Jesus said, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit."

And after he had said this, he expired.

Now the centurion when he saw what had happened, was giving glory to God, by saying, "This really must have been a righteous man."

And all the crowds who had gathered around for this spectacle, when they observed what took place, they were turning away, beating their breasts.

Greek, "the sixth hour," that is, the sixth hour from 6 a.m. when the daytime starts, which makes this 12:00 noon. So also the remaining references to time in Luke: the darkness lasted until 3:00 p.m. (Grk-the ninth hour), when Jesus cried out to the Father. See the endnote in my Diatessaron regarding the differing clock systems and divisions of the day used by the synoptic evangelists in contrast to John.

The phrase with ἐκλείπω could be translated, "from an eclipse of the sun." The Classical Greek writers Thucidides, Herodotus and Aristophanes used this word, when referring to the sun or moon, as meaning "suffer eclipse." But the event in this passage, Jesus' crucifixion, took place during Passover, which was always during a full moon, so an eclipse of the sun by the moon was not possible. Neither are there any astronomical records of the moon eclipsing the sun during that time. So the only rendering that is truly incorrect, would be "eclipse." To most people, an eclipse of the sun would mean that the sun was eclipsed by the moon. I imagine it is theoretically possible for some other kind of heavenly body to have eclipsed the sun, but I know of no astronomical records of such. Regardless, the rendering "eclipse" is just too misleading, since that word almost always means eclipse by the moon. The Majority text reads "καὶ ἐσκοτίσθη ὁ ἥλιος, "and the sun was darkened." But this textual variance need not make any difference, since the lexical authorities say that, in the passive voice, in which both ἐκλείπω and σκοτίζω are, either one of them can mean "was obscured."

Tatian's Diatessaron: "the wives of those who had followed with him." In Syriac the difference between "women" and "wives" was the letter dalath. With it meant "wives."
followed with him from Galilee, stood off at a distance throughout, watching these things.

Jesus’ Burial

50 And behold, there was a council member named Joseph, who was a good and righteous man (he was not going along with their decision and actions), from Arimathea, a city in Judea, who was looking forward to the kingdom of God. 51 This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. 52 And when he had taken it down he wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a hewn-out tomb, which no one was lying in yet. 53 And it was the day of Preparation, and the Sabbath was coming on.

54 Now some women had followed close behind, which were the ones who had come with him from Galilee. They observed the tomb, and how his body was interred. 55 Then when they returned home, they prepared spices and perfumes. And for the Sabbath though, they did rest, in keeping with the commandment;

Jesus Appears to the Women

3 And when they went inside, they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. 4 And it happened that as they stood hesitating about this, behold, two men appeared to them, in gleaming robes.

5 And when terror came over them, such that they had bowed their faces down to the ground, the men said to them, "Why are you looking for the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen! Recall how he spoke to you while still in Galilee, saying that the Son of Man must be transferred into the hands of sinful mortals, and be crucified, and on the third day rise again.”

8 And they did recall his statements. 9 And when they returned from the tomb, they related all these things to the Eleven and to all the rest.

10 Now it was the Magdalene Mary, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and the others with them who were telling these things to the apostles; 11 and these statements appeared to them as nonsense, and they did not believe them.

12 But Peter got up and ran to the tomb, and after stooping down, he sees only the linen bandages. And he went away, wondering to himself what had happened.

On the Road to Emmaus

13 And behold, that same day, two of them were on their way to a village named Emmaus, which was seven miles from Jerusalem. 14 And these two were conversing with each other about the outcome of all these things.

15 And it came about, that they are in conversation, and Jesus himself has come up, walking along with them. 16 Their eyes, however, were being restrained, so as not to recognize him.

17 And he said to them, “What is this discussion you are having with each other as you walk along?” And they came to a stop, looking dismal.

18 And in response, the one named Cleopas said to him, “Are you just visiting Jerusalem, and unaware of the things happening in it during these days?”

19 And he said to them, “What things?”

And they said to him, “The things concerning Jesus the Nazarene, who was a prophet powerful in deed and in word, in the eyes of both God and...”

It seems to be a transitive verb expecting an object. Such as “visiting Jerusalem,” or “living IN Jerusalem.” And the phrase “who is not aware” would be a stretch. Moreover, the Greek does not say “in Jerusalem,” but rather just ”Jerusalem.” The word παροικέω generally meant “living as a stranger, a pilgrim, living as a visitor,” and only rarely meant just “live or inhabit next to” without the connotation of being an alien or stranger.
all the people; 20 how the chief priests and our rulers handed him over for the sentence of death, and how they crucified him. 21 And here we had been hoping he was the one who was going to redeem Israel. And what is more, he is already spending his third day in the grave since when these things took place.626

22 "And not only that, now some of our women have confounded us. They were at the tomb early this morning, 23 and not finding his body, they came back, claiming also to have seen a vision of angels, which were maintaining that he was alive. 24 So some of our number went to the tomb, and found it just as the women had said; but him they did not see."

25 And he said to them, "O you thick headed, and slow of heart to believe on all the things the prophets have spoken! 26 Were not these things required for the Christ to suffer in order to go on into his glory?" 27 And beginning with Moses, and through all the prophets, he interpreted for them the things in all the writings that were about himself.

28 And they came near to the village to which they were going, and he pretended to go on farther. 29 And they urged him insistently, saying, "Lodge with us, because it is near evening, and the daylight is almost gone." And he went inside, to lodge with them.

30 And it came about that as he reclined with them, he took bread, gave thanks and broke it, and was distributing it to them. 31 Then their eyes were opened, and they recognized him. And he disappeared from them.

32 And they said to each other, "Weren't our hearts burning within us as he talked to us on the road, as he explained the scriptures to us?" 33 And after rising up that very hour, they returned to Jerusalem, and found the Eleven and those with them all gathered together, 34 who were saying that the Lord really was risen, and had appeared to Simon. 35 And then the former were recounting the events on the road, and how he was made known to them in the breaking of the bread.

Jesus Appears to the Apostles

36 And while they were speaking these things, he stood in the midst of them, and he is saying to them, "Peace be with you."

626 24:21 DeBrunner says in §129 that rather than the impersonal "it is the third day," that this phrase τρίτην ταύτην ἡμέραν ἄγει ἀφ' οὗ ταύτα ἐγένετο means "he is already spending the third day" [in the tomb]. Bauer agrees with this as well. The Greek does not supply a subject here, but some third person singular subject is implied, and the verb ἄγω in phrases about time, means "spend."
But alarmed they were, and terrified, thinking they were seeing a ghost. And he said to them, "Why are you troubled? And for what reason are doubts arising in your hearts? Behold my hands and my feet, that I am me. Touch me, and know, because a ghost does not have flesh and bones as you see me having." And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet.

But, since they were still not believing, out of joy and astonishment, he said to them, "What do you have to eat in this place?" So they handed him a piece of broiled fish. And he took it, and ate it in front of them.

The Ascension

And he said to them, "These are the words which I spoke to you while I was still with you, how all the things written about me in the law of Moses and the prophets and the psalms must be fulfilled." Then at that time he opened their minds to understand the scriptures.

And he said to them, "This is what is written: the Christ was to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day, and that repentance and forgiveness of sins is to be preached in his name to all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem. You are witnesses of these things. And I am sending my Father's promise down upon you. So you are to stay put in the city until such time you are endued with power from on high."

Then he led them outside, as far as Bethany. And after lifting up his hands, he blessed them. And it came about that as he was blessing them, he parted from them, and was taken up into heaven.

And they, after worshiping him, returned back to Jerusalem with great rejoicing. And throughout those days they were continually at the temple, praising God.

Luke Endnote #1 – Genealogies conflict?

It should be noted that though Matthew states in 1:17 that there are three sets of 14 generations, there are only 13 generations in his 3rd set. He also left out two generations from the second set which would have made that set 16 generations. After Josiah came Jehoiakim and Jehoiachin, according to 2 Kings 23:34 – 24:6. Thus it seems Matthew made these sets for some purpose such as to be a memorization aid or teaching aid.

Following is taken from an article on the Internet: http://www.carm.org/diff/2geneologies.htm

Both Matthew 1 and Luke 3 contain genealogies of Jesus. But there is one problem. They are different. Luke’s Genealogy starts at Adam and goes to David. Matthew’s Genealogy starts at Abraham and goes to David. When the genealogies arrive at David, they split with David’s sons: Nathan (Mary’s side) and Solomon (Joseph’s side).

There is no discrepancy because one genealogy is for Mary and the other is for Joseph. It was customary to mention the genealogy through the father even though it was clearly known that it was through Mary.

First, realize that the Bible should be interpreted in the context of its literary style, culture, and history. Breaking up genealogies into male and female representations was acceptable in the ancient Near East culture since it was often impolite to speak of women without proper conditions being met: male presence, etc. One genealogy is of Mary and the other of Joseph, even though both mention Joseph. In other words, the Mary was counted “in” Joseph and under his headship.

Second, do any critics actually think that those who collected the books of the New Testament, and who believed it was inerrant, were unaware of this blatant differentiation in genealogies? Does anyone actually think that the Christians were so dense that they were unaware of the differences in the genealogy lists, closed their eyes and put the gospels into the canon anyway hoping no one would notice? Not at all. They knew the cultural context and had no problem with it knowing that one was of Joseph and the other of Mary.

Third, notice that Luke starts with Mary and goes backwards to Adam. Matthew starts with Abraham and goes forward to Joseph. The intents of the genealogies were different which is seen in their styles. Luke was not written to the Jews, Matthew was. Therefore, Matthew would carry the legal line (from Abraham through David) and Luke the biological one (from Adam through David). Also, notice that Luke’s first three chapters mention Mary eleven times; hence, the genealogy from her. Fourth, notice Luke 3:23, "And when He began His ministry, Jesus Himself was about thirty years of age, being supposedly the son of Joseph, the son of Eli," This designation "supposedly" seems to signify the Marian genealogy since it seems to indicate that Jesus is not the biological son of Joseph.

Finally, in the Joseph genealogy there is a man named Jeconiah. God cursed Jeconiah (also called Coniah), stating that no descendant of his would ever sit on the throne of David, "For no man of his descendants will prosper sitting on the throne of David or ruling again in Judah," (Jer. 22:30). But Jesus, of course, will sit on the throne in the heavenly kingdom. The point is that Jesus is not a biological descendant of Jeconiah, but through the other lineage -- that of Mary. Hence, the prophetic curse upon Jeconiah stands inviolate. But, the legal adoption of Jesus by Joseph reckoned the legal rights of Joseph to Jesus as a son, not the biological curse. This is why we need two genealogies: one of Mary (the actually biological line according to prophecy), and the legal line through Joseph.

Again, the early church knew this and had no problem with it. It is only the critics of today who narrow their vision and require this to be a "contradiction" when in reality we have an explanation that is more than sufficient.

Luke

Luke Endnote #2

Did Jesus send out seventy, or seventy-two?
(ἐβδομήκοντα or ἑβδομήκοντα δύο?)

Luke 10:1, 17; Diatessaron 18:10, 15

There are witnesses both ample and ancient (𝔓⁴⁵ now is known to support 70 in 10:17) to both readings, though somewhat favoring "seventy-two." Both the Nestle-Aland 28th Edition and the UBS 5th Edition of the Greek text put the δύο, the "two," in square brackets, and the UBS editorial committee gives it a [C] rating of certainty. This means that they decided on "72," but had difficulty in deciding to do so, and therefore placed the δύο in brackets to indicate the great degree of doubt that it has a right to be there.

Since the manuscript consideration is almost a stand-off, interpreters then discuss what stronger or more likely numerological symbolism there is for one reading over the other. Discussion invariably leads to Genesis chapter 11, where God broke up the single world language into many nations. There, one can count seventy nations in the Hebrew text. Yet, in the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Hebrew scriptures made by Jewish translators in Egypt before the time of Christ, one can count seventy-two nations. If it were only Alexandrian witnesses which read "72" in Luke 10:1, an argument might be made that they were overly influenced by the Septuagint, which was also produced in Alexandria. But this is not the case, since the chief representatives of both the Alexandrian, as well as the Western groups of Greek manuscripts, read "72," along with most of the Old Latin and the Sinaitic Syriac. And on the other hand, Codex Sinaiticus, one of the primary Alexandrian manuscripts, reads "70."
The implication some interpreters see, is that by appointing 70, Jesus drew on the Jewish tradition of there being 70 nations in the world, to show that his message was intended for everyone in the whole world. And that that was intended to be in contrast to when he sent the Twelve out earlier, and forbade them to go into any Samaritan village; whereas here in the case of the 70 / 72, there is no such prohibition. Paul says, "the gospel is to the Jew first, and also to the Gentile." (Romans 1:16) The Lord himself said in John 10:16, "Other sheep I also have, which are not of this fold; those also I am to bring, and my voice they will hear, and the result will be one flock, one shepherd."

Regarding the above-mentioned decision by the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament to include the "-two" in square brackets, one of the members of the committee disagreed with that decision, for he regarded "72" as undoubtedly the original reading. That member was the late Kurt Aland. His written dissent, as published in the book, A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament, Metzger, Bruce M., on behalf of and in cooperation with the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament: Kurt Aland, Matthew Black, Carlo M. Martini, Bruce M. Metzger, and Allen Wikgren (Stuttgart, United Bible Societies, Corrected Edition, 1975), is worthy of being printed below, as follows.

The concept of "70" is an established entity in the Septuagint and in Christian tradition. The number of examples of "70" in the Old Testament is overwhelming: there are always 70 souls in the house of Jacob, 70 elders, sons, priests, and 70 years that are mentioned in chronological references to important events. The number 72 appears only once, where, amid many other numbers, 72 cattle are set aside for a sacrificial offering (Num 31:38). If 72 occurs in the Letter of Aristeas (as the number of translators of the Septuagint) as well as in III Enoch, these sporadic instances are not to be compared in significance with the tradition involving 70. Consequently it is astonishing that the reading ἑβδομήκοντα δύο appears at all in [Luke] 10:1 and 17, and that it has such strong support. A reading that in the Gospels has in its support Ψ5 B D, the Old Syriac, the Old Latin, etc., etc., is ordinarily regarded at once as the original reading. If in addition the opposing reading lies under the suspicion of ecclesiastical "normalizing," the testimony becomes irrefutable. The opposing witnesses represent entirely an ecclesiastical normalizing. That they are in the majority is altogether understandable; if they are ancient, this only proves how early the normalizing process began to operate. For these reasons ἑβδομήκοντα δύο should be printed without square brackets.

K.A.

In other words, why would some copyists change the number away from the symbolically significant "seventy" to a symbolically insignificant "seventy-two"? It is more likely that the copyists who did the changing of the originals were the ones who changed it to "seventy" in order to make it line up with the strong tradition of 70 in the Bible and Jewish tradition. (This latter is part of what Kurt Aland calls "normalizing." There are many instances in the Greek New Testament where the original reading is very obscure, or is poor grammar, or is a very unpopular teaching. Later copyists tended to smooth over these passages, or "normalize" them.)

There may be no symbolism at all involved in the number "seventy-two." Unless there is significance that it is divisible by twelve. Six times.

Well then, since the messengers were sent out two by two, let's examine how each number is divisible by two. If Jesus sent out seventy, that means there were 35 pairs of them. If Jesus sent out seventy-two, that means there were 36 pairs of them.

There may be no symbolism at all in what number of emissaries Jesus sent out. Yes, it is possible that he did intend some symbolism. But we should beware lest we change original holy writ just because we want a symbolism in it. It is possible Jesus did not intend any symbolism.

Here is a breakdown of some English translations I have checked. Those reading "70" are: Tyndale, KJV, NKJV, ASV, RSV, NRSV, NASB, AMP, CBW, CJB, ISV, HCSB, WEB, GW, EMTV, Phillips, Recovery, Darby, Weymouth. Those reading "72" are: CSB, DRP, DRB, GNB, JB, NIV, TNIV, REB, NLT, NCV, CEV, NET, ESV, MOUNCE, EHV; and the NAB reads "seventy-[two], and says "seventy-two" in the section heading.
Luke

Note that the HCSB which read 70 has changed to 72 in the CSB.

Their presence in many manuscripts, some ancient, as well as their citation by Justin, Irenaeus, Hippolytus, Eusebius and many other Fathers, is proof of the antiquity of the account. On grounds of transcriptional probability it is less likely that the verses were deleted in several different areas of the church by those who felt that the account of Jesus overwhelmed with human weakness was incompatible with his sharing the divine omnipotence of the Father, than that they were added from an early source, oral or written, of extra-canonical traditions concerning the life and passion of Jesus. Nevertheless, while acknowledging that the passage is a later addition to the text, in view of its evident antiquity and its importance in the textual tradition, a majority of the Committee decided to retain the words in the text but to enclose them within double square brackets.

In the 5th edition of their Greek New Testament, the committee gives the absence of these verses in the original text an A rating of certainty.

Is the saying, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing," original scripture?

Luke 23:34

The saying attributed to Jesus while on the cross, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing" is not found in most of the earliest (pre-5th century) Greek manuscripts. Neither is it found in the earliest translations of Luke’s gospel into other languages.

“The absence of these words from such early and diverse witnesses as ℋ B D W Θ its. d syrs cop sa, bo is most impressive and can scarcely be explained as a deliberate excision by copyists who, considering the fall of Jerusalem to be proof that God had not forgiven the Jews, could not allow it to appear that the prayer of Jesus had remained unanswered. At the same time, the logion, though probably not a part of the original Gospel of Luke, bears self-evident tokens of its dominical origin, and was retained, within double square brackets, in its traditional place where it had been incorporated by unknown copyists relatively early in the transmission of the Third Gospel.”

When I pondered what reasons could have possibly prompted copyists to add this passage to the gospel, it occurred to me that elements in the early church might not have wanted the Lord himself to be outshined by Stephen. For Stephen in Acts 7:60 said something similar. Yet Jesus himself predicted in John 14:12, “The person who believes in me, truly, truly I say to you, the works that I do, that one also shall do, and even greater than these shall do, because I am going to the Father.” (DRP) On the other hand, Stephen may have done what he did because he was following Christ’s known example.

Luke Endnote #5

The Linear Aspect in the Gospel of Luke

The primary semantic content of a New Testament Greek verb, other than its lexical definition, was its "aspect" or "kind of action." Of these, there were three primary categories: the punctiliar aspect, the linear aspect, and the combined aspect. See Sections 318 through 356, in the Luke used the linear aspect much more discriminately than did Mark for example. Because of this, we should pay that much more attention to the linear aspect in Luke, and in fact, this makes all the difference for a proper understanding of several passages, some of which are shown and discussed below.

Luke 1:34 εἶπεν δὲ Μαριὰμ πρὸς τὸν ἄγγελον· Πῶς ἔσται τοῦτο, ἐπεὶ ἄνδρα οὐ γινώσκω;

34And Mary said to the angel, "How will this happen, since I am not knowing a man?"

Mary asks how she could have a baby nine months from then, since she was not having sex with a man at the time, nor in the near future.

Luke 5:33 Οἱ δὲ εἶπαν πρὸς αὐτὸν· Οἱ μαθηταὶ Ἰωάννου νηστεύουσιν πυκνά καὶ δεήσεις ποιοῦνται, ὁμοίως καὶ οἱ τῶν Φαρισαίων, οἱ δὲ σοὶ ἐσθίουσιν καὶ πίνουσιν.

Luke 6:46 Τί δέ με καλεῖτε· Κύριε κύριε, καὶ οὐ ποιεῖτε ἃ λέγω;

46"And why do you keep calling me 'Lord, Lord,' and yet not do the things which I say?

Luke 11:9 Κἀγὼ ὑμῖν λέγω, αἰτεῖτε, καὶ δοθήσεται ὑμῖν· ζητεῖτε, καὶ εὑρήσετε· κρούετε, καὶ ἀνοιγήσεται ὑμῖν.

9So I say to you: ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you.

10For everyone who keeps asking, receives; and the person who keeps seeking, finds; and to the one who keeps on knocking, it will be opened.
The moral of that story is the virtue of brash persistence.

Luke 16:21
καὶ ἐπιθυμῶν χορτασθῆναι ἀπὸ τῶν πιπτόντων ἀπὸ τῆς τραπέζης τοῦ πλουσίου· ἀλλὰ καὶ οἱ κύνες ἐρχόμενοι ἐπέλειχον τὰ ἐλκή αὐτοῦ.

21 and he kept longing in vain to eat the scraps dropping from the table of that rich man. In contrast, even the dogs at least would come and lick his sores.

In this passage, the contrast Jesus is making between the rich man and the dogs, would be lost, unless our translations show the linear aspect. The point is that the beggar kept on longing to eat what was falling from the rich man's table, but never did. His longing never ceased, or ended. The imperfect was not named that for no reason; imperfect means ongoing, uncompleted action in the past. In contrast, the dogs would at least come and lick his sores.

Luke 18:3
χήρα δὲ ἦν ἐν τῇ πόλει ἐκείνῃ καὶ ἤρχετο πρὸς αὐτόν λέγουσα· Ἐκδίκησόν με ἀπὸ τοῦ ἀντιδίκου μου.

3 But there was a widow in that city, and she kept on coming to him, saying, 'Give me redress from my adversary.'

The linear aspect, the continuousness of the widow’s coming, is the whole moral of the story. There are not Greek words in the Greek text specifically meaning "kept on" coming. That "kept on" aspect is indicated by the markers affixed to the verb stem, that is, the inflection.

Luke 18:7
ὁ δὲ θεὸς οὐ μὴ ποιήσῃ τὴν ἐκδίκησιν τῶν ἐκλεκτῶν αὐτοῦ τῶν βοώντων αὐτῷ ἡμέρας καὶ νυκτός, καὶ μακροθυμεῖ ἐπ' αὐτοῖς;

7 So God, would he not bring about the avenging of his elect, who keep crying out to him day and night? And is he slow to respond to them?

Again, as in the previous example, the moral of the parable of the persistent widow, is to come "continually" and "persistently" and "habitually" with the same request, until you get it.
Luke 22:20

And the chief priests and the scribes were still yet looking for a way to put him to death, because they were still yet fearing the people.

This is the passage most dependent on the linear aspect. The passage does not make much sense without it. First, observe how various translations have rendered it. I have put them in groups according to how they rendered the Greek causal coordinating conjunction, γάρ.

KJV And the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

ASV And the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might put him to death; for they feared the people.

Darby and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

CBW So the high priests and the scribes continued to seek how they might put Him to death, for they were afraid of the people.

Phillips Now as the feast of unleavened bread, called the Passover, was approaching, fear of the people made the chief priests and scribes try desperately to find a way of getting rid of Jesus.

NASB and the chief priests and the teachers of the law were looking for some way to get rid of Jesus, for they were afraid of the people.

JB and the chief priests and the scribes were looking for some way of doing away with him, because they mistrusted the people.

NKJV And the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might kill Him, for they feared the people.

NRSV The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put Jesus to death, for they were afraid of the people.

JNT and the head cohanim and the Torah-teachers began trying to find some way to get rid of Yeshua, because they were afraid of the people.

NCV The leading priests and teachers of the law were trying to find a way to kill Jesus, because they were afraid of the people.

CEV The chief priests and the teachers of the law of Moses were looking for a way to get rid of Jesus, because they were afraid of what the people might do.

ISV So the high priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put him to death, for they were afraid of the crowd.

NET The chief priests and the experts in the law were trying to find some way to put Jesus to death; for they were afraid of the people.

ESV And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how to put him to death; for they feared the people.

HCSB The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put Him to death, because they were afraid of the people.

Tyndl and the high Priests and Scribes sought how to kill him, but they feared the people.

Wey and the High Priests and the Scribes were contriving how to destroy Him. But they feared the people.

Mess The high priests and religion scholars were looking for a way to do away with Jesus but, fearful of the people, they were also looking for a way to cover their tracks.

BBE And the chief priests and the scribes were looking for a chance to put him to death, but they went in fear of the people.

NLT The leading priests and teachers of religious law were actively plotting Jesus' murder. But they wanted to kill him without starting a riot, a possibility they greatly feared.

GW The chief priests and the scribes were looking for some way to kill Jesus. However, they were afraid of the people.
I have found no grammatical or lexical authority for a purely adversative meaning of γαρ. The closest thing to an adversative use is said to be one passage in Matthew where γαρ is used in combination with other conjunctions; but here in this Luke passage it is used by itself. The Matthew passage:

Matt 15:27

ἡ δὲ εἶπεν, Ναί, κύριε, καὶ γὰρ τὰ κυνάρια ἔσθει ἀπὸ τῶν ψιχῶν τῶν πιπτόντων ἀπὸ τῆς τραπέζης τῶν κυρίων αὐτῶν.

27 But she said, “True, Lord; yet the dogs certainly eat of the crumbs falling from their master’s table.”

But if there is any adversative meaning here at all, it would be contained in the conjunction καὶ, not in γαρ.

Perhaps The Message and the New Living Translation see an ellipsis implied in the Luke passage. Perhaps that is why they supply so many English words that are not indicated in the Greek. I don’t see an ellipsis.

I note that none of the above translations except the BBE conveys the imperfect aspect of the Greek verb for “fearing,” that is, the leaders were still fearing the people; their fear was “imperfect,” that is, ongoing.

The Gospel According to

JOHN
Chapter 1

The Word Became Flesh Among Us

1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2 He was with God in the beginning.

3 Through him all things were made, and without him not one thing was made that has been made. 4 In him was life, and that life was the light for humankind. 5 And the light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not mastered it.

6 There came a man sent from God; his name was John. 7 He came as a witness to testify about that light, so that through him all people might believe. 8 He himself was not the light; he came rather to bear witness to the light. 9 The true light, which gives light to every human being, was coming into the world.

10 He was in the world, and though the world was made through him, the world did not recognize him. 11 He came to that which was his own, and his own did not receive him. 12 But to all who did receive him, to those believing on his name, he gave the right to become children of God—children generated, not from bloods, nor from body desire, nor from a man’s decision, but born of God.

13 And the Word became flesh, and moved his tent in among us; and we beheld his glory, the glory as of an only begotten from a Father, full of grace and truth.

15 John testifies concerning him, and he cries out, saying: "This is he of whom I said, 'The one coming after me has outranked me, because he existed before me.'"

16 And out of his fulness we have all received, yes, grace upon grace.

18 No one has ever seen God; but the Only Begotten Son, who is...
The variant μονογενὴς θεὸς, has been translated by some as God the Only Son, and God the only begotten, and, the only son who is God, as opposed to the rest of God's children, who, though also sired by God, are not God. In the UBS textual commentary, the editorial committee gave the reading "μονογενὴς θεὸς" a B rating of certainty. Their main reasons were that this was the earliest reading, and that this was the most difficult reading (one of the canons of textual criticism is that the more difficult reading be preferred, since copyists would tend to smooth over or simplify, rather than the other way around.) The testimony to the NA27 reading is impressive, and it is over 200 years earlier than the Majority Text reading, since the earliest MT reading is supported by the old Italic manuscript No. 3 (it²), which is IV century, and the NA27 has support Papyrus 66, the year 200. But there are those who say that the reading "μονογενὴς θεὸς" is far too difficult to be genuine. I understand this point of view, since it is very hard to translate. Just witness the widely divergent renderings of this reading in current English Bible translations. Alan Wikgren dissented from the UBS committee majority, and said, "It is doubtful that the author would have written μονογενὴς θεὸς, which may be a primitive, transcriptional error in the Alexandrian tradition (ς / θς). At least a D decision would be preferable." Bart Ehrman says the θς "God" reading is an "orthodox corruption," a reading introduced by orthodox scribes in order to make this scripture a more clear refutation of the Adoptionists. This idea has merit, especially since the same early manuscripts ὅτε ὁ μονογενὴς ὁ πατρὸς ἀπέσταλεν ὁ θεὸς; Jn 1:14 see Hdb. ad loc. and PWinter, Zeitschrift fuer Rel. u. Geistesgeschichte 5, '53, 335-65 (Engls.). Cf. also Hdb. on vs. 18 where, beside the rdg. μονογενῆς θεὸς (considered by many the orig.), or a God begotten of the Only One, another rdg. of μονογενῆς θεὸς is found. Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ. --On the mng. of μονογενῆς in history of religion cf. the material in Hdb.3 1/2

The Bauer-Arndt-Gingrich Lexicon 2nd Ed. defines μονογενῆς as follows:
1. The only member of a kin or kind; hence generally, "only, single" παῖς, Hesiodus: Opera et Dies 376 (3rd cent. B.C.), Herodotus: Historicus 7.221, cf. Ev. John 1:14, Ant. Lib. 32.1 of Hecate, Hes. Th. 426

5. Name of the foot ὁ μ. u, Heph. 3.3

The above list accounts for all Papyri and uncials containing at least a portion of gosp. of John. The Liddell and Scott lexicon defines μονογενῆς as follows:
2. "unique." of τὸ ὄν, Parmeno 8.4 (3rd cent. B.C.); εἷς δἐ μ. οὐφρανὸς γεγονὼς Pl. Ti. 31.b, cf. Procl. Inst. 22; θεὸς ὁ μ. Sammelb. 4324.15. [Note "God the μονογενὴς" here, from Proclus: "Institutio Theologica" 5th century A.D.]

4. Gramm., having one form for all genders, A.D. Adv. 145.18
5. Name of the foot ὁ μ. u, Heph. 3.3

The Bauer-Arndt-Gingrich Lexicon 2nd Ed. defines μονογενῆς as follows:
(Hesiodus <; LXX; Josephus; loanword in rabbinical lit.) "ONLY" (so mostly, incl. Judges 11:34; Tobit 3:15; 8:17) of children: of Isaac, Abraham's only son (Josephus, Ant. 1, 222) Hb 11:17. Of an "only" son (Plut., Lycurgus 31, 8; Josephus, Ant. 20, 20) Lk 7:12; 9:38. Of the daughter (Diod. S. 4, 73, 2) of Jairus 8:42. --Also "unique" (in kind) of something that is the only example of its category (Cornutus 27 p. 49, 13 ἐς κ. μονογενῆς ὁ κόσμος ἐστίν; Pla., Timaeus 92c). Of the mysterious bird, the Phoenix 1 Cl 25:2. --In the Johannine lit. μονογενῆς is used only of Jesus. The meanings "only, unique" may be quite adequate for all its occurrences here (so M-M., RSV et al.; DMoody, JBL 72, '53, 213-19; FCGrant, ATR 36, ’54, 284-87). But some (e.g. WBauer, Hdb.) prefer to regard μονογενῆς as somewhat heightened in meaning in John 1 and 1 John to "only-begotten" or "begotten of the Only One," in view of the emphasis on γέννασθαι ἐκ θεοῦ (Jn 1:13 al.; in this case it would be analogous to πρωτότοκος (Ro 8:29; Col 1:15 al.), τὸν υἱὸν μ. ἐδώκεν Jn 3:16 (Philb. Byz. [100 AD] in Euseb., Pr. Ev. 1, 10, 33; Cronus offers up his μονογενῆς υἱόν) ὁ μονογενῆς υἱός τοῦ θεοῦ ν. 18; cf. Jn 1:34 variant reading τῶν υἱῶν τὲν υἱὸν τοῦ αὐτοῦ ἐδώκεν ὁ θεὸς 1 Jn 4:9; cf. The Pharisees Question John

19 And this is the testimony of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem in order to ask him, "Who are you?"

20 And he confessed, and did not resist; but confessed, "I am not the Anointed One."

21 And they asked him, "Who then? Are you Elijah?"

And he says, "I am not."

"Are you the Prophet?"

And he answered, "No."

22 They said therefore to him, "Who are you? So we may give an answer to those who sent us, what do you say about yourself?"

23 He said, "I am just a voice of one calling in the wilderness, "Prepare the way for the Lord."

24 And those who were sent were of the Pharisees.

25 And they questioned him and said to him, "Why then do you baptize, if you are not the Anointed One, nor Elijah, nor the Prophet?"

26 John answered them as follows: "I baptize in water, but among you stands one you do not know, 27 the one coming after me, the thong of whose sandals I am not worthy to carry."

Since Christ is both God and man, he can explain God to men. There is also an Eastern concept of the firstborn son which we Westerners do not fully appreciate. The firstborn son received the greater inheritance of all the father has and is. This glory would be compounded by being the only son from a father.

1:21 Deuteronomy 18:14-20

1:23 Isaiah 40:3 Or, "He said just what the prophet Isaiah said: "..." A matter of interpretation here is how to place the quotation marks. Is John the Baptist the one saying, "Just as Isaiah the prophet said"? (NASB, NAB, NKJV, CBW, JB, JBP) Or is it John the apostle narrating who said it? (NIV, NRSV, NCV, CEV, NLT, JNT, REB) It is reasonable to think that John the Baptizer was aware of how the Isaiah passage pertained to himself, and that he so stated. Verse 20 says that he confessed and did not resist. In other words, he communicated openly and freely about what he believed he was. On the other hand, it may be well to leave it such that the Isaiah prophecy is applicable to both John the Baptizer and to the two witnesses in Revelation 11:3-12, one of which is Elijah.

The added words are not at all necessary anyway.

whose sandal I am not worthy to untie."

These things happened in Bethany, on the other side of the Jordan, where John was baptizing.

Behold the Lamb of God

The next day he sees Jesus coming toward him, and says, 'Behold! The Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!' This is he of whom I said, 'After me will come a man who has outranked me because he existed before me.' And I myself did not know him, but the reason I came baptizing in water was that he might be revealed to Israel.

Then John testified, saying: 'I have seen the Spirit come down from heaven like a dove, and it remained upon him. And I myself had not known him, but the one who sent me to baptize in water, he told me, 'On whomever you see the Spirit coming down and remaining upon, this is the one who will baptize in the Holy Spirit.' And now I have seen, and now I have testified, that this is the Son of God.'

John and Andrew Have Found the Messiah

The next day, again, John was standing with two of his disciples. And seeing Jesus walking, he says, 'Behold, the Lamb of God!'
The two disciples heard him saying this, and they followed Jesus. And Jesus turned around; and seeing them following, says to them, "What do you want?"

And they said to him, "Rabbi," (which when translated is Teacher), "where are you staying?"

He says to them, "Come, and you will see."

They went therefore, and saw where he was staying, and spent the rest of that day with him, it being about 10 a.m.

Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, was one of the two hearing from John and following Jesus. This man first thing finds his own brother Simon, and he tells him, "We have found the Messiah" (which when translated is Anointed One).

He led him to Jesus.

Looking at him, Jesus said, "You are Simon son of John. You will be called Kephas" (which when translated is Rock.)

Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, was one of the two hearing from John and following Jesus. This man first thing finds his own brother Simon, and he tells him, "We have found the Messiah" (which when translated is Anointed One).

He led him to Jesus.

Looking at him, Jesus said, "You are Simon son of John. You will be called Kephas" (which when translated is Rock.)

Philip and Nathaniel

The next day Jesus decided to go forth into Galilee; and he finds Philip. And Jesus says to him, "Follow me."

And Philip was from Bethsaida, of the city of Andrew and Peter.

Philip finds Nathaniel, and tells him, "We have found him of whom Moses in the Law, and also the prophets wrote: Jesus son of Joseph, from Nazareth."

And Nathaniel said to him, "Is it possible for anything good to be from Nazareth?"

Philip says to him, "Come and see."
When Jesus saw Nathaniel coming toward him, he says about him, "Behold a true Israelite, in whom there is no artifice."

Nathaniel says to him, "Where do you know me from?"

And Jesus answered and said to him, "I saw you while you were under the fig tree, before Philip called you."

Nathaniel answered him, "Rabbi, you are the Son of God, you are the King of Israel."

Jesus answered and said to him, "You believe because I told you I saw you under the fig tree? You shall see greater things than that." He then says to him, "Truly, truly I say to you, you shall all see heaven torn open, and the angels of God ascending and descending on the Son of Man."

Chapter 2

Water Into Wine

And on the third day a wedding took place at Cana in Galilee. Jesus' mother was there, and both Jesus and his disciples had been invited to the wedding. And when wine was lacking, Jesus' mother says to him, "They have no wine."

Jesus says to her, "What business is there between you and me, woman? My time has not yet come."

His mother says to the servants, "Whatever he tells you, do."

And there were six stone water jars lying there, for the ceremonial washing of the Jews, each holding from two to three measures.

Jesus says to them, "Fill the jars with water." So they filled them to the brim.

And he tells them, "Now draw some out, and take it to the master of the banquet." And they took some.

When the master of the banquet tasted the water become wine, not knowing where it had come from, but the servants having drawn the water knowing, the master of the banquet calls the bridegroom, and says to him, "Everyone sets out the good wine first, and the cheaper after they have become drunk. You have kept the good wine till now."

This, the first of the miraculous signs, Jesus did in Cana of Galilee, and manifested his glory, and his disciples believed in him.

12 After this he went down to Capernaum, he and his mother, and brothers, and his disciples, and there they stayed for a few days.

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

13 And the Passover of the Jews was near, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. 14 And in the temple he found those selling cattle, sheep and doves, and the money changers sitting. 15 And having made a whip out of ropes, he expelled all from the temple, including the sheep and the cattle, and he poured out the coins of the money changers, and overturned the tables, 16 and he said to those selling the doves, "Take these out of here! Do not make the house of my Father a house of commerce!"

17 His disciples remembered that it is written: "The zeal for your house will consume me." 642

18 The Jews responded therefore and said to him, "What sign are you showing us, that you can do these things?"

19 Jesus answered and said to them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it."

20 Then the Jews said, "This temple was built in forty-six years, and you in three days will raise it?" 21 But he had spoken of the temple of his body. 22 When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the scripture, and the word that Jesus had spoken.

23 And while he was in Jerusalem at the Passover during the Festival, many believed in his name— seeing the miraculous signs he was doing.

24 But Jesus on his part did not commit himself to them, because he knew all people, 25 and because he had no need that anyone testify about a person, for he knew what was in the person.

Chapter 3

You Must Be Born Again

1 And there was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. He came to Jesus by night, and said to him, "Rabbi, we know that you are a teacher who has come from God. For no one would be able to do these miraculous signs you are doing, unless God were with him."

642 2:17 Psalm 69:9

3Jesus answered and said to him, "Truly, truly I say to you, Unless one is born again, from above, it is not possible to see the kingdom of God."

4Nicodemus says to him, "How is it possible for someone who is old, to be born? Can he enter a second time into his mother's womb, and be born?"

5Jesus answered, "Truly, truly I say to you, unless one is born from water and spirit, it is not possible to enter into the kingdom of God."

6Nicodemus says to him, "How can these things be?"

7Jesus answered and said to him, "You are Teacher for Israel, and not familiar with these things?"

8Nicodemus answered and said to him, "How will you believe if I tell you heavenly things? And no one has gone up into heaven except the one who came down from heaven, the Son of Man.

9For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, so 10Nicodemus should have known these concepts from I Samuel 10:6,7,9,11; Ezekiel 11:19,20; 18:31,32; 36:26,27; Isaiah 26:11-19.
that everyone who believes in him would not perish, but have everlasting life. 17 For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through him. 18 The person who believes in him is not condemned. The person who does not believe, is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of God’s only begotten Son.

19 And this is the condemnation:

The light has come into the world. And human beings loved the darkness more than the light, because their works were continually evil.

20 For everyone practicing evil things, hates the light, and does not come toward the light, so that his works may not be exposed. 21 But one doing the truth comes toward the light, so that his works may be manifest, that they have been accomplished in God.”

"He Must Increase; I Must Decrease"

22 After these things, Jesus and his disciples went into the Judean territory, and there he was spending time with them, and baptizing. 23 And John also was baptizing at Aenon near Salim, because there was plenty of water there, and they were coming and getting baptized. 24 For John was still not yet thrown into prison.

25 Then a dispute arose between the disciples of John and a certain Jew about ceremonial washing. 26 And they came to John and said to him,
"Rabbi, he who was with you on the other side of the Jordan, about whom you testified, behold, that man is baptizing, and everyone is moving to him."

27 John answered and said, "A human being is not able to receive a thing that is not given to him from heaven. 28 You yourselves bear me witness that I said, 'I am not the Anointed One, but am sent ahead of him.' 29 The one possessing the bride is bridegroom, and the one standing and hearing him, the friend of the bridegroom, who rejoices with a joy on account of the voice of the bridegroom. That joy, my joy, is therefore fulfilled. 30 He must increase, and I must decrease.

31 "The one who comes from above is above all; the one who is from the earth is of the earth, and speaks of the earth. The one who comes from heaven is above all; what he has seen and heard, this he testifies to, and no one accepts his testimony. 32 The person who accepts his testimony has vouched that God is truthful. 33 For he whom God has sent speaks the words of God; because to him God gives the Spirit without measure. 34 The Father loves the Son, and has given all things into his hand. 35 The person who believes in the Son, has eternal life, but the one who disobeys the Son will not see life, but rather, the wrath of God remains upon him."

Chapter 4
The Samaritan Woman at the Well

1 Then, when the Lord knew that the Pharisees had heard that Jesus was making and baptizing more disciples than John, 2 (although Jesus himself was not baptizing, but his disciples), he left Judea, and went back into Galilee.

4 But he had to pass through Samaria. 5 Thus it is he comes to a town in Samaria called Sychar, near the plot of ground Jacob had given to his son Joseph. 6 And Jacob's well was there. So there Jesus was, sitting down by the well, tired from the journey. It was about 6 p.m.

653 331 ἐρχόμενος ἐπάνω πάντων ἐστίν. [NA27] {I ἐρχόμενος Φ55 Φ56 D 2812}

654 44 Samaria was the district north of Judea and south of Galilee. For Jesus to get to Galilee from where he was (Judea), he had to pass through Samaria in between; either that or go all the way around the east side of the Jordan River and Sea of Galilee, as some Jews would actually do, wanting so much to avoid Samaria. See the endnote at the end of this document, entitled, "The meaning of the phrase, 'The Jews' in the Gospel of John," which discusses this situation.
A woman of Samaria comes to draw water. Jesus says to her, "Give me a drink." (For his disciples had gone into the town to buy food.)

Then the Samaritan woman says to him, "How is it you, being a Jew, are asking a drink from me, a Samaritan woman?" (For Jews do not use dishes in common with Samaritans.)

Jesus answered and said to her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water."

She says to him, "Sir, you do not have a bucket, and the shaft is deep. Where then do you hold the living water?" Are you greater than our forefather Jacob, who gave us the well, and drank from it himself, and also his sons and his animals?"

Jesus answered and said to her, "Everyone who drinks from this water will thirst again, but whoever drinks from the water which I will give him will by no means ever thirst again. Indeed, the water I give him will become in him a fountain of water springing up into life without end."

The woman says to him, "Sir, give me this water. Then I wouldn't get thirsty, and neither would I have to keep coming over here to draw."

He says to her, "Go call your husband, and come back here."

The woman answered and said to him, "I do not have a husband."

Jesus says to her, "Commendably, you said, 'I do not have a husband.' For you have had five husbands, and he you now have is not your husband. This you have said honestly."

The woman says to him, "Sir, I am perceiving that you are a prophet. Our ancestors worshiped on this mountain, and you Jews say that the place where one must worship is in Jerusalem."

Jesus says to her, "Believe me, woman, a time is coming when you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem. You Samaritans worship what you do not know. We worship what we know, for salvation is of the Jews. Nevertheless, a time is coming, and is now come, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and in truth, for indeed that is the kind the Father seeks as those worshiping him. God is spirit, and those worshiping him, must worship in spirit and in truth."

The woman says to him, "I do know that Messiah" (called Christ) "is coming. When he comes, he will teach us everything."

Jesus says to her, "I, the one speaking to you, am he."

4:21 In the Greek, "you" is in the plural.
Lift Your Eyes, See My Food and My Harvest

27 And at this point his disciples came, and they were surprised that he was talking with a woman. Still, no one said, "What do you want?" or, "Why are you talking with her?"

28 Then, the woman left her water jar, and went away into the town. And she says to the people, 29 "Come, see a man who told me everything I ever did. Could he be the Messiah?"

30 They were proceeding out of the town and coming toward him. 31 In the meantime, his disciples were pleading with him, saying, "Rabbi, eat."

32 But he said to them, "I have food to eat that you do not know about."

33 His disciples therefore were saying to each other, "Has someone brought him something to eat?"

34 Jesus says to them, "That I may do the will of him who sent me, is food to me, and that I may finish his work."

35 Do you not say, "There is four months yet, and then comes the harvest'? Behold, I say to you, lift up your eyes, and look upon the fields. For they are white even now for harvest. 36 The one harvesting is taking his wages, and gathering fruit resulting in eternal life, so that the one sowing and the one harvesting..."
may rejoice together. 37 For the saying, 'One is the sower and another is the reaper,' is true in this: 38 I have sent you to harvest what you have not worked. Others have done the hard work, and you have joined in their labor.”

The Woman’s Talk Bears Fruit

39 And many of the Samaritans from that town had believed in him because of the woman’s word testifying, “He told me everything I ever did.” 40 When therefore the Samaritans came to him, they asked him to remain with them, and he remained two days. 41 And, because of his word, many more believed.

42 And to the woman they said, “No longer because of your talk do we believe; for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this man truly is the Savior of the world.”

The Official’s Son Stays Alive

43 And after the two days he departed from there into Galilee. 44 (Now Jesus himself testified, that in his own native place a prophet has no honor.) 45 When then he arrived in Galilee, the Galileans welcomed him—having seen all the things that he had done in Jerusalem at the festival, for they also had gone to the festival.

46 He came again therefore to Cana in Galilee, where he had made the water wine. And there was a certain royal official there whose son lay sick at Capernaum. 47 When this man heard that Jesus was coming out of Judea into Galilee, he went to him and asked that he would come and heal his son, for he was about to die.

48 Jesus therefore said to him, "Unless you people see miraculous signs and terrifying omens, you will never believe."

49 The royal official says to him, "Sir, come down before my child dies."

50 Jesus says to him, "Go. Your son stays alive."

The man believed the word that Jesus had said to him, and departed. 51 And even as he was going back down, his servants met him saying that his boy was living. 52 He therefore ascertained from them the exact time in which he had gotten better. They therefore said to him, "The fever left him yesterday at 7 p.m."

53 Then the father realized: that was the hour in which Jesus had said to him, "Your son stays alive." And he and his whole household believed.

Again, this second miraculous sign Jesus performed while coming out of Judea into Galilee.

Chapter 5

Jesus Heals in the Spa on the Sabbath

1 After these things, there was a festival of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. 2 Now there is in Jerusalem near the Sheep Gate  a pool, which in Hebrew is called Bethesda, having five colonnades. 3 In these a great 661 5:2a A gate in the north which allowed the sheep destined to be sacrificed to access the temple.

662 5:2b It is possible that the word "Hebrew" is meant to mean the language of the Hebrews, as opposed to Greek. By that time the language of the Jews was mostly Aramaic, the language of their former conquerors to the north. Indeed, parts of the Old Testament were originally written in Aramaic. In the words of Bruce Metzger, "Aramaic was the mother tongue of the great majority of Jews at that time. Though the rabbis and learned scribes still had fluent command of the classical Hebrew of the Old Testament, it was approaching the status of a dead language for the ordinary Jewish population. During the exile in the sixth century B.C. the Jews had begun to use Aramaic, a Semitic language related to Hebrew somewhat as Spanish is related to Portuguese. At the beginning of the Christian era, in the synagogues of Palestine as well as of Babylon, the text of the Old Testament was read not only in the original Hebrew but also in an Aramaic paraphrase (called a Targum) for the benefit of those who knew little or no Hebrew. At least two dialectal forms of Aramaic were current in Palestine. The dialect used in Galilee was recognizably different in pronunciation from the southern dialect spoken in and around Jerusalem (Matt. 26:73 or Diatessaron 30:11). It is altogether probable that Jesus grew up in his home at Nazareth using Aramaic as his mother tongue. In later life he doubtless acquired some facility in speaking Greek and in reading Hebrew. His teaching and preaching to the common people would have been carried out in Aramaic; his debates with the learned teachers of the law may have been conducted in Hebrew. When he occasionally conversed with non-Jewish persons (for example, the Roman centurion and the Syro-Phoenician woman), he probably used Greek, the lingua franca of the Greco-Roman world." Tertullian Chromatius Jerome WH / Βελζαθά D it* (it* Belzatha) / lacuna Ψ4* Q syr*. It has been suggested by Milik that Bethzatha is from an Aramaic intensive plural of the original for Bethesda. Bethesda, though widely supported by later manuscripts of several text types, is suspect in the eyes of some as a scribal alteration originally introduced because of its edifying etymology: Βήθσαθά - "Beyt Chesda," "House of [Divine] Mercy." Though the UBS textual commentary states that the Copper Scroll discovered at Qumran (one of the "Dead Sea Scrolls") contains a reference to a pool at Bethesdathayim, this has subsequently been disproven. It states that this word, the termination of which signifies the Hebrew dual number, appears to be connected with the Aramaic for "to pour out." Thus, perhaps therefore, Βήθσαθά - "Beyt Eyshda," or "Place of out-pouring [water]."

In a new paper by Reinhart Ceulemans, "The Name of the Pool in Joh 5:2. A Text-Critical Note Concerning 3Q15" ZNW 99 (2008) 112-15, he says, "one of the reasons for the fact that this reading BETHESDA is embedded that much, can be found in one verse from the Copper Scroll (3Q15), discovered at Qumran. This scroll contains a reference to a certain pool (viz. 3Q15 11,12), which is often linked to the pool mentioned in Joh 5:2. Equally often this verse has been interpreted as "corroborating the reading BETHESDA. The reason for this was the reading of the 3Q15 verse as edited in the standard edition, provided by J.T. Milik in 1962.
number of disabled people used to lie, the blind, the lame, the paralyzed.664

5 And one man was there who had had a disability thirty-eight years. 6 When Jesus saw him lying there and learned that he had had his condition now for a long time, he says to him, "Do you want to get well?"

7 The invalid answered him, "Sir, I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is stirred, and while I am going, someone else goes down ahead of me."

8 Jesus says to him, "Stand up. Pick up your mat and walk." 9 And immediately the man became well, and he picked up his mat and walked. And that day was during a Sabbath.

10 The Jews therefore said to the man who had been healed, "It is a Sabbath, and not lawful for you to carry your mat."

Very recently, a new impressive two-volume restoration of the Copper Scroll appeared, the first volume of which contains a new edition (Le Rouleau de cuivre de la grotte 3 de Qumrân (3Q15). Expertise – Restauration – Épigraphie I, par D. Brizemeure et alii (STDJ 55.1), Leiden 2006). The Qumran text does not feature a dalet or res with waw, but only a cursive waw in the form of a res. Thus, according to the new edition, this line only mentions some sort of installation (building) with two reservoirs, and contains no proper name. This directly contradicts the assertions of Milik, who drew a parallel to the place name BETHESDA, which he regarded the text of Joh 5:2. This means that the Copper Scroll cannot be of any use when trying to answer the text-critical questions concerning this Johannine passage. Thus the reason for supporting the reading BETHESDA is significantly weakened; in the future this variant should not deserve the maximum momentum which it received in the past." This "Bethesda" may well have been the same place as the twin pools near the present-day St. Anne’s Church. There would have been a colonnade on each of the four sides and another between the pools, holding up a covering under which the people would lie. As for the name Bethzatha, it has eclectic textual support, along with Eusebius. It was the name of the northern extension of the city of Jerusalem. 1 Maccabees 7:19 mentions a "great cistern" at Bethzatha. Bethsaida is suspect as an assimilation to the town of Bethsaida on the Sea of Galilee, as mentioned in John 1:44.

which was the initial reading of this, with "an angel would come down into" (L Θ 063). According to the UBS textual commentary, the added words in vv. 3b-4 contain the following non-Johannine expressions and words: κατά καιρόν, ἐμβαίνω, ἐκδέχομαι, κατέχομαι, κίνησις, ταραχή, and νόσημα -- the last three words only here in the New Testament. They say that the additions may have been made in order to explain how the water gets stirred in verse 7. There should not be any doubt that this passage was not in the original gospel of John. For a Swanson-style table of the variants in this passage, right-click this link, and choose "save as." See also Wieland Willker’s excellent commentary on this addition.

The Greek word translated "lawful" is the impersonal participle ἐξεστίν - ἐστιν, which is derived from the same root as ἐξουσία - exousía, the word for authority. If an
He answered them, "The man who made me well, he told me, 'Pick up your mat and walk.'"

They asked him, "Who is the man telling you to pick up and walk?"

But the man who was healed had not known who it was, for Jesus had slipped away, a crowd being in the place.

After these things Jesus finds him at the temple and said to him, "Behold, you are well. Do not sin any longer, or something worse might happen to you."

The man went away and reported to the Jews that Jesus was the one who had made him well.

Hear the Voice of the Son and Live

And for this reason the Jews persecuted Jesus, and looked for a way to kill him, because he was doing these things on the Sabbath. But he answered them, "My Father is working continuously up to now, so I also am working." For this reason the Jews tried all the more to kill him, because not only was he breaking the Sabbath, but he was also saying God was his own father, making himself equal to God.

Therefore Jesus responded and said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, the Son is not able to do anything of himself, but only what he sees the activity was "ἔξεστιν," that means it was "loosed," or ruled by the rabbis to be something "allowed" by the Torah. If something was not "έξεστιν," as is the case here, that means it was "bound," that is, the rabbis had adjudged that it was forbidden by the Torah.

The Greek verb translated "breaking" here, is λύω - λύo. Bauer says it here means "abolish," that in John Jesus is presented as abolishing the Sabbath. The Bagster / Moulton lexicon agrees with this also. The meaning would depend on whose point of view the statement is taken from. That is, whether John is stating what "the Jews" saw Jesus as doing, or whether John is stating his own view of what Jesus was doing. Certainly, from the Pharisees' point of view, Jesus was both violating the Sabbath, and since he was a Rabbi, by his example, also abolishing the Sabbath. It seems obvious that it would not be John's view that Jesus violated the Sabbath, for it is the teaching of the New Testament, and of Christ himself, that Jesus Christ kept the law. It is agreed by all, however, that Jesus definitely set aside the prevailing Jewish concept of the Sabbath day. It may also be safely asserted that the majority of Christ's followers understand the New Testament to teach that subsequent to Pentecost the 7th day Sabbath observance is no longer a requirement. There is ample evidence in the N.T. of this. As for the apostle John, he wrote this his gospel relatively a long time after the life of Christ, and thus by the time of its writing, the Christian non-observance of the Sabbath day was already well established. See my treatise entitled, "What is Sabbath."

And indeed, greater works than these he will show him, such that you will be constantly amazed. 21 For just as the Father raises the dead and makes them alive, in this way also the Son makes alive those whom he wishes. Testimonies About Jesus 31 "If I testify about myself, my testimony is not valid. 32 There is another who testifies about me, and I know that the testimony which he testifies about me is true.

33 You have sent to John, and he has testified to the truth. 34 I do not accept testimony from a human being; but I am saying these things so that you may be saved. 35 That one was a burning and shining lamp, and in his light you were willing to exult, for a time.

36 But I have testimony weightier than that of John. For the works which the Father has given me to finish, the same works which I am doing, they testify about me that the Father has sent me. 37 And the Father who sent me, He has testified about me. You have neither heard His voice at any time nor seen His form. 38 And His word, you do not have living in you, because the one He has sent, him you do not believe. 39 You diligently study the Scriptures, because you think that in them you have eternal life. And these are the ones that testify about me. 40 Yet you refuse to come to me that you may have life.

41 I do not accept praise from human beings; 42 but I know you, that you do not have the love of God in yourselves. 43 I have come in my Father’s name, and you do not accept me; if someone else comes in his own name, him you will accept. 44 How is it possible for you to believe, accepting honor from one another, and not seeking the praise from the only God?

45 But do not think that I will accuse you before the Father. The one accusing you is Moses, on whom you have placed your hope. 46 For if you were believing Moses, you would be believing me, for he wrote about me. 47 But since you are not believing his writings, how will you believe my statements?”

Chapter 6

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

After these things, Jesus went across to the other side of the Sea of Galilee (the Sea of Tiberias). 2 And a large crowd followed him, because they had seen the miraculous signs he had been performing on the sick.

3 Jesus went up on the mountain, and there he was sitting, with his disciples. 4 And the Passover was near, the festival of the Jews. 5 Then, lifting up his eyes and seeing that a large crowd was coming toward him, Jesus says to Philip, "Where might we buy loaves so that these people can eat?"
But he said this testing him, for he himself had known what he was about to do.

Philip answered him, "Two hundred denarii are not enough loaves for them to each get a little!

One of his disciples, Andrew the brother of Simon Peter, said to him, "There is a youth here who has five barley loaves and two fish, but what are they in the face of so many?"

Jesus said, "Get the people to recline." Now there was plenty of green grass in the place. The men therefore reclined, the number about five thousand. Then Jesus took the loaves, and after giving thanks, he distributed to those reclining, and likewise from the fish, as much as they wanted.

And when they were full, he says to his disciples, "Gather the fragments that are left over, so that nothing is wasted." So they gathered, and filled twelve large baskets with fragments of the five barley loaves left over by those who had eaten.

Then the people, having seen the miraculous sign he had done, were saying, "This surely is the Prophet who was to come into the world." Jesus therefore, knowing that they were about to come and take him by force to try to make him king, withdrew again into the mountain, himself alone.

Jesus Walks on the Water

And when evening had come, his disciples had gone down to the lake, and gotten into a boat, and were proceeding across the lake toward...
Capernaum. And now darkness came, and Jesus had not yet come to them, and as a great wind was blowing, the lake was becoming very rough. Then, after having rowed about twenty-five or thirty stadia, they behold him walking on the lake, and getting close to the boat, and they were afraid.

But he says to them, "It is I. Don't be afraid."

Then they willingly took him into the boat. And immediately the boat was at the shore to which they were headed.

"I Am the Bread Come Down out of Heaven"

The next day, the crowd that had stayed on the other side of the lake realized that no other boat had been there except one, and that Jesus had not gotten into the boat with his disciples, but his disciples had gone away alone. (Other boats, from Tiberias, arrived near the place where they had eaten the loaves, where the Lord had given thanks.) When therefore the crowd saw that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they got into the boats and went to Capernaum in search of Jesus.

And finding him across the lake, they said to him, "Rabbi, when did you get here?"

Jesus answered them, and said, "Truly, truly I say to you, you are looking for me, not because you saw miraculous signs but because you ate the loaves and were satisfied. Do not work for food that perishes, but for food that abides, resulting in eternal life, which the Son of Man will give you. For him God the Father has sealed."

They therefore said to him, "What should we do in order to be working the works of God?"

Jesus answered, and said to them, "This is the work of God, that you believe in that one whom he has sent."
So they said to him, "What miraculous sign then are you performing, so that we may see, and believe you? What works are you working? Our forefathers ate the manna in the desert; as it is written: 'He gave them bread out of heaven to eat.'”

Jesus therefore said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, the bread out of heaven is not given you by Moses; no, the real bread out of heaven my Father is giving you. For the bread of God, is the one coming down out of heaven and giving life to the world."

They said therefore to him, "Sir, give us that bread evermore."

Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life. The person who comes to me, would never hunger, and the one believing in me would never thirst. But as I told you, you have seen me and still you are not believing. All flesh that the Father gives to me will come to me, and the one who comes to me, I would certainly not drive away. For I have come down from heaven not to do my will, but the will of him who sent me. And this is the will of him who sent me: that of all flesh that he has given me, I would not lose any of it, but raise it up at the last day. For this is the will of my Father: that anyone looking to the Son and believing in him would have eternal life, and I would raise him up at the last day.”

Exodus 16:4; Psalm 78:24-25; Nehemiah 9:15
John 5:38, 47; Diatess. 8:15, 17
See the footnote on 6:39.
Note all the neuters. This is said to be an example of the phenomenon of 'anacoluthon.' This would mean that the inflections have 'followed suit,' so to speak; that is, they have been attracted to or assimilated by the neuter gender and singular number of the relative pronoun, which in turn had been attracted to those same traits of its antecedent, τὸ θέλημα - τὸ θελήμα, that is, 'the will' in verse 39. (And the relative pronoun was used in a Hebraistic construction, "παν...μη"). {Look up §§ 293-297 in Blass} But I am not convinced of anacoluthon here. For I have seen John deliberately use the neuter relative pronoun, and other neuter pronouns, in other passages as well, where the subject is people. See 6:37, 39, 17:2, 24, and, I believe also 17:11-12, where I go against the trend which has been to interpret the Father's gift to the Son as "the name," rather than the disciples. John sometimes refers to people collectively as a gift and as a neuter thing. This sounds strange to our ears. But people are a "thing" when they are something given; especially since most of the Greek words for gift, the substantive forms of the verb John uses for give, are of the neuter gender. John six times uses a neuter singular pronoun for the collective unity of human beings that compose the gift that the Father has given him, in 6:37, 39, 17:2, 11, 12, 24. Though some say this is an instance of what is called "attraction of the relative," where the relative pronoun is neuter because it followed suit after a neuter noun before it, in this case the word for "will," yet, the circumstances for that are not present in all of the six instances mentioned earlier, and to me it is significant that John uses a neuter pronoun construction six times, when the number of the flesh in Biblical number symbolism is six. John uses the neuter pronoun construction as interchangeable with "flesh" in 17:2, and with "humans" in 17:6. The word "flesh" is a common Hebraistic way to refer to mortal humanity. Furthermore, it is interesting how reminiscent this phrase is of Job 19:25-26, where he says of the last day, "in my flesh shall I see God." Jesus uses this phrase, "I will not lose any of the flesh He has given me, but raise it up at the last day." Moreover, the flesh the Father gives him, is quickened by means of eating the living flesh of the Son of Man, Ch. 6 v. 54: "The one eating my flesh and drinking my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day."
Then the Jews started grumbling about him, because he said, "I am the bread having come down out of heaven." And they were saying, "Isn't this the Jesus son of Joseph whose father and mother we know? How can he now say, 'I have come down out of heaven'?"

Jesus answered and said to them, "Stop grumbling among yourselves.

No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him, and I would raise him up at the last day.

It is written in the Prophets: 'And they shall all be taught by God.' Everyone who has heard and learned from the Father, comes to me.

Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father.

Your forefathers ate the manna in the desert, and they died. But this is bread coming down out of heaven such that one may eat of it and would not die.

I am the living bread come down out of heaven. If someone eats of this bread, he will live for ever. Namely, the bread is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world."

Then the Jews began to argue sharply among themselves, saying, "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?"

Jesus therefore said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you.

The person eating my flesh and drinking my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day.

For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink.

The one eating my flesh and drinking my blood abides in... me, and I in him. Just as the living Father has sent me, and I live by means of the Father, so also that person eating me will live by means of me. This bread coming down out of heaven is not like the bread the forefathers ate and then died. The person eating this bread will live for ever.” These things he said while teaching in the synagogue at Capernaum.

A Teaching Too Scandalous for Some

Then many of his disciples hearing said, "This is a hard teaching. Who can listen to it?"

But knowing in himself that his disciples were grumbling about this, Jesus said to them, "This is shocking you? Then what if you were seeing the Son of Man ascend to where he was before? Spirit is what makes alive; flesh counts for nothing. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit, and they are life. Yet some of you are not believing." For Jesus had known from the beginning who the ones not believing were, and who the one was, who would betray him. He went on to say, “This is why I told you that no one has the ability to come to me, unless it is given to him from the Father.”

From this many of his disciples drew back, and no longer went along with him.

Jesus therefore said to the twelve, "You are not thinking of leaving too, are you?"

Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life. And we have believed and have come to know that you are the Holy One of God.”

According to Friedrich Blass, this is a weak NT version of the Classical Greek "aposiopesis." For the interrogative word "what" is not present in the Greek, leaving this sentence with the feeling of incompleteness. Aposiopesis in the strict sense is a breaking off of speech due to strong emotion or to modesty, generally thought not to occur in the NT. On the other hand, a NT form of aposiopesis takes the form of the omission of the apodosis to a conditional subordinate clause (the protasis), which is also classical. If such were the case here, then the implied apodosis would be something like, "would you then still take offense, or be shocked?” Then the whole sentence would be, "If you were observing the Son of Man ascending to where he formerly existed, would you then still be shocked?” What therefore is the sense here? What is Jesus asking? If they would be more shocked watching him ascend to his former state of non-flesh? Or would they be less shocked watching him ascend to his former state of convincing majesty and authority, and therefore see that he is entitled to put forward a teaching (eating human flesh) so shocking to the Jewish sense of a ceremonially clean diet?

Rare NT occurrence of the future participle.

Opinion is split on whether this means "because of this teaching," or, "from this point on."

Chapter 7

Jesus' Brothers Judge Him Falsely

1 And after these things, Jesus was walking around in Galilee, for he was not wanting to walk in Judea, because the Jews were seeking to kill him. 2 But the Jewish Festival of Booths was near. 3 So his brothers said to him, "Remove yourself from here and go to Judea, so that your disciples there also will see the miracles you are doing. 4 For no one who wants to become famous, acts in secret. If you really are doing these things, show yourself to the world." 5 For even his own brothers did not believe in him.

6 Jesus therefore said to them, "The time for me has not yet come. But for you the time is always suitable. 7 The world cannot hate you, but me it hates, because I testify about it, that its works are evil. 8 You go up to the festival. I am not going up to this festival, because for me the time is not..."
yet fully come.” 9And having said these things, he remained in Galilee.

Jesus Goes Up for Sukkot

10And when his brothers had gone up to the festival, then he also went up, not openly, but in secret. 11The Jews therefore were looking for him in the festival, and saying, "Where is that fellow?"

12And there was much whispering about him in the crowds. Some were maintaining, "He is a good man."

Others were saying, "No. On the contrary, he is misleading the people."

13Though none would speak about him openly, for fear of the Jews.

14And when it was already the middle of the festival, Jesus went up to the temple, and was teaching. 15The Jews then were marveling, saying, "How does this man know letters, not having received instruction?"

16Jesus therefore answered them and said, "My teaching is not mine, but rather his who sent me. 17If someone is inclined to do His will, he will find out about the teaching, whether it is from God, or I am speaking from myself. 18One who speaks from himself is seeking his own glory. But one seeking the glory of Him who sent him, such a one is true, and there is no unrighteousness in him. 19Has not Moses given you the law? Yet none of you performs the law. Why are you trying to kill me?"

20The crowd responded, "You have a demon. Who is trying to kill you?"

21Jesus answered and said to them, "One work I did, and you are all appalled. 22Why is it Μοσè gave you circumcision (not that it is from Moses, but rather from the patriarchs) and during the Sabbath you circumcise a man? 23If a man receives circumcision during the Sabbath so that the law of Moses not be broken, why are you incensed at me that I have made the whole man whole during the Sabbath? 24Judge not by appearances, but judge the righteous judgment.

Is Jesus the Anointed One?

25Then some of the Jerusalemites were saying, "Is this not the man they are trying to kill? 26And behold he is speaking openly, and they say nothing to him. Could it be the authorities have actually come to know that this is the Christ? 27Except this man, we know where he is from; but the Christ, when he comes, no one will know where he is from."

28Then Jesus cried out in the temple, teaching and saying, "Yes, me you know, and you know where I am from. Yet I have not come of myself. True rather is the One who sent me; him you do not know.

703 7:22a The Greek words I translated "Why is it," are "διὰ τοῦτο." Remember, the verse numbers are very late additions to the text. Some translations include these words, "διὰ τοῦτο," with the beginning of the sentence that starts in verse 22, others with the tail end of the sentence of verse 21: "I did one work, and you are all amazed about it." Some translations even leave these words untranslated.

706 7:22b It was commanded that when a male child was born, he be circumcised on the eighth day. (Gen. 17:12; Ex. 22:30; Lev. 12:3) If the eighth day happened to fall on a Sabbath, no matter; they had to cut part of the boy off on the Sabbath, even though that was working on the Sabbath. But now there is the question of how to translate the Greek word ἄνθρωπος - ἄνθρωπος here in vv. 22 & 23, which is generally translated "human being," or, "person," as distinguished from God, angels, demons, and animals. But it is not "human beings" that were circumcised on the eighth day, but only male infants. Thus we have translations like the NIV that render "ἄνθρωπος" as "child," or the NCV, as "baby," or the NLT and CEV as "son," or the JNT as "boy," and CBW as "male child." But adult males were also circumcised; for example, an adult male slave that an Israelite purchased, or also, an adult gentile convert to Judaism. (Gen. 17:12; Josh. 5:2-8; Acts 16:3) Thus the REB translates "ἄνθρωπος" here as "someone." But were such adult males circumcised on the eighth day? Eighth day from what? Their conversion? For the eighth day requirement would seem to be the only compelling reason for performing the rite on a Sabbath day. But I can find no mention in the scriptures of the eighth day involving the circumcision of adults. Therefore it seems reasonable to use the word "son," or "male child." Yet, because of the comparison Jesus makes in v. 23 with the grown man he had healed, "if a man receives circumcision on the Sabbath...why are you incensed at me that I have made the whole man whole on the Sabbath." For a male baby is still a "man" in broad terms.

708 7:23 Circumcision involves cutting off part of a man, so what Jesus is asking, is, "You cut off part of a man on the Sabbath, so how can you be upset with me if I made the whole man whole on the Sabbath?"

704 7:24 τήν δικαιον κρίσιν κρίνετε - τήν δικαιον κρίσιν κρίνετε; "judge the righteous judgment." The definite article in this use may well be "anaphoric," in that it is meant to refer back to something with which they are already familiar: that judgment commanded in Deuteronomy 16:18. The Greek there in the Septuagint is κρίνουσι ο ...κρίνουσι δικαίους - "they shall judge a righteous judgment," without the article. For indeed, those Jesus was probably talking to were judges. The scribes "γράμματες" also sat in judgment, being one component of the Sanhedrin, and the subjects of Deuteronomy 16:18 were "κριτας και γράμματες και συνεκαμόγιες" - "judges and clerks."
30 Then they were trying to seize him, yet no one laid a hand on him, because his hour had not yet come.
31 But many of the crowd put trust on him, and they were saying, "When the Christ comes, will he perform more signs than this man has done?"
32 The Pharisees heard these whisperings of the crowd about him, and the chief priests and the Pharisees sent officers to arrest him.
33 Jesus continued and said, "Just a short time more I am with you, and then I am going away, to the One who sent me.
34 You will look for me, and will not find me, and where I am, you are not able to come."
35 The Jews therefore said among themselves, "Where is this man about to go, that we will not find him?  Is he about to go into the Dispersion among the Greeks, and teach the Greeks?"
36 What is the meaning of this statement that he said, 'You will look for me and will not find me, and where I am you are not able to come?'
37 And in the great and final day of the festival, there stood Jesus. And he cried out, saying, "If anyone is thirsty, he should come to me; and drink, 38 he who believes on me. As the scripture has said, 'streams of living water will flow from His belly.'"
39 Now this he said in reference to the Spirit.

7:32 Probably temple police officers or guards. Rome did authorize the Sanhedrin to have a company of guards with powers of arrest.
7:38 Or, some other interpreters would punctuate this as follows: "If anyone is thirsty, he should come to me and drink. The person who believes on me, as the scripture has said, 'streams of living water will flow from his belly.'" They interpret this as saying that the streams of living water will flow from the believer's belly (popularized by Watchman Nee.)
Whereas the way I have it worded, the water flows from Christ, and the believer drinks of Him, the Living Water, (Jeremiah 17:13) the Rock in the desert, which Moses struck, Exodus 17:6, Numbers 20:8, Psalm 78:15,16. See also Isaiah 12:3; Zechariah 14:8; Joel 3:18; Psalm 147:18; Isaiah 48:21; Isaiah 30:25; 32:2; John 15:26; Revelation 22:1. The river flows out of His core, not ours. We drink of Him; I Cor. 10:4, "they all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual rock that followed them, and that rock was Christ."
The gospel of John contains several allusions to Exodus, such as the Passover lamb, the manna from heaven, the snake up on the pole, and here is another one: Moses striking the rock and water coming forth from the rock. But if you interpret this as meaning streams of living water will come out of OUR, the believers' bellies, then you must find the scripture in the Hebrew Bible which says anything even similar to this. But there is none, except perhaps Isaiah 58:11. But based on my exposure to the Bible, the word κοιλία, which is the Greek word here for "belly" or "core," also in places has the connotation of "the core of the earth," or the core of a huge rock or mountain. For example, there are scriptures that liken the belly to the heart of the earth. Matthew 12:40, "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly- κοιλίας of the huge sea creature, so the Son of Man will be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." Or Isaiah 8:19, "And if they should say to you, Seek those who have in them a divining spirit, and them that speak out of the earth, them that speak vain words, who speak out of their belly -κοιλίας; shall not a nation diligently seek to their God? Why do they seek to the dead concerning the living?" (Brenton) On the other hand, I concede that a great many of the occurrences of κοιλία in the Septuagint are about reproduction (from men also), the issue from one's body. This can be made analogous to being "Born of water" as opposed to "born of the Spirit." In other words, could Jesus be saying here in John chapter 7 that those who believe in him, will reproduce spiritually? Are we able to give the Living Water to others, and cause them to be born?
whom those believing in him were about to receive. For the Spirit was not yet present, because Jesus had not yet been glorified.

40 Some in the crowd therefore who heard these words were saying, "Surely this man is the Prophet."711

41 Others were saying, "This man is the Christ."

The former712 were then saying, "What? The Christ comes from Galilee? 42 Didn't the scripture say that the Christ comes from the seed of David and from Bethlehem, the village where David lived?" 43 A split therefore occurred in the crowd because of him. 44 And some of them wanted to arrest him, but no one laid a hand on him.

Unbelief of the Jewish Authorities

45 Then the officers went to the chief priests and Pharisees, and those said to them, "Why have you not brought him?"

46 The officers answered, "Never has someone spoken so, like this man speaks."

47 The Pharisees therefore answered them, "Have you also been deceived? 48 Has anyone of the authorities or of the Pharisees believed on him? 49 As for this crowd, cursed are they, not understanding the law."

50 Nicodemus, the one who had come to him previously, who was one of them, says to them, 51 "Our law does not judge the man unless it first hears from him, and knows what he is doing, does it?"

52 They answered and said to him, "You aren't from Galilee too, are you?

the very next verse, 7:39 John says, "Now this he said in reference to the Spirit, whom those believing in him were about to receive." So how would the Holy Spirit flow out of our bellies? How would that be so? This would be a teaching not found anywhere else in the Bible. We can give others the Bread, the Word, but I have not seen any scripture that says we can give others the Living Water of Life. The emphasis of this passage in John seems to be the quenching of OUR thirst, by receiving the Spirit. It is not a passage speaking of us quenching the thirst of others. Verse 38 makes sense only as following an invitation to drink from God, not a promise that others will drink from us. There is simply no contextual relevance for that idea. Jesus is the rock, and our wellspring. He is the Living Water, as he said to the Samaritan woman at the well. The BDF grammar discusses this passage in §466(4) under Anacolouthon, "The resumption of a suspended case by a pronoun in another case (the suspended subject [or object] is a construction belonging to the popular idiom.)" Then the section specifically about this passage, section (4), states, "Anacolouthon (without a relative clause) following an introductory participle (nearly always in the nominative) is common: Jn 7:38. This construction is Semitic, but a comparable usage is found in classical Greek; cf. K.-G. ii 106ff.; Mlt. 225 [356].– Mayser ii 3, 189ff.; Ursing 65ff.; M.-H. 423ff.; Rob. 435-7."

711 7:40 Deuteronomy 18:14-20
712 7:41 of δὲ; the δὲ supposedly complementary to an earlier "ghost" μὲν at the beginning of verse 40. Verse 40 starts out Ἐκ τοῦ ὀχλου, "of the crowd," with no μὲν present and the subject only implied. Granted it is a typical situation for a μὲν / δὲ combination. But the fact remains that there is no μὲν there, so an anaphoric use of the article here is at least as likely, in my truly humble opinion.
Investigate and see, that no prophet arises out of Galilee." ⁷¹³

The Woman Caught in Adultery

⁵³And each went to his home.⁷¹⁴

Chapter 8

¹But Jesus went to the Mount of Olives. ²And at dawn he showed up in the temple again, and all the people were coming toward him. And having sat down he was teaching them. ³And the Torah scholars and the Pharisees are bringing toward him a woman caught in adultery. And after they stood her in the midst, ⁴they say to him, "Teacher, this woman was caught in the act of adultery. ⁵In the Law, Moses charged us to stone such women. What then do you say?" ⁶But this they were saying tempting him, in order that they might obtain basis to accuse him.

But Jesus bent down and was writing in the dirt with his finger, not

The reading of ⁶⁶ and the Sahidic Coptic, and possibly also ⁷⁵, is, "the Prophet does not arise out of Galilee." Papyrus 66 is our earliest or second earliest of all the Greek manuscripts of the gospels. The other manuscripts do not have the article, "the." And the Majority Text says, no prophet "has arisen." A prophet had in fact come out of Galilee before. According to II Kings 14:25, the prophet Jonah was from Gath Hepher, in Galilee, in the territory of the tribe of Zebulun (Joshua 19:13), only one hill over from Nazareth, if not the same hill. This is yet another way in which Jonah was a sign of Christ.

⁷¹⁸ ⁸:⁶α Rabbi Zev Porat points out that Jesus had just declared himself the fountain of living pretending. 7 And after they kept on questioning him, he straightened up and said to them, "The one among you who is sinless should be first to throw a stone at her." 8 And after bending down again, he continued writing in the dirt.

9 And after they heard this, they went away, one by one, starting with the oldest, until he alone was left, and the woman still in the midst.

10 And Jesus straightened up, and said to her, "Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?"

11 And she said, "No one, sir."

And Jesus said, "Neither am I condemning you. Go, and sin no more."

The Validity of Jesus’ Testimony

12 Jesus then spoke to them again, saying, "I am the light of the world. The person who follows me will not walk around in the darkness, but on the contrary, he will have for himself the light of life."

13 The Pharisees therefore said to him, "You are testifying about yourself. Your testimony is not valid."

14 Jesus answered and said to them, "Even if I testify about myself, my testimony is valid, because I know where I came from, and where I am going. But you do not know where I am coming from, or where I am going. 15 You judge by the flesh; I judge no one. 16 But even if I judge, my judgment is valid, because I am not alone: it is I and the one who sent me. 17 Now even in your law it is written, that the testimony of two persons is valid. 18 I am one testifying about myself, and the one who sent me is testifying about me, the Father."

19 Then they were saying to him, "Where is your father?"

Jesus answered, "Neither me nor my father do you know. If you knew me, you would know my father also."

20 These statements he spoke in the waters, in Jn 7:38, and now that the Jewish leaders had turned away from that fountain, Jeremiah 17:13 was being fulfilled in two ways: they were put to shame, and their names were being written in the dirt. "Thou hope of Israel, Yahweh! All that forsake Thee shall be ashamed; they that turn away from Thee shall be written in the dirt, because they have forsaken Yahweh, the fountain of living waters."

21 Continuing, he said to them, "I am going; and you will seek me, and you will die in your sins. Where I am going, you are not able to come."

22 So the Jews were saying, "Is he going to kill himself, that he says, 'Where I am going, you are not able to come'?"

23 And he said to them, "You are from below, I am from above; you are of this world, I am not of this world. 24 I said to you that you will die in your sins. For if you do not believe that I am who I am, you will die in your sins."

25 Therefore they were saying to him, "Who are you?"

Jesus said to them, "Why am I even speaking to you at all? 26 I have many things to say about you, and to judge. But the one who sent me is true, and I, what things I hear from him, those are the things I speak in the world."

27 They did not understand that he was speaking to them of the Father.

28 Then Jesus said, "When you lift up the Son of Man, then you will find out that I am he, and of myself I do nothing, but rather exactly as the Father has taught me, those things I speak. 29 And the one who sent me is..." continually with me. He has not left me alone, because I always do the things pleasing to him." 30 As he was speaking these things, many believed in him.

The Children of Abraham

31 Jesus was therefore saying to the ones who had believed in him, "If you continue in my word, you are true disciples of mine, 32 and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free."

33 They responded to him, "We are seed of Abraham, and to no one have we ever been enslaved. How do you mean, that we will become free?"

34 Jesus answered them, "Truly, truly I say to you, everyone doing sin is a slave of sin. 35 And the slave does not abide in the house in perpetuity; the Son abides in perpetuity. 36 If therefore the Son should make you free, you will be free indeed. 37 I know that you are seed of Abraham; yet you are trying to kill me, because my word has no room in you. 38 The things that I have seen with the Father, I speak, and you then the things you have heard from your father, you are doing."

39 They answered and said to him, "Our father is Abraham."

Jesus says to them, "If you were children of Abraham, you would be doing the works of Abraham. 40 But as it is, you are trying to kill me, someone who has spoken to you the truth he has heard from God. This, Abraham did not do. 41 You are doing the works of your father."

They said to him, "We were not conceived in fornication. 723 We have one father: God."
The Children of the Devil

42Jesus said to them, "If God were your father, you would love me, for I went out from God and have arrived here. For neither did I come of myself, but that One sent me. 43What is the reason you do not understand my speech? Because you are not able to tolerate my word. 44You are of your father, the Devil, and the yearnings of your father you want to do. That one has been homicidal from the beginning, and in the truth he has never stood still, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he is speaking from his own things, for he is a liar, and the father of the lie. 45So I, because I am saying the truth, you do not believe me. 46Who of you is convicting me of a sin? If I am saying the truth, why is it you do not believe me? 47The ones who are of the Father hear the statements of the Father. This is why you do not hear; you are not of God."

The Authorities Attempt Stoning for Claim of Pre-Eminence of Abraham

are a Samaritan, and have a demon?"

49Jesus answered, "I do not have a demon. Quite the opposite, I am honoring my Father. And you are dishonoring me. 50It is not me seeking my glory. There is One seeking, and judging. 51Truly, truly I say to you, If someone follows my word, death he will by no means see, into all time."

52The Jews said to him, "Now we know that you have a demon. Abraham died, and also the Prophets, and you say, 'If someone follows my word, death he will by no means experience, into all time.' 53Are you greater than our forefather Abraham, who died? And the Prophets also died. What sort of man do you reckon yourself?"

54Jesus answered, "If I glorify myself, that glory of mine is worthless. My Father is the one glorifying me, the one that you say is your God. 55And you have never known him, but I know him. Now if I were to say that I do not know him, I would be a liar like you. But I do know him, and his word I am following. 56Abraham, your forefather, made exultation yearning to see my day. And he saw it, and was thrilled."

57The Jews therefore said to him, "You are not yet fifty, and you have beheld Abraham?"

58Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, before Abraham was, I am."

Then they picked up stones to throw at him. But Jesus hid himself, and went forth from the temple.
Chapter 9

Jesus Heals a Man Born Blind

1And as he was going along, he saw a man blind from birth. 2And his disciples queried him, saying, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he would be born blind?" 3Jesus answered, "Neither that this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God might be displayed in him. 4We must be working at the works of him who sent me, while it is day. Night is coming, when no one can work. 5As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world."

6When he had said these things, he spit on the ground, and made mud with the saliva, and rubbed the mud on the man's eyes. 7And he said to him, "Go, wash in the pool of 'Siloam' " (which when translated is "Sent"). He went therefore and washed, and came back seeing.

8His neighbors therefore, and those who had previously observed him being a beggar, were saying, "Isn't this the man usually sitting and begging?"

9Some were saying, "This is the same man."

Others were saying, "No; he only looks like him."

He himself kept saying, "I am the one."

10They were saying therefore to him, "How were your eyes opened?"

11He answered, "The man named Jesus made mud and rubbed my eyes with it, and he told me, 'Go to Siloam and wash.' So when I went and washed, I saw again."

12And they said to him, "Where is that man?"

He says, "I don't know."

The Authorities Investigate the Healing

13And they take him to the Pharisees, the man who had once been blind.

14And the day on which Jesus had made mud and opened his eyes had been a Sabbath. 15So again, the Pharisees also asked him how he came to see.

And he told them, "He put mud on my eyes, and I washed, and now I see."

16 Some of the Pharisees therefore were saying, "This man is not from God, because he does not keep the Sabbath."

But others were saying, "How can a sinful man do such miracles?" So there was a split among them.

17 Then they are talking to the blind man again: "What do you say about him? For it was your eyes he opened."

And he said, "He is a prophet."

18 The result was the Jews did not believe about him that he used to be blind and then saw; until they summoned the parents of the one who had received his sight. 19 And they questioned them, saying, "Is this your son, the one you say was born blind? And if so, how does he now see?"

20 His parents therefore answered and said, "We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind. But how he now sees, we do not know. Or who opened his eyes, we do not know. Ask him; he has majority. He will speak for himself." 21 His parents said these things because they were fearing the Jews. For the Jews had already decided that anyone who acknowledged Him to be the Christ would be put out of the synagogue.

23 This is why his parents said, "He has majority; ask him."

24 Then the man who had been blind they summoned a second time. And they said to him, "Give credit to God. We know that this man is sinful." 25 He then answered, "Whether he is sinful, I do not know. One thing I know: Whereas I used to be blind, now I see."

26 They said therefore to him, "What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?"

27 He answered them, "I told you already, and you didn't listen. Why do..." you want to hear it again? Do you want to become his disciples too?”

28 And they ridiculed him and said, “You are the disciple of that one. We are disciples of Moses. 29 We know for sure that God has spoken to Moses; but this fellow, we don't know where he comes from.”

30 The man answered and said to them, “Well, there certainly is something strange in this, that you don’t know where he comes from, and he opened my eyes. 31 We know that God does not hear the sinful. But if someone is God-fearing, and practicing his will, this kind he hears. 32 Since time began, reports have not been heard that someone opened the eyes of one born blind. 33 If this man were not from God, he would not have been able to do anything.”

34 They answered and said to him, “You were born totally in sin, and you are teaching us?” Then they threw him out.

Spiritual Blindness

35 Jesus heard that they had thrown him out, and finding him, he said, “Do you believe in the Son of Man?”

36 That one answered and said, “And who is he, sir, so that I may believe in him.”

37 Jesus said to him, “Not only have you seen him, but he is the one talking with you.”

9:30 The reason it is strange, is because the Pharisees and the Traditions of the Elders taught that there were 3 miracles that would prove that someone was the Messiah if one performed them: 1, heal a leper; 2, heal a mute person; 3, heal a person who had been born blind. In other words, they knew perfectly well, or should have known, that this man performing this, had come from God as the Messiah. They also knew Daniel’s precise timetable for the Messiah’s arrival. Here they had a man born in the right town, Bethlehem, arriving at the right time, AND performing miracles that only the Messiah could perform. So for them to say, “We don’t know where he comes from,” would be strange at best, but a lie in reality. They did know.

And he said, "I believe, Lord." And he worshipped him.

And Jesus said, "For judgment I have come into this world, so that those not seeing may see, and that those seeing, may become blind."

Some of the Pharisees heard these words, some who were with him, and they said to him, "And us, we are not blind, are we?"

Jesus said to them, "If you were blind, you would have no sins. But as you are now saying, 'We see,' your sins remain.

Chapter 10
The Good Shepherd

"Truly, truly I say to you, someone not entering the sheep fold through the door, but instead climbing up another way, that one is a thief and a bandit. But the one entering through the door, is the shepherd of the sheep. The doorkeeper opens for this one, and the sheep hear his voice. And he calls his own sheep by name, and leads them forth. When he has brought out all his own, he goes on before them, and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice. But a stranger they will not follow, but will flee from him, because they do not know the voice of strangers."

This parable Jesus told them, but they did not understand what the principles were that he was speaking to them.

Again therefore Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. All who came before me are thieves and bandits; but the sheep did not hear them. I am the door. If anyone enters through me, he will be saved, and will go in and go out, and find pasture. The thief does not come, except to steal, and to kill, and to ruin. I have come so they might have life, and have it more.
11"I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep. 12The wage earner, not being a shepherd, and for whom the sheep are not his own, sees the wolf coming and abandons the sheep and flees, and the wolf seizes them and scatters them. 13For he is a wage earner, and it matters not to him about the sheep.

14"I am the good shepherd, and I know mine, and mine know me. 15Just as the Father knows me, and I know the Father. And I lay down my life for the sheep. 16Other sheep I also have, which are not of this fold; those also I am to bring, and my voice they will hear, and the result will be one flock, one shepherd. 17For this my Father loves me, that I lay down my life, such that I will take it up again. 18No one takes it from me; I lay it down of my own free will. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again; this order I received from my Father."

19Because of these words, there was again a split among the Jews. 20Many of them were saying, "He has a demon, and he's crazy. Why are you listening to him?"

21Others were saying, "These are not the expressions of someone demonized. Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?"

The Authorities Attempt Stoning for Claim of Equality With God

22Then came the Festival of Dedication at Jerusalem. It was winter, 23and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the Portico of Solomon. 24Then the Jews surrounded him, and were saying to him, "How long are you keeping our souls in suspense? If you are the Christ, tell us clearly."

25Jesus answered them, "I told you, and you do not believe. The works that I am doing in the name of my Father, these testify for me. 26Yet, you are not believing, because you are not of my sheep. 27My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me. 28And I give to them eternal life, and they will by no means perish, into all time, and no one will snatch them out my hand. 29My Father, the one who gave them to me, he is greater than all, and no one is able to snatch them out of the Father's hand. 30I and the Father are one."

31Again, the Jews lifted up stones in order to stone him. 32Jesus responded to them, "Many good works I have shown you from the Father. For which work of them are you stoning me?"

33The Jews answered him, "Not for good works are we stoning you, but for blasphemy, because you, being a human, are making yourself God." 34

35Jesus answered them, "Is it not written in your law, 'I have said, "You are gods"'? 36Why, since he called those to whom the word of God came 'gods,' and the scripture cannot be voided, do you say to the one the Father has consecrated and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because he said, 'I am the Son of God'? 37If I am not doing the works of my Father, do not believe me. 38And if I am doing them, even if you do not believe me, believe the works, so that you may acknowledge and know that the Father is in me, and I in the Father.” 39 And again they were trying to arrest him. And he got out of their grasp.

40 And he went back to the other side of the Jordan, to the place where John had earlier been baptizing, and he stayed there a while. 41 And many came to him. And they were saying, “Though John performed no miraculous sign, everything John said about this man was true.” 42 And many there believed in him.

Chapter 11

The Death of Lazarus

1 Now a certain man was ailing, Lazarus from Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha. 2 And the Mary who anointed the Lord with perfumed ointment and wiped his feet off with her hair, was the one whose brother was ailing. 3 The sisters therefore sent to him, saying, “Lord, behold, the one you love is ailing.”

4 And when he heard, Jesus said, “This sickness is not to death, but rather for the glory of God, in order that the Son of God be glorified through it.” 5 (But Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.) 6 When then he heard that he was ailing, at that time he actually remained in the place in which he was, for two days. 7 Only then, after this, he says to the disciples, “Let us go back to Judea.”

8 The disciples are saying to him, “The Jews were just now trying to stone you, and you are going back there?"

Jesus answered, "Are there not twelve hours of day? If someone walks around in the day, he does not stumble, because he sees the light of this world. But if someone walks around in the night, he stumbles, because the light is not with him."

He said these things. And after this, he is saying to them, "Our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep, but I am going in order to wake him up."

The disciples therefore said to him, "Lord, if he has fallen asleep, that will help him." But Jesus had spoken of his death, whereas they thought he was speaking of the repose of sleep.

So then, Jesus said to them plainly, "Lazarus died. And for your sakes I am glad I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him."

Then Thomas, the one called the Twin, said to the rest of the disciples, "Let us go also, and die with him."

"I Am the Resurrection and the Life"

Arriving therefore, Jesus found him already in the tomb four days since. Now Bethany was close to Jerusalem, about fifteen stadia apart.

and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary, to console them regarding their brother. When therefore Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went to meet him; but Mary stayed put in the house.

Martha therefore said to Jesus, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. Even now, I know that whatever things you ask God for, God will grant you."

Jesus says to her, "Your brother will rise again."

Martha says to him, "I know that he will rise again in the resurrection at the last day."

Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection, and the life. The person who believes in me, even though he dies, will live; and everyone who is living and believes in me, will never die. Do you believe this?"

She says to him, "Yes, Lord. I have come to believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, the one expected to come into the world."

749 11:18 About 3 kilometers, less than 2 miles.
750 11:20 The Greek literally says, "But Mary was in the house sitting down." This is said to be an idiom, meaning "Mary stayed put in the house." If this is true, then whether she was standing, or pacing, or sitting down, is not the issue. This is similar to how the word for "stand" sometimes means to "stop," or "stay still."
And having said this she went off, and discreetly invited her sister Mary, as follows, "The Teacher is here, and is asking for you." That one then, when she heard, quickly got up and was coming toward him. (Jesus had not yet come into the village, but was still at the place where Martha had met him.) The Jews therefore who were with Mary in the house and consoling her, when they saw how she quickly got up and went out, they followed her, thinking, "She is going to the tomb, to grieve there."

Mary therefore, when she arrived where Jesus was, fell at his feet when she saw him, saying to him, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died."

Then Jesus, when he saw her weeping, and the Jews who had come with her weeping, he heaved with deep emotion, and churned inside himself.

And he said, "Where have you laid him?"

They are saying to him, "Lord, come and see."

Jesus showed tears.

The Jews therefore were saying, "See how he loved him."

But some of them said, "Shouldn't he who opened the eyes of the blind man, also have been able to make it so this man would not have died?"

Jesus Raises Lazarus from the Dead

Then Jesus, again heaving inside himself, arrives at the tomb. And a cave it was, and a stone was there, covering over it. Jesus says, "Take away the stone."

Martha, the sister of the one who was dead, says, "Lord, by now he 11:33 Greek: ἐνεβριμήσατο τῷ πνεύματι - "snorted in his spirit." The verb is ἐμβριμάομαι - embrimáomai, of which there is a relatively small sampling in all of Greek literature. In classical literature it was used a few times for the snorting of horses. Bible occurrences are limited to Daniel 11:30 in some editions of the Septuagint, for "angered;" Matt. 9:30 and Mark 1:43 for "sternly admonish;" and Mark 14:5 for "scold;" and other than those, these two instances here in John 11:33, 38. I can well envision how a scolding or stern warning can be a snorting of sorts. But how do you snort or scold in your spirit? The main lexicons like Lidell & Scott; and Bauer; and the back of the UBS Greek text, say here it means "be deeply moved." Bagster/Moulton says "to be greatly fretted or agitated." As for snorting, humans are known to snort when heaving in crying and at the same time trying to suppress the sobs. Snorts happen. It is significant to me that for the crying that Jesus did in v. 35, John used the verb δακρύω - dakrúō, instead of one of the more usual words for weeping or crying. With δακρύω there is more emphasis on the secretion or exuding of fluid, than on the sound or other considerations like with the other verbs. I get the impression that Jesus was holding his strong emotions in. I notice that Weymouth also, in his translation, rendered this, "curbing the strong emotion of His spirit." Certainly, the simple fact that John twice says the emotion was inside, "in his spirit," and "inside himself," gives this credibility. There is somewhat of a trend in the most recent translations to render this something more pertaining to anger. I do not agree with that. Still, my rendering, "heaved with deep emotion" leaves room for that possibility. smells; it is the fourth day.”

40Jesus says to her, "Did I not tell you, that if you believed, you would see the glory of God?"

41They therefore took away the stone. 752 And Jesus lifted his eyes aboveward, and said, 'Father, I thank you, that you have heard me. 42But I already753 knew that you always hear me. Only for the sake of the crowd standing around did I say this, so that they may believe that it was you who sent me."

43And having said these things, he shouted out with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come out!" 44The dead man came out, his feet and hands bound up with bandages, and his face wrapped in a handkerchief.

Jesus says to them, "Untangle him and allow him to go."

Sanhedrin Decides Jesus Must Die

45Many of the Jews therefore, of those who had come to Mary and seen what he did, believed in him. 46But some of them went to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done. 47So the chief priests and the Pharisees assembled a Sanhedrin.

And they were saying, "What are we doing, that this man is performing so many signs? 48If we leave him alone like this, everyone will believe in him, and the Romans will come, and take away both our place754 and our nation."

49But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, said to them, "You people know nothing. 50Neither are you considering how it is expedient for you that one man755 die for the people, and not the whole..."
nation perish.”

51 But this, from himself he did not say. But rather, being high priest that year, he prophesied, that Jesus was about to die for the nation. 52 And not for the nation only, but such that the children of God scattered about, he would gather also, into one people.757

53 Thus from that time on they were resolved that they would kill him.

54 Therefore, Jesus no longer walked openly among the Jews, but departed from there to an area next to the desert, to a town called Ephraim, and there he stayed, along with his disciples.758

55 But then the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went up to Jerusalem from out of the country before the Passover, to purify themselves.

They were watching for Jesus therefore, and speaking with one another, as they stood in the temple, "How does it seem to you? That he is not coming to the festival at all?" 57 Now the chief priests and the Pharisees had given orders, that if anyone knew where he was, he should report it, so that they might arrest him.

Chapter 12

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

1 Then, six days before the Passover, Jesus came to Bethany, where Lazarus759 was, whom Jesus760 had raised from the dead. 2 So they made a supper for him there, and Martha was serving, and Lazarus was one of those reclining with him. 3 Then Mary, having taken a litre761 of expensive ointment of pure oil of nardroot, anointed the feet of Jesus, and with her of the whole nation." Yet, the goat which was to be sacrificed on behalf of the whole people, to make atonement for the whole nation, to which John is connecting this passage, was to be a goat male of sex, Leviticus 16:5-10, as was also the scapegoat, and the sin offering was a ram, a male sheep. See also Leviticus 9:3, 15. The Passover lamb or kid, also, was to be male in sex, Exodus 12:5. Therefore, it did not seem appropriate to change the traditional reading over to a gender neutral one.

hair, she wiped his feet. And the house was filled with the smell of the ointment.

But Judas the Keriothite, one of his disciples, the one about to betray him, says, "Why was this ointment not sold for three hundred denarii and given to the poor?" But he said this not because it mattered to him about the poor, but because he was a thief, and having charge of the moneybag, he would steal from what was put in.

Jesus said therefore, "Leave her alone. It was that she kept it for the day of my burial. The poor you always have with you, but me, you do not have always.

Some interpreters say there are two narrative uncertainties here: (1) as to whether Mary poured out the entire bottle on Jesus at this time and place; (2) as to which Mary this was and was she at the tomb. The Luke story seems to indicate Mary of Magdala, the prostitute, but here in John it seems to be Mary of Bethany, the sister of Martha and Lazarus, assuming those are two different people. Was this Mary sister of Lazarus at the burial preparation later? But I do not think the latter question matters, since the Mark account explains that. In Mark 14:8 it says προέλαβεν μυρίσαι τὸ σῶμά μου εἰς τὸ ἐνταφιασμόν, she was early to prepare me for burial, or she did it ahead of time. So, this Mary did not have to be in the group on the day Jesus died. Furthermore, other gospel accounts, though they name a few of the women that wanted to anoint Jesus' body, they state that there were other unnamed women with those as well. Mt 27:55: "Many women..., among whom were..." Lk 23:55 just says "women." (Lk 24:1, the same group of women previously talked about, also later came to the tomb intending to anoint.) So, Mary of Bethany could have been one of those women. But ultimately, it was only Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus who ever actually anointed Jesus' body with anything. As for the first question, did the woman pour out the whole bottle at the banquet, I don't see that as being solved with either reading. In the BYZ, Jesus could be understood as saying, "Leave her alone. She has kept it (the remainder) for the day of my burial." So, either reading could be interpreted that she still has some left for the day of his burial. Another thing to consider is that the word ἐνταφιασμός can also mean "preparation" for burial. Therefore this event could have been this Mary's idiosyncratic way of ceremonially preparing Jesus' for burial. In fact, that is what the gospel of Mark says, she did it ahead of time. The NA28 reading is perceived as the more difficult reading. Two conjectural emendations have been suggested: P. Schmiedel: ἵνα...τηρησῃ, "so that she may prepare me for the day of my burial." And W. Kühne, ἵνα τι...τηρησῃ, "Why should she keep it for the day of my burial?" Note that a recent Bible translation, the Holman Christian Standard Bible, went with the Byzantine reading here, perhaps because they perceived the NA28 reading too difficult? The NRSV adds words as follows: "She bought it so that she might keep it for the day of my burial." This interprets the ἱνα as relating to her purchase, rather than the reason she should be left alone now by the disciples. The NIV says, "It was intended that she should save this perfume for the day of my burial," with 'It was intended' in lower brackets. Weymouth: "allow her to have kept it for the time of my preparation for burial." But I think that more difficulty was perceived in the NA28 reading than is really there, and that the NA28 reading says that this Mary, whoever she was, intended to use the rest of the nardroot on Jesus on the day of his actual burial (though she never got a chance to do so). This still does not contradict Mark, since here she still poured out some of it ahead of time. Judas' objection to her use of it cannot be trusted as a valid indicator of whether she poured all of it out at this time, since he was insincere and incorrect. Both of the two main readings can be interpreted as Mary saving part of the nard for the future day of burial. But the NA28 reading is perceived as too difficult, because Jesus, being the all-knowing son of God, would not have said let her save it for my burial, when in fact only the two men will ever anoint his body. For this reason it seems more likely that the BYZ reading is an amelioration of the difficulty. The reading of Family 13 with ὅτι instead of ἵνα is a clue as well.

9 Then the great crowd of the Jews found out that he was there, and they came, not only because of Jesus, but also that they might see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. 10 So the chief priests resolved that they would kill Lazarus also, 11 for many of the Jews were going out because of him, and then believing in Jesus.

The Triumphal Entry

12 The next day, the great crowd that had come for the festival, hearing that Jesus is arriving into Jerusalem, 13 took the fronds of palm trees, and went out into a merging with him. And they were crying out:

"Hosha na!" 765
"Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, the king of Israel!"

14 And Jesus, having found a young donkey, took his seat upon it, just as it is written:

15 "Fear not, O daughter of Zion;
Behold, your king is coming sitting on the foal of a donkey." 767

16 These things his disciples did not know at first, but once Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things had been written in reference to him, and that these things they had done to him.

17 The crowd therefore, the one that had been with him when he called Lazarus from the tomb and raised him from the dead, had been bearing... witness. 18Because of this the crowd had come out to join him, that they had understood him to have done this sign. 19Then the Pharisees said to each other, "Observe, that you are not prevailing at all. Behold, the world has gone after him!"

Jesus Ponders Crucifixion

20And among those going up to worship at the festival, were some Greeks. 21These, then, came up to Philip, he from Bethsaida, Galilee. And they beseeched him, saying, "Sir, we wish to see Jesus." 22Philip comes and tells Andrew; Andrew and Philip come and tell Jesus.

And Jesus responds to them as follows: "The hour has come, that the Son of Man should be glorified. 24Truly, truly I say to you, if a kernel of wheat does not fall to the ground and die, it remains only one; but if it dies, it bears much fruit. 25The person who loves his life loses it, and the one who hates his life in this world will preserve it into eternal life. 26If someone is serving me, he must follow me; and where I am, there also my servant will be. If someone is serving me, my Father will honor him.

27"Now, my soul has become troubled. And what shall I say–'Father, save me from this hour?' No, for this very thing I have arrived to this hour."

28"Father, glorify your name." Then a voice came from heaven: "I both have glorified it, and will glorify again."

The crowd therefore standing and hearing was maintaining thunder to have happened. Others were saying, "An angel spoke to him."

30Jesus answered and said, "Not for my sake has this voice happened, but for you. 31Now comes judgment of this world. Now the ruler of this world will be thrown out. 32And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will attract all mankind to me." 33Now this he was saying signaling what manner of death he was about to die.

34The crowd then responded to him: "We have heard out of the law that the Christ remains for ever, so how is it you are saying that the Son of Man is to be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?"

35Jesus therefore said to them, "The light is among you a little while 2:18 txt υπηντησαν αυτω και ο οχλος πολυς ¹ {/} και υπηντησαν αυτω οχλοι D {/} lac Π C N P 047 070 0233 it cop bo‖ υπηντησεν αυτω οχλος B ‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω ο υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις πολυς Χ‖ και υπηντησαν αυτω o συν λοις ¹/\\ ‖ lac Π ¹/\\ C N P 047 070 0233 it cop bo‖ υπηντησεν αυτω ο υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω και ο συν λοις B †‖ και υπηντησεν αυτω αυτω o συν λοις B*" with you" A E syr p cp bo TR RP ‖ lac Π ¹/\\ C N P 047 070 0233

Jesus spoke these things, then went away and was hidden from them.

The Authorities Continue in Unbelief

37But, though having done so many signs right in front of them, they were not believing in him, 38so that the word of Isaiah the prophet would be fulfilled, which said,

"Lord, who has believed our report?
And the arm of the Lord,
to whom has it been revealed?"

39Because of this they were not able to believe: that again, Isaiah said, 40"He has blinded their eyes, and he has hardened their hearts, so that they would neither see with their eyes, nor understand with their hearts,

nor look back around,
such that I would heal them."

41(Isaiah said these things, because he saw Jesus’ glory, so he spoke about him.)

42Even so, many even of the rulers believed in him. But, because of the Pharisees, they were not confessing it, for fear they would be put out of the synagogue.

\textbf{Chapter 13}

\textit{The Passover Supper}

1 And before the Festival of Passover, Jesus, aware that the hour had come for him to pass on from this world to the Father, \textit{and} having loved those of his own in the world, loved them to the end. 2 And supper having started,\footnote{13:2 } with the devil having already put it in the heart of Judas son of Simon of Kerioth to betray him, \textit{and} aware that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was going, \textit{and} I, Jesus, having come forth from God and to God he was going, \textit{and} Jesus rises from the supper and lays down his clothing, and taking a towel, he fastened it around himself. Then, he is putting water into a basin. And he began to wash the feet of the disciples, and to wipe them off with the towel in which he was girded.

6Thus he comes to Simon Peter. Who says to him, "Lord, You are washing my feet?"

7Jesus answered, and said to him, "What I am doing, you do not know yet, but after these things, you will know."

8Peter says to him, "No way will you ever wash my feet."

Jesus answered him, "Unless I wash you, you have no place with me."

9Simon Peter says to him, "Lord. Not just my feet, but my hands and my head as well."

10Jesus says to him, "One who is bathed has no need, except for the feet, to wash, but is clean on the whole. And you men are clean; though not all of you."

11For he already knew of the one betraying him; for this reason he said, "Not all of you are clean."

12When therefore he had washed their feet and taken his clothes and reclined again, he said to them, "Do you know what I have done for you? You call me 'Teacher' and 'Lord,' and rightly you say so, for I am. 13If therefore I, the Lord and the Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash the feet of one another. 14For I have given an example for you, so that just as I have done, you also might do. 15Truly, truly I say to you: A servant is not greater than his lord, neither an emissary greater than the one who sent him. 16Since these things you are knowing, blessed are you if you do them.

18I am not speaking about all of you; I know whom I have chosen; but, so that the scripture is fulfilled, 'Someone eating my bread has lifted up his heel against me.' 776

776 13:18 Psalm 41:9
777 13:19a Greek: ἀπαρτί - aparti. Most Greek NT editions (TR HF RP NA27) have ἀπ᾽ ἄρτι - ap' árti, which if it were two separate words, would mean, "from now." (The original Greek manuscripts were all-capital letters, and there were no punctuation marks or spaces, so APARTI could be understood as either one word APARTI, or AP' ARTI, a contraction for APO ARTI.) If however as DeBrunner says, it was originally one word, "ἀπαρτί," before the diacritics and spaces were added, then it could mean something similar to "amen." Or, it could also mean adverbially, "exactly," as in "I am telling you exactly before it happens, so that..." As for the rendering, "from now on," this would seem a strange juncture at which to say that, since Judas was only a few hours away from doing it. How many times "from now on" in the next hour or so was he going to predict it? The awkwardness of this "from now on" idea is reflected by the various translations' attempts to get around it. Some (Weymouth, JB Philips, CB Williams, Beck) got around the problem of predicting the one event "from now on," by pluralizing and generalizing it, i.e., "from now on I will tell you things ahead of time, so that when they happen..." Others (KJV, NKJV, Darby, RSV, ESV, JB, happens, you may believe who I am. 20 Truly, truly I say to you, The person who accepts whomever I send, is accepting me; and the person who accepts me, is accepting the One who sent me.”

21 When he had said these things, Jesus was disturbed in his spirit, and he testified, and he said, "Truly, truly I say to you: One of you will betray me.”

22 The disciples were looking at one another, puzzling over about whom he was speaking. 23 One of his disciples was reclining in the bosom of Jesus, the one Jesus loved. 24 Simon Peter therefore nods to this one to inquire of Jesus about whom he was speaking. 25 That one therefore simply leaned back onto the chest of Jesus and says to him, "Lord, who is it?"

26 Jesus replied, "It is that one for whom I shall dip and give the piece of bread.” After dipping the piece of bread therefore, he takes it and gives it to Judas, the son of Simon of Kerioth.

27 And after the bread transaction, at that time Satan entered into that one. Then Jesus says to him, "What you are doing, do quickly."

28 But none of those reclining knew why he said this to him. 29 For some thought that since Judas was in charge of the money bag, Jesus was telling him, "Buy things we need for the festival,” or, that he should give something to the poor. 30 When therefore that one had taken the piece of bread, he immediately went out. And it was night.

NIV, NLT, JNT, REB, NRSV) coped with it by dropping out the "from" of ἀπό altogether. These rendered it something like, "I am telling you now before it happens..." And thirdly, there are the translations (Young’s, ASV, Recovery, NASB, NAB) that left it, "from now on," and also singular as the Greek says, awkward as it may be. See also Rev. 14:13, where DeBrunner says it was originally one word, ἀπαρτὶ, and it would make sense that ναί (yes) was added by later copyists as a replacement for the same idea.

Chapter 14

1 "Do not let your hearts be troubled. Trust in God. Trust also in me. In my Father's house there are many abodes. Otherwise, would I have told you that I am going to prepare a place for you? And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you in with myself, so that where I am, there you may be also. And where I am going, you know the way."

5 Thomas says to him, "Lord, we don't know where you are going—how is it we know the way?"

6 Jesus says to him, "I am the way, and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me. If you have come to know me, you will come to know my Father as well; indeed, from now on you know him, and have seen him.’”

8Philip says to him, “Lord, show us the Father, and that will satisfy us.”

9Jesus says to him, “All this time I have been with you, and you have not come to know me, Philip? The person who has seen me has seen the Father; how is it you say, ‘Show us the Father’? 10Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The statements which I say to you I do not speak from myself, but the Father abiding in me is doing his works.11Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me. But if not, believe because of those works. 12The person who believes in me, truly, truly I say to you, the works that I do, that one also shall do, and even greater than these shall do, because I am going to the Father. 13Indeed, whatever you shall request in my name, this I will do, so that the Father may be glorified in the Son. 14If you ask me788 for something in my name, I will do it.

Jesus Promises the Holy Spirit

15“If you love me, you will keep789 my commandments. 16And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Counselor, that he may be ever with you, 17the Spirit of truth, which the world is unable to receive, because it neither perceives him nor knows him. You know him, because he abides among you, and will be790 in you. 18I will not leave you as orphans; I am coming to you. 19Just a little while longer and the world will be seeing me no more; but you will be seeing me. Because I will be living, you also will live. 20In that day you will know, that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. 21The person who has my commandments and also keeps them, that is the one who loves me. And the one who loves me, will be loved by my Father, and I also will love him, and will reveal myself to him.”

22Judas (not the Keriothite) says to him, "Lord, and on what basis is it that, to us, you intend to reveal yourself, and not to the world?"

23Jesus answered, and said to him, "If someone loves me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him; and we will come to him, and make our abode with him. 24One who does not love me will not keep my word. And the word that you are hearing is not mine, but the Father's, who sent me.

25"These things I have spoken to you while abiding with you. 26But the Counselor, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, that one will teach you all things, and remind you of all the things I have said to you.

27"Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives, do I give to you. Do not let your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28"You heard how I said to you, 'I am going away, and will be coming to you.' If you loved me, you would rejoice that I am going to the Father, for the Father is greater than I. 29And now I have told you, before it happens, so that when it happens, you will believe. 30I will not speak with you much longer, for the ruler of this world is coming. And he has no pull in me; 31but, just as the Father has commanded me, this I do, so that the world may know that I love the Father.

"Arise, let us leave here."

Chapter 15

"I Am the Vine, You Are the Branches"

1"I am the true vine, and my Father is the farmer. 2Every branch in me bearing no fruit, he removes, and every branch bearing the fruit, he cleans, so it may bear more fruit. 3You are now clean, because of the word which I have spoken to you. 4Abide in me, and I in you. Just as the branch is not able to bear fruit from itself, unless it abides in the vine, in the same way neither are you, unless you abide in me.

5"I am the vine; you are the branches. The one who abides in me and in him, this one bears much fruit, for without me you can produce nothing. 6If someone does not abide in me, he is thrown aside like the branch that291

291 15:6 Greek: καί, as substitute for ὅτι - ὅτι, "that." A colloquialism drawn from Hebrew. As for "the branch," I believe the article is anaphoric, referring back to something either previously mentioned or that is otherwise familiar to the reader, and that would be verse 2 in this chapter, the branch bearing no fruit. It is said that vine growers when they pruned is withered; and they gather such and cast them in the fire, and they are burned.

If you abide in me, and my sayings abide in you, ask792 whatever you will, and it will happen for you.

In this my Father is glorified, that you bear much fruit, and be793 my disciples.794

9 Just as the Father has loved me, I also have loved you; abide ye in my love.

If you keep my commandments, you are abiding in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and am abiding in his love.

11 These things I have spoken to you, so that my joy may be795 in you, and that your joy may be full.

12 This is my commandment: that you love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater love has no one than this: that one lay down one's life for one's friends.

14 You are my friends, if you practice the things I am commanding you.

15 No longer do I call you servants, for the servant does not know what his lord is doing. But you I have called friends, because all things that I have heard from my Father, I have made known to you.

16 You have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and appointed you, that you go and bear fruit, and that your fruit might abide, so that whatever you ask I would hang the trimmings aside and dry them, for later use as fuel in their fires. Another reference of the anaphoric article could be to the principle as in Isaiah 56:3, where the eunuch says, "I am only a dry tree." For "dry" is an antonym of "fruitful." Contrast this to Psalm 1:3, where a tree with plenty of water produces fruit in season, and its leaves do not wither. The anaphoric article could also be referring back to John 15:2, to "the unfruitful branch." (See also Psalm 80:15-16.) The dry branch became dry in the first place because it did not abide in the vine. At the same time, one could gather from this that the branch dried up after it was pruned off. The simple language of John can lead you in many directions, and this may be intentional on the part of God. Whether a branch can be "on the vine" and yet not be "abiding in the vine" is the question. This does seem to be the case here. For every branch starts out "on the vine," but Jesus says that some are cut off for the very fact that they are unfruitful. In nature, a branch can still be connected, and yet be unfruitful or wither, if something has interrupted the flow of the sap from the trunk, or if something has diseased only that branch. Now, in the phrase "they gather αὐτα," the topic is neuter plural, which can take a singular verb. I translated αὐτα as "such" because I insist the topic is still generally "the" unfruitful branch of 15:2. By the way, FYI, in the phrase, "he is thrown aside," the aorist is a "gnomic" aorist. (Normally the aorist would be rendered, "he was thrown aside.") A gnomic aorist expresses an action that is valid for all time; either because it fills the void left by the non-existent perfective present, or because the author had some real example in mind when he is telling a parable narrative. And we do have a mini parable here. (Re. gnomic aorists, see BDF §333, which specifically mentions John 15:6,8.) Cross-references for this passage: Ps. 80:15-16; Ez. 15:4-6; 19:10; Matt. 3:10.
Father in my name, it may be granted to you. These instructions I am giving you, so that you will love one another.796

For This the World Hates You

18 "If the world hates you, be assured that it hated me first, before you. 19 If you were of the world, the world would like its own; but because you are not of the world, and indeed rather I have chosen you out of the world, for this the world hates you. 20 Be mindful of the word that I said to you, 'A servant is not greater than his lord.' If they persecuted me, they will persecute you also. If they took my word to heart, they will take yours to heart also. 21 But all these things they will do against you because of my name, for they do not know the One who sent me. 22 If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin; but now, they have no excuse for their sin. 23 One who hates me also hates my Father. 24 If I had not done works among them which no one else has done, they would have no sin; but now they have both seen and hated both me and my Father. 25 But so that the word written about them in the law might be fulfilled, 'They hated me without a cause.'798

26 "When the Counselor has come, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of Truth, who flows forth from the Father, he will bear witness about me. 27 And you also will bear witness, because you have been with me from the beginning.

Chapter 16

1 "These things I have spoken to you so that you may not fall away. 2 They will cause you to be put out of the synagogue; but an hour is coming such that everyone who kills you will reckon to be offering up religious service to God. 3 And these things they will do, because they have not known the Father, neither me. 4 But these things I have spoken to you, so that when the hour of them comes, you might remember them,800 that I told 796 15:17 The subjunctive mood is so often interchangeable with the imperative and future, and the subjunctive also took the place of the optative mood. This subjunctive here could be an optative meaning, an attainable wish on Jesus’ part. It would be sad if we only got a picture of Jesus issuing commands, and miss the pathos of Jesus’ heart, that he yearns to see us loving one another.

The Holy Spirit Will Finish My Work

"And I have not told you these things from the beginning, because I was with you. But now, I am going to the one who sent me, and none of you is asking me, 'Where are you going?' Instead, because I have spoken these things to you, sorrow has filled your heart. But I am telling you the truth: it works out better for you that I go away, for if I were not to go away, the Counselor would not come to you. Whereas if I go, I will send him to you. And when he has come, that one will refute the world concerning sin, and concerning righteousness, and concerning judgment; concerning sin, because they do not believe in me; concerning righteousness, because I am going to the Father and you will be observing me no longer; and concerning judgment, because the ruler of this world has been judged.

I have many things yet to say to you, but you are not able at the present time to bear it. But when that one comes, the Spirit of truth, he will guide you in all the truth. For he will not speak from himself, but rather, whatever things he hears he will speak; and he will report to you the things that are coming. That one will glorify me, because from mine he will take, and report it to you. Everything the Father has is mine; this is how I said, 'from mine he will be taking, and report it to you.'

A little while, and you will be observing me no longer; and another little while, and you will see me."
The Disciples’ Pain Will Be Turned to Joy

Then some of his disciples said to one another, "What is this that he is saying to us, 'A little while, and you will not be observing me; and another little while, and you will see me'? And, 'because I am going to the Father'?" They kept saying therefore, "What is this 'little while'? We don't know what he is saying."

Jesus knew that they were wanting to query him, and he said to them, "Is it this you are deliberating among yourselves about, that I said, 'A little while and you will not be observing me, and another little while and you will see me'? Truly, truly I say to you, You will weep and lament, and the world will be cheered. You will be in pain. But your pain will be turned into joy. In the case of the woman about to give birth, she has pain, because for her the hour has come. But when she has delivered the child, no longer is she mindful of the distress, because of the joy that a human being is brought forth into the world. Thus you also, now you do have pain; but I will see you again, and your hearts will be cheered, and your joy, no one is taking away from you. And in that day you will not query me at all. Truly, truly I say to you: whatever you will ask the Father in my name, he will grant it to you. Up to now you have not asked anything in my name; ask, and you will receive, so that your joy may be full.

These things I have spoken to you in allegories; an hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in allegories, but I will tell you about the Father plainly. In that day you will make requests in my name, and I am not saying to you that I will make request of the Father on your behalf. For the Father himself likes you, because you have liked me, and have believed that I came forth from God. I went forth from the Father and have come into the world; I am taking leave of the world, and going my way back to the Father."

His disciples are saying, "There, now you are talking with clarity and not speaking any allegory. Now we know that you know all, and with you there is no need that someone query you. By this we believe that you have come forth from God."

31 Jesus answered them, "For now you believe. Behold, an hour is coming, and indeed has come, that you will be scattered apart, each to his own, and me you will have abandoned, alone. Yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

32 "These things I have spoken to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you do have tribulation; but be of good cheer: I have overcome the world."

Chapter 17

Jesus Prays for Himself

1 Jesus spoke these things, and when he had lifted up his eyes to heaven, he said:

"Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son, so that the Son may glorify you; inasmuch as to him you have granted jurisdiction of all flesh, so that to all flesh that you have given him, he may grant to them eternal life. And this is eternal life: to know you, the only true God, and the one whom you have sent, Jesus Christ. I have glorified you upon the earth, having finished the work which you have given me to do. And now, Father, glorify thou me, along with yourself, with the glory which I used to have along with you, before the existence of the world.

Jesus Prays for His Disciples

6 I have made known your name to the humans of the world that you have given to me. They had been yours, and you gave them to me, and they have taken your word to heart. 7 Now they are persuaded that all the things you have given to me are indeed from you; for the sayings which you gave to me I have given to them, and they accepted and knew for sure that I came forth from you, and they believed that you had sent me. I am making request concerning them; not concerning the world am I making request, but only concerning those whom you have given to me. For they are yours; indeed everything of mine is yours, and of yours is mine. And I am glorified in them; yes, no longer am I to be in the world, yet they are in the world, and I am coming to you. O holy Father, keep them in your name, that flesh you have given to me, so that they may be one, just as we are one. MWhile I was with them, I kept them in your name, that flesh you have given to me, and I stood guard, and not one of them met destruction, except the Son of Destruction, so that the scripture may be brought to completion.

But now I am coming to you, and I am speaking these things in the world, so that they may have in them my joy brought to completion. I have given them your word, and the world has hated them, because they are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. I am not asking that you take them out of the world, but that you keep them from the evil one. They are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. Sanctify them in the truth; your word is truth. Just as you sent me into the world, I also have sent them into the world. And on their behalf I sanctify myself, so that they also may be ones sanctified in truth.

Jesus Prays for All Believers

And not concerning these only am I making request, but also concerning the ones who through their word believe in me, that they all... may be one. Just as you, Father, are in me and I in you, so let them also be in us, so that the world might believe that you sent me. 22The glory which you have given to me, I also have given to them, so that they may be one, just as we are one: 23I in them, and you in me, so that they may become fully developed into one,\textsuperscript{836} that the world may know that you sent me, and that you have loved them just as you loved me.

24"O Father, that flesh that\textsuperscript{817} you have given to me, I desire that where I am, they might also be along with me, so that they may behold that glory of mine, which you have given to me, for you loved me before the foundation of the world.

25"O righteous Father, indeed the world has not known you, but I have known you, and these have known that you sent me. 26And I have made known to them your name, and will do so in the future, so that the love with which you have loved me might always be in them, and I also in them."

Chapter 18

Gethsemane

1After he said these things, Jesus went forth with his disciples to the other side of the wadi Kidron, where there was a garden, into which he himself went, and also his disciples. 2And Judas, the one betraying him, knew the place, because Jesus had often met there with his disciples.

Jesus Arrested

3Judas therefore, after taking the cohort\textsuperscript{818} and some guards, from the high priests and from the Pharisees, comes there, with lamps and torches and weapons. 4Then, aware of all the things coming upon him, Jesus went forward, and he says to them, "Whom are you seeking?"

5They answered him, "Jesus the Nazarene."

\textsuperscript{814} 17:23 This is the way the apostle Paul understood it; see Ephesians 4:11-16. Paul says that God gave the apostles and other offices so that someday the believers will be fully developed into one, in unity with God and with one another. Apparently, neither Jesus nor Paul expected such oneness to occur in his own lifetime. Just as with the individual new birth, maturity is a process and not instantaneous at birth, so also it is with the corporate man, that maturity is a process, and not instantaneous at its creation. But, if you believe that Jesus was asking that this unity take place at once, then surely you must admit that Jesus’ prayer has gone ungranted, up to and including this present day.

\textsuperscript{817} 17:24 See the footnote on 6:39.

\textsuperscript{818} 18:3 A cohort, if a complete one including reserves, was a thousand soldiers, (one tenth of a legion) commanded by ten centurions, who commanded a hundred men each. The number here was probably the lesser, about 600 soldiers, but could have been up to 1,000.
He says to them, "I am he."

And Judas the one betraying him is also standing there with them. 6When therefore he said to them, "I am he," they moved away backward, and fell to the ground. 7Again therefore, he asked them, "Whom are you seeking?"

And they said, "Jesus the Nazarene."

8Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. If therefore it is me you are seeking, allow these to go their way." 9In order that the word which he had said would be fulfilled: "Of those you have given me, I have not lost even one."

Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. And the name of the servant was Malchus. 11Jesus therefore said to Peter, "Put the sword in the sheath. The cup which the Father has given me, am I not to drink it?"

Jesus Taken to Hananiah

12Then the cohort and its chiliarch and the guards from the Jews took Jesus prisoner and bound him, 13and they led him to Hananiah first, for he was father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was high priest for that year. 14And Caiaphas was the one having advised the Jews that it was expedient that one man die instead of the people.

Peter’s First Denial

15And Simon Peter was following Jesus, along with another disciple. And that other disciple was known to the high priest, and he entered with Jesus into the courtyard of the high priest, 16but Peter had stopped outside, at the door. The other disciple therefore, who was known to the high priest, went out and spoke to the doormaid, and brought Peter in. 17Then the maidservant, the doorkeeper, says to Peter, "You are not also one of this man’s disciples, are you?"

He says, "No I am not."

18And the servants and the guards stood by a fire they had made, for it was cold, and they were warming themselves. So Peter also was with them, standing and warming himself.
The High Priest Questions Jesus

19 The high priest, then, questioned Jesus, about his disciples and about his teaching.
20 Jesus answered him, "I have spoken openly to the world. I always taught in a synagogue or in the temple, where all the Jews come together, and not said any of it in secret. Why ask me? Ask the ones who have heard what I spoke to them. You see, they know what things I said."
21 As he was saying these things, one of the guards standing by gave Jesus a whack, saying, "Is that how you answer the high priest?"
22 Jesus answered him, "If I spoke wrongly, testify to the wrong; but if acceptably, why are you hitting me?" (Hannaniah had sent him to Caiaphas the high priest bound, you see.)

Peter’s Second and Third Denials

25 And Peter was standing and warming himself. They said therefore to him, "Are you not also one of his disciples?"
He denied it and said, "No I am not."
26 One of the servants of the high priest, who was a relative of him whose ear Peter had cut off, says, "Did I not see you with him in the garden?"
27 Again therefore, Peter denied it, and immediately a rooster crowed.

Jesus Before Pilate and Herod

28 They then are leading Jesus away from Caiaphas toward the Praetorium; and it was very early. And they entered not into the Praetorium, so that they would not be defiled but rather might eat the Passover.
29 So Pilate came outside to them. And he says, "This man? You are bringing what kind of charge against him?"
30 They answered, and said to him, "If he were not doing wrong, we would not have brought him over to you."
31 Pilate therefore said to them, "You take him, and you judge him according to your law."

The Jews said to him, "For us it is not lawful to execute anyone." So the word of Jesus would be fulfilled, which he had spoken indicating by what means of death he was going to die.
32 So Pilate went back into the Praetorium, and summoned Jesus, and he said to him, "You are the king of the Jews?"
Jesus answered, "From yourself are you saying this, or have others spoken to you about me?"

Pilate answered, "Am I a Jew? It was your people and your chief priests who handed you over to me. What have you done?"

Jesus answered, "My kingdom is not of this world. If my kingdom were of this world, my servants would have fought so that I not be handed over to the Jews. But in fact my kingship is not from here."

Pilate therefore said to him, "So then you ARE a king."

Jesus answered, "You are saying that I am a king; I, for this reason have been born, and for this reason have come into the world: to testify to the truth. Everyone on the side of truth hears my voice."

Pilate says to him, "What is truth?" And with that said, he went out again to the Jews, and says to them, "I find in him no causa capitalis. But there is a custom with you that I release to you one prisoner during the Passover. Would you therefore have me release to you the king of the Jews?"

They then shouted back, saying, "Not this man, but Barabbas!" Now Barabbas was a bandit.

Chapter 19

At that time therefore, Pilate took Jesus and scourged him. And the soldiers, after weaving a wreath of thorns, set it on his head, and threw a purple robe around him. Then they were approaching him and saying, "Hail, O king of the Jews," and giving him slaps in the face.

And Pilate went outside again, and says to them, "Look, I am bringing him out to you, so that you will know that I find no causa capitalis in him."

Jesus came outside therefore, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. And Pilate says to them, "Behold the man."

When therefore the chief priests and their officers saw him, they shouted out, saying, "Crucify! Crucify!"

Pilate says to them, "You take him yourselves and crucify him. As for 18:36 The Greek words for "but in fact" are νῦν δὲ, "but now." Usually the particle "νῦν" is an indicator of present time. But sometimes it is a transitional or contrastive particle. Another possible translation of this here would be, "But at the present time, my kingship is not from this place." But would this make any difference theologically? It would not change the fact that at the time Jesus is saying it, his kingship was not from this place. Unless the fact is that Jesus' kingdom never will, at any time, be "from here." Will humans from here anoint him king in the future? Or is his kingship in fact granted to him from heaven?

---

18:38 Basis for capital punishment.
me, I do not find causa capitalis in him.

7 The Jews answered him, "We have a law, and according to that law, he deserves to die because he called himself the son of God."

8 When therefore Pilate heard this information, he was more afraid, and he entered the Praetorium again, and says to Jesus, "Where are you from?" But Jesus did not give him an answer.

9 Pilate then says to him, "To me you are not speaking? Do you not know, that I have authority to free you, and I have authority to crucify you?"

10 Jesus answered, "You would have no authority over me if it had not been given you from above. Because of this, the one who handed me over to you has the greater guilt."

11 From this point on Pilate tried to free him; but the Jews shouted out, saying, "If you release this man, you are no friend of Caesar! Everyone calling himself a king is opposing Caesar."

12 When therefore Pilate heard these words, he brought Jesus outside, and he sat down on the judgment seat, at a place called The Pavement, but in Hebrew called Gabbatha.

13 And it was Preparation for the Passover, about 6:00 am. And he says to the Jews, "Behold, your king."

14 They then shouted out, "Away with him! Away with him! Crucify him!"

15 Pilate says to them, "Shall I crucify your king?"

16 The chief priests responded, "We have no king but Caesar."

17 At that time therefore he handed him over to them, to be crucified.

The Crucifixion

They took Jesus therefore. And carrying the cross by himself, he proceeded forth, to what is called the Skull Place, which in Hebrew is pronounced Gulgotha [גַּלְגֹּלְתָּא], where they crucified him, and with him, two others, one on this side and one on the other, and Jesus in the middle.

And Pilate also wrote a notice and put it on the cross, and it was inscribed:

"JESUS THE NAZARENE, THE KING OF THE JEWS." Many of the Jews

therefore read this notice, because the place where Jesus was crucified was close to the city, and it was written in Hebrew, in Latin, and in Greek.

21The chief priests of the Jews therefore were saying to Pilate, "Do not write 'The King of the Jews,' but rather: 'He SAID, I am King of the Jews.'"

22Pilate answered, "What I have written I have written."

23The soldiers then, when they crucified Jesus, took his garments and made four shares, a share for each soldier, plus the tunic. For the tunic was seamless, woven continuously from the top through the whole. 24They said therefore to one another, "We should not tear it, but cast lots as to whose it shall be." So that the scripture would be fulfilled,

"They divided my garments among them; and cast lots over my clothing," those things therefore the soldiers did.

25And near the cross of Jesus stood his mother, and his mother's sister; and the Mary belonging to Clopas, and the Magdalene Mary. 26Jesus therefore, seeing his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing near, says to his mother, "Dear woman, behold your son."

27Then he says to the disciple, "Behold, your mother." And from that time on, that disciple took her into his own home.

Jesus’ Death

28Jesus, knowing that after these things, all things were now completed, next says, "I am thirsty," so that the scripture would be fulfilled. 29A container full of vinegar was sitting there, so after sticking a sponge full of the vinegar around a hyssop stem, they held it out to his mouth. 30When therefore he had received the vinegar, Jesus said, "It is finished." And after he bowed his head, he gave up his spirit.

31The Jews therefore, since it was Preparation Day, asked Pilate that their legs be broken and they be taken away, so that the bodies would not remain on the cross during the Sabbath; for that day was great among Sabbaths.\textsuperscript{826} \textsuperscript{32}The soldiers came therefore, and broke the legs of the first one, and of the other crucified with him, \textsuperscript{33}but when they came to Jesus they realized he was already dead, and did not in his case\textsuperscript{827} break the legs. \textsuperscript{34}But one of the soldiers pierced his side with a spear, and immediately there came out blood and water. \textsuperscript{35}And the one who has seen has borne witness, and his testimony is reliable, and he knows that he is saying something true; so you may believe. \textsuperscript{36}And these things happened so that the scripture would be fulfilled:

"Not a bone of it shall be broken."\textsuperscript{828}

\textsuperscript{37}And again, another scripture says:

"They shall look upon him whom they have pierced."\textsuperscript{829}

\textit{Jesus' Burial}

\textsuperscript{38}And after these things, Joseph from Arimathea, who was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly because of the fear of the Jews, made request of Pilate that he might take the body of Jesus; and Pilate consented. He went therefore, and took his body. \textsuperscript{39}And Nicodemus, the one who earlier had come to Him by night, came as well, carrying a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pounds.\textsuperscript{830} \textsuperscript{40}They then took the body of Jesus, and bound it in linen cloths, with the spices, as is the burial custom with the Jews. \textsuperscript{41}And there was in the place where he was crucified, a garden, and in the garden a new tomb, one in which no one had ever yet been laid. \textsuperscript{42}So, since it was evening that starts the Sabbath. Instead it means simply "Friday."

\textsuperscript{826} \textit{19:31b} Or, "That day of sabbath was higher." Sabbath days at the beginning of a festival week were higher Sabbaths. Preparation for the Jews, and because the tomb was close at hand, that is where they laid Jesus.

Chapter 20

The Empty Tomb

1And on the first day of the week, very early while still dark, Mary the Magdalene is coming to the tomb; and she sees the stone having been removed from the tomb. 2She runs therefore, and goes to Simon Peter and to the other disciple, the one whom Jesus loved, and she says to them, "They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we831 don’t know where they have put him."

3Peter therefore went out, and the other disciple also, and they were going toward the tomb. 4And the two were running together; and the other disciple ran faster ahead, and came to the tomb first. 5And after stooping down, he sees the linen cloths lying there. He did not enter inside, however. 6Then comes Simon Peter also, following behind him. And he entered into the tomb, and he observes the linen cloths lying there, 7and also the sweat cloth which used to be on his head, except not lying with the linen cloths, but folded up in one place apart. 8Then at that time the other disciple entered, the one who had arrived to the tomb first; and he saw and believed.832 9For they did not yet understand the scripture that he had to rise from the dead.

Jesus Appears to Mary of Magdala

10The disciples then went back to their own homes. 11But Mary stayed with the tomb, and there she stands, outside, weeping. As she thus was weeping, she stooped down into the tomb, 12and she beholds two angels in white, one sitting at the head and one sitting at the foot of where the body of Jesus had been lying.

831 20:2 Some people make much of the fact that John mentions only Mary the Magdalene by name, as if she were the only woman who went to the tomb, as a contradiction of the other gospels, like the gospel of Mark, which names three women. But this view reflects a very shallow, careless, and probably prejudiced reading of John. For here in John, Mary the Magdalene says "We" don’t know where they have put him, indicating that she was not alone. And so also, most other so-called contradictions between the four gospels may be resolved by those truly wanting to know the truth, and not coming to it with prejudice.

832 20:8 Believed what? Not that Jesus had risen from the dead. We know they did not believe he was risen from the dead, because later when the women came to them and told them they had seen Jesus walking around, none of the eleven apostles believed the women. Here it is saying that John believed Mary's report that the body of Jesus was missing.
13 And they say to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?"
She says to them, "They have taken my Lord away, and I don't know where they have put him."
14 When she had said these things, she looked toward the rear, and beholds Jesus having been standing; and she did not realize that it was Jesus.
15 Jesus says to her, "Woman, why are you weeping? Who are you looking for?"
She, thinking he is the gardener, says to him, "Sir, if it is you who took him, tell me where you put him, and I will get him.
16 Jesus says to her, "Mary."
She when she turned around, says to him in Hebrew, "Rabbouni!"
(which means Teacher).
17 Jesus says to her, "Do not cleave to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father; but go to my brothers, and tell them: I am ascending to my Father and your Father; to my God and your God."
18 Mary goes, announcing to the disciples, "I have seen the Lord," and also announcing those things he had said to her.

Jesus Appears to the Ten Apostles

19 Then, when it was evening on that first day of the week, with the doors locked where the disciples were, because of the fear of the Jews, Jesus appeared, and stood in their midst. And he says to them, "Peace be with you." 20 And when he had said this, he showed them both his hands and his side. Therefore the disciples rejoiced, seeing the Lord.
21 Then Jesus again said to them, "Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, so also I send you."
22 And having said this, he blew, and says to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit.
23 Whose ever sins you forgive, they are forgiven them; whose ever you retain, they are retained."

Jesus Appears to Thomas

24 But Thomas, one of the Twelve, the one who was called the Twin, was 833 20:22 ἐμφυσάω - emphusáō, breathe out or blow; the same verb used in Genesis 2:7 to translate the Hebrew verb נָפ ח, used for how God breathed into the nostrils of the dust-man the breath of life, causing the man to become a living being. Here in John, there is no object for the verb; I do not believe we are to imagine that Jesus approached each of the ten individually, and breathed upon each of them in turn.

not with them when Jesus came. 25 So the other disciples were telling him, "We have seen the Lord."

But he said to them, "Unless I see in his hands the mark of the nails, and put my finger into the place from the nails, and put my hands into his side, there is no way I will believe."

26 And after eight days, his disciples again were inside, and Thomas with them. Jesus is appearing, even though the doors were locked. And he stood in the midst, and said, "Peace be with you." 27 Thereupon he says to Thomas, "Bring your finger here, and see my hands, and bring your hand and put it into my side, and do not be unbelieving, but believing."

28 Thomas responded and said to him, "My Lord and my God."

29 Jesus says to him, "Because you have seen me, you have believed. Blessed are those believing without having seen."

30 While therefore Jesus did also do many other signs in the sight of his disciples which are not written in this book, these have been written so that you might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing, you might have life through his name.

Chapter 21

Resurrection Fish & Bread

1 After these things, Jesus revealed himself another time to his disciples, on the Sea of Tiberias. And this is how he revealed himself. 2 Simon Peter, and Thomas called the Twin, and Nathaniel from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other disciples of his, were together. 3 Simon Peter says to them, "I am going to fish."

They say to him, "We are also coming with you."

They went, and embarked in the boat. And throughout that night, they caught nothing. 4 And now that it is turning morning, Jesus had stood at the shoreline. However, the disciples have not realized that it is Jesus. 5 Jesus therefore says to them, "Children, have you no fish?"
They answered, "No."

6 And he said to them, "Cast the net into the area to the right of the boat, and you will find something." They cast it therefore, and they were not strong enough to retrieve it, because of a fulness of fish.

7 So that disciple whom Jesus loved says to Peter, "It is the Lord." When therefore Simon Peter heard that it is the Lord, he fastened his cloak around himself, for he was stripped for work, and he threw himself into the lake (for they were not far from shore, but only about two hundred cubits away), while the other disciples came in the boat, towing the fish net. As they get down therefore onto the beach, they see a fire of coals established, and fish lying on it, and bread.

8 Jesus says to them, "Bring some of the fish which you have now caught." Simon Peter therefore got up, and dragged the net to the beach, very full of fish, 153 of them; and though there were so many, the net was not torn.

9 Jesus says to them, "Come, eat breakfast." And not one of the disciples got up the courage to challenge him, "Who are you?" For they knew it was the Lord. 10 Jesus comes, and he takes the bread and distributes to them, and the fish likewise.

11 This was now the third time Jesus had revealed himself to the disciples after having risen from the dead.

Jesus Reappoints Peter

12 When therefore they had eaten breakfast, Jesus says to Simon Peter, "Simon son of John, do you love me more than these?"

   He says to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you."

   He says to him, "Feed my lambs."

13 Again, he says to him a second time, "Simon son of John, do you love me?"

   He says to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you."

   He says to him, "Pastor my sheep."

14 He says to him the third time, "Simon son of John, do you love me?"

---

838 According to Chrysostom, Dio Chrysostom 55[72], the mariners would wear only underwear while working.

839 Equivalent to 100 yards, or 92.4 meters.
Peter was hurt that he said to him the third time, "Do you love me." And he says to him, "Lord, you know all. You know that I love you."

Jesus says to him, "Feed my sheep."\(^{840}\) Truly, truly I say to you: When you were younger, you would dress yourself, and walk around where you wanted; but after you have become old, you will stretch out your hand, and someone else will dress you, and lead you somewhere you will not want."

This he said signifying by what kind of death he would glorify God. And having said this, he says to him, "Follow me."

And What About John?

20Peter turned around, and sees the disciple whom Jesus loved following, that is, the one who in the supper had leaned back onto His chest and said, "Lord, who is the one betraying you?" 21So when he saw this one, Peter says to Jesus, "Lord, and what about him?"

22Jesus says to him, "If I want him to remain until I come, what is that to you? You follow me." 23This therefore is the word that got out to the brothers: that that disciple would not die. But Jesus had not said to him that he would not die; rather, "If I want him to remain until I come, what is that to you?"

24That disciple is the one who is bearing witness to these things, and the one who wrote these things; and we know that his testimony is true.

25And there are also many other things that Jesus did, which if written in detail, I reckon not even the world itself would be able to hold the books that would be written.

\(^{840}\) 21:17 Up until the time we see the Lord, it will continue to be the topic of discussion, the meaning of why Jesus used the verb ἀγαπάω in vv. 15 and 16, but φιλέω in v. 17; and why Peter used the verb οἶδα in vv. 15 and 16, but γινώσκω in v. 17; and whether the reason Peter was hurt was that Jesus asked him three times, or that Jesus changed the verb the third time, etc.
Note that NO textual witnesses later than 8th century are cited, and ALL witnesses 8th century or earlier ARE cited. I have done this is because so many readers have objected that critical apparatuses cherry-pick the manuscripts. So I have made it very simple with this one very objective criterion. If the words are God’s words, they will show up prior to the 9th century surely.

Acts of the Apostles

The Acts of the Apostles

Chapter 1

1I made my previous account, O Theophilus, about all that Jesus began both to do and to teach, 2up until the day he was taken up, after he had given orders through the Holy Spirit to the apostles he had chosen; 3to whom also he showed himself to be alive, following his suffering, by many convincing proofs (being seen by them over a period of forty days) and telling them things about the kingdom of God.

4And convening them around himself, he ordered them: “Do not leave Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which you have heard about from me.

5For John baptized in water, but you will be baptized in the Holy Spirit, not many days from now.”

6When therefore they were gathered together, they queried him, saying, “Lord, are you at this time going to restore the kingdom to Israel?”

7And he said to them, “It is not for you to know the times and the seasons, which the Father has placed within his own authority; 8but you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you, and you will be my witnesses, both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the farthest part of the earth.” 9And after he had said these things, he was lifted up away while they were watching. 10And as he was going, they were concentrating intently into the sky, and behold! Two men dressed in white clothing had been standing beside them.

11And they said: “Men of Galilee, why are you standing looking into the sky? This same Jesus who was taken up from you into heaven will come in the same manner in which you saw him go into heaven.”

12At that time they went back into Jerusalem, from the hill called the Mount of Olives, which is near Jerusalem, a Sabbath day’s walk away. 13And when they got back inside the city, they went up into the upper room where they were staying: Peter and John, James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James son of Halphaeus and Simon the Zealot, and Judas son of James. 14These all with one mind were devoting themselves persistently to prayer, along with the women, including Mary the mother of Jesus and his brothers.

15And during those days Peter stood up in the midst of the brethren, (altogether the company of persons was about 120). He said,

16“Brethren, it was necessary for that scripture to be fulfilled which the Holy Spirit spoke beforehand through the mouth of David concerning Judas, who became a guide for those who arrested Jesus, because he was numbered among us and obtained one share of this ministry.”

18(This man therefore had bought himself a field out of the payment from unrighteousness, and after falling headlong, he burst open in the middle, and all his intestines spilled out. 19And it became known to everyone living in Jerusalem, so that the field is called in their language, “Hakeldama.” This means “Field of Blood.”) 20For it is written in the book of Psalms: ‘Let his settlement be desolate, and be in it no inhabitant,’ and, ‘Let his position be taken by someone else.’ 21So then, it must be out of the men who have been with us during the whole time the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, beginning from the baptism of John all the way until the day he was taken up from us; one of those who were witnesses of his resurrection with us.”

23And they nominated two, Joseph called Barsabbas, who was surnamed Justus; and Matthias.

24And getting down in prayer, they said, “You, Lord, are knower of all hearts. Reveal which one of these two you have chosen to receive this place of ministry and apostleship, from which Judas turned aside to go to his own proper place.”

26And they cast lots over them, and the lot fell to Matthias. And he was added in with the eleven apostles.

Chapter 2

1And when it was time for the Day of Pentecost, they were all together in one place, 2and suddenly there came the sound of words from heaven as if being carried by a swirling wind, and it filled the entire house where they were sitting. 3And there appeared to them tongues of flame, dividing apart, just as if a fire, and it came to rest on each one of them, 4and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and they began to speak in other languages, as the Spirit was giving them utterance.

5Now there were Jews staying in Jerusalem who were devout men from all the nations under heaven. 6And as the sound of this was produced, a crowd gathered on, and they were captivated, because each one was hearing them speaking in their own particular language. 7And they were astonished, and marveling, saying, “Behold, these people who are speaking, are they not all Galileans? 8So how are we each hearing them in our own particular language in which we were born? 9Parthians, Medes and Elamites and residents of Mesopotamia; Jews also from Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia; ¹⁰both Phrygia and Pamphylia; Egypt and the parts of Libya near Cyrene; and Romans who are visiting, ¹¹both Jews and proselytes; Cretans and Arabs; we hear them telling the mighty deeds of God in our own languages!” ¹²And they were all stunned and struggling. Some were saying to each other, “What does this mean?”

¹³But others were saying with scorn, “They are full of new wine.” ¹⁴But Peter stood forward, along with the Eleven, and he lifted up his voice, and spoke out boldly to them: “Men of Judea, and all you living in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and take heed to my words. ¹⁵For these people are not drunk, as you are thinking, since it is the third hour of the day. ¹⁶But rather this is what was spoken through the prophet Joel:

¹⁷‘And it will be, in the last days,’ God says, ¹⁸‘I will pour out of my spirit onto all flesh, and your sons and your daughters will prophesy, and your young will see visions, and your older will dream dreams; ¹⁹and onto both my male servants and my female servants will I pour out from my Spirit in those days, and they will prophesy. ²⁰And I will provide wonders in the heaven above, and signs on the earth below, blood and fire and atmosphere of smoke; ²¹the sun will be turned into darkness and the moon into blood before that great and terrible Day of the Lord is come. ²²And it will be, that whoever calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.’

²³Men of Israel, listen to these words. Jesus of Nazareth, a man commended to you from God by powerful deeds and wonders and signs, which God performed through him in your midst, as you yourselves know, ²⁴this man, who was handed over according to the established plan and foreknowledge of God, you lifted up, to be nailed by the hand of Torah-less men, ²⁵him God has raised again, breaking the bonds of death, since it was never possible for him to be held by it. ²⁶For David says regarding him,

‘I have foreseen the Lord going before me through it all.
Acts of the Apostles

Because he is at my right hand, I will not be shaken.

²⁶For this reason my heart was cheered, and my tongue did rejoice,
and my flesh also now will dwell in hope, ²⁷because you will not abandon my soul in Hades, nor will you assign your holy one to see decay.
²⁸You have made known to me the paths of life.
       You will fill me with joy with your company.’

²⁹Brothers, I venture to say with certainty to you about the patriarch David, that he both died and was buried, and his tomb remains among us to this day.  ³⁰But because of being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn to him with an oath that fruit of his loins would sit on his throne, ³¹it was in reference to the resurrection of the Messiah he spoke, with foresight, that He was not abandoned in Hades, nor did His flesh see decay.  ³²This man Jesus, God raised to life, to which we all are witnesses.  ³³Having been exalted then to the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this which you are seeing and hearing.  ³⁴For David did not ascend to heaven, yet he says, ‘The Lord said to my Lord: Sit at my right hand, ³⁵until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet.’  ³⁶Therefore let all the house of Israel know for a certainty, that the one whom you crucified, God has made that same Jesus both Lord and Messiah.”

³⁷And when they heard this, they were shocked.  And they said to Peter and the rest of the apostles, “Brothers, what should we do?”
³⁸And Peter said to them, “Repent, and be baptized each one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of sins.  And you will receive for yourselves the gift of the Holy Spirit.  ³⁹For the promise is to you, and to your children, and also to everyone far off, however many the Lord our God will call.”

⁴⁰With many other words also, he was solemnly testifying to them, saying, “You must be saved from this perverse generation.”  ⁴¹The ones therefore who accepted his message were baptized, and about three thousand souls were added during that day.

⁴²And they were devoting themselves continually to the teaching of the apostles, and to the fellowship, to the breaking of the bread, and to the prayers.  ⁴³And fear came into every soul, and many wonders and signs were taking place through the apostles.  ⁴⁴And all the believers were together, and possessing everything in common.  ⁴⁵And they were selling their property and possessions, and distributing the proceeds to everyone, according to whomever had the need. "And every day they were as one mind, devoting themselves constantly in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, sharing food with gladness and simplicity of heart, praising God, and having favor in the eyes of all the people. And the Lord was adding to the assembly daily, those who were being saved.

Chapter 3

1Now Peter and John went up to the temple at the ninth hour, the hour of prayer, and a man lame from his mother’s womb was being carried, whom they would place daily at the gate of the temple called the Beautiful Gate so he could ask for charity from those going into the temple; who when he saw Peter and John about to enter the temple, he asked to receive charity. 2And Peter, after studying him together with John, said, “Look at us.”

3So he was holding his attention on them, expecting to receive something from them.

4And Peter said, “Silver and gold, I have none. But what I do have, this I give you. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk!” 5And he gripped him by the right hand and lifted him. And his feet and ankles were instantly strengthened, and springing up, he stood, and started walking around. And he went into the temple with them, walking and leaping and praising God. 6And all the people saw him walking and praising God, and they were filled with amazement and wonder over what had happened to him. 7And as he was holding on to Peter and John, all the people ran together toward them in admiration, at the gate called Solomon’s Gate.

8But when Peter saw this, he responded to the people: “Men of Israel, why are you marveling over this, and why are you looking upon us as if our own power or godliness caused him to walk again? 9The God of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, the God of our fathers, has glorified his servant Jesus, whom you delivered over to and disowned before the face of Pilate. He had made the judgement to release him, but you rejected the holy and righteous one, and asked that a murderer be released on pardon to you, and you killed the architect of life, whom God has raised from the dead, to which we all are witnesses. 10And it is on the basis of faith in his name, Jesus’ name, that this man whom you see and know has been made firm, and this faith, which is through that Jesus, has given this man complete healing in front of you all. ¹⁷So now, brothers, I realize it was because you were unaware, that you acted so, and likewise your leaders. ¹⁸But in this way were fulfilled the things God had foretold through the mouths of all the prophets: that his Anointed had to suffer. ¹⁹Repent therefore, and turn yourselves around, so that your sins be wiped away, ²⁰so that times of refreshing may come from having access to the Lord, and he send the pre-appointed Messiah to you, Jesus, ²¹whom heaven must take in until the time of the restoration of all things, about which God has spoken through the mouths of his holy prophets since long ago.

²²For indeed Moses said to our fathers, 'The Lord God will raise up for you a prophet like me from your brethren. To him you must take heed, in accordance with everything he says to you, ²³and it will be that every soul who does not listen to that prophet will be utterly cut off from among the people.' ²⁴And indeed all the prophets from Samuel and those in succession, as many as have spoken, have also predicted these days. ²⁵You are the heirs of the prophets, and of the covenant which God set in place with our fathers, saying to Abraham, 'And through your seed will all the families of the earth be blessed.' ²⁶God, having now raised up his servant, has sent him to you, blessing you first, in order to turn each of you from your wicked ways."

¹And as they were talking to the people, the priests and the captain of the temple guard and the Sadducees pressed upon them, ²all worked up because they were teaching the people and proclaiming in Jesus the resurrection of the dead, ³and they put their hands on them and placed them under guard until morning (for by then it was evening). ⁴But many of those who heard the word believed, and the number of the men came to be about 5,000.

⁵And the next morning an assembly of the leaders and elders and Torah scholars was convened in Jerusalem, ⁶including Hananiah the high priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and all the ones who were relatives of the high priest, ⁷and after they had stood them in their midst, they were inquiring, “By what power or what name did you do this?”

⁸Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, “Leaders of the people, and elders of Israel, ⁹If we are on trial for a good deed done to a lame man, as to by what means he was healed, ¹⁰be it known to you all, and to all the people of Israel, that in this name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom you crucified, whom God has raised from the dead, in that name this man is presented before you healthy. 11This Jesus is ‘the stone that you builders rejected; he has become the cornerstone.’ 12And salvation is not in anyone else, for there is not even another name under heaven given among man by which we must be saved.”

13Now when they observed the confident speech of Peter and John, and considered the fact they were uneducated and ordinary men, they were amazed. And they recognized them, that they had been with Jesus. 14And as they saw that the man who was with them was standing, the one who had been healed, they had nothing to say in rebuttal. 15And after ordering them to go out of the Sanhedrin, they were conferring with one another, 16saying, “What shall we do with these men? For to be sure, a notable sign has happened through them, well known to everyone living in Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it.
17But, so it does not spread to the people any further, let us threaten them to speak no longer in this name to anyone.” 18And after summoning them, they gave them orders not to utter at all nor to teach in the name of Jesus.

19But in response Peter and John said to them, “Whether it is right in God’s eyes to obey you rather than obey God, you decide. 20Because for us, it impossible to not tell the things we have seen and heard.”

21But they threatened them further, and then released them, having found no way to punish them, because of the people. For they were all praising God over what had happened. 22For the man on whom this sign of healing had happened was over forty years old. 23So being released they went to their own people and reported what things the chief priests and elders had said to them.

24And who when they heard, they with one mind lifted their voice to God, and said, "Master, you who made the heaven and the earth and the sea and all things in them, 25who said by the mouth of our father David your servant, through the Holy Spirit, 'Why have the nations raged, and the peoples devised vain things? 26The kings of the earth rise up, and the rulers assemble together against the Lord and against his Anointed.'
27For in fact they have assembled in this city against your holy servant Jesus whom you anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with the nations and the peoples of Israel, 28to do those things which your hand and your design have fore-ordained to happen. 29And now, Lord, look upon their threats, and give to all your servants the ability to speak your word with boldness, 30by stretching forth your hand so that curing and signs and wonders will happen through the name of your holy
And as they were making this request, the place in which they were assembled was shaken, and they all were filled with the Holy Spirit, and they spoke the word of God with boldness. Now the hearts and souls of the multitude of those who had believed were one, and not one person said any of the possessions belonging to him were his own, but instead were held in common for every one of them. And with great power the apostles gave the testimony about the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. And great grace was upon them all. For not even one among them was needy. Because whoever of them were owners of lands or houses, they were selling, and they would bring the proceeds of the things that were sold, and donate it at the feet of the apostles. Then it was distributed to each person, according as anyone had the need.

Thus it was that Joseph, who was nicknamed Barnabas by the apostles (which when translated is Son of Encouragement), a Levite, Cypriot by birth, who was the owner of a field, he sold it and brought the proceeds and donated it at the feet of the apostles.

Chapter 5

Then a man named Hananiah, together with his wife Saphira, sold some property, and part of the proceeds he secretly set aside for himself (his wife also aware) and part he brought to the feet of the apostles and donated.

And Peter said, “Hananiah, why has Satan emboldened your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit and secretly set aside for yourself part of the proceeds from the field? Was not the field yours, and after it was sold, the proceeds still within your rights to keep? What happened, that put this issue in your heart? It was not to people that you lied, but to God.”

And after Hananaiah heard these words, he fell down dead. And great fear gripped all those who were listening. And the young men got up, and when they had wrapped him, they carried him out and buried him. And there was an interval of about three hours, and then his wife came in, not knowing what had happened. And Peter responded to her, “Tell me, was this how much you sold the land for?” And she said, “Yes, this much.”

And Peter said to her, “What happened, that you two were united to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? Look, the feet of those who buried your husband are at the door. They will also carry you out.” And she immediately dropped near his feet and died. And when the young men came in, they found her dead, and they carried her out, and buried her.
next to her husband. ¹¹And great fear came over the whole assembly, and over all those who heard these things. ¹²And through the hands of the apostles many signs and wonders were happening among the people, and they were regularly at the Portico of Solomon with one accord. ¹³But none of the rest dared to be seen with them. (Though the people thought highly of them.)

¹⁴Even so, more believers were added to the Lord, multitudes of both men and women; ¹⁵with the result that they also brought out their sick into the streets and placed them on pallets and mats, in case if Peter came by even his shadow might pass over one of them. ¹⁶And the multitude from the cities surrounding Jerusalem also collected there, carrying the sick and those being tormented by unclean spirits, who were healed, all of them.

¹⁷But the high priest rose up, and all those with him, which was the sect of the Sadducees. They were filled with jealousy, ¹⁸and they put their hands on the apostles and placed them in custody publicly. ¹⁹But during the night an angel of the Lord opened the doors of the prison, and led them out, and said, ²⁰ “Go, stand in the temple, and speak to the people all the words of this life.”

²¹They took heed, and at about dawn they went into the temple, and were teaching. And when the high priest and those with him had opened for business, they called together the Sanhedrin and all the senate of the sons of Israel, and sent men to the jail to have them brought. ²²But when the attendants got there, they found they were not in the prison, and went back and reported, ²³saying, “We found the jail locked up securely and the guards standing at the doors, but when we opened it, we found no one inside.”

²⁴And as the captain of the temple guard and the chief priests heard these words, they were completely at a loss as to what might become of it all. ²⁵Then someone came and reported to them, “Behold, the men you had put in prison are standing in the temple, and teaching the people.” ²⁶At that time the captain went out, along with the attendants, and brought them, not with force, because they were afraid of the people, not wanting to be stoned.

²⁷And they brought them and stood them in the Sanhedrin. And the high priest interrogated them, ²⁸saying, “We very strictly charged you not to teach in this name, and behold you have filled Jerusalem with your teaching. And you intend to bring upon us this man’s blood.”

²⁹And in answer Peter and the apostles said, “We ought to obey God rather than humans. ³⁰The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom you killed by hanging him to a tree. 31 This man God has exalted to his right hand as a Ruler and a Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. 32 And we are witnesses of these matters, as is also the Holy Spirit, which God gave to those who obey him.”

33 And those hearing this were enraged, and began planning to kill him. 34 But a certain man in the council stood up, a Pharisee by the name of Gamaliel, a teacher of the law respected by all the people. And he ordered that the men be put outside for a little while. 35 And he said to them, “Men, Israelites, take heed to yourselves over these men, what you intend to do. 36 For prior to these days, Theudas had risen up, declaring himself to be someone, to whom a number of men attached themselves, about four hundred. He was killed, and all who obeyed him were dispersed and came to nothing. 37 After that, during the days of the registration, Judas the Galilean rose up and drew away people after him. That man also perished, and all who obeyed him were scattered. 38 And the ones now, I am telling you, stand back from these men, and leave them alone. Because if this argument is of man, or this effort, it will come to an end. 39 On the other hand, if it is of God, you will not be able to stop them. And no good you are found being opponents of God.”

With that they obeyed him. 40 And they called for the apostles, and beat them, and ordered them not to speak on the name of Jesus, and released them. 41 They as a result were proceeding from the presence of the Sanhedrin rejoicing that they were considered worthy to be despised for the sake of that name. 42 And every day, in the temple, and from house to house, they never ceased teaching and preaching the Messiah Jesus.

Chapter 6

1 Now during those days, with the number of disciples having multiplied greatly, there arose some grumbling from the Greek speakers toward the Hebrew speakers, that their widows were being overlooked in the daily distribution of food. 2 Then the Twelve called the multitude of the disciples to them, and said, “It is not fitting that we abandon the word of God to minister money matters. 3 So, brothers, search out seven men of you who are witnessed to be full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we will appoint over this office; 4 whereas we will be devoted to prayer and service of the word.”

5 And this word was pleasing before all the multitude, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit; and Philip, and
Acts of the Apostles

Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolaus, a proselyte from Antioch. Whom they set before the apostles. And they prayed and laid their hands on them.

And the word of God grew, and the number of disciples in Jerusalem multiplied greatly. A large crowd of the priests also was coming to obey the faith. And Stephen, full of grace and power, was performing great signs and wonders among the people.

But some men stood up, debating with Stephen, men from what was called the Synagogue of the Freedmen, including Cyrenians and Alexandrians, and some from Cilicia and Asia, and they were not able to withstand the wisdom and the spirit with which he was speaking. Then they secretly instigated some men to say, “We have heard him speaking blasphemous things against Moses and against God.” And that stirred up the people, and the elders, and the Torah scholars. And having stood ready nearby, they seized him and took him to the Sanhedrin. They also had arranged false witnesses, who were now saying, “This man never stops saying things against this holy place and the law. For we have heard him saying that this Jesus the Nazarene will destroy this place and change the customs that Moses handed down to us.” And everyone sitting in the Sanhedrin who watched him saw his face was like the face of an angel.

Chapter 7

But the high priest said, “Are these things true?” And he said, “Men, brothers, and fathers, listen: The glorious God appeared to our father Abraham while he was in Mesopotamia, before he lived in Haran, and He said to him, ‘Leave your country and your relatives, and go to whatever country I will show you.’ At that time he left Chaldea, and lived in Haran. And then, after his father died, God removed him to this country in which you now live. Yet he did not give him tenure in this country, not even a foothold, yet promised to give it for a possession to his seed after him, this while he had no child. But God spoke this: ‘Your seed will be aliens in the country of others, who will enslave them and treat them badly for 400 years. And whatever nation enslaves them, I will judge,’ said God, ‘and after those things they will come out, and will worship me in this place.’

And He gave him the covenant of circumcision; and thus Abraham begat Isaac and circumcised him on the eighth day, and Isaac Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs. And the patriarchs, out of envy, sold Joseph off to Egypt. Yet God was with him. And He rescued him from all his troubles, and gave him favor and wisdom in the eyes of Pharaoh king of Egypt, who made him ruler over Egypt, and over his entire household.

But a famine came over all of Egypt and Canaan, and great suffering, and our fathers were not finding food. So when Jacob heard there was bread in Egypt, he sent our fathers out the first time. And during the second time, Joseph allowed himself to be recognized by his brothers, and his race became evident to Pharaoh.

So Joseph sent word inviting his father to come, Jacob and the whole clan, 75 souls in all, and Jacob went down to Egypt. And he and our fathers died, and were transferred to Shechem and laid in the tomb which Abraham had bought with a payment in silver from the sons of Hamor in Shechem.

Now just as the time was drawing near for the promise which God had declared to Abraham, the people grew in strength and were multiplied in Egypt, until such time another king arose who did not know Joseph. This man dealt shrewdly with our race. He mistreated our fathers, causing their newborn babies to be thrown out, so they would not survive.

At which time Moses was born, and he was very good looking. For three months he was nurtured in the house of his father. Then when he was put out, the daughter of Pharaoh took him as a son for herself.
And Moses was trained in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was powerful in his words and his deeds.

But when he reached 40 years old, it came upon his heart to go check on his brothers the sons of Israel. And when he saw one being injured he defended him, and he got vengeance for the one getting the worse, by striking the Egyptian. Now he thought his brothers would understand that God would give salvation to them through his hand.
But they did not understand. And on the following day he appeared to some of them, who were fighting, and he attempted to reconcile them in peace saying, “Men, you are brothers. Why are you injuring each other?”

But the one injuring his neighbor pushed him away, saying, “Who appointed you ruler and judge over us? Do you intend to kill me the same way you killed that Egyptian yesterday?”

And with this said, Moses fled. And he became an alien camping out in Midian, where he begat two sons. And when he was forty years old, the angel of the Lord appeared to him in the desert of Mount Sinai, in the flame of a burning thorn bush.
And Moses saw it and marvelled at the vision. As he approached it therefore to investigate, there came the voice of the Lord: ‘I am the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.’ But Moses started to tremble and dared not to look.

And the Lord said to him, ‘Remove the sandals from your feet; because the place on which you are standing is holy ground. I have looked, I have seen the ill treatment of my people in Egypt, and I have heard their groans, and I have come down to rescue them. And now, you come; I will send you to Egypt.’

This Moses, the one they had denied saying, ‘Who appointed you ruler and judge;’ this man God sent as ruler and redeemer by means of the angel appearing to him in the bush. This man led them forth, performing wonders and signs, in Egypt and in the Red Sea, and in the desert for forty years. This is the Moses who said to the sons of Israel, ‘God will raise up a prophet for you like me out of your brothers.’ This is the one who was present in the congregation in the desert, who was with the angel speaking to him in Mount Sinai, and who was with our fathers. He who received living oracles to give to us. To whom our fathers refused to be obedient, but pushed him away, and turned their hearts toward Egypt, saying to Aaron, ‘Make gods for us that will go before us. Because this Moses who led us out of Egypt, we do not know what happened to him.’ And they molded a calf in those days, and led a sacrifice up to the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

And God turned away, and gave them up to worship the heavenly bodies, just as it is written in the scroll of the prophets: ‘Have you presented Me slaughtered animals and sacrifices for forty years in the desert, O house of Israel? Yet you carried around the booth of Moloch, and the star of your god Saturn. The images which you made, you worshiped them. I therefore will deport you beyond Babylon.’ The tent of testimony was there for our fathers in the desert, just as the one speaking had directed Moses to make it according to the model which he had seen. Which then our fathers had passed on to them, and they with Joshua, took it into the land possessed by the nations whom God drove away from the face of our fathers until the days of David. Who found favor before God and asked to find a tent for the God of Jacob.

But Solomon built a house for him. But the Most High does not dwell in hand-made things. As the prophet says, ‘Heaven is my throne, and Earth is my foot-stool. What kind of house will you build for me?’ says the Lord, ‘or what place for my rest? Has not my hand created all these things?’
Acts of the Apostles

51 O you stiff-necked people, and uncircumcised in hearts and ears, you always resist the Holy Spirit. Just as your fathers were, so are you. 52 Which of the prophets have your fathers not persecuted? And they killed those who predicted the coming of the Righteous One, of whom you now are become the betrayers and murderers. 53 Who have received the law by the direction of angels, and not kept it.”

54 Now those hearing these things had been seething inside, and were grinding their teeth at him. 55 But he, being filled with the Holy Spirit, gazed intently into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God. 56 And he said, “Look! I can see heaven open, and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God!”

57 But they howled loudly while plugging their ears, and with one accord charged upon him, 58 and when they had cast him outside the city, they proceeded to stone him. And the witnesses laid their cloaks at the feet of a young man named Saul. 59 And as they stoned Stephen, he was calling out, and saying, “Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.” 60 Then he dropped to his knees, and he cried out with a loud voice: “Lord, do not hold these sins against them.” And after he said these things, he died.

Chapter 8

1 And Saul was in agreement with his killing. Then there occurred at that time a great persecution against the congregation at Jerusalem, and they all became scattered over the territories of Judea and Samaria, except for the apostles. 2 But some devout men recovered the body of Stephen, and made a great lamentation over him.

3 Meanwhile Saul was ravaging the church, entering house to house, dragging off both men and women and handing them over to prison. 4 But those who were scattered consequently passed through preaching the word. 5 Thus Philip, having gone down to a city of Samaria, preached Christ to those people.

6 And those crowds, when they heard, and saw the signs he was performing, with one mind took heed to the things that were spoken by Philip. 7 For many had unclean spirits, which came out with loud shrieks, and many who had been paralyzed and lame were healed. 8 And so there was great joy in that city.

9 Now there was a man in that city named Simon who had been practicing sorcery and astonishing the nation of Samaria, declaring himself to be someone great. 10 To whom all would pay attention, from the small to the great, saying, “This is what you call the great power of God.” 11 And they were paying attention to him because it was for quite a while he had been astonishing them with his sorceries. ¹²But when they believed what Philip had preached about the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were getting baptized, both men and women. ¹³And Simon himself also believed, and after he was baptized, he was staying close to Philip, and when he saw the great signs and miracles that were happening, he was astonished.

¹⁴And when the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had welcomed the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them, ¹⁵who went down and prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit.
¹⁶For He had not yet fallen on even one of them. They were baptized ones, but baptized only in the name of the Lord Jesus. ¹⁷Then at that time, they laid their hands on them, and they did receive the Holy Spirit.

¹⁸Now when Simon saw that the Spirit was given by the laying on of the apostles’ hands, he offered them money, ¹⁹saying, “Give me this authority also, so that whoever I lay my hands on receives the Holy Spirit.”

²⁰But Peter said to him, “May your silver perish with you, because you presumed to buy the gift of God with money! ²¹There is no part or place for you in this thing, because your heart is not pure before God.
²²Repent therefore of this evil of yours, and ask of the Lord if the intent of your heart will be forgiven. ²³For I see you being with bitter poison and the bondage of unrighteousness.”

²⁴And in response Simon said, “Pray to the Lord on my behalf so that nothing you said will befall me.”

²⁵When therefore they had given solemn testimony, they also returned to Jerusalem speaking the word of the Lord, evangelizing even more Samaritan villages.

²⁶Then an angel of the Lord spoke to Philip, saying: “Get up, and go down southward on the road that goes from Jerusalem to Gaza.” (This is desert.)

²⁷And he got up and went, and behold, an Ethiopian man, who was an official eunuch of the Kentakee (queen of the Ethiopians) in charge of all her finance. He had come to worship at Jerusalem. ²⁸And he was going back home, and was sitting on his chariot and reading the prophet Isaiah.

²⁹And the Spirit said to Philip, “Go up and meet this chariot.”

³⁰So Philip ran up to him. And he heard him reading Isaiah the prophet and said to him, “Do you understand what you are reading?”

³¹And he said, “How would I truly be able to, unless someone guides me?” And he invited Philip up, to sit with him.
Acts of the Apostles

32 And the passage of scripture he was reading was,

“He was led like a sheep to the slaughter.
And as a lamb before the shearer is silent,
so he did not open his mouth.
33 In his meekness his right was taken away.
Who will describe his generation?
For his life is being removed from the earth.”

34 So in response the eunuch said to Philip, “I ask you please, about whom is the prophet saying this? About himself? Or about someone else?”

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and beginning with that very scripture, he told him all the good news about Jesus. 36 And as they were proceeding along the road, they came upon some water, and the eunuch said, “Look, water. Is there anything forbidding me to be baptized?”

38 And he ordered the chariot to stop, and the two went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and Philip baptized him. 39 And when they had come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord snatched Philip up, and the eunuch saw him no more. He sure was rejoicing as he went on his way.

40 Then Philip was found in Azotus, and he preached the gospel to all the towns as he passed through, until he arrived at Caesarea.

Chapter 9

1 Now Saul was still breathing threats of murder against the disciples of the Lord. And he approached the high priest, 2 and obtained letters from him to the synagogues at Damascus, to the effect that anyone he found belonging to The Way, both men and women, he could bind them and bring them to Jerusalem. 3 When therefore he was on his way, it came about, that as he was getting close to Damascus, suddenly a light from heaven shone all around him, 4 and he fell to the ground. He heard a voice. It was saying to him, “Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?”

5 And he said, “Who are you, Lord?”
And He said, “I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting. It is hard for you to kick against the goads.”

6 Then, trembling and awe-struck, he said, “Lord, what do you want me to do?”
And the Lord said to him, “Arise and go into the city, and it will be told you what you are to do.”
Now the men who were traveling with him stood speechless, hearing the voice, but not seeing anyone. Then Saul got up off the ground, and though his eyes were open, he could see nothing. So leading him by the hand, they took him into Damascus. And he went three days without seeing, and neither ate nor drank.

Now there was a disciple in Damascus by the name of Hananiah, and the Lord spoke to him in a dream, “Hananiah.”

And he said, “Here I am, Lord.”

And the Lord said to him, “Get up, go to the street called Straight Street, and inquire in the house of Judas for a man named Saul of Tarsus. For behold, he is praying, and in a vision he has seen a man named Hananiah come in and lay hands on him so that he would see again.”

But Hananiah answered, “Lord, I have heard from many people about this man, what bad things he has done to your saints in Jerusalem; and he has authority here from the high priest to bind all those who are called by your name.”

And the Lord said to him, “Go. For this man is to me a choice vessel to bear my name before the Gentiles, and even before kings, and before the sons of Israel as well. Indeed I will show him what things he himself is destined to suffer for the sake of my name.”

So Hananiah went, and came into the house. And he placed his hands on him and said, “Brother Saul, the Lord has sent me—Jesus, who appeared to you in the road on which you came—so that you may see again, and so you may be filled with the Holy Spirit.”

And immediately there fell off of him something like scales from his eyes, and he saw again, and he rose up and was baptized. And after receiving food, he gained strength. And he was with the disciples in Damascus a few days, and then immediately began preaching Jesus in the synagogues, saying “This is the Son of God.”

And those hearing were amazed, and saying, “Is this not the man who ravaged those in Jerusalem connected to this name? Was this not also the reason he had come here, to take them chained up before the high priests?”

And Saul was getting stronger and stronger, and confounding the Jews who lived in Damascus, proving that this man was the Messiah. And after many days of this had gone by, the Jews conspired to kill him. But their plan was made known to Saul. Now they were also keeping close watch on the gates, both by day and by night, so as to kill him. So the disciples took him away at night by way of the wall.

instead. They lowered him down in a basket.

26 And when he arrived in Jerusalem, he kept trying to join with the disciples, and everyone was afraid of him, not believing he was a disciple. 27 But Barnabas came beside him, and led him to the apostles, and recounted to them how the Lord had appeared to Saul on the road, and that He had spoken to him, and how in Damascus Saul had spoken boldly in the name of Jesus.

28 So he was with them at Jerusalem going in and out, speaking boldly in the name of the Lord, 29 both speaking to and debating with the Greek-speaking Jews. They however were taking steps to kill him. 30 And when the brethren found out, they took him to Caesarea, and assigned him out to Tarsus.

31 Then the church throughout all of Judea, Galilee and Samaria had peace, and it was strengthened. And proceeding in the fear of the Lord and the assurance of the Holy Spirit, it grew in numbers.

32 Now it came about that as Peter was going through all those areas, he went to be with the saints that were living in Lydda. 33 And he found there a man by the name of Aeneas, who was paralyzed, lying in bed for eight years. 34 And Peter said to him, “Aeneas, Jesus Christ is healing you. Get up and make your bed.” And he got up immediately. 35 And everyone living in Lydda and Sharon saw him, and they turned to the Lord.

36 And in Joppa there was a disciple by the name of Tabitha, which when translated means Dorkas. This woman was wholly occupied with the good works and charitable giving that she was doing. 37 And it came about that during those days she became ill, and died. And after they washed her, they placed her in the upper room. 38 And since Lydda was close to Joppa, and the disciples heard that Peter was in that town, they sent two men to him, begging him, “Please come to our town without delay.”

39 So Peter got up and went with them. When he arrived, they led him up into the upper room. And all the widows came forward, weeping, showing him the coats and garments that Dorkas had made when she was with them. 40 But Peter put everyone outside, and he got down on his knees, and prayed. Then he turned toward the body, and said, “Tabitha, get up.” And she opened her eyes. And when she saw Peter, she sat up. 41 And lending her a hand, he lifted her up, and called the saints and widows, and presented her to them alive. 42 And this became known throughout all of Joppa, and many believed on the Lord.
And it came about that Peter stayed on for a considerable number of days in Joppa, with a tanner, Simon.

Chapter 10

Now a man in Caesarea by the name of Cornelius, the centurion of the cohort called The Italian Cohort, a devout and God-fearing man along with his whole household, who was doing many charitable deeds for the Jewish people, and praying to God continually, saw distinctly at about the ninth hour of the day in a vision, that an angel of God had come in to him, and who said to him, “Cornelius.”

And Cornelius looked upon him, and became very afraid, and said, “What is it, Lord?”

And he said to him, “Your prayers and your deeds of charity have gone up as a memorial before God. And now, send men to Joppa, and invite a Simon to come to you who is nicknamed Peter. This man is staying as a guest with Simon the tanner, whose house is by the sea.”

So when the angel speaking to him had left, he called two of his house servants from among those who attended him, and a devout soldier, and after recounting it to each one of them, he sent them to Joppa.

The next day, as those men were walking the road and getting close to the city, Peter went up onto the roof to pray, around the sixth hour. Then he became very hungry, and wanted to eat. And while they were preparing it, a trance came over him, and he sees heaven being opened, and then a container coming down, something like a giant bedsheet tied at the four corners, being lowered to the earth. In it were all the four-footed animals, and all the things that creep on the ground, and all the birds of the sky.

And there came a voice to him, “Get up, Peter. Kill and eat.”

But Peter said, “Certainly not, Lord. Because never have I ever eaten anything common or unclean.”

And the voice spoke again to him a second time: “What God has made clean you must not call unclean.”

And this happened three times; then the container was immediately taken up into heaven. Then, as Peter was puzzling inside himself as to what might be the meaning of the vision he had seen, behold, the men who were sent by Cornelius had ascertained the house of Simon and stood at the gate. And they called out, asking if Simon who was nicknamed Peter was staying as a guest there. And as Peter was reflecting on the vision, the Spirit said to him, “Behold, three men are looking for you. ²⁰Get up instead, and go downstairs, and leave with them, not questioning anything, since I have sent them.”

²¹So Peter went down and said to the men, “Here I am, the one you are looking for. What is the reason you are here?”

²²And they said, “Cornelius the centurion, a righteous man and fearing God, and vouched for by the whole Jewish nation, he has been directed by a holy angel to summon you to his house, and to hear words from you.”

²³He invited them inside therefore as his guests. And the next day he rose up and left with them, and some of the brothers from Joppa accompanied him. ²⁴And the following day he came into Caesarea. And since Cornelius was expecting him, he had called together his relatives and his close friends. ²⁵And it came about that as Peter was entering, Cornelius met him and fell at his feet and worshipped him.

²⁶But Peter lifted him up saying, “Stand up. I myself am also a human being.”

²⁷And as he was talking with him he went inside, and finds many people gathered. ²⁸And he said to them, “You know full well how it is unlawful for a Jewish man to join with or visit someone of another race. Yet God has shown me to call no human being common or unclean. ²⁹This then is the reason I came without objection to the summons. I ask therefore, what is the reason you have summoned me?”

³⁰And Cornelius said, “Four days ago to this hour, I was in my house praying, at the ninth hour, and behold, a man in radiant clothing stood before me. ³¹And he said, ‘Cornelius, your prayer has been answered, and your deeds of charity have gone up as a memorial before God. ³²Send therefore to Joppa and call for Simon who is knicknamed Peter. This man is staying as a guest in the house of Simon the tanner, by the sea.’ ³³Right away then I sent men to you, and you on your part did well getting here. Now therefore, we all are present before God, to hear all the things told to you by the Lord.”

³⁴Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, “I truly understand now, that God is not a discriminator of faces, ³⁵but that a person of any nation who fears him and works at righteousness is acceptable to Him. ³⁶This is the word which He sent to the sons of Israel, that announces peace through Jesus Christ: This man is the Lord of everyone.

³⁷You know the thing that happened throughout the whole land of the Jews, beginning from Galilee after the baptism which John preached, ³⁸the man from Nazareth, Jesus, how God anointed him with the Holy Spirit and power, who traveled around doing good and healing all those oppressed by the Devil, because God was with him.  39 And we are witnesses of everything he did in the country of the Jews and Jerusalem; whom then they killed by hanging him to a tree.  40 This man God raised up on the third day, and granted him to be visible;  41 not to all the people but to witnesses chosen beforehand by God; to us, who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead.  42 And he commanded us to preach to the people and to solemnly testify that this man is the one appointed by God as judge of the living and the dead.  43 All the prophets testify: that all who believe on him are to receive forgiveness of sins through his name.”

44 While Peter was still speaking these things, the Holy Spirit fell upon everyone who was listening to the word.  45 And those believers who were of the Circumcision, who had come with Peter, were astonished that the gift of the Holy Spirit was poured out upon Gentiles also.  46 For they were hearing them speaking in tongues and glorifying God.  Then Peter responded:  47 “Can anyone forbid water baptism to these people, who received the Holy Spirit just as we did?”  48 And so he ordered them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ.  Then they asked him to remain for several days.

Chapter 11

1 Now those apostles and brothers who were living throughout Judea, they heard that Gentiles had also received the word of God.
2 And when Peter went up to Jerusalem, they began to argue against him, those who were of the Circumcision.

3 They were saying, “You have gone indoors with uncircumcised men, and you ate with them!”

4 So Peter began explaining to them step by step, saying,  5 “I was in the city of Joppa, praying, and in a trance, I saw a vision: a container, something like a giant bedsheets, being let down out of heaven by its four corners, and it came close to me.  6 When I looked inside, I recognized and saw the four-footed animals of the earth, and the wild beasts, and the creeping things, and the birds of the sky.  7 And then I heard a voice saying, ‘Get up, Peter.  Kill and eat.’

8 But I said, ‘Certainly not, Lord.  Because never has anything common or unclean ever gone into my mouth.’

9 The voice came back a second time from heaven, ‘What God has made clean you must not call unclean.’

10 And this happened three times, then it was all pulled back into heaven.  11 And behold, right then three men stood at the house in which I was staying, sent from Caesarea to me. 12 And the Spirit said to me, ‘Go with them, not questioning anything. And these six brothers went with me also, and we entered the man’s house. 13 Then he related to us how he saw an angel who had stood in his house and had said, ‘Send to Joppa and summon Simon who is knick-named Peter, 14 who will speak words to you by which you and all your household will be saved.’ 15 And so, as I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell upon them just as upon us at the beginning. 16 Then I remembered the statement of the Lord. As he said, ‘John baptized in water, but you will be baptized in the Holy Spirit.’ 17 If therefore God has given them the same gift as to us when we also believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I to have been able to hold back God?’

18 And after they heard these things they calmed down, and they glorified God, saying, “So, even to Gentiles God has granted repentance unto life.”

19 Those then who had been scattered as a result of the persecution in connection to Stephen, they had gone as far as Phoenicia and Cyprus and Antioch, generally speaking the word to no one except Jews only. 20 But there were a few of them, Cypriot and Cyrenian men, who had gone into Antioch speaking to Greeks as well, preaching the good news about the Lord Jesus. 21 And the hand of the Lord was with them, and the number of those who believed and turned to the Lord was large.

22 And the report about them was heard as far as the ears of the congregation that was in Jerusalem, and they assigned Barnabas out to Antioch. 23 Who, when he arrived and saw the blessedness that is from God, was glad, and exhorted them all to continue in the Lord with determination in their hearts. 24 For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit and faith. And a great number of people were brought to the Lord. 25 Then he went away to Tarsus, to look for Saul, 26 and when he found him he brought him to Antioch. And so it came about that, for a whole year they joined forces to work with that congregation, and to teach a considerable throng of people. It was also in Antioch the disciples were first called “Christians.”

27 And during those same days some prophets came down to Antioch from Jerusalem. 28 And one of them by the name of Agabus indicated through the Spirit that a great famine was going to take place over the whole inhabited earth. Which did take place during the reign of Claudius Caesar. 29 Then the disciples determined, according to the extent each of them was prospering, to send money in support to the brethren living in Judea. 30 And this they did, sending it to the elders by Now around that time, King Herod arrested some from the church, and mistreated them. And James the brother of John he put to death by the sword. And when he saw that this was pleasing to the Jews, he went on to hunt down Peter also (and it was during the days of Unleavened Bread), whom he then arrested and put in prison, delivering him over to be guarded by four squads of four soldiers each, intending after Passover to bring him out before the people.

While Peter was being kept in prison, prayer was earnestly being made by the church on his behalf to God. And when Herod was just about to bring him up, that very night before, Peter was sleeping chained between two soldiers by two chains, with guards also in front of the door watching the prison. And behold, an angel of the Lord stood over, and light shone in the room. And he tapped on the side of Peter’s body and woke him, saying, “Get up quickly.” And the chains fell off his wrists.

Then the angel said to him, “Get dressed and put on your sandals.” And Peter did so. And the angel says to him, “Throw your cloak on and follow me.”

And Peter was following him outside, not knowing, that what was happening through the angel was real. He thought he was seing a dream. So after passing by the first guards, then the second, they were at the iron gate that leads to the city. Which opened for them by itself. And they got outside, and when they had gone one block, the angel pulled away from him.

And Peter came to himself, and said, “Now I truly know, that the Lord has sent out his angel, and plucked me out of Herod’s hand and from all that the Jewish people were expecting.” And once he realized this, he went to the house of Mary, the mother of the John whose other name was Mark, which was where a lot of those convened and praying were. And he knocked on the door of the courtyard, and a maidservant by the name of Rhoda came out to answer. And when she recognized Peter’s voice, from her joy she did not open the gate but ran inside and reported Peter to be standing at the gate.

And they said to her, “You’re crazy.” But she kept insisting it was true. So then they were saying, “It’s his angel.”

But Peter kept knocking. And when they opened the gate they saw him, and were astounded. And he waved his hand downward for silence, and recounted to them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. Then he said, “Report these things to James and the brothers.” And he left and went to another location.

Now when morning came, there was no small anxiety among the soldiers as to what had happened to Peter. And Herod conducted a search for him, and when he did not find him he interrogated the guards, then ordered them off to be executed, and went down to Caesarea, spending some time away from Judea.

Now Herod had become angry with the people of Tyre and Sidon. So they made a joint appearance before him, and after they had first won Blastus over to their cause, the man in charge of the king’s bedroom, they sued for peace. This was because their region was dependent upon the food crops from the royal farms. And on the day appointed, Herod dressed in the royal robes and sat at the tribunal, and delivered a speech before them. And the crowd began raising a cheer: “The voice of a god, and not of a man!” But an angel of the Lord struck him on the spot, because he did not give the glory to God. And he was eaten by worms, and died.

Now the word of God was spreading, and winning over more and more people. And Barnabas and Saul returned, having fulfilled their mission at Jerusalem, and they brought with them John whose other name was Mark.

Chapter 13

Now among that congregation in Antioch there were prophets and teachers: both Barnabas and Simeon— the one called the black Simeon; and also Lucius the Cyrenian; Manaen the foster brother of Herod the Tetrarch; and Saul. And while they were devoting themselves to the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, “Now set apart Barnabas and Saul to me, for the work to which I have called them.”

Then, after fasting and praying and laying their hands on them, they released them. Those two therefore, sent out by the Holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia, and from there they sailed to Cyprus, and once they were in Salamis, were proclaiming the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews. Now they also had John along as an assistant.

And when they had traveled through the whole island as far as Paphos, they encountered a man who was a magician and Jewish false prophet, whose name was Bar-Jesus, who was with the proconsul Sergius Paulus. This latter was an intelligent man, and he summoned Barnabas and Saul, desiring to hear the word of God. But Elymas the magician (for that is how his name is translated) kept working against them, always trying to steer the proconsul away from the faith.

⁹Then Saul, the one also called Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, fixed his gaze straight at him, ¹⁰and said, “O you, full of all spincraft and every kind of fraud, you son of the devil, you opponent of all that is righteous, are you never going to stop distorting the right ways of the Lord? ¹¹And now behold, the hand of the Lord is against you, and you will be blind, not seeing the sun for a time.”

And immediately there fell upon him a mist, and darkness, and he was going around looking for a guiding hand. ¹²At that time the proconsul believed, when he saw what had happened, completely amazed at the teaching about the Lord.

¹³Then, setting sail from Paphos, Paul and his companions came to Perga of Pamphylia; except for John, who parted from them and returned to Jerusalem. ¹⁴And they passed on through from Perga and arrived in Antioch of Pisidia. And on the Sabbath day they went into the synagogue and sat down. ¹⁵And after the reading of the law and the prophets, the synagogue rulers sent word to them, saying, “Men, brothers, if there is among you any word of exhortation to the people, you may speak.”

¹⁶So Paul stood up, and waving his hand downward for silence, he said, Men, Israelites, and those who fear God, please listen. ¹⁷The God of this people Israel chose our fathers, and he exalted the people during their sojourning in Egypt, and with a mighty arm led them out of it, ¹⁸and, for about forty years time he bore them in the desert, ¹⁹then after destroying seven nations in the land of Canaan, he divided their land out to them as an inheritance, ²⁰all this over a period of about 450 years. And after those things, he gave them the judges, until Samuel the prophet.

²¹And from then on they asked for a king, and God gave them Saul the son of Kish for 40 years, a man of the tribe of Benjamin. ²²And after removing him, he raised up David for them as king, about whom he also testified and said, ‘I have found David son of Jesse, a man after my own heart, who will perform all my wishes.’ ²³From the seed of that man, according to the promise, God brought to Israel a savior, Jesus, ²⁴with John having announced ahead of His appearance a baptism of repentance to all the people Israel.

²⁵And as John was completing his run, he was saying, 'What are you surmising me to be? I am not the one. But behold, there is coming after me someone whose sandals I am not worthy to untie.'
Acts of the Apostles

26Men and brothers, sons of the race of Abraham, and those among you who fear God, the message of this salvation has been assigned over to us, 27since those living in Jerusalem and their rulers, being ignorant of this and of the voices of the prophets which are read on every Sabbath, fulfilled them by condemning Him. 28And even though they found no case for the death penalty, they asked Pilate to execute Him. 29And when they had fulfilled all those things written about him, they took him down from the tree and laid him in a tomb.

30But God raised him up from the dead. 31Over a period of many days he appeared to those who had come up to Jerusalem with him from Galilee, those who are now witnesses of him to the people. 32And we are announcing to you this good news: that the promise made to the fathers, 33God has fulfilled that promise to us their children by raising up Jesus, as it is also written in the second Psalm about him: 'You are my son. Today I have begotten you.'

34And that he raised him from the dead, to revert no more to decay, this is spoken: 'I will grant to you the sure blessings of David.'

35Pertaining to which also it says in another place, 'You will grant that your blessed one not see decay.'

36Now certainly: David fell asleep, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, and he was laid to rest with his fathers, and he saw decay. 37But the one whom God has raised, he did not see decay. 38Be it known to you therefore, men and brothers, that through this man forgiveness of sins is being announced to you. 39And of everything from which it was not possible to be justified through the Law of Moses, he who believes is being justified.

40Take heed therefore, so that this which was spoken in the prophets may not apply:

41"Watch, O scornful ones, and marvel, and perish. Because I am accomplishing a feat in your days, a feat which you would not believe if someone were explaining it to you.'"

42And when they went outside, they were being invited to the next Sabbath, to speak these same words to them. 43Then after the synagogue meeting had broken up many of the Jews and devout proselytes accompanied Paul and Barnabas, who, as they continued to speak to them, were prevailing upon them to continue with this grace of God. 44Consequently on the following Sabbath, almost the entire city gathered to hear the word about the Lord.

But when the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy, and they were rebutting the arguments of Paul by denigrating him. So Paul and Barnabas bluntly said, "It was mandatory that the word of God be spoken to you first. But since you are pushing it away and convicting yourselves not worthy of eternal life, behold: we turn to the Gentiles. For the Lord has commanded us this: 'I have set you to be a light for the Gentiles, salvation reaching the farthest part of the earth.'" And the Gentiles listening were cheering, and praising the message about the Lord; and as many as had been appointed to eternal life believed.

So the message about the Lord was being carried throughout that whole region. But the Jews stirred up the influential of the pious proselyte women along with the chief men of the city, and instigated a persecution against Paul and Barnabas. And they expelled them out of their borders. So they, after shaking the dust off their feet against them, were on their way to Iconium, while the disciples were filled with joy and the Holy Spirit.

Chapter 14

And the same thing happened in Iconium. They went into the synagogue of the Jews and spoke in this same manner, with the result that a large number of both Jews and Greeks believed. As for those who did not believe, the Jews stirred up and embittered the souls of the Gentiles against the brothers.

They then stayed though quite a while, speaking boldly on the Lord, who was bearing witness to the word of his grace by granting signs and wonders to happen through their hands. But the multitude of the city became divided, and some were with the Jews and some were with the apostles. And when a campaign arose on the part of both the Gentiles and Jews with their leaders to assault and stone them, they heard about it, and fled to the Lycaonian cities of Lystra and Derbe and the surrounding country, and started evangelizing there.

And a man was sitting in Lystra who was disabled in his feet, lame from his mother's womb, who never at any time had walked. He was listening to the preaching of Paul, who studied him, and knew that he had the faith to be healed. Paul said in a loud voice, "Stand up straight, on your feet!" And he jumped up, and was walking.

And when the crowds saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices in Lycaonian, saying, "The gods have come down to us, made like humans." And they were calling Barnabas Zeus, and Paul Hermes, since Hermes was the ruler of speech. ¹³And the priest of Zeus, who dwelt before the city, brought bulls and garlands to the gates, intending to join with the crowds to offer sacrifice.

¹⁴But when the apostles Barnabas and Paul heard this, they ripped their clothing and rushed in among the crowd, crying out ¹⁵and saying, "Men, why are you doing this? We also are humans with the same frailties as you, preaching that you should turn from these worthless things to the God that is alive, the one who made the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and everything that is in them; ¹⁶who in the ages gone by has allowed all nations to go in their own paths; ¹⁷though he did not leave himself without evidence, acting good toward you, providing rain from the heaven and seasons bearing fruit, satisfying your hearts with food and good cheer."

³⁸And saying these things just barely dissuaded the crowds from sacrificing to them. ¹⁹But some Jews arrived from Antioch and Iconium, and after winning over the crowds and stoning Paul, they dragged him outside the city, thinking he was dead.

²⁰But the disciples circled around him, and carried him into the city. And the following day, he left for Derbe with Barnabas. ²¹And after evangelizing that city and making many disciples, they reversed their tracks through Lystra and through Iconium and through Antioch, ²²confirming the hearts of the disciples, exhorting them to persevere in the faith, seeing as how we must go through much tribulation into the kingdom of God. ²³And after appointing elders for them in each congregation, and praying for them with fasting, they handed them over to the Lord in whom they had placed their trust.

²⁴And when they had passed all the way through Pisidia they came into Pamphylia, ²⁵and after speaking the word in Perga they went down to Attalia, ²⁶and from there set sail for Antioch, for that is where they had been commended to the grace of God for the work they had completed. ²⁷So they presented themselves. When they had brought the congregation together, they were reporting what things God had done through them, and how He had opened the door of faith to the Gentiles. ²⁸And it was no small amount of time they were spending with those disciples.

Chapter 15

¹And some who had come down from Judea had been teaching the brothers, "Unless you are circumcised according to the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved." ²So after there arose no small division and debate between those men versus Paul and Barnabas, they appointed Paul and Barnabas plus some others among them to go up to the apostles and elders in Jerusalem about this question.

³They therefore were sent forth now by the assembly, and as they passed through both Phoenicia and Samaria, they were telling all about the conversion of the Gentiles, and causing great joy among the brethren. ⁴And when they arrived in Jerusalem they were welcomed by the congregation and the apostles and the elders, and they reported the things God had done through them.

⁵But some from the sect of the Pharisees who had believed stood up, saying it was necessary to circumcise them and to command them to keep the law of Moses. ⁶And the apostles and elders gathered together to deliberate about this issue.

⁷But after an intense debate occurred, Peter stood up, and he said to them, "Men and brothers, you know full well from the early days, that God chose in your presence Gentiles to hear by my mouth the word of the gospel and to believe, ⁸and God, the knower of hearts, has testified, in that he gave the Holy Spirit to them also, just as to us, ⁹and he made no distinction between us and them, cleansing both of our hearts by means of faith. ¹⁰So why tempt God now to place a yoke upon the necks of the disciples which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? ¹¹But rather we believe to be saved by the grace of the Lord Jesus, the same way also as they."

¹²Then the whole multitude was quiet and listening to Barnabas and Paul recounting at length what signs and wonders God had done among the Gentiles through them.

¹³And after they had held their peace, James responded, saying, "Men, brothers, listen to me. ¹⁴Simeon has described how it was that God first turned his attention to obtain from the Gentiles a people called by his name. ¹⁵And this is in harmony with the words of the prophets, just as it is written:

¹⁶'After these things I will turn back around, and raise again the fallen tent of David, and rebuild the ruins of it and set it up aright.
¹⁷so the rest of humanity may seek the Lord, even all the Gentiles upon whom my name is applied, says the Lord, the one doing these things, ¹⁸known since long ago.'
Acts of the Apostles

¹⁹Therefore it is my judgment not to further dismay those from the Gentiles who are turning to God, but to write to them to abstain from the pollutions of idols and sexual sins and strangled animals and blood. ²⁰After all, Moses since ancient times has had people proclaiming him in every city, reading him aloud in the synagogues on every Sabbath."

²²At that time, it seemed good to them, the apostles and elders, together with the whole church, to send select men from among them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas: Judas the one called Barsabbas, and Silas; leading men among the brothers, having sent a letter by their hand: "The apostles and elders and brethren, to the brethren of the Gentiles of Antioch and Syria and Cilicia: Greetings. Because we have heard that some men have troubled you with words, upending your souls, who came from among us but to whom we had given no such direction, it seemed good to us, after coming to one accord, to send select men to you together with our beloved brothers Barnabas and Paul, people who have dedicated their lives to the cause of the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, and they will be telling you by speech these same things: for it seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us to place no burden upon you beyond these essentials: to abstain from things sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from strangled animals, and from sexual sins. Keeping yourselves from these, you will do well. Farewell."

³⁰Those men therefore when they were dismissed went down to Antioch, and after gathering the congregation together, they delivered the letter. And when they had read it, they rejoiced over its encouragement. And Judas and Silas, both being prophets also themselves, encouraged the brethren with much speaking, and they strengthened them as well. And after they had spent some time, they were released back from those brethren with a "Peace be with you" to the ones who sent them. Paul and Barnabas, however, stayed in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word about the Lord, along with many others.

³⁶Then some days later, Paul said to Barnabas, "Now let us go back and check on our brethren in all the cities in which we have announced the word of the Lord, to see how they are doing." So, Barnabas was wanting to take John with them, also called Mark. But Paul thought it better not to take this man along with them, who had withdrawn from them, and from Pamphylia onward had not continued with them in the work.

³⁹There was a disagreement therefore, so sharp, that they parted ways from each other. And Barnabas took Mark, to sail to Cyprus.

Paul however chose Silas, and went forth, committed by the brethren to the grace of the Lord.

And he was traveling through Syria and Cilicia, confirming those congregations.

Chapter 16

Then he went over to Derbe and to Lystra. And behold, there was a disciple there by the name of Timothy, the son of a Jewish woman who believed, but whose father was a Gentile.  He was well spoken of by the brethren in Lystra and Iconium.  Paul wanted this man to journey with him, and he took him and circumcised him, because of the Jews living in those places. For they all knew that his father was a Gentile.

So as they were going through the cities, they were delivering the decrees that had been decided for them to keep by the apostles and elders in Jerusalem.  Those congregations were thus indeed being strengthened in the faith; and they were growing in number daily.  And when they passed through the Phrygian and Galatian territory, they were prevented from speaking the word in Asia by the Holy Spirit, so they went along the border of Mysia, trying to go into Bithynia— and the Spirit would not let them.  So they passed all the way through Mysia and went down to Troy.

And during the night a vision appeared to Paul. It was a man of Macedonia standing, and he was pleading with him and saying, ”Cross over to Macedonia and help us.”  So since he had seen that vision, we worked on leaving for Macedonia immediately, because we gathered that God had called us to evangelize them.  We set sail therefore from Troy, and made a straight run to Samothraiki, and the next day on to Neapolis, and from there to Philippi, which was the first city in the region of Macedonia, a Roman colony. And we continued in that city, spending some days.

And on the Sabbath, we went outside the gate by the river, where we were expecting prayer usually to take place. And after sitting down, we were talking to the women who had gathered.  And a woman of the city of Thyatira was listening, by the name of Lydia, a merchant dealing in purple cloth, who worshiped God. Whose heart the Lord opened so that she would take heed to the things being said by Paul.  And after she and her household were baptized, she made an appeal as follows, ”If you really have judged me to be a believer in the Lord, come stay at my house.” And she persuaded us.

And it came about that once when we were heading to the place of prayer, a slave girl who had an oracle spirit came across us, who generated much income for her owners by her fortune telling. ¹⁷She continued to follow close after Paul and us, yelling and saying, "These men are servants of the most high God, who are announcing to you the way of salvation!" ¹⁸She kept doing this over a period of many days. And Paul was fed up, and he turned to the spirit and said, "I command you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her." And it came out of her that very instant.

³⁵Then when her owners saw that their hope of income was gone, they grabbed Paul and Silas, and dragged them into the public square before the authorities. ²⁰And when they moved them up to the magistrates, they said, "These men, who are Jews, are agitating our city, and they are proclaiming customs which are not permissible for us, being Romans, to either accept or to practice." ²²And the crowd rushed together onto them, and then the magistrates ripped off the clothes and ordered them to be beaten. ²³And after imposing many blows, they threw them in prison, and ordered the warden to keep them in high security; ²⁴who when he got such orders, put them in the inner cell, and secured their legs in stocks.

²⁵And around midnight, Paul and Silas were singing hymns to God, and the guards were listening with interest. ²⁶And suddenly there was an earthquake, so big, that it caused the foundation of the prison to shift, and all the doors to instantly open. All the chains were released as well. ²⁷And when the warden woke up and saw that the doors of the prison were open, he drew his dagger, and was about to kill himself, figuring the prisoners had escaped. ²⁸But Paul called out in a loud voice, and said, "Do not harm yourself. We are all here." ²⁹So he ordered lights, and rushed inside. And he was trembling, and threw himself down before Paul and Silas. ³⁰Then he led them outside, and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

³¹And they said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved, you and your household." ³²And they spoke to him the word about the Lord, together with all those in his household. ³³Then he took Paul and Silas, washed them of their wounds, and got baptized on the spot, he and all his household, at that hour of the night. ³⁴And after leading them back into the house, he set out a table for them. And he and all his household were rejoicing, having believed in God.

³⁵And when it was daytime, the magistrates sent the sheriffs, saying, "Release those men." ³⁶So the prison warden declared these words to Paul, as follows: "The magistrates have sent orders that you be released.
Now therefore, you may go in peace.”

37But Paul said to them, “They gave us a beating in public without due process of law, though we men are Roman citizens, and threw us into prison. And now they are pushing us away quietly? Certainly not! On the contrary they shall come personally and escort us out.” 38So the sheriffs reported these statements to the magistrates. And when they heard that they were Roman citizens, they were afraid. 39And they came and apologized to them. And they escorted them out, and asked them to go away from the city.

40Now after getting out of prison, they went and stayed with Lydia. And they saw those brethren, and exhorted them, and moved on.

Chapter 17

1And when they had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews. 2And as was Paul’s custom, he went in to them, and on three Sabbath days he reasoned with them from the scriptures, 3explaining and pointing out that the Messiah had to suffer, and to rise from the dead, and saying, "This man Jesus who I am telling you about, he is the Messiah.” 4And some of them were persuaded, and attached themselves to Paul and Silas, including a great many of the Greek proselytes, and of the leading women not a few.

5And the Jews were jealous, and recruited some worthless men off the streets, and when they had formed a mob, they were putting the city in an uproar. And they assaulted the house of Jason, intending to bring them out to the mob. 6But when they did not find them, they proceeded to drag Jason and some other brothers up before the magistrates, crying, "Those men who have overturned the whole inhabited earth, they have arrived here also; 7whom Jason has taken under his roof. And they all are acting contrary to the decrees of Caesar, declaring someone else to be king, Jesus.” 8Thus they riled up the crowd and the magistrates who were hearing these words. 9And after taking a bail bond from Jason and the others, they released them.

10Then the brethren sent Paul and Silas immediately away during the night to Berea. When they arrived they went into the synagogue of the Jews. 11And these people were more noble than those in Thessalonica; they received the word with a completely open mind, each day examining the scriptures to see if they were there as described. 12Consequently many of them believed, including some Greek women of high standing, and of the Greek men not a few.
Acts of the Apostles

But when the Jews from Thessalonica found out that the word of God was proclaimed by Paul in Berea also, they came over there as well, and they stirred up the crowd. So immediately at that time the brethren sent Paul away, to journey to the sea coast, while both Silas and Timothy remained there. And those escorting Paul took him as far as Athens, and after receiving orders for Silas and Timothy, that they should come join him with all speed, they left.

Now while Paul was waiting for them in Athens, his spirit was getting stirred up within him, when he saw the city was rife with idols. He therefore every day was holding discussions with the Jews and devout proselytes in the synagogues, and also in the public square with anyone who happened to be nearby. Thus some also of the Epicurean and Stoic philosophers began joining him. And some were saying, "Whatever is this blowhard trying to say?" And others said, "He seems to be a herald for foreign deities." (For he was announcing Jesus and the resurrection.) And they took hold of him and led him to the Hill of Aries, saying, "May we know what this new teaching is, the one being spoken by you? For you are announcing some things that are strange to our ears. Therefore we wish to know what these things mean." For you see, all the Athenians, and also non-citizens visiting, would devote their spare time to nothing else than to speak or to hear anything that was new.

So Paul stood at the center of the Hill of Aries, and he said, "Men of Athens, I notice that you are thoroughly religious. For, as I was passing along and reviewing your objects of worship, I even found an altar on which had been inscribed, 'TO THE UNKNOWN GOD.' Now then, the one you venerate without knowing, that God I am proclaiming to you. The God who created the world and everything in it, being Master of both heaven and earth, he does not settle in shrines made with hands. Nor is he served by human hands as though he needed anything—he is the one who gives to all, life and breath, and everything else. And he has made of one blood all nations of people, to dwell over the face of the whole earth, having marked off the predetermined time periods and boundaries for their habitation, to seek after God, if perhaps they will grope for him and find him, though he is not far from each one of us. For in Him we live, and move, and have our being. As even one of your own prophets has said, 'We are his offspring.' We ourselves being offspring of God, we ought not therefore to think that the divine nature is anything like gold or silver or stone, like an engraved work of art and of human conception. Though God indeed forbore the times of such ignorance, he now commands all people of all places to repent. ³¹Because he has set a day on which he is about to judge the world with righteousness by the man whom he appointed, giving assurance to everyone by raising him from the dead."

³²But some, when they heard resurrection from the dead, were scoffing, while others said, "We will hear from you on this again." ³²And with that Paul went out from their midst. ³³But some men joined up with him and believed; among whom was Dionysius— a member of the Hill of Aries; and a woman also, by the name of Damaris, plus others with them.

Chapter 18

¹After these things, Paul departed from Athens, and went to Corinth. ²And he encountered a Jew by the name of Aquila, Pontic by birth, who had recently come from Italy along with his wife Priscilla since Claudius had ordered all Jews to go away from Rome. Paul approached them, ³and because of being in the same trade, he stayed with them, and they were doing the work together, for they were tentmakers by trade. ⁴Except every Sabbath he would have a discussion in the synagogue, persuading both Jews and Greeks. ⁵But once both Silas and Timothy came down from Macedonia, Paul began restricting himself to the word, testifying solemnly to the Jews that Jesus was the Messiah. ⁶But when they set themselves against him and were reviling him, Paul shook out his garments toward them, and said, "Your blood is on your own heads. I am clean. From now on, I am going to the Gentiles."

⁷And he left there, and entered the home of someone by the name of Titus Justus, a worshiper of God, whose house abutted the synagogue. ⁸Then Crispus, a leader of the synagogue, believed in the Lord, together with his whole house, and many of the Corinthians hearing this were believing and getting baptized.

⁹And the Lord said to Paul during the night in a dream: "Do not be afraid, but speak, and not be silent. ¹⁰Because I am with you, and no one will lay hands on you to harm you, for in this city the crowd that is mine is large." ¹¹So he stayed put for a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

¹²But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews with one mind rose up against Paul. And they were leading him to the tribunal, ¹³saying, "This man misleads the people, to worship God apart from the Law."
Acts of the Apostles

14 And when Paul was about to open his mouth, Gallio said to the Jews, “O you Jews, if it were a case of intentional crime or a harmful misdeed, I would admit you; 15 but if a dispute about a word or a term or a law specific to you all, you take care of that. I am not willing to be judge of those things.” 16 And he expelled them from the tribunal. 17 Then all the Greeks seized Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and were beating him right in front of the tribunal. And that mattered to Gallio not one bit.

18 But Paul after remaining several more days with those brethren, bid them farewell, got his head shaved in Kengkreia, keeping a vow, and then sailed away for Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila. 19 But when they made landfall at Ephesus, Paul left them behind, and went rather by himself into the synagogue, reasoning with the Jews. 20 And when they asked him to stay with them additional time, he did not agree, 21 but bid them farewell, and said, “I will swing back to you again if God wills.” And he sailed away from Ephesus.

22 And he arrived over at Caesarea, disembarked and greeted that church, then went down to Antioch, 23 and after spending some time, he left, and went through one place after another in the Galatian and Phrygian territory, strengthening all the disciples.

24 And a Jew by the name of Apollos, Alexandrian by birth, an eloquent man, came to Ephesus, who was powerful in the scriptures. 25 This man was orally instructed in the way of the Lord, and burning with spirit, he was speaking and teaching accurately the things about Jesus, knowing only the baptism of John; 26 and he began to speak boldly in the synagogue. And when Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him and explained to him more accurately the way of God.

27 And when he wanted to go into Achaia, he was encouraged by the brethren, who wrote to those disciples to welcome him. When he was there, he was contributing much to those who through grace had believed; 28 for he was thoroughly refuting the Jews in view of all, proving by the scriptures that Jesus was the Messiah.

Chapter 19

1 And it came about that while Apollos was in Corinth, Paul traveled through the inland districts and arrived in Ephesus. And he found some disciples, 2 and posed this question to them, “When you believed, did you receive the Holy Spirit?”

But they answered, “We have not even heard there is a Holy Spirit.”

3 And he said, “Into what then were you baptized?”
And they said, "Into John's baptism."

4 And Paul said, "John baptized a baptism of repentance, telling the people they should believe the one coming after him. That 'one' is Jesus."

5 So those who heard this were baptized into the name of Jesus Christ. 6 And when Paul laid his hands on them, the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they were speaking in languages and prophesying.

7 And they were about 12 men in all.

8 And Paul was speaking boldly when he went into the synagogue, reasoning and persuading about the kingdom of God, for a period of three months. 4 But when some became hardened and were disobeying, and speaking ill of the Way before the multitude, Paul withdrew from them, and separated the disciples, and began daily lecturing in the school of Tyrannus. 10 And this went on for two years, with the result that everyone who lived in Asia heard the word of the Lord, both Jews and Greeks.

11 Through the hands of Paul as well, God was doing powerful, extraordinary things. 12 Even such that handkerchiefs or aprons were conducted from his skin onto those who were sick and the diseases would be removed from them, and any evil spirits would come out from them.

13 Then some itinerant Jewish exorcists decided to try their hand also at invoking the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had evil spirits. They would be saying, "I adjure you by Jesus whom Paul proclaims.” 14 Now they were the seven sons of Skeva, a Jewish high priest, doing this. 15 But in response the evil spirit said to them, "Jesus I know and Paul I know, but who are you?" 16 And the man in whom the evil spirit was, he sprang up onto them and owned all of them put together, and beat them, and the result was they fled that house naked and wounded.

17 And this became known to everyone living in Ephesus, both Jews and Greeks, and fear fell over them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was getting magnified. 18 And many of them after they believed were coming forward confessing and publicising their practices. 19 And a considerable number of the ones who had been practicing magic, they collected the sacred scrolls together in a pile, and burnt them in view of everyone. And they added up the prices of them, and found it to be 5,000 pieces of silver. 20 With power like that, the word of the Lord was growing in influence, and prevailing.

21 And after these things were completed, Paul resolved in his spirit that after passing through Macedonia and Achaia, he would go to Jerusalem, saying, "After I am there, I must see Rome as well." Then he sent two of those who were helping him, Timothy and Erastus, on into Macedonia. He himself remained some more time in Asia.

Now about that time there arose no little disturbance concerning the Way. For someone by the name of Demetrius, a silversmith, who manufactured silver shrines of Artemis and provided the artisans no little business, he convened the tradesmen who worked at such things, and he said, "Men, you know, that from this trade, a comfortable income is ours, and you see and hear, that this Paul, who states that gods made by hands are not gods, he has won over and led astray a considerable crowd from not only Ephesus, but from almost all of Asia. Now not only does this put our profession in danger of coming into disrepute, but it also risks the temple of the great goddess Artemis being counted as nothing, and even she herself, whom all Asia and the inhabited earth worships, is about to be deposed from her greatness."

And after hearing this, they were filled with anger. They began to shout, saying, "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" And the city was filled with confusion, and they rushed as with one mind into the theater, keeping a firm grip on Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonian traveling companions of Paul. And when Paul tried to enter the mob, the disciples would not let him. And some of the Asiarchs also, who were friends with him, sent word to him urging him not to present himself in the theater.

Then, others began shouting something different. For the assembly was confused, and most had no idea why they were gathered together. Now as the Jews brought Alexander forward, some of the crowd instructed him, and so Alexander signaled with his hand that he wished to defend himself to the mob. But because they knew he was a Jew, there arose the sound of them all shouting in unison, continuously for about two hours: "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!"

But after the town clerk had quieted the crowd, he says: "Men of Ephesus, who indeed is there among humanity that does not know the city of the Ephesians is keeper of the temple of the great Artemis who fell from the sky? Since these things are undeniable, it behoves you to calm down and do nothing rash. For you brought these men who are neither temple robbers, nor blaspheming your goddess. If therefore Demetrius and the artisans with him truly have a case against anyone, court days are observed, and there are proconsuls. They should charge one another. 39 So, if you are seeking anything further, that will be settled in the lawful assembly. 40 For indeed, we are liable to be charged with insurrection because of today, there being no good reason we can give for this unscheduled gathering." 41 And after saying these things, he expelled the assembly.

Chapter 20

1 Now after the uproar had quieted down, Paul sent for the disciples and exhorted them. And after saying goodbye, he left, to go to Macedonia. 2 Then after he had passed through those parts and exhorted them to a greater degree, he went to Greece. 3 And when he had spent three months there, a plot was formed against him by the Jews. As he was about to escape by sea to Syria, the idea came to go back via Macedonia. 4 And traveling with him were: Sopater the Berean, son of Pyrrhus, and the Thessalonians Aristarchus and Secundus, and the Derbian Gaius, and Timothy, and the Asians Tychicus and Trophimus; 5 except these men went on ahead, and waited for us in Troy. 6 And after the days of Unleavened Bread we sailed away from Philippi, and at the end of five days came to them in Troy, where we spent seven days.

7 And on the first day of the week, as we were gathered together to break bread, Paul was preaching to them. It was about to go on into the next day and he was extending the word time to midnight, 8 but there were plenty of lamps on the top floor where we were meeting. 9 And a youth by the name of Eutychus was sitting in the window, gradually sinking down into a deep sleep because of Paul's lecture going extra time. When he was completely sunken by sleep, he fell down from the third floor, and was picked up dead. 10 So Paul went down, and he fell onto him and embraced him, and said, "Do not be troubled, for his life is in him."

11 And after he had gone upstairs and broken bread and eaten, he also socialized for quite a while, until dawn, thus he departed. 12 And the boy they led away alive, and were comforted not a little. 13 We however proceeded on by ship, and put to sea for Assos, where we were going to pick up Paul, for that is how it was arranged. He wanted to go on foot. 14 So when he met us at Assos, we took him up on board, and we went to Mitylene. 15 Then, sailing away from there the next day, we arrived off Chios, and the day after that went across to Samos, and the following day came to Miletus.

16 For Paul had decided to sail past Ephesus, so as not to lose time in
Acts of the Apostles

Asia, because he was hurrying to be in Jerusalem, if possible, for the Day of Pentecost. ¹⁷So instead, from Miletus he sent to Ephesus a summons for the elders of that church.

And when they had joined him he said to them, "You yourselves are familiar with the manner in which I was with you the whole time since the first days I set foot in Asia, ¹⁸serving the Lord with all lowliness of mind, and tears; and the trials that have befallen me through the plots of the Jews; ²⁰how I did not withhold anything that was profitable for you, but showed you, and taught you, in public, and from house to house, ²¹solemnly bearing witness to both Jews and Greeks, the repentance toward God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. ²²And now behold, constrained by the Spirit, I am going to Jerusalem, not knowing what things will befall me in there, ²³only that the Holy Spirit in every city testifies to me that chains and afflictions await me. ²⁴But I make my life on no account precious to myself, so that I may finish my run and the ministry I received from the Lord Jesus: to solemnly declare the gospel of the grace of God.

²⁵And now behold: I know that none of you among whom I passed through preaching the kingdom will see my face again. ²⁶Therefore, I am testifying to you on this day: I am innocent of everyone's blood, ²⁷for I did not shrink back from declaring to you the entire will of God.

²⁸Take heed to yourselves, and to all the flock among whom the Holy Spirit has placed you as overseers, to shepherd the church of God, which he purchased with his own blood. ²⁹For I know that after my departure, overbearing wolves will come in among you, not sparing the flock. ³⁰Out of your own number also, men will arise, speaking changed up things, to draw away the disciples after them. ³¹For this reason you must be vigilant, recalling what over a period of three years I did not cease to warn each one of you night and day with tears. ³²And now, I hand you over to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and establish your inheritance among all those who are sanctified.

³³I have desired silver or gold or clothing of no one. ³⁴You yourselves know that these hands of mine have provided the needs of myself and of those with me. ³⁵I have demonstrated everything to you by example, how with such labor one must support the weak, and remember the words of the Lord Jesus, that he himself said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' "

³⁶And after he had said these things, he got on his knees, together with them all, and prayed. ³⁷And there was quite a bit of crying from everyone, and they were hugging onto Paul’s neck, and kissing him goodbye. 38 They were especially pained by the word he had spoken, that they would not see his face again. Then they were escorting him to the ship.

Chapter 21

1 And when we had put out to sea and pulled away from them, we ran a straight course, and came to Kos, and then to Rhodes, and from there to Patara. 2 Then we found a ship crossing over to Phoenicia, and boarded that and set sail. 3 And when we sighted Cyprus, we left it behind on port side, and sailed toward Syria, and made landfall at Tyre, because that is where the ship was unloading its cargo. 4 And there, we stayed put for seven days, after we had searched out the disciples, who kept telling Paul, by the Spirit, not to go on to Jerusalem. 5 But when we had finished the days, and were leaving and on our way, they were all seeing us off, including the women and children, escorting us to the outside of the city. And we all placed our knees on the beach, and prayed. 6 We said our goodbyes to each other, and we got onto the ship, while they returned to their homes. 7 And we finished the voyage from Tyre, to come to Ptolemais, and we greeted those disciples, and stayed with them one day.

8 And the following day we departed and came to Caesarea, and entered the house of Philip the evangelist, who was one of the Seven, and we stayed with him. 9 Now this man had four virgin daughters, who were prophesying. 10 And during the many days we stayed there, a prophet by the name of Agabus came down from Judea. 11 And he came up next to us, and took off Paul’s belt. And he tied up his own feet to his hands. And he said, “Thus says the Holy Spirit: This is how the Jews in Jerusalem will tie up the man whose belt this is, and they will deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.” 12 And when we heard these things, both we and the ones in that place were pleading with him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered, “What are you doing crying and breaking my heart? For I am ready not only to be chained in Jerusalem, but to die for the name of the Lord Jesus.”

14 And he would not be persuaded, so we held our peace, and said, “May the Lord’s will be done.”

15 And after those days, we packed our stuff, and went up to Jerusalem. 16 Now some of the disciples from Caesarea also went with us, to introduce us to an early disciple, Mnason the Cypriot, with whom we would be staying as guests. ¹⁷And when we got to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.
Acts of the Apostles

¹⁸So the following day, Paul has gone in to James, together with us, plus all the elders present. ¹⁹And after greeting them, Paul was relating in detail everything that God had done among the Gentiles through his ministry.

²⁰Now when they heard it, they were praising God. And they said to him, "Be aware, brother, how many thousands there are among the Jews who have believed. And they all remain zealous for the Law. ²¹And they have been told about you, that you are teaching all the Jews throughout the nations apostasy from Moses, saying not to circumcise their sons nor to walk according to the traditions. ²²What then is there to do? They will certainly hear that you have come. ²³Therefore do this that we tell you. We have four men who have obligated themselves with a vow. ²⁴Take these men and purify yourself with them, and pay for them to have their heads shaved, and everyone will know that there is nothing to what they were told about you, but in fact you yourself are walking in conformity and keeping the law.

²⁵But as for the Gentile believers, we have informed them by letter that we have decided they need observe nothing of that sort, but only keep themselves from food offered to idols and from blood and from anything strangled and from sexual sin."

²⁶Then Paul took those men the following day, and when he had purified himself along with them, he went into the temple announcing when the days of their purification would be finished and when the offering would be made for each of them.

²⁷But when the seven days were almost finished, the Jews from Asia saw him in the temple, and stirred up all the crowd, and laid their hands on him, ²⁸crying out, "Men of Israel, come and help! This is that man who is teaching everyone everywhere against this people and Law and place! And worse yet, he has even brought Greeks into the temple, and profaned this holy place!"

²⁹For they had previously seen Trophimus the Ephesian in the city with him, whom they assumed Paul had taken into the temple. ³⁰And the entire city was stirred up, and the people ran and gathered together. And after they had taken hold of Paul, they proceeded to drag him outside the temple, and immediately the doors were locked. ³¹Now while they were working on killing him, the report went up to the commander of the Roman cohort that all Jerusalem was in an uproar, ³²who promptly took some soldiers and centurions and ran down toward them. And when the crowd saw the commander and the soldiers, they stopped beating Paul. At that time the commander came up to him and seized him and ordered that he be bound with two chains, and then was inquiring who he was and what he had done.

But some in the crowd were yelling one thing and some another. Not able to find out for sure through the din, he ordered him brought into the barracks. But by the time he was on the steps, Paul had to be carried high by the soldiers, because of the violence of the crowd. For a large number of the people were following and shouting, "Away with him!"

And when he was just about to be taken inside the barracks, Paul says to the commander, "Is it permissible for me to say something to you?"

And he said, "You know Greek? Then you are that Egyptian aren't you, who prior to these days rebelled and led four thousand terrorists out in the desert."

But Paul said, "I am a Jew, a citizen of a city not insignificant, Tarsus in Cilicia. So I ask you, give me permission to speak to the people."

And after he gave him permission, Paul stood on the steps, and motioned to the people downward with his hand. And when it was largely quiet, he addressed them in the Hebrew language, and said,

Chapter 22

"Men, brothers and fathers, hear now my defense to you." And when they heard him addressing them in the Hebrew language, they afforded him even more silence.

And he said, "I am a Jewish man, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but raised in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, instructed according to the strictest tradition of the law of the fathers, and I was zealous for God, as you all are being today. I persecuted this group, The Way, even as far as death, binding them, both men and women, and delivering them to prison, to which even the high priest bears witness for me, and all the elders, since from them I took letters of authority to the brothers in Damascus, that I was going to take the members who were there as well, bound, to Jerusalem to be punished.

But it came about that as I was going, and about noon had gotten close to Damascus, that suddenly a great light from heaven flashed all around me, and I fell to the ground. And I heard a voice saying to me, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?'"
Acts of the Apostles

8And I answered, 'Who are you lord?'
And he said to me, 'I am Jesus the Nazarene, whom you are persecuting.' 9Now those who were with me saw the light, and were frightened, but they did not hear the voice that was speaking to me.

10And I said, 'What should I do, Lord?
And the Lord said to me, 'Get up, and go to Damascus, and there you will be instructed about all that is assigned for you to do.'

11So we proceeded toward Damascus, with me being led by the hand by my companions, as I could not see, because of the brightness of that light. 12And Hananiah, a devout man in relation to the Torah, of good report by all the Jews who lived there, 13he came to me and stood over me, and he said, 'Brother Shaul, see again.'  And at that very time I looked at him and saw him. 14And he said, 'The God of our fathers pre-assigned you to know his will, and to see the Righteous One, and to hear the voice from out of his mouth. 15Because you will be a witness for him to all humankind about what you have seen and heard.  16And now, why delay? Arise and get baptized to wash away your sins, calling on his name.'

17And then it happened to me that when I returned to Jerusalem and was praying in the temple, I was put into a trance 18and saw Him saying to me: 'Hurry, and get away quickly from Jerusalem, for they are not going to accept your testimony about me.'

19And I said, 'Lord, they know very well that I myself was imprisoning and binding from each synagogue those who believed in you. 20And when the blood of Stephen your witness was being spilled, I also was there and consenting, and guarding the cloaks of those who were killing him.'

21And he said to me, "Go on your way, for I am assigning you afar off to the Gentiles."

22Now the crowd had been listening— until those words. Then they lifted up their voice, saying, "Remove such a man from the earth, for it is not fitting for him to live!" 23And as they kept up their shouting, and were tossing off their cloaks, and throwing dust up into the air, 24the commander ordered him brought inside the barracks, and said to interrogate him by flogging, so that he could find out the reason for all this clamor over him. 25But as they stretched him out in the straps, Paul said toward the centurion standing there, "Is it legal for you to flog a Roman citizen without a trial?"

26And when the centurion heard this, he approached the commander and informed him, saying, "What are you about to do? For this man is a Roman citizen.”

27 So the commander came up to Paul, and he said to him, “Tell me, are you a Roman citizen?”

And he said, “Yes.”

28 And the commander responded, “It took me a large sum of money to get that citizenship.”

And Paul said, “But I was actually born one.”

29 Then those about to interrogate him immediately withdrew from him. And even the commander was afraid, finding out that Paul was a Roman citizen and he had been strapping him up. 30 And the next day, wanting to find out exactly why he had been charged by the Jews, he unchained him and ordered the chief priests and the whole Sanhedrin to assemble, and he brought Paul and stood him before them.

Chapter 23

1 And Paul, with an earnest gaze upon the Sanhedrin, said, "Men, brothers, I have conducted myself in all good conscience to this day."

2 But Hananiah the high priest ordered those standing near him to slap his mouth.

3 Then toward him, Paul said, "It is God you wish to slap, you whitewashed wall. And you sit judging me by the law, yet you transgress the law ordering me to be slapped."

4 But those standing near him said, "You insult the high priest?"

5 And Paul said, "I did not know, brothers, that he was the high priest. For it is written, 'You shall not speak ill of the ruler of your people.'"

6 Now Paul, knowing that one part were Sadducees and the other part Pharisees, cried out to the Sanhedrin, "Men, brothers, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee. It is for hope, namely the resurrection of the dead, that I am being condemned."

7 And after these words of his, discord arose between the Pharisees and the Sadducees, and the whole body was divided. 8 For while the Sadducees say there exists no resurrection, nor an angel, nor a spirit, the Pharisees confess to all three.

9 Then there was a loud shout, and some of the Torah scholars of the faction of the Pharisees stood up, and began to insist vehemently as follows: "We find nothing wrong in this man. What if a spirit or an angel has spoken to him?"

10 And such a great uproar occurred that the commander was worried they might tear Paul apart. He ordered the troops under him to go down and snatch him out from their midst and into the barracks.

31 And during that night the Lord appeared to him, and said, "Take courage. For just as you solemnly declared the things about me in Jerusalem, you must in the same way testify in Rome as well."

32 And when it was day, the Jews made a compact and bound themselves, swearing neither to eat, nor to drink, till they had killed Paul. 33 And there were more than forty who were making this plot.

14 They went to the chief priests and elders and said, "We have bound ourselves with an oath to taste nothing until we have killed Paul. 35 Now therefore, you together with the Sanhedrin should explain to the commander how he should bring Paul down to you, as though you are wanting to find out more accurately the issues concerning him. But we are prepared to kill him before he gets near."

36 But when the son of Paul’s sister heard about the ambush, he paid a visit and went inside the barracks, and told Paul. 37 So Paul called one of the centurions over, and he said, "Take this young man to the commander, for he has something to report to him."

38 He then did accept him, and he took him to the commander and said, "The prisoner Paul called me over and asked me to bring this young man to you. He has something to tell you."

39 And the commander took his arm and withdrew to a private place, and began inquiring, "What is it you have to tell me?"

40 And he said, "The Jews have agreed to ask you to bring Paul down tomorrow to the Sanhedrin, as though they want to investigate more accurately concerning him. 41 You therefore should not trust them, because more than forty men of theirs are lying in wait for him, who have bound themselves neither to eat nor to drink until they have killed him. And now they are ready, waiting for a promise from you."

42 Then the commander dismissed the young man, and ordered everyone not to divulge that he had reported these things to him. 43 And he called over two of his centurions, and said, "Get 200 infantry ready for a move as far as Caesarea, plus 70 horsemen and 200 spearmen, departure three hours after dark. 44 And provide an animal such that mounting Paul on it they can deliver him safely to Felix the governor."

45 He wrote a letter with this text: 46 "Claudius Lysias, to the most excellent Governor Felix: Greetings. 47 This man had been seized by the Jews and was about to be done away with by them, when I intervened with the army and got him out, after I learned he was a Roman citizen. 48 And wanting to find out for certain the reason they were charging him, I took him down to their Sanhedrin. 49 Which I found out was a charge that concerns things from their law that are disputed. But the charge was nothing deserving of death or imprisonment. 30 Then when it was divulged to me that there would be a plot by them against the man, I immediately transferred him to you, giving orders also to his accusers to charge him before you.”

31 The soldiers therefore mounted him according to their orders, and took him by night to Antipatris. 32 And the next day, they let the horsemen go on with him, and went back to the barracks. 33 Who when they came into Caesarea and delivered the letter to the governor, also presented Paul to him.

34 And after the governor had read it, and inquired as to which province he was from, and found out he was from Cilicia, 35 he announced: “I will hear you when your accusers are also present.” He ordered him kept under guard at the Praetorium of Herod.

The General Epistle of

JAMES

Chapter 1

¹James, a servant of God and the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes that are in the Diaspora, Greetings. ²Consider it pure joy, my brethren, when you fall into all sorts of trials, because you know that the testing of your faith produces endurance. ³But you must allow endurance its finished job to the end so you will be complete and faultless, deficient in nothing.

⁴And if any of you lacks wisdom, he should request it from God, who gives to everyone cheerfully without complication or lecturing, and it will be given to him. ⁵Only he must ask with faith, not doubting at all. For he who doubts is like a wave of the sea driven back and forth by the wind. ⁶That kind of person should certainly stop thinking he will receive anything from the Lord. ⁷A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways.

⁸And the brother of the lower class should boast about his being lifted up, ⁹and the rich one about his lowering, how like a flower of the grass he will drop. ¹⁰For as the sun comes up with scorching heat and dries the grass, and the flower of it falls off, and the glory of its face has perished, so also the rich in their goings will be faded in importance.

¹¹The man is blessed who withstands temptation, for when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life, which the Lord has promised to those who love Him. ¹²No one who is being tempted should say, "I am being tempted by God." For God is unskilled in the bad and he does not tempt anyone. ¹³Rather each person is tempted through his own desires, which get lured out and enticed; ¹⁴and then after the desire is fertilized, it gives birth to a sin, and the sin when finished developing produces death. ¹⁵Do not be deceived, my beloved brethren.

842 1:11 That is, personage. As also "face" in the phrase "respecting of faces" means personages, treating important people better than unimportant people. The meaning here is that while in the Old Testament, it used to be if you were rich, you were a personage, but now in the New Testament, that will fade in importance. To the point that, according to Jesus, the rich in this world will be poor in the next, and the poor in this world will be rich in the next. Another reason not to want to be rich.

843 1:12c This blessedness is set off in contrast to the Old Testament concept that if you were rich you were blessed by God, as treated in the verses just previous.

844 1:12b ἐπηγγείλατο "the Lord promised" Ω τῶν syr. TG WH SBL NA28 ἑ τοῖς syr. ¹² τῶν ¹³τῶν. Yes, Didymus is cited for two different readings. He used two different forms of the text.

845 1:13 "unskilled." The Greek word means "inexperienced," thus, unskilled. God has never experienced being tempted by the bad, so thus has no skill in tempting others with the bad.
17 All good giving, and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the father of lights, with whom there is no varying or shadow from turning. 18 According to his will he gave birth to us through the word of truth, planning for us to be of his creations a kind of firstfruits.

19 You know this, my beloved brethren, but all persons should be quick to listen, slow to speak, and slow to anger. 20 For the anger of a man does not accomplish the righteousness of God. 21 Therefore, having put away all the moral uncleanness and bad things that are prevalent, you must welcome with humility the implanted word, which is able to save your souls. 22 Only be doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. 23 For if someone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who was contemplating his born face in the mirror. 24 For that he took note of himself, and went away, and immediately forgot what kind of man he was. 25 But he who focuses intently into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and stays with it, not being a forgetful hearer but a doer of the deed, this person will be blessed in his deed that he will do.
26If anyone considers himself to be religious but does not bridle his tongue, he is fooling his own heart. Such religion is worthless. 27Here is a religiousness from our God and Father that is pure and simple: to look after the orphan and the widow during their hard times, and to keep oneself unsighted from the world.

Chapter 2

1My brethren, you should not hold the faith of our glorious Lord Jesus Christ with partiality to personages. 2For if a man with gold rings on his fingers enters your meeting, dressed in bright clothes, and a poor focus on something specific to do. The Greek words here for deed and do, are singular. If you think in generalities, how do you know you did it? How do you know your deed is blessed? And what kind of man you are, can determine what kind of deed God has for you specifically. If I know God, I know he is not madly and vague like the Devil is. God knows you cannot obey something unless you know what it is. The Devil condemns you in generalities and vagueness, a shotgun approach, hoping an accusation will stick. God is the opposite. But you can’t go wrong checking on the needs of the orphan and the widow, and maintaining difference from the world.

The online Merriam-Webster dictionary defines "personage" as follows: 1: a person of rank, note, or distinction; especially : one distinguished for presence and personal power. man also enters, dressed in dirty clothes, ³and you look over ⁸⁶² the one wearing the bright clothes and say, ⁸⁶³ “You take this good seat here,” and to the poor one you say, "You stand there." ⁸⁶⁴ or, "Sit here below my footstool," ⁴are you not then ⁸⁶⁵ discriminating between each other, and become judges with evil thoughts? ⁵Listen my beloved brethren: has not God chosen those who are poor to the world ⁸⁶⁶ to be rich in faith and called for the kingdom he has prepared for those who love him? ⁶You though have devalued the poor. ⁸⁶⁷ Is it not the rich who trouble you, and they who summon you into courts? ⁷Do they not defame the good name by which you are known? ⁸If you really keep the royal law according to that scripture, "Love your neighbor as yourself," you are doing well. ⁹But if you show partiality to personages, you are committing a sin, convicted by that law as violators.

Now whoever keeps the whole rest of the law, and only violates in one matter, he has become guilty of all of it. ¹¹For that which says "Do not commit adultery" also says "Do not commit murder." So if you do not commit adultery, but you commit murder, you have become a violator of the law. ¹²Speak this way and act this way: as if you are about to be judged according to the law of liberty. ¹³For judgment without mercy comes to those who act without mercy. Triumphant though is mercy over judgment.

What good is it, my brethren, when someone claims to have faith, ¹⁴if he has no works? Is such a faith really able to save him? ¹⁵If a brother or sister has no coat and they are lacking daily food, ¹⁶and one of you says to them, "Go with peace, be warmed and fed," but you don’t give to them the basic needs of the body, what good is it? So this kind of faith by itself, when not having works, is dead. Someone will indeed say, "You have faith, and I have works. Show me that faith of yours apart from works," and I will show you my faith by means of my works." You believe that there is only one God. You are doing well. The demons also believe that, and tremble. But are you convinced, foolish person, that faith without works is useless? Our father Abraham, was he not justified by works, when he sheltered the messengers and sent them out by another way? See how faith was working together with his works, and through his works his faith was made complete? Thus also was completed the scripture which says, "And Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness." And he was called a friend of God. You should see that a person is justified by works and not by faith alone. And in the same way Rahab the prostitute, was she not also justified by works, when she sheltered the messengers and sent out by another way? For just as a body without the spirit is dead, so also faith without works is dead.

is correct, and that the definite article serves as a possessive.

Chapter 3

Not many should be teachers, my brethren, knowing we will get... ourselves more judgment. ³For we all stumble on many occasions. If someone does not stumble in speech, he is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole rest of his body. ³Now if⁸⁷⁸ we place bits in the mouths of horses to make them obey us, we are also steering the whole rest of their body. ⁴And consider ships. As large as they are and driven by fierce winds, they are turned around by a small rudder wherever the will of the one steering it wishes. ⁵In the same way also, our tongue is a small member, and boasts great feats. See how a small flame sets ablaze such a large forest. ⁶The tongue also is a flame, a world of damage.⁸⁷⁷ The tongue⁸⁷⁸ is situated among our members as contaminator of the entire body,⁸⁷⁹ and sets on fire the circular racetrack of our existence, and is itself set on fire by Gehenna. ⁷Indeed every race of beast, even of birds, reptiles and marine life, is being tamed or has been tamed by the human race. ⁸But no one can tame the tongue. It is a volatile⁸⁸⁰ menace, replete with fatal venom. ⁹With it we praise our Lord⁸⁸¹ and Father, and with it we curse human beings created in the image of God. ¹⁰Out of the same mouth come both praise and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be. ¹¹Does a spring from the same opening well up both sweet water and bitter? ¹²It is not possible, my brethren, for a fig tree to produce olives, or a grapevine figs; neither for a bitter spring⁸⁸² to produce water that is sweet.⁸⁸³

Who is wise and learned among you? Let him show his works from good conduct: with the humility that comes from wisdom. But if you have bitter jealousy and rivalry in your hearts, do not make yourselves superior to the truth and lie against it. This wisdom does not come down from above, but is earthly, natural, of the devil. For where there is jealousy and rivalry, there is disorder and every thing that is evil. But the wisdom from above is first pure, then peace-loving, gentle, persuadable, replete with compassion and other good fruits, impartial, sincere.

And a harvest of justice is planted, with peace, for those who make peace.

I am writing this footnote because someone objected that I had used the English word "thus" to render the Greek word διὸ. But Webster's Dictionary says the definition of "thus" includes: "because of this or that; hence, consequently, accordingly." But I love my critics for caring about the accuracy of my work, and I did conclude that it would be more accurate to render διὸ as "accordingly" here, even though I like the brevity of the word "thus." I do not think it accurate to render it "therefore" here.

896 4:7b This is another footnoted text: "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Fight against the devil, and he will flee from you. Move closer to God, and he will move closer to you. Cleanse your hands, O sinners, and purify your hearts, O double-minded. Be distressed and mourn and wail. Change your laughter into lamentation, and your joy into gloom. Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he will lift you up." 4:7b N* A B lat v syr / "adulteresses" / διὸ as / "therefore" here. 4:7b Blass says in BDF §451(5), "Διό (διόπερ) is properly used to introduce a subordinate relative clause (from δι` δ), but this limitation has been lost." The BDAG lexicon defines διό as: "inferential conjunction, therefore, for this reason." I am writing this footnote because someone objected that I had used the English word "thus" to render the Greek word διὸ. But Webster's Dictionary says the definition of "thus" includes: "because of this or that; hence, consequently, accordingly." But I love my critics for caring about the accuracy of my work, and I did conclude that it would be more accurate to render διὸ as "accordingly" here, even though I like the brevity of the word "thus." James is able to save or to damn. Who then are you, condemning your neighbor?

13 Come now, you who say, “We will travel today and tomorrow to that particular city, and spend a year there, and do business and make a profit,” you who have no solid knowledge of tomorrow. What is your life? You are a vapor that appears for a little while and then is gone. The thing for you to say instead is, “If the Lord wills, we will even be alive and do this or that.”

14 But as it is you are vaunting your own selves with your presumptuous words. All such boasting is evil. So, he who has learned the good to do and does not do it, for him it is sin.

Chapter 5

1 Come now you wealthy people, weep with loud wailing over the hard times which are coming for you. Your wealth is become corrupt, and your clothes are moth-eaten. Your gold and silver are tarnished, and their corrosion will be a testimony to you, and eat your bodies like fire. You have stored it up in the last days.

5 Some interpreters thought it is fire the rich have stored up in the last days, and others supply the subject “wealth.” I think the verb is simply referring to the already mentioned topic, gold and silver. Something else to take note of in light of James’ practice was for the laborers who sickled your fields, which you deprived of. And the cries of those who worked the harvest have gone into the ears of the Lord of Armies. You have lived in luxury and excessive comfort on the earth. You have fattened your hearts in the day of slaughter. You have passed sentence on, you have killed the righteous. He does not resist you.

Patiently endure therefore brethren, until the coming of the Lord. Behold, the farmer expects the valuable fruit of the earth, waiting patiently on it until it gets the early and the latter rain. You must be patient as well, make your hearts steadfast, because the coming of the Lord is approaching. Do not grumble against one another, brethren, lest you be judged. Behold, the judge stands almost at the door. Receive for use as a pattern, brethren, the suffering of ill treatment and the patience of the prophets who spoke in the name of the Lord. Behold we consider fortunate those who patiently endure. You have heard about the patience of Job, and seen the Lord’s result, how the Lord is full of compassion and merciful.

But above all, my brethren, do not swear, either by heaven, or by the salt of the earth. Of using the same word two different times in two different contexts, is his use of the word ἀδελφοί here, translated usually in this verse as "corrosion" or "rust" but in 3:8 usually as "poison." Both poison and corrosion are chemical processes upon something. Fire is as well.

As for criticism of my sentence ending with a preposition, I quote Mark Twain, and say that this something up with which I will not put. The phrase "fattened your hearts in the day of slaughter" is parallel to the phrase in v. 3 "hoarded it in the last days." The word ὡς does not belong here.

Or also possibly, "He does not meet you face to face." The word ἀντιτάσσω literally means to place himself opposite you. It can be literal, that is, stand across from you facing you, or it can be figurative, place himself in opposition to you, working against you. If we insist that this is a double entendre referring both to Christ and to other righteous people in general, then "face to face" is not suitable, since Christ did meet those condemning him face to face.

The witnesses in parentheses indicate the presence of κύριος but are not decisive about the presence of the article.
the earth, or any other oath. Rather, your "Yes" should be "Yes" and your "No" be "No," or you may fall under judgment. 912913 13Is anyone among you suffering? He should pray. Is anyone cheerful? He should sing praises.

14Is anyone among you ill? He should call the elders of the church to him, and they should pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. 15And the prayer of faith will heal the ailing, and the Lord will raise him. And if he has committed sin, it will be forgiven him. 16Confess your sins914 then915 one to another, and pray for one another, so you may be healed. The fully operating prayer916 of a righteous person is able to accomplish much. 17Elijah was a human, subject to the same frailties as we are. And he prayed the prayer for it not to rain, and no rain fell on the land for a period of three years and six months. 18And he prayed again, and the sky gave rain, and the land sprouted up its fruit.

19My brethren,917 if any among you wanders away from the truth and someone turns him back around, 20he should918 know that he who turns a sinner from the error of his way will save a soul919 from death and cover a 913 5:12b The phrase ὑπὸ κρίσιν πέσοντες here as in the NA28 text, rendered "fall under judgment" means "fall under the category of," those who are judged. The Byzantine reading εἰς ὑπὸ κρίσιν πέσοντες means "so that you not fall into hypocrisy." The NA28 reading is the more difficult one. I wonder if it was an idiom that perhaps had become obsolete. The only difference between the two readings in the all-caps, no spaces and no punctuation format of the uncial manuscripts, is the presence or absence of the word εἰς. The NA28 reading is ΥΨΙΚΡΙΣΙΝ and the Byzantine reading is ΕΙΣΥΠΟΚΡΙΣΙΝ.

915 5:16d Prayer would not be "fully operating" if one or some of the following conditions exist: 1) the one praying is "doubting at all," James 1:6 and many other passages of scripture; (2) the one praying has unconfessed sin, as it says in many scripture passages such as Psalm 66:18; (3) a married man's prayers may be hindered if he is not treating his wife like it is laid out in 1 Peter 3:7. This is not a complete list, but are some examples of what might cause prayer not to be "fully operating."
917 5:20c This verb is 3rd person imperative, usually translated "let him know." But that does not convey well either that it is a command.

I like the reading without αὐτοῦ because it eliminates the ambiguity of who the referent is: the one turning the sinner, or the sinner. But the evidence also indicates the spuriousness of αὐτοῦ because of the various places it is found in the manuscripts. On the other hand, the very reason I like it without αὐτοῦ may have been the motive for editing for clarification at some point in the transmission of the text. Allen Wikgren prefers the reading ἐκ θανάτου αὐτοῦ “from death itself,” saying, “Non-recognition of the intensive use of αὐτός could explain the omission or transposition. In this position, also, omission might easily be accidental in some witnesses.” The majority of the UBS committee thought the reading of Ν Ρ best explained the rise of the others, for the reason I had already thought of before I read their commentary, that is, to clarify the ambiguity.
A Few Comments
My brethren, you can find great pleasure studying the Epistle of James.

The Epistle of James contains many instances of its author using the same Greek word twice or multiple times. See if you can find these, for starters:
Lifting / raising Lowering / humbling replete accomplish face

The Epistle of James also contains many instances where its author contrasts two different things. For example:

Bad giving; i.e., giving of temptation
Good giving corrupt wealth eternal wealth changing light steady light

Very informative is to do a word study of some of the Greek words James uses multiple times. For example, 3 times he uses these words that have the same root:

James 1:8 A double-minded man is ἀκατάστατος - unstable in all his ways
James 3:8 The tongue is a ἀκατάστατον κακόν - volatile menace.
James 3:16 Where there is envy and rivalry, there is ἀκαταστασία – disorder
Table of Witnesses James

All witnesses 8th century and earlier are cited, and none later than that. Note that the main Coptic witnesses for James are dated X-XII century so are not cited.

"It is not for Christian scholars to fear true criticism or its results: the object of true criticism is not to alter scripture dogmatically on the judgment of any individual, but it is to use the EVIDENCE which has been transmitted to us, as to what the holy men of God, inspired by the Holy Ghost actually wrote. In this, as in any other Christian service, the blessing and guidance of God may be sought, by those who know the privileges resulting to the believing soul from the redemption of His Son." (Tregelles’s Greek New Testament: Introductory Notice, Part 1, ii).

Chapter 1

1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the elect who are sojourners of the Diaspora in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia,\(^\text{920}\)

2 elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father by sanctification of the Spirit for obedience and the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ; may grace and peace be multiplied to you.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who according to the greatness of his mercy has given us second birth, into the hope of salvation, because of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

4 into an inheritance that is incorruptible, unimpaired, and unfailing, reserved in heaven for you,

5 who are being guarded by the power of God, through faith, for the salvation made ready to be revealed in the end time,

6 in which you exult, though you still have distress\(^\text{921}\) for a little while if necessary in various trials,

7 which happen so that the testing of your faith, much more valuable than gold which perishes, but is tested through fire, may be found out to result in praise and glory and honor\(^\text{922}\) when Jesus Christ is revealed,

8 whom you love without having seen;\(^\text{923}\) in whom you believe, still not having looked upon; yet you exult\(^\text{924}\) with a joy that is indescribable and full \(^{920}\) There is a complete absence of the Greek definite article in this whole verse. With place names, the article is used only for special reasons. Here in 1:1 the addressees are being characterized and are the focus. The fact that they are sojourners is the emphasis, the focus is on their being aliens to, their not belonging, in these places being mentioned.

of glory,
9 obtaining for yourselves the goal of your faith: the salvation of your souls.

10 About which salvation the prophets, who prophesied about the grace that was coming to your benefit, sought out and researched, 11 trying to find out exactly which time or what kind of time the spirit of Christ in them was indicating, when he testified beforehand to the sufferings of Christ and these glorious things that come after.

12 It was shown to them it was not for themselves but for you they were being stewards of these things, which have now been announced to you through those who evangelized you in the Holy Spirit sent from heaven. Which things the angels wish they could look into.

13 Therefore, girding up the loins of your mind, being completely sober, place your hope on the grace being brought to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ.

14 Like obedient children, not fashioning yourselves to the longings you had in your former ignorance,

15 but rather, in accordance with the holy one who called you, you must become holy as well, in all your conduct,

16 because it is written: "You shall be holy, because I am holy."
17 And if you invoke as Father him who without respect to faces judges the work of each person, spend this time of your sojourning in fear,
18 knowing it was not with corruptible things, silver or gold, that you were redeemed from the futile way of life passed on to you from your ancestors, but rather with blood very dear,\(^{933}\) as of a lamb without blemish or defect, the blood of Christ,
20 foreknown before the foundation of the world, but manifested in the latter of times\(^{934}\) for your sakes,
21 who by way of him are believers in God, the one who has raised him from the dead and given him glory; so your faith and hope are in God.
22 Having purified your souls by obedience to the truth\(^{935}\) toward brotherly love, love one another earnestly from a pure\(^{936}\) heart, 23 having been regenerated, not by corruptible seed but by incorruptible, through the living and abiding\(^{937}\) word of God;

Chapter 2

1 Putting away therefore all malice, and all guile and pretenses,¹⁴¹ and envies and all slanders,

2 as newborn babes, desire the pure spiritual milk, so you may grow by it to salvation,¹⁴²

3 since¹⁴³ you have tasted that the Lord indeed is good.

4 To whom approaching, a living stone, by humans on the one hand rejected, on the other hand chosen by God as precious,

5 you yourselves also as living stones are being built as a spiritual house for a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ;

6 because it is contained in scripture:¹⁴⁵ "Behold I lay in Zion a chosen precious corner foundation stone, and the person believing on it will by no means be disappointed."

7 To you therefore who believe, value, but to those refusing to believe, it is a stone the builders rejected. This one turns out to be for the head of the corner, 8 yet also a stone of stumbling, and a rock of downfall for those who stumble at the word by disobeying, to which in fact they were appointed.

9 But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for a treasured possession, so you may proclaim the virtues of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light;

10 who before were not a people, but now are a people of God; ones who were not pitied, but now are pitied.

11 Beloved, I exhort you: as sojourners and aliens, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul;

12 having your conduct good among the gentiles, in order that while they denounce you as evil-doers, by observing your good works they may glorify God in the day of visitation.

13 Submit to every human authority for the Lord’s sake, whether to a king as he is highly placed, or to governors; as they are the Lord’s agent for vengeance on evil-doers and praise of well-doers;

14 because so is the will of God: by doing good to silence the ignorance of foolish people;

15 as free, yet not having the freedom for a pretext for wrongdoing, but for being servants of God.

16 Honor all persons, love the brotherhood, fear God, honor the king.

17 Honor all persons, love the brotherhood, fear God, honor the king.

18 House servants, submit yourselves in all fear to your masters, not only to good and forbearing ones but also to the harsh.

19 For this gains favor if because of consciousness of God anyone bears up under griefs they are suffering unjustly.

20 For what glory is it if when sinning and buffeted for it you endure? But if when doing good and suffering for it you endure, this gains favor with God.

21 For you were called to\(^{952}\) this, because Christ also suffered, on your behalf, leaving for you\(^{953}\) an example that you should follow in his steps;

22 he who did no sin, neither was an an example that you should follow in his steps;

23 who when being insulted, did not insult in return; who when suffering mistreatment made no threat, but committed himself over to him who judges righteously;

24 who himself in his body carried our sins up onto a tree, in order that by dying to sins, we might live to righteousness; by whose\(^{954}\) bruise you have been healed.

13 And who is going to harm you if you become devotees of good?

14 But, if you do suffer indeed because of righteousness, you become blessed ones. And do not fear their intimidations, or be troubled.

17 For it is better while doing good to suffer, if the will of God wills, than while doing evil.

18 Because indeed Christ died once for sins, he the righteous on behalf of the unrighteous, that he might bring you to God, being put to death in the flesh, but made alive in the spirit,

This phrase is very relevant to making sense of where Peter talks about having the same mind as Christ, “that he who has suffered in the flesh is finished with sin.”

removing of dirt off the flesh, but the response toward God of a good conscience, through the resurrection of Jesus Christ,

Chapter 4

1 Therefore Christ having suffered\(^{982}\) in the flesh, you also arm yourselves of the same mind, that someone who has suffered in the flesh\(^{983}\) is finished with sin,\(^{984,985}\)
2 to the result that, the time he still has left in the flesh he lives not for human desires any longer, but rather for the will of God.
3 For enough is the time lost away for you\(^{986}\) to have carried out\(^{987}\) the goal\(^{988}\) of the Gentiles, having gone on in promiscuity, lusts, debaucheries, carousals, drinking bouts, and serving idols.

4 In which since you are not joining them running in the same excess of indulgence, they think it strange,\textsuperscript{989} denigrating you.

5 They will have to give an explanation to the one that is about to judge\textsuperscript{990} the living and the dead.

6 It is for that reason as well\textsuperscript{991} the gospel is preached\textsuperscript{992} to the dead.\textsuperscript{993} On the one hand so they might be judged according to humans in the flesh; on the other hand in the hope they might live according to God in the Spirit.

7 Now the end of all things has drawn near. Be soberminded therefore, and be sober for prayers.

8 Above\textsuperscript{994} all else have fervent love between each another, because love covers\textsuperscript{995} a multitude of sins.

9 Be hospitable to one another without grumbling.\textsuperscript{996}

10 According to how each person has received a gift, minister it to each other as good stewards of the manifold grace of God:

11 If anyone speaks, as the oracles of God; if anyone serves, as by the power that God supplies; such that in everything God will be glorified, through Jesus Christ, whose is the glory and the power for ever and ever. Amen. 998

12 Beloved, do not be surprised at the fiery trial happening with you to test you, as if it is an odd co-incidence,
13 but rather rejoice; inasmuch as you are sharing in the sufferings of Christ in order that you may also rejoice in the revelation of his glory, exulting.
14 If you are reproached because of the name of Christ, blessed are you. That means the glory and the Spirit of God rests upon you!

15 Certainly none of you should be suffering as a murderer or a thief or an evildoer, or as a pryer into other people’s business;
16 but if it is for being a Christian, let him not be downcast, but praise God because of this.
17 Because the time has come for judgment to begin, starting with the... household of God. And if firstly with us, what will be the fate of those disobeying the gospel of God?

18 And if the righteous person is barely saved, where will the ungodly and the sinner appear?

19 So then those suffering according to the will of God should commit their souls over to a faithful creator, all the while doing good.

Chapter 5

1 Being a co-elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and a sharer also of the glory about to be revealed, the elders among you therefore I exhort:

2 shepherd the flock of God among you, overseeing not from compulsion but voluntarily for God, not from greed for money, but from amateur zeal;

3 not as exercising lordship over your charges, but being examples for the flock.

4 And when the chief shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory.

5 Likewise, young people, submit yourselves to the older people. And everyone, tie on the apron of humility toward one another, because God opposes the proud and gives grace to the humble.

6 Be humbled therefore under the mighty hand of God, so he may exalt you in his time,

7 casting every worry of yours onto him, because it matters to him.
about you.

8 Be sober, be alert. Your adversary, the devil, is like a lion walking about, seeking someone to devour;

9 whom you resist firmly in the faith, knowing that the same kind of suffering is being imposed upon your brethren in the world.

10 But the God of all grace, who called you into his eternal glory in Christ, he himself whenever you suffer a little will adjust you, confirm, strengthen, found you.

11 The power is with him for ever. Amen.

12 It was by way of Silvanus, a brother who is faithful by my reckoning, that I have written to you with a few words, exhorting you, and bearing witness that this grace in which you stand is the true grace of God.

13 The church of fellow chosen ones in Babylon greets you, and also Mark my son.

Endnotes to 1 Peter

1 Peter Endnote #1 Unwritten Implications

In this epistle, Peter sometimes leaves the reader to supply the finish of a thought, particularly an unspoken object of a verb.

3:2 when they observe your pure conduct is with reverence for them.
4:4 they think it’s weird, denigrating you.
4:10 according to how each person has received a gift, minister it to each other...
5:6 so he may exalt you in his time.

1 Peter Endnote #2 Peculiar Aorists

The First Epistle of Peter contains several of what some have called “peculiar aorists.” Yet, they seem peculiar only to us of modern times or other languages, since the primary meaning of the ancient Greek tense was not time- past, present or future, but instead, “kind of action.” These instances of aorist below by Peter, do not mean past or present or future, and I suppose what may be peculiar about them, is they do not even express “kind of action,” but simply that they happen. Though the English words “dries up” and “falls” sound like present time to us, that is not what is conveyed. What is conveyed is simply that it happens at some point. It is the same with the gospel “is preached” to the dead. The focus is not at what time it is preached, or how often or continuously it is preached, but simply that it gets preached to the dead, for the reasons Peter then states. These aorists are probably what the BDF grammar calls “gnomic aorists.” BDF §333.

1Pe 1:24 διότι πᾶσα σὰρξ ως χόρτος, και πᾶσα δόξα αὐτῆς ως ἄνθος χόρτου· ἐξηράνθη ὁ χόρτος, καὶ τὸ ἄνθος ἐξέπεσεν.
24because all flesh is like grass, and all its glory like the flower of grass. The grass dries up, and its flower falls off, 1Pe 3:6 ὡς Σάρρα ὑπήκουσεν τῷ Ἀβραάμ, κύριον αὐτὸν καλοῦσα· ἦς ἐγεννήθη τεκνά ἀγαθοποιοῦσαι καὶ μὴ φοβούμεναι μηδεμίαν πτόησιν.

6like how Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord; whose daughters you have become, doing good, and not fearing any terror.

(Many translators render this aorist ἐγενήθητε as “whose daughters you are.” Or, “whose daughters you will become.”)

1Pe 4:6 εἰς τοῦτο γὰρ καὶ νεκροῖς εὐηγγελίσθη ἵνα κριθῶσι μὲν κατὰ ἀνθρώπους σαρκὶ ζῶσι δὲ κατὰ θεὸν πνεύματι.

“It is for that reason as well the gospel is preached to the dead. On the one hand so they might be judged according to humans in the flesh; on the other hand in the hope they might live according to God in the Spirit.

It is not for Christian scholars to fear true criticism or its results: the object of true criticism is not to alter scripture dogmatically on the judgment of any individual, but it is to use the EVIDENCE which has been transmitted to us, as to what the holy men of God, inspired by the Holy Ghost actually wrote. In this, as in any other Christian service, the blessing and guidance of God may be sought, by those who know the privileges resulting to the believing soul from the redemption of His Son.” (Tregelles's Greek New Testament: Introductory Notice, Part 1, ii).

2 Peter

Chapter 1

Simon Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who have obtained along with us equally precious faith by means of the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ, 2 grace and peace be multiplied to you, through the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord, 3 as his divine power has given to us all things pertaining to life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us to his own glory and virtue, 4 through which he has given to us precious and very great promises, in order that through these you might become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world from lust.

to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, and to knowledge self-control, and to self-control endurance, and to endurance godliness, and to godliness brotherly friendship, and to brotherly friendship add love. For these things abounding in you make you not barren or unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. For someone in whom these things are not present is blind, being short-sighted, forgetful of receiving the cleansing of his sins in the past. Therefore instead, brethren, be diligent to make your calling and election sure, for by doing these things you will never fail. For so will be richly supplied to you entry into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and savior Jesus Christ.

Wherefore I intend to remind you always about these things, even though you know them and are confirmed in the truth that has come. And I deem it right, as long as I am in this tent, to rouse you by a reminder, knowing that soon is the putting off of my tent, as indeed our Lord Jesus Christ has made clear to me, but I will strive to have you also after my departure always make mention of these reminders. For it is not after the fashion of skillfully fabricated stories we have made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we seem to be something extra or out of place in the Greek text here. DeBrunner, §290(4), says the καὶ αὐτὸ may be corrupted from κατ’ αὐτὸ. The ESV, NIV and NRSV read “For this very reason.” The KJV translates it “And beside this…” Tyndale: “And hereunto.” Geneva: “Therefore…”

were eye-witnesses of that majesty. ¹⁷For after receiving honor and glory from God the Father, what a voice was brought for him by that majestic glory: “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.” ¹⁸And we heard this voice, produced from heaven, when we were with him on the holy mountain. ¹⁹And we have a more sure word of prophecy, to which you would do well to take heed, as to a lamp shining in a dismal place, until the daylight shines through, and the Light Bearer dawns in your hearts,²⁰knowing this first of all, that no prophecy of scripture arises from personal illumination,²¹⁰²⁸²¹for no prophecy was ever brought by the will of a human being, but rather men spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit. ²¹⁰²⁹

¹But false prophets have also arisen among the people, as there will be false teachers among you as well. Such people will introduce destructive personal opinions,²¹⁰³⁰and contradicting the master who purchased them, bring upon themselves swift damnation. ²And many will follow their loose ways, because of whom, the way of truth will be disparaged. ³And in covetousness they will defraud you¹⁰³¹ with baseless¹⁰³² teachings. Whose ¹⁰²⁸ 1:20 The Greek word means “explanation,” but prophecies do not start with explanation; they have to arise first. I think this means “Illumination,” for example, in the sense of how Joseph or Daniel were able to understand dreams, so as to tell and explain the meaning. It is what must happen before interpretation, and that is why I did not use the word interpretation.

¹⁰²¹ 1:21b This Greek word αἱρέσεις, from which we get the transliterated word “heresies,” means “personal choices,” goes along with the “personal illumination” in 1:20. It means people making up their own beliefs, based not on the authority of God-inspired prophets and apostles, but based on their own personal choice, or on their own “spiritual revelation.” Another source of such destructive beliefs is a person being inspired by Satan. There is such a thing as “doctrines of demons.” Peter himself right here gives us a good definition of such destructive personal beliefs or heresies: any belief which contradicts our master Jesus Christ and his apostles.

¹⁰³⁰ 2:1 This Greek word αἵρεσις, from which we get the transliterated word “heresies,” means “personal choices,” goes along with the “personal illumination” in 1:20. It means people making up their own beliefs, based not on the authority of God-inspired prophets and apostles, but based on their own personal choice, or on their own “spiritual revelation.” Another source of such destructive beliefs is a person being inspired by Satan. There is such a thing as “doctrines of demons.” Peter himself right here gives us a good definition of such destructive personal beliefs or heresies: any belief which contradicts our master Jesus Christ and his apostles.

¹⁰³¹ 2:3 make gain of, overreach, cheat you; Bauer, p. 324, 3: in the sense of misrepresenting merchandise, they exploit you; BDF §148(1) defraud you. (They will exploit your greed and materialism. Exploiting would make no sense if it was their own greed and materialism they were exploiting. Jesus himself warned in his parables that desires for things, materialism, would choke out the seed and fruit from our lives.) In his parables he taught that many people will be deceived and led astray because of their own materialism, and the seductiveness of wealth. In modern American Christianity, materialism certainly must be the most socially accepted sin. Indeed, Christian men are chastised if they are not materialistic enough, as if there is a Christian obligation that they provide so much for their families that their family becomes richer than 99% of all families that existed in the history of the planet. James tells us that temptation only works because of our own desires, which get led out and enticed. sentence from of old was never idle, nor is their damnation sleeping.

For if God did not spare the angels who sinned, but transferred them down to Tartarus, being kept in chains of deep darkness for judgment day, and the ancient world he did not spare, when he brought a flood upon a world full of wicked people, except for Noah, one of eight who protected, heralder of righteousness, and the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah he condemned to ruin, reducing them to ashes, setting them as an example to those wanting to be ungodly, and rescued righteous Lot, who was overwhelmed by the behavior of them unrestrained in sensuality, (for that righteous man, though he lived among them, seeing and hearing day after day their lawless acts grated on his righteous soul) the Lord certainly knows how to deliver the godly out of trial, but store up the unrighteous for punishment on the day of judgment, and especially those running after the flesh in defiling lust, and who despise authority. Bold, over-bearing, they do not tremble as they insult higher powers, whereas angels who are much more able and powerful do not bring against them an accusation that is disparaging.\textsuperscript{1041}

The value of some of these variants is that we know the scribes had in mind the “agape feasts,” which in fact may be the scene here. (There is some question as to whether those were ever held in the daytime, or only in the evening.) The reading ἅπασας means deceptions, which I interpret as self-deceptions, or delusions. This is one of the known usages of the word. See also that mss. 1241 and 1739 read ἄγνοιας, which is also more related to delusion.

\textsuperscript{1045} 2:13c Regarding this Greek word τρυφή (truphe), it is a word of eating. We must remember that the form of Greek with which the apostles were familiar was that of the Greek Old Testament, the Septuagint, or LXX. This word τρυφή was used for “Dainties, delicacies” in Gen. 49:20; “fatness,” in Psalm 36:8, etc. There are many more, but the picture we get is “living it up with food, indulging in luxurious meals and delicacies.” This is why I rendered it “party.” If you look at all the uses of the word in the LXX, a majority of them have to do with feasting. This is another strong clue that Peter is describing the subjects’ attitude toward the communal meal or agape feast mentioned in the same verse.

\textsuperscript{1046} 2:13d cf. Jude 12, “feasting without reverence.” They think the fellowship feasts or “agape” feasts are “partying in the daytime for pleasure.” The parallel passage in Jude helps us understand what Peter is saying. The point of the phrase ηδονὴν ἡγούμενοι τὴν ἐν “agape” feasts are “partying in the daytime for pleasure.”

\textsuperscript{1050} 2:15c The elders of Moab and Midian came to Balaam offering to pay a fee, (Numbers 22:7) or payment, an “honor” (24:11) to be paid to Baalalm if he would come with them and curse the Israelites. Balaam inquired of God, and God told him not to go with the men, and not to curse Israel. But Balaam kept re-inquiring of God, in prayer that is wicked, (wicked transgression. A donkey, that has not speech, reigned in the madness of the prophet, by speaking up with a human voice.

17These are springs without water and clouds driven on by a storm, for whom the absolute blackness of darkness is reserved. 18For by uttering high sounding but worthless words they entice through the untempered desires of the flesh those just escaping the ones who live in error, promising them freedom, themselves being slaves of seduction. For by whatever someone has been defeated, to that he has become a slave.

20For if after having escaped the moral corruptions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ they are but again entangled, defeated by them, their latter state has become worse for them than their former.  21For it would have been better for them not to have known the path of righteousness, than though knowing it, to turn back from the holy commandment that was delivered to them.  22The definition of that true proverb is met in them: “A dog returns to its vomit, and a sow after washing herself to rolling in the filth.”

Chapter 3

1This now, beloved, is the second epistle I write to you in which 2I rouse your sincere minds by a reminder, 3to recall the statements spoken in the past by the holy prophets, and the direction from the Lord and Savior through your apostles, 3knowing this first of all, that there will come in the last days mockers, conducting themselves according to their own desires, 4and saying with scorn, “Where is the promise of his coming?

The presence or absence of the possessive pronoun ἡμῶν does not necessarily make a difference in translation of this phrase into English, since the definite article τοῦ can also be translated as “our.” The reading of Codex Vaticanus is probably original. I own the ECM1, so that is why these variants are arranged like this; but I adopt the reading of ECM2.

In turn, the word usually rendered “mire” or mud, means more exactly, “sullied mud, filth.” That is, mud that has dung in it. There is a nuance here that is supposed to revulse the Jewish sense of cleansing; and for this, presence of dung is required. Moreover, there is a parallelism intended with the vomit of a dog, to mention another bodily secretion this time of the pig; again, to revulse the Jewish cleanliness. And both dogs and pigs are unclean and despised animals; so much more their secretions.

Perhaps the shorter reading is from scribal familiarity with Jude 18. Note that all the versions (early translations into other languages), except one lone Bohairic manuscript, attest to the longer reading. One factor that could have contributed to this phrase getting lost is Peter’s style of having his modifying phrases frequently being separated by a large distance in the text from their Because from the time our fathers passed away, everything continues like it was from the beginning of creation."

5For this escapes them on purpose, that the heavens existed long ago, and the earth from water and through water was put together by the word of God, 6by which the then world perished when it was flooded with water; 7and the present heavens and earth by the same word are reserved for fire, kept until the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly people.

9But this one thing must not escape you, beloved, that with the Lord, one day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years like one day. 9The Lord of that promise is not loitering. Instead, he is being very patient toward us, 10not wanting anyone to perish, but rather all to come to repentance. 10But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, 11in which the heavens will pass away with a roar, and the elements be dissolved by burning up, and the earth and the works in it will be found no more.
11Since all these things are being dissolved, what kind of people is it requisite to be, looking forward to and cheering on the arrival of the day of God, by which it is all melted, the heavens to be dissolved by fire and the elements by burning up? 12And we are looking forward, according to his promise, to a new heaven and a new earth, in which righteousness is at home.

14Wherefore, beloved, looking forward to these things, be diligent to be found by him at peace, from being pure and blameless. 15And consider the patience of our Lord to be salvation, just as also our beloved brother Paul has written to you regarding the wisdom given to him, as also in all his epistles, talking in them about these things, in which are some things hard to understand, which untaught and unstable persons distort, as they do also the rest of the scriptures, to their own destruction.

17 You therefore, beloved, knowing this ahead of time, guard yourselves so that you not be led away by the error of unprincipled persons and fall from your own firm conviction, but grow in grace and in the knowledge of our lord and savior Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever.

[[Amen.]]

"It is not for Christian scholars to fear true criticism or its results: the object of true criticism is not to alter scripture dogmatically on the judgment of any individual, but it is to use the EVIDENCE which has been transmitted to us, as to what the holy men of God, inspired by the Holy Ghost actually wrote. In this, as in any other Christian service, the blessing and guidance of God may be sought, by those who know the privileges resulting to the believing soul from the redemption of His Son." (Tregelles's Greek New Testament: Introductory Notice, Part 1, ii).
First Epistle General of John

1 JOHN

1That which existed from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked at and our hands have examined, talking about the word of life, 2 even that life has been revealed, and we have seen it, and we are bearing witness and announcing to you eternal life, which was with the Father and has been revealed to us. 3 What we have seen and heard we are declaring to you also, so you too may have fellowship with us. And 1082 that fellowship of ours is with the Father, and with his son Jesus Christ. 4 And these things we 1083 write, 1084 so our mutual 1085 joy may be full.

5 And this is the message 1086 that we have heard from him and announce to you: that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. 6 If we say we are in fellowship with him, and are walking in darkness, we are lying, and not doing the truth. 7 If 1087 we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son 1088 cleanses us from all sin. 8 If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth 1089 is not in us. 9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.
¹⁰If we say we have not sinned, we are calling him a liar, and his word is not in us.

Chapter 2

¹My children, these things I am writing to you so that you will not sin. And if anyone sins, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; ²and he is the appeasement for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

³And by this we know that we have known him: if we keep his commandments. ⁴Someone who says, “I know him,” and does not keep his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. ⁵But whoever keeps his word, that is the person in whom the love of God really is accomplished. By this we know that we are in him. ⁶Someone who claims to abide in him ought also to walk just as he walked.

⁷Beloved, I am not writing to you a new commandment, but an old commandment that you have had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word that you have heard. ⁸Yet, it is a new commandment I am writing to you, which is true in him and in you, since the darkness passes away and the true light keeps shining even now. ⁹Someone who claims to be in the light, and hates his brother, is in darkness as of now. ¹⁰Someone who loves his brother is abiding in the light, and there is no cause of stumbling in him. ¹¹But someone who hates his... brother is in the darkness, and walks in the darkness, and does not know where he is going, because the darkness has blinded his eyes.

12 To you children, I write: “Your sins are forgiven you for his name’s sake.”

13 To you fathers, I write: “You know him who existed from the beginning.”

To you young men, I write: “You have overcome the evil one.”

14 I have written to you children that you have known the Father. I have written to you fathers that you have known him who existed from the beginning. I have written to you young men that you are strong and the word of God abides in you and you have overcome the evil one.

15 Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If someone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. 16 Because all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of possessions, is not of the Father, but is of the world. 17 And the world passes away, along with the lust of it, but whoever who does the will of God abides for ever.

18 Children, it is the last hour, and just as you have heard that antichrist is coming, even now many antichrists have arisen; for which...

The ECM editors consider the evidence for L. 1 and L. 2 to be of equal weight. I suspect L. 2 may be an “orthodox corruption,” meant to prevent a gnostic interpretation, as the UBS textual commentary also discusses.

1106 2:20b Or, perhaps another rendering may be: “19 They came out from us, but were not of us. For had they been of us, they would have remained with us. But, so they may be made apparent, that they all are not of us, 20 you also have an anointing from the Holy One, and know all people.” This would be reminiscent of John’s statement about Jesus in the gospel of John 2:24, 25, that Jesus knew all people, and did not need to have someone testify about a person, because he knew what was in the person. Thus, this is why John here says “you also have…” because Jesus did, and you also have it. The apostles did, and you also have it. But, the traditional rendering of this is an ellipsis [BDF § 448(7)] as follows: “but, they went out from us, so that they might be exposed that they all are not of us. And you have an anointing from the Holy One and know all things.” (There are no actual words in the Greek for the English words I put in italics here.) It isn’t any harder to “know all people” than to “know all things.” Indeed, there are fewer people than there are things. In the previous verse, v. 19, again the word “all” is problematic: “but so they may be made apparent, that they all are not of us.” What good does “going out” do as a sign, if only some of them are thereby shown to be “not of us”? How still would you know who is who? For that “leaving” to be valuable, you would have to render this, “that they be made apparent, that NONE of them are of us.” And then can John really be saying that ANYONE who leaves us is not of us? If so, what of Jesus’ warning to the disciples that just because someone does not “follow along with us,” does not mean they are not with us? (Luke 9:49,50 etc.)

1107 2:22 An example of such a denial is found in the Qu’ran: [9.30] And the Jews say: Uzair is the son of Allah; and the Christians say: The Messiah is the son of Allah; these are the words of their mouths; they imitate the saying of those who disbelieved before; may Allah destroy them; how they are turned away! [9.31] They have taken their doctors of law and their monks for lords besides Allah, and (also) the Messiah son of Marium and they were enjoined that they should serve one God only, there is no god but He; far from His glory be what they set up (with Him).

in the Father will abide. 25 And this is the message that He announced to us: eternal life. 26 These things I have written to you because of those deceiving you.

27 And you, the anointing that you received from him, it abides in you, and you have no need that someone teach you. But rather, as that anointing from him has taught you concerning all things, and is true and is not a lie, so also, just as it has taught you, you abide in him. 28 And now, children, abide in him, so that when he is revealed, we may have confidence, and not feel ashamed because of him at his coming. 29 If you know that he is righteous, you know that everyone who practices righteousness is born of him.

Chapter 3

1 Behold what manner of love the Father has given to us, that we should be called children of God. And we are. The reason the world does not know us is this: it has not known him. 2 Beloved, now we are children of God, though it is not yet revealed what we will be. We do know that when he is revealed, we will be like him. For we will see him just as he is. 3 And everyone who has this hope on Him purifies himself, just as that one is pure.

4 Everyone practicing sin is also practicing lawlessness, and sin is... lawlessness. ⁵And you know that he was revealed so that sins⁶ be taken away, and there is no sin in him. ⁶Everyone abiding in him does not sin. Everyone who keeps sinning has not seen him, neither known him.

⁷Children, let no one deceive you: someone who practices righteousness is righteous, just as that one is righteous. ⁸Someone who practices sin is of the devil, for the devil has been sinning from the beginning. For this purpose the son of God has been revealed: to destroy the works of the devil. ⁹Everyone born of God does not practice sin, because His seed abides in him, and it is not able to sin, because it is born from God.¹⁰⁰By this the children of God are evident versus the children of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ they are but again entangled, defeated by them, their latter state has become worse for them than their former. ²¹For it would have been better for them not to have known the path of righteousness, than though knowing it, to turn back from the holy commandment that was delivered to them." Jesus himself said that a servant who did not know the will of God and disobeyed, will receive few lashes, so to speak. But the servant who knew the will of God, and disobeyed, will receive many more lashes. Jesus also said in John 15:1-8 that he is the vine, we are the branches. If a branch that is in Me (a Christian who received the gospel, was born again, and received the Holy Spirit) does not bear fruit, he will cut off that branch and throw it in the fire. If we do not remain in the Spirit, walking in the Spirit, bearing fruit in the Spirit, we will bear no fruit and we will wither, and we will GO TO HELL, the fire, and be burned! For a Christian who backslides, the punishment in hell will be worse than for someone who was never a Christian! It is also like the parable of the 10 virgins. They all ten believed in the Lord, and were waiting for his return. But some did not get extra oil, and their lamp did not last all the way until the end. When they knocked on the Groom's door, the groom said "Go away, I do not know you." Jesus also said of the hypocrites, they have their inheritance in outer darkness. Who is a hypocrite? Someone living a double life. But practicing sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the Righteous." But practicing devil: everyone who does not practice righteousness is not of God, and also someone who does not love his brother.

Because this is the message which you have heard from the beginning: that we should love one another. Not like Cain, who was of the evil one, and killed his brother. And what was the reason he killed him? Because his own works were evil, and those of his brother were righteous.

Do not marvel, brethren, if the world hates you. We know that we have crossed over out of death into life, because we love the brethren. Someone who does not love his brother still abides in death.

Everyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him. By this we know love: because He laid down his life for us. And we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

Now whoever has the substance of the world, and sees his brother having need of it, and closes off his compassion from him, how does the love of God abide in him? Children, we should love, not in word or tongue, but in action and truth, and by this we will know that... we are of the truth, and will assure our heart[1133] before him 20 that when our heart accuses, that[1134] God is greater than our heart, and he knows all. 21Beloved, when our[1135] heart does not accuse us,[1136] we have confidence with God, 22and whatever we ask, we receive from him, because we are keeping his commandments, and doing the things that are pleasing in his sight.

23And this is his commandment: that we believe[1137] in the name of his son Jesus Christ, and that we love one another, just as he gave us[1138] commandment. 24And someone keeping his commandments is abiding in Him, and He in that person. And by this we know that we abide in him: by the Spirit which he has given to us.

Chapter 4

1Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits, whether they are of God; because many false prophets have gone out into the world. 2By this you know[1139] the spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh, is of God, 3and every spirit that does not confess[1140] Jesus [Christ has come in the flesh],[1141] is not of God. And this is antichrist, which you have heard that he was coming, and now is in the world already.  4You are of God, children, and have overcome him, because greater is he that is in you than he that is in the world.  5They are of the world; therefore speak they of the world, and the world hears them.  6We are of God.Someone who knows God hears us; someone who is not of of God does not hear us. From this we recognize the spirit of truth versus the spirit of error.

7Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God, and everyone who loves is born of God, and knows God.  8Someone who does not love has not known God, for God is love.  9To us the love of God was made known in this: that God sent his only begotten son into the world so we might be saved through him. 10Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son as the appeasement for our sins.

11Beloved, if that is how God loved us, we ought also to love one another.
12No one has ever seen God.  When we love one another, God abides in us, and his love is accomplished in us.  13By this we know that we are abiding in him and he in us: because he has given to us of his Spirit.

14And we have seen, and we bear witness, that the Father has sent the Son as savior of the world.  15Whoever confesses that Jesus is the son of God, God abides in that person, and that person in God.  16And we have known and believed the love that God has in us.  God is love; and someone who abides in love is abiding in God, and God in him. 17In this, love is accomplished with us, so that in the day of judgment we may have confidence that just as that one is, we in this world also are.  18There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear.  Because fear has torment, and someone who is afraid is not accomplished in love. 19We can love, because he first loved us.

20If anyone says, “I love God,” and he hates his brother, he is a liar. For someone who does not love his brother whom he has seen, cannot love God whom he has not seen. 21And this commandment we have from him: that he who loves God must also love his brother.

Chapter 5

1Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Anointed One is born of God, and everyone who loves the one who begat will also love someone begotten from him. 2By this we know that we love the children of God: when we love God and are doing his commandments. 3For this is love of God: that we keep his commandments. And his commandments are not heavy to bear, 4because everyone who has been born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that overcomes the world: our faith. 5Who is overcomer of the world, except someone who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

6He is the one who came through water and blood, Jesus Christ.
Not only by water, but by water and blood. And the Spirit is one\textsuperscript{1159} bearing witness, because the Spirit\textsuperscript{1160} is truth. \textsuperscript{7}For there are three that bear witness,\textsuperscript{1161} the Spirit and the water and the blood, and these three agree.\textsuperscript{1162} \textsuperscript{8}If we accept the witness of human beings, the witness of God is greater. For this is the witness of God that he has testified concerning his Son. \textsuperscript{9}Someone who believes in the Son of God has the witness\textsuperscript{1163} in himself.\textsuperscript{1164} But someone who does not trust in God\textsuperscript{1165} has called him a liar, because he has not trusted the testimony that God has testified concerning his Son. \textsuperscript{10}And this is the testimony: God has given to us eternal life, and that life is in his Son. \textsuperscript{11}Someone who has the Son of God has life. Someone who does not have the Son of God\textsuperscript{1166} does not have life.

\textsuperscript{11}I have written these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God,\textsuperscript{1167} so that you will know you have eternal life.\textsuperscript{1168} \textsuperscript{14}And this is the confidence that we have with him, that, if we ask for something that is in accordance with his will, he hears us. \textsuperscript{15}And if we know that he hears us, whatever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we have asked of him.

16If anyone sees his brother sinning a sin not to death, he shall ask, and God will give him life, for those not sinning to death. \textsuperscript{1169} 5:16 See how a brother sinning is considered a rare thing. In this epistle John warns us not to be deceived. We must not think that because we have received grace and the blood of Jesus was shed for us, and we receive that forgiveness, that we can go on sinning, and willfully sin all our lives, and then right before death confess it all and repent, and think Jesus will know us. No, my friends, if that is what your life was, Jesus will say, "Depart from me; I never knew you." God is not mocked. Whatever a man sows, that shall he also reap. Someone who is born of God does not practice sin. Jesus said Be perfect, as your Father in heaven is perfect. John says yes that we might stumble sometimes. But you cannot keep on willfully sinning after you got saved. That makes you an even more wicked person that someone who was never saved. Jesus said that your punishment will be extra severe. Your punishment in hell. Peter said that someone who is saved, but then returns to a life of sin, the final fate of that person is worse than it would have been without being saved. Who do you think Jesus is referring to when he says that many will say to him on judgement day, "Lord, did we not cast out demons in your name, and in your name perform miracles? etc. Jesus will say to them, Depart from me you people who do wickedness! I never knew you." You cannot live a wicked life and expect to escape hell, the Lake of Fire. Just because you believe John 3:16 does not mean that if you live a sinful life, you will escape hell. The Devil believes John 3:16. Do not be deceived. And yes, for a brother, a believer, there is sin to death. It says so in this verse, 1 John 5:16. John 3:16 will not help you escape 1 John 5:16 if you live a willfully sinful life.

Note though that both ἐαυτόν and ἐαυτόν can be reflexive in meaning.

\textsuperscript{1172} 5:18c Or, "does not touch it." I don't see this as the believer keeping himself (I agree that ὁ γεγεννημένος is elsewhere not used of the believer, -in fact it is not used at all anywhere else in the Greek Bible, and I agree that it is not referring to the believer here), but more along the lines of Paul's teaching in Romans 7:15-25, that when I sin, it is not "I" who is sinning, but sin that dwells within me. Thus the idea that the new man, the new creation, the new generation in me born from God, does not sin, but the former man does, and is still present in me, trying to control my body, at war with the new man in me that was generated by God. The new generation, that part of me that was born of God cannot sin; everything born of God does not sin. It is correct to expect the two different apostles to be in harmony with each other in their teachings, as they had the same teacher and the one and the same Holy Spirit. As in fact they are in agreement.

\textsuperscript{1173} 5:19 The Greek phrase ἐν τῷ ποινημένῳ κεῖται hints at helplessness and powerlessness or passivity of some kind, "in" the evil one. Something like "lies helpless, lies asleep, or lies dead." These were some of the meanings of the word κεῖμαι, according to the Liddell and Scott lexicon. But the word can also mean "situated in, exist." The word for "in" would indicate limits of the subjects' universe. There is a connotation of captivity and limitation. It is problematic to phrase this as simply "the whole world lies in the evil one," since today's schools, at least in the USA, allow students and English speakers to fail to understand the distinction between the intransitive form of the word, "lie," versus the transitive form, "lay." A great many Americans know English so poorly, that they might mis-understand the phrase "the whole world lies in the evil one" to mean, "the whole the evil one. 20 And we know that the Son of God has come, and he has given us the understanding to know the truth. And we are in the truth, in his son Jesus Christ. He is the true God, and eternal life.

21 Children, keep yourselves from idols.

Endnote on 1 John 2:12-14

There is a significant variation between the NA28 text and the Robinson/Pierpont text here, as follows.

First the NA28:

γράφω ὑμῖν τεκνία, ὅτι ἀφέωνται ὑμῖν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι διὰ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ.
γράφω ὑμῖν πατέρες, ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ’ ἀρχῆς.
γράφω ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι, ὅτι νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.

ἔγραψα ὑμῖν παιδία ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν πατέρα.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν πατέρες ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ’ ἀρχῆς.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι ὅτι ἀφέωνται ὑμῖν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι διὰ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ.
γράφω ὑμῖν παιδία ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν πατέρα.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν πατέρες ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ’ ἀρχῆς.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι ὅτι νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.

Now the RP text:

γράφω ὑμῖν τεκνία, ὅτι ἀφέωνται ὑμῖν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι διὰ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ.
γράφω ὑμῖν πατέρες, ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ’ ἀρχῆς.
γράφω ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι, ὅτι νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.
γράφω ὑμῖν παιδία ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν πατέρα.

ἔγραψα ὑμῖν πατέρες ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ’ ἀρχῆς.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι ὅτι ἀφέωνται ὑμῖν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι διὰ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ.
γράφω ὑμῖν παιδία ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν πατέρα.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν πατέρες ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ’ ἀρχῆς.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι ὅτι νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.

The NA28 has two sets of 3 sayings. The RP has sets of 4 and 2, and begins verse 14 at the 5th saying rather than the 4th saying as the NA28 does. The NA28 says "to you I write" 3 times, and "to you I have written" 3 times. The RP text says "to you I write" 4 times, and "to you I have written" 2 times.

I propose the reason for this is some scribe changed the first "I have written," (ἔγραψα) to, "I write," (γράφω) because he saw this one "I have written" as a false statement. Since he was understanding the word ὅτι as a quotation mark, and not as meaning "because" like almost all English translations do.
I will show it in English as he understood ὅτι, so you can clearly see what I mean:

To you children, I write: “Your sins are forgiven you for his name’s sake.”
To you fathers, I write: “You know him who existed from the beginning.”
To you young men, I write: “You have overcome the evil one.”

I have written to you children that you have known the Father.
I have written to you fathers that you have known him who existed from the beginning.
I have written to you young men that you are strong and the word of God abides in you and you have overcome the evil one.

The scribe saw the statement, "I have written to you children that you have known the Father," and thought it was false, since John had not stated such in the previous 3 sayings. So he changed it to "I write." (γράφω) Whereas all the other "I have written"s match two previous "I write" statements.

As for me, I take the word ὅτι as a quotation mark, rather than meaning "because." And the seeming false statement is no problem to me, because John is simply previewing what he will write in the epistle as a whole, not limiting what he is referring to to just the few previous verses.

Second Epistle General of John

2 JOHN

1. The Elder, to the elect lady, and to her children; whom I love in the truth; and not only I, but also everyone who knows assuredly the truth, 2by means of the truth that dwells within us, and will stay with us for eternity. 3Grace and mercy and peace shall follow us, from God the Father and from Jesus Christ, the Father's Son, in truth and love.

4It cheered me greatly that I have found children of yours walking in the truth, in accordance with the commandment we received from the Father. 5And now I beseech you, Lady, not as writing a new commandment to you, but one which we have had from the beginning: that we should love one another. 6And this is love: that we walk according to his commandments. This commandment is just as you have heard from the beginning, so that you would walk in it.

1180 v. 1 There is much discussion in the reference books about the meaning of the word κύρια here. Most translations render it "lady," which does not communicate the fact that this word is the feminine inflection of the word "lord." Its primary meaning is that of a woman who directs slaves or servants, i.e., a woman wealthy enough to own a home with servants. One of the main alternative interpretations is that this κύρια is figuratively the church, and her "children" are the people of the church. I do not consider this one a valid possibility, since I follow one of the maxims of hermeneutics, which states that when the plain sense of scripture makes common sense, seek no other sense. Though the Bauer Lexicon under εκλεκτός says "personification of the assembly," I do not buy it. A third possibility discussed is that Κυρία was someone's name. But the Bauer Lexicon says that that use was "rare and late." I think the use here is simply a term of respect for a woman whom John discussed is that Κυρία was someone's name. But the Bauer Lexicon says that that use was "rare and late." I think the use here is simply a term of respect for a woman whom John has discipled, who is noble and influential, and who has many children. John could be speaking of either her natural children, or her spiritual children.

The ECM editors consider the readings μένουσαν and ἐνοίκουσαν to be of equal value. I think even though they are two different words, that readers and scribes both, are so used to hearing John use the word μένος as meaning "indwelling," or abiding IN something, so that some scribes unconsciously replaced μένουσαν with ἐνοίκουσαν. In other words, people familiar with John's writings equated the two in this kind of saying. Note that with the preposition ἐν following as it does in most all MSS, ἐνοίκουσαν is redundant. As for the third reading, with οὐσαν in the continuous aspect, the meaning is really close to the same as the μένουσαν- continuing to be in us, staying in us, abiding in us.

There is not much difference in meaning between γενέσθαι and ελθεῖν in this context. But between ἄλλα and γὰρ there is. Either way, however, John is giving a reason why he did not write to them all the things he wants to communicate, since he intends to come to them. This variant footnote combines what are usually two footnotes, including Teststellung # 81 in Text und Textwert, which treats only the latter part, and does not include the ἄλλα ἐλπίζω portion. I did it this way because it gives a good picture of what the manuscript groupings are for 2 John.

The word ἀμην was a common liturgical addition which got confused as real text. The textual evidence that John did not write the word Amen in this epistle is absolutely overwhelming. It is this kind of clearly spurious addition to the word of God that makes me lose respect for Codex K and the Byzantine text type, no matter how great the number of minuscules that follow it. Also, the fact that Byzantine text advocates will not budge even on this kind of variant, makes me lose respect for those people.

The Elder, to the beloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth.
2Dear friend, I wish for you to prosper and be healthy in every regard, just as your soul is prospering. 3For it cheered me greatly when some brothers came, bearing witness to your truth, how you are walking in the truth. 4I have no greater joy than this, hearing that your children are walking in the truth.

5Dear friend, you do commendably whatever you labor at for the brothers, that is, for those travelers, who have testified before the church about your love. Whom you will do well to supply for their journeys in a manner worthy of God. 6Because, you see, for the sake of the Name they have gone forth, accepting nothing from the Gentiles.

7We therefore ought to take them who are like this under our roof, so we will become co-laborers with them in the truth. 8Which I have written to your church; but Diotrephes, who wishes to be the leader over them, does not welcome us. For which reason when I come, I will bring up the works that he has been doing, making frivolous charges against us with oppressive words. And not satisfied with this, neither does he welcome those brothers. And the ones that try to, he prevents, even throws them out of the church.

In fact, the whole verse 5 is the most difficult verse in 3 John to translate. For some translators have had difficulty with the fact that there are two verbs in the verse, ποιεῖς and ἐργάζομη. Indeed, some copyists conformed the subjunctive of ἐργάζομη to the present indicative of ποιεῖς. I get the impression that the term "the brothers" refers to one set of known traveling brothers. And not to "the brethren" generally, nor to the congregation in Gaius' church.

1197. 5d Classically the word "stranger" meant "alien, traveler, sojourner." Both Zeus, the God of the Greeks, and Yahweh, the God of the Jews, warn us to be sure to be hospitable to "strangers." This use here of strangers probably means someone that Gaius did not previously know. Still, most Greek speakers would be aware of the classical connotation of the word.

Dear friend, do not imitate the bad, but rather the good. Someone practicing the good is of God. Someone practicing the bad, has not seen God.

Demetrius is borne witness to by all, and by the truth itself. And we also bear witness, and you know that our testimony is true.

I had many things to write to you, but do not wish to write to you be of equal weight. The word τι is an indefinite pronoun, with many meanings, depending on context and construction. It is also used as a relative pronoun, which I believe it is here.

This is the first example of the error of the idea of one leader who is over all the other leaders. This idea is contrary to the teachings of the apostles, who deliberately appointed multiple, co-equal pastors in each church. The apostles as well, were co-equal to each other. In fact, I think the primary purpose of this third epistle of John is to combat the arising error of Diotrephes, the error of the idea of one supreme leader. God has been against this idea throughout the whole Bible. Israel had multiple judges and prophets, but the people wanted a king. God warned them against that. Do a study of how leadership was structured in the New Testament. Start with these passages:

When they had ordained elders in every church, Acts 14:23.

Elders of the church in Ephesus, Acts 20:17

Ordain elders in every city, Titus 1:5

Let him call for the elders of the church, James 5:14.

I Peter 5:1,2, "The elders among you I exhort, overseers of the flock..." Here Peter equates elders, presbuteroi, with overseers, episkopoi "bishops."

Acts 20:28, (see 20:17, elders of the church of Ephesus, 20:28, Paul now calls them overseers, episkopoi, so Paul also equates presbuteroi with episkopoi.

Philippians 1:1, the church there has plural overseers.

Titus 1:5, 7 Paul says appoint elders...for an overseer is... Paul again equates an elder with an overseer.

We can say that the office of elder and the office of overseer are the same office. The overseers should naturally be somewhat elder, especially elder in the faith (I Timothy 3:6, he must not be a recent convert) and one of their main functions is to both oversee and to visit; both meanings of episkopew.

Here in 3 John, there were some traveling brothers mentioned, who possibly had some supervisory function. That would make them, taking from the lists of offices and/or gifts, one of the following: apostles, prophets, or teachers.

Or, "does not approve of us." Also in v. 10 in reference to "the brothers."

I had many things to write, but to YOU I do not wish to write by paper and ink. In other words, "you are too special, I would rather see you face to face." Cf. 2 John 12, which has no such redundancy. Yet perhaps that comparison is the very thing that caused some scribes to unconsciously or consciously be averse to the redundancy. The fact that the reading with οἱ comes in two different word sequences, also makes it somewhat suspect.

Ἀγαπητέ, πιστὸν ποιεῖς ὃ ἐὰν ἐργάσῃ εἰς τοὺς ἀδελφοὺς καὶ τοῦτο εἰς τοὺς ξένους,
Dear friend, you do commendably whatever you labor at for the brothers, and this for strangers.

I get the impression that the term "the brothers" refers to one set of known traveling brothers. And not to "the brethren" generally, or the congregation in Gaius' church. Especially if the Byzantine reading in red is the correct one, which I would translate, "for the brothers, that is, the strangers [the traveling brothers].

If it did refer to the congregation and Christian brothers in general, then perhaps this instead would be the correct rendering:

"Dear friend, it is commendable, whatever you labor at for the brethren, this you are doing even for strangers."

For some translators have had difficulty with the fact that there are two verbs in the verse, ποιεῖς and ἐργάσῃ. Indeed, some copyists conformed the subjunctive of ἐργάσῃ to the present indicative of ποιεῖς.

The Epistle General of

JUDE

1 Jude, a servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to those who are called, beloved to God the Father, and kept by Jesus Christ, mercy and peace and love be multiplied to you.

2 Beloved, as I was making all speed to write to you concerning our shared salvation, I felt a need to write to you exhorting that you earnestly contend for the faith that was once delivered to the saints. For a certain type have crept in, already designated for this fate, ungodly people, turning the grace of our God into licentiousness, and thus contradicting our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.

3 But I want to remind you, though you have known all this at one time, how even though Jesus delivered the people from the land of Egypt, he later nevertheless destroyed the ones who did not believe. And the angels that did not preserve their high position, but deserted their proper home, those he has held under heavy darkness with eternal chains, for the judgment of the great day. In the same way, Sodom and Gomorrah and the surrounding towns, who engaged in sexual debauchery and went after abnormal flesh, they are set forth as an example of people undergoing the punishment of eternal fire.

4 Yet despite all that, these people, deluded, not only defile the flesh, but reject authority, and insult higher powers. In contrast Michael the archangel, during a dispute with the Devil, when he was arguing over the body of Moses, he dared not make a disparaging accusation, but said, “The Lord rebuke you.” But this type, what things they don’t understand, they denigrate, and things instinctive, like what unreasoning animals understand, by those things they are destroyed.

5 Woe to them! For they have gone the way of Cain, for a payment rushed headlong in the error of Balaam, and perished in the rebellion of Korah.

1211 Jude 11 The elders of Moab and Midian were offering a fee, (Numbers 22:7) or payment, an “honor” (24:11) to be paid to Baalam if he would curse the Israelites. Baalam inquired of God, and God told him not to go with the men, and not to curse Israel. But Baalam kept re-inquiring of God, in prayer that is wicked, (wicked prayer, because he already had received the answer, but did not like the answer), Baalam kept inquiring of God, even looking for omens (24:1) by sacrificing at different places, apparently hoping that God might change his mind, and then Baalam could earn the fee after all. Certainly, that would be a payment from unrighteousness. The thing to note is, that Baalam was a true prophet of Yahweh, and he rightly spoke only what Yahweh told him to speak; yet he is eternally damned because of his heart, because his heart kept hoping to earn some money that was wrong to earn. Motives count to God, not just deeds. Baalam’s heart loved money too much.
This type are the unseen obstacles in your communal meals, feasting without reverence; shepherding only themselves, clouds without water, driven on by the winds; trees turned color without fruiting, doubly dead, uprooted; wild waves of the sea frothing up their disgrace; planets off course; for whom absolute blackness of darkness is reserved for ever.

But even Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied these things, saying, "Behold, the Lord has come, with myriads of his holy ones, to pass judgment against all, and to convict all the ungodly concerning all their ungodly acts which they have godlessly done, and concerning all the harsh words which ungodly sinners have spoken against him." These are grumblers, blamers, proceeding according to their own desires, yet their mouth speaks swelling things admiring important people to gain favor.

But you, beloved, recall the matters foretold by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, how they told you that in the end time there would be imitators, who proceed according to their own impious desires. These are the separators; natural, not having the Spirit.

12¹ Jude 12a - lit. "reefs." Or, "This type are blemishes..." cf. 2 Peter 3:17
12² Jude 12b Ezekiel 34:2, 8
12³ Jude 12c There is a Greek word here, if when pronounced the ancient way, would sound like "patina."
12⁴ Jude 14 A myriad is ten thousand, but pluralized- multiple 10 thousands. But in this kind of literature it just means a huge number.
12⁵ Jude 15a "Every soul" or "all the ungodly"? In the passage Jude is quoting, Enoch 1:2-9, everyone, all people, even the Watchers, tremble in fear at his coming, and the judgment that follows, includes judgment upon the righteous. Enoch 1.5 "And all will be afraid, and the Watchers will shake, and fear and great trembling will seize them, up to the ends of the earth.” Enoch 1.7 “And the earth will sink, and everything that is on the earth will be destroyed, and there will be judgment upon all, and upon all the righteous.” Then v. 9 is where it says, “And behold! He comes with ten thousand Holy Ones; to execute judgment upon them and to destroy the impious, and to contend with all flesh concerning everything that the sinners and the impious have done and wrought against Him.” Quotation of Enoch is from A Modern English Translation of the Ethiopian Book of Enoch with introduction and notes by Andy McCracken.
12⁶ Jude 16 Also v. 18, "proceeding according to their own desires" in contrast to Romans 8:14, "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God"
12⁷ Jude 18 The basic meaning of ἐμπαικτης is mimicking in order to trick, counterfeit or defraud; this was foretold. This same word is used in Matthew 2:16 for "trickling, deceiving" Herod. The LSJ lexicon glosses ἐμπαικτὴς as "mocker, deceiver." We forget that the English word "mock" means to mimic, imitate. Though the renderings "scoffers" or "mockers" are also possible, that fits better with the 2 Peter 3 context, whereas Jude is talking of people who are attending the communion meals with us, and have an appearance of spirituality. When they are leaders, they are "impostors." And when speaking of the Old Testament, they were people who were in among the people of God as well. They are not scoffers of religion, but pretenders among us. They are counterfeiters. The gnostics were some. Many interpreters think Jude is borrowing concepts from the gnostics in order to mock them. The chief counterfeit will be the antichrist. But there are many antichrists. II Tim 3:13: "But evil men and impostors will proceed (from bad) to worse, deceiving and being deceived."
12⁸ Jude 19 ψυχικός classically is about the unseen, vs. the seen body. It is indeed "spirituality" in the sense that it is not the seen physical matters of the body. Yet it is a spirituality that is natural and commonplace, (even animals have it) and does not require
But you, beloved, building yourselves up in your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Spirit, keep yourselves in the love of God, anticipating the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ, into eternal life.

And on some you should have mercy, who are doubting; others, save like snatching them from the fire; and others, have the mercy with fear, hating even the garment defiled by their flesh.

Now to Him who has the power to keep you from stumbling, and to stand you in the presence of his glory blameless and exulting, to the only God our savior through Jesus Christ our Lord, to him be glory, majesty, dominion and power, in all ages before, and now, and into all the ages to come. Amen.

REVELATION

of John

Chapter 1

Prologue

¹The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him, to show to his servants what things must soon take place, and which he signified when he sent it via his angel to his servant John, ²who has confirmed as the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ, what all things he saw.

³Blessed are the one reading and those listening to the words of this prophecy, and keeping the things written herein, for the time is near.

⁴John, to the seven churches in Asia, grace to you, and peace, from Him who is, and who was, and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne, ⁵and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and ruler over the kings of the earth. To him who loves us, and freed us from our sins with his blood, and made us into a kingdom of priests for his God and Father— to him be glory and power, for ever and ever. Amen.

7 Behold, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye shall see him, including of those who pierced him. And all the peoples of the earth shall beat their breasts over him. 1227 Let it be so, amen.

8 "I am the Alpha and the Omega," says the Lord God, "the one who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty."

Someone Like a Son of Man

9 I, John, your brother and fellow in the oppression and kingdom and endurance in Jesus, was on the island called Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus. 1228 I was in the Spirit during the Lord’s day, and I heard behind me a loud voice, like of a trumpet, saying, 1229 1230 "What you see, write in a book, and send it to the seven churches – to Ephesus, and to Smyrna, and to Pergamum, and to Thyatira, and to Sardis, and to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea."

12 And I turned around to see the voice that was speaking with me. And when I turned, I saw seven golden lampstands, 1231 and in among the lampstands was someone like a son of man, 1232 dressed in a cloak reaching down to his feet, and gird around at the pecs with a golden

But I didn't want to translate mastoïs as a singular word like chest, when the Greek is plural, so I used "pecs" which is short for pectorals.

And when I saw him, I fell down by his feet as though dead. And he placed his right hand on me, saying, 'Do not fear. I am the First and the Last, and the Living One, and I was dead, and behold, living for ever and ever, and I have the keys of death and of Hades.'

Write therefore what things you see and what things are now, and also what things are about to take place after these things. The mystery of the seven stars which you see upon my right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.

Chapter 2

To the Church in Ephesus

'To the angel of the church in Ephesus, write: 'These things says He who grips the seven stars in his right hand, who walks among the seven golden lampstands: I know your works, and your toil and endurance, and how you are not able to tolerate evil people, and have put to the test those who call themselves apostles and are not and have found them to be liars; and you have endurance, and have held up for the sake of my name, and not become weary.

But I have against you that you have left your first love. Remember therefore from where you have fallen, and repent and do your first works; otherwise I am coming to you and will remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent.

But this you have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. He who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will grant to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

To the Church in Smyrna

⁸And to the angel of the church in Smyrna, write: 'These things says the First and the Last, who was dead and came alive again: ⁹I know your affliction and your poverty (but you are rich) and the blasphemy of those claiming to be Jews and are not but are a synagogue of Satan. ¹⁰Don't be afraid of any of the things you are about to suffer. Behold, the devil is about to throw some of you into prison, so that you may be tried, and you will have affliction for ten days. Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life. ¹¹He who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. He who overcomes will certainly not be harmed by the second death.

To the Church in Pergamum

¹²And to the angel of the church in Pergamum, write: These things says He who has the sharp two-edged sword: ¹³I know where you live, where Satan's throne is; yet you hold fast to my law and have not denied my faith, even in the days of Antipas my faithful witness who was put to death near you, where Satan lives.

¹⁴But I have a few things against you, that you have some there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the children of Israel, to eat idol sacrifices and to commit sexual immorality. ¹⁵So also in the same way you have some who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans. ¹⁶Repent therefore. Otherwise I am coming to you soon, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

¹⁷He who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. He who overcomes, I will give to him from the hidden manna, and I will also give him a white stone, and on the stone a new name is written, which no one knows except the one receiving it.

I think that the addition of δ μισό was from scribes thinking of 2:6, and that ομοίως is the original text. The omission however, also commends itself as a possibility.

To the Church in Thyatira

And to the angel of the church in Thyatira, write: 'These things says the Son of God, he who has his eyes like flames of fire and his feet like glowing bronze: "I know your works and love and faith and service, and your perseverance, how your last works are greater than your first."

But I have against you that you tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess and teaches, and leads my servants astray, to commit sexual immorality and to eat things sacrificed to idols. And I have given her time to repent, and she is not willing to repent of her sexual immorality. Behold, I am casting her onto a bed, along with the ones committing adultery with her, for an affliction of great magnitude, unless they repent of her works. And her children I will destroy in death; and all the churches will know that I am He who searches minds and hearts, and that I will pay to each of you according to your works.

And to the rest of you in Thyatira I say, as many as do not hold to these teachings— the ones who have not known 'the deep things of Satan,' as they say, I am not laying any further burden upon you. Except what things you have, hold on to them until I come. And he who overcomes

Footnotes:
1242 2:19 The five traits in this list are not stated as one clause, but two clauses. The trait perseverance is set apart into a separate phrase and new train of thought by the possessive pronoun "sou" appearing with it again after it not being present with the previous three traits. Then the kai following it is meant to connect the next phrase with it in a Semitic "and" of explanation, where better Greek would have used a different word such as ὁτι, that is, "and I know your perseverance, how your last works are greater than your first." There are several, and possibly many, other examples of this in the apocalypse.

1246 2:23 The Greek says nefroùs, kidneys. Different languages and cultures use varying body parts for designating the seat of desire and affection. This use of "kidneys" isn't any less reasonable than how we use the heart for some things. The heart of course is really just a muscle. The tribe I was raised with in Papua New Guinea used several body organs. They would say, "God cleansed my stomach, and came in to live in my liver." This use of the kidneys came from the Hebrew culture, and the King James Version and older English translations render it "reins." (When you look at a picture in a medical book of the tubes coming down from the kidneys to the bladder, it does look like reins on a horse.) And according to Diodorus, the kidneys and the heart were the only organs left in the body cavity by Egyptian embalmers. See also Jeremiah 11:20; 17:10; 20:12.

1247 2:24 The Textus Receptus is very faulty in this verse; it adds two instances of the Greek word kai, "and," which are not in the Greek manuscripts. Thus the KJV erroneously reads the extra "and's."

will not know at what hour I will come upon you.

⁴"But you do have a few names in Sardis who have not defiled their ⁵He who overcomes in this way shall be dressed in garments of white,

The Throne in Heaven

There is a passage in Ezekiel containing many similarities to this passage, Ezekiel 1:26-28, and there the throne is described as looking like stones similar to here. One wonders if some copyists conformed this passage to the one in Ezekiel. It seems more appropriate to describe a throne in terms of stones rather than a person. Yet the one seated is not human. So was the situation instead that some copyists were trying to clarify that it was the one sitting that was like that in appearance. At any rate, the stone carnelian is flesh-colored. One could understand either reading as referring to the one sitting. On the one hand, the rule of "lectio brevior lectio potior" favors the shorter reading here. The shorter reading makes fine sense, by simply putting a comma between verses 2 and 3. It seems reasonable that the longer reading is an added explanatory phrase. On the other hand, the seeming redundancy of the NA27 reading, after v. 2 having just said, "someone sitting" already, is very Johannine in style.

\(^{1259}\) 4:3b Greek, sárdion. Some also render this as Sardius. The English word carnelian is derived from the Latin root carn, from which we get carnal and carnivore and carne, and was named that because the stone was flesh-colored. The Oxford dictionary defines carnelian as a flesh-colored, deep red, or reddish-white variety of chalcedony.

\(^{1260}\) 4:3c This is from the Greek word îris, which can mean rainbow or halo. Webster's second definition of aura is: "a luminous radiation: Nimbus." I didn't like rainbow, since the rainbow by definition includes the whole spectrum of colors, whereas this phenomenon is only green. Halo is possibly suitable; it's just that the English reader is accustomed to it being only something around the heads of holy people or saints in art. But halo is also used in astronomy.

Who is Worthy to Open the Scroll?

1 And I saw upon the right hand of the one sitting on the throne a scroll, written on, inside and back, sealed up with seven seals. And I saw a powerful angel, heralding in a loud voice: "Who is worthy to open the scroll, and to break the seals of it?"

And no one was able, not in heaven nor on the earth nor under the earth, to open the scroll, or even to look at it. And I was weeping greatly, that no one worthy was found, to open the scroll, or even to look at it.

Then one of the elders is saying to me, "Do not weep. Look, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, he has overcome, so as to open the scroll and the seven seals of it."

And I saw in between the throne and the four living beings and the elders, a lamb, postured as though slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the spirits of God sent forth into all the earth. And he went and took the scroll from the right hand of the One sitting on the throne.

And when he had taken the scroll, the four living beings and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb, each one holding a lyre and a golden bowl filled with incenses, which are the prayers of the saints.

1272 5:8 The Greek word is "kithara," which with that era’s pronunciation would sound to us as "guitarra," like the Spanish word for guitar. The Online Encyclopedia Britannica defines it as follows: "Large lyre of Classical antiquity, the principal stringed instrument of the Greeks and later of the Romans. It had a box-shaped resonating body from which extended two parallel arms connected by a crossbar to which 3–12 strings were attached. It was held vertically and plucked with a plectrum; the left hand was used to stop and damp the strings. It was played by singers of the Greek epics, as well as by later professional accompanists and soloists." The lyre was an intermediate transition step from the harp to the guitar and viol which have finger boards. The English word "harp" is no more accurate a rendering here than guitar, since a harp today is usually a 6 foot tall instrument mainly used with orchestras, whereas a guitar is a portable, personal instrument, more like here in Revelation than is a harp.

According to the UBS Textual Commentary, the reading of Codex A and the Ethiopic best explains the origin of the others: copyists wanted to supply an object for the verb. But when they added the ἡμᾶς, "us," they created a conflict with v. 10 where it says "you have made αὐτούς - "them" into a kingdom and priests, and βασιλεύσουν "they" will reign. As the text stands in the RP editions, it at first seems you have the 24 elders saying they themselves were purchased by His blood, but then in v. 10 they exclude themselves from the group that will reign on the earth. But it is likely that the 24 elders will indeed be among those who reign on the earth, since they sit on 24 thrones and have golden crowns. Whereas, when you have the elders word it as in the NA27, they can be including themselves in the "some" who were purchased and will reign. However, Dr. Maurice A. Robinson says the solution probably lies in the fact that there are multiple groups who are singing this song, and they are taking turns singing different parts; i.e., the Elders sing the "us" part, and the Four Living Beings sing the "them" part. This omission is a clear case of "homoioteleuton" that happened in the Greek copying process. That means, the lines end the same, so a copyist, having left off his work for a break, then resumed doing his work, and he remembers, "I resume, at the line ending with κατεκάη," but he resumed with the wrong line ending with κατεκάη. Skipped one line by accident. Homoioteleuton. Or, it could have been a case of "homoioarcton," that is, all three lines BEGIN the same, with καί, and the scribe having left off, resumed, thinking, "I resume with the line beginning with καί, but he picked the wrong line beginning with καί. Interestingly, the scribe of manuscript 620 wrote the phrase in question two times, which is another kind of result from parablepsis from homoioteleuton.

8:9 Greek: τὰ ἔχοντα ψυχάς, literally, "a third of the creatures in the sea died, those possessing souls." Bauer begins his lexicon entry for this word ψυχή, "soul," by saying, "It is often impossible to draw hard and fast lines between the meanings of this many-sided word." It would certainly be silly to render this instance of the word as "lives," as follows: "one third of the creatures in the sea died, those having lives." It is very unlikely that any author would feel the need to make clear that it was those creatures that had lives, that died. This seems to be a demonstrative phrase, specifying some particular subset of creatures. "Those that have breath" seems possible, as in conformance with the usage in Genesis. Compare LXX Genesis 1:30, those having the breath of life; and 2:7, where the man became a soul when he received the breath of life through his nostrils. Further, the LXX in Genesis 1:20-23 calls those sea creatures that breathe, such as whales and snakes, "souls." But then the question arises why the bloody sea would kill only air-breathers. The problematic phrase, τὰ ἔχοντα ψυχάς, with the nominative definite article, is commented on in the BDF grammar in § 136(1) as follows, "Revelation exhibits a quantity of striking solecisms which are based especially on inattention to agreement (a rough style), in contrast to the rest of the NT and to the other writings ascribed to John: (1) An appositional phrase (or circumstantial participle) is often found in the nominative instead of an oblique case (§ 137(3))." The only reasonable apposition or circumstance seems to be as worded above: "those that have lives in the sea."

The Fifth Trumpet

1 And the fifth angel sounded his trumpet; and I saw a fallen star,\textsuperscript{1300} fallen out of heaven onto earth, and the key to the bottomless pit had been given to him. 2 And he opened the bottomless pit, and smoke ascended from the pit like smoke from a giant furnace. And the sun and the sky became dark from the smoke of the pit. 3 And from the smoke, locusts went out over the earth, and they were given a power like the power that the scorpions of Earth have.

4 And it was commanded them that they not harm the grass of the earth or anything green or any tree,\textsuperscript{1301} but only humans who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads. 5 And orders were given them that they not kill them, but that they be tormented for five months. And their torment will be like the pain of a scorpion when it strikes a person. 6 And during those days the people will seek death, and will not find it. Yes, they will long earnestly to die, and death will elude them.

7 And the appearance of the locusts was like horses outfitted for war, and on their heads something like golden crowns, and their faces like human faces, 8 and they had hair like the hair of women, and their teeth were like lions’ teeth, 9 and they had thoraxes like breastplates of iron, and the sound of their wings was like the sound of many chariot horses rushing to battle. 10 And they have tails like scorpions, and stingers, and in their tails were darkened, but rather one third of something singular 'was darkened,' and the meaning is that one third of their strength, one third of the collective light was darkened. What it is NOT saying is that one third of the number of them were totally dark. And probably not that one third of the duration of the day or night was dark. It is saying that the day and the night were each only two thirds as light as normal. See Isaiah 13:10; Ezekiel 32:7; Joel 3:15

The Prophet’s Bitter Burden

1And I saw another powerful angel coming down out of heaven, wrapped in a cloud, and a nimbus above his head, and his face like the sun, and his legs like columns of fire, and holding in his hands a little scroll that was opened. And he placed his right foot upon the sea, and his left upon the land, and he cried out with a great voice, like a lion roaring,
And when he had cried out, the seven thunders spoke with their sounds.

4 And when the seven thunders had spoken, I was about to write, and I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Seal up what things the seven thunders have spoken, and do not write them."

5 And the angel which I had seen standing on the sea and on the land, he lifted his right hand to heaven, and swore by Him who lives for ever and ever, who gave birth to the heaven and the things in it, and to the earth and the things in it, and to the sea and the things in it, he swore that there shall be no more time, but that in the days of the blast of the seventh angel, whenever he is about to sound his trumpet, even then will be brought to completion the mystery of God, as he has announced it to his servants the prophets.

8 And the voice that I had heard from heaven, it spoke with me again, and said, "Go take the scroll that is opened in the hand of the angel who is standing on the sea and on the land."

9 And I went over to the angel, asking him to give me the little scroll. And he says to me, "Take it and eat it, and it will make your stomach bitter, though in your mouth it will be sweet like honey." 10 And I took the little scroll from the hand of the angel, and I ate it, and in my mouth it was sweet like honey. And after I had eaten it, my stomach was made bitter.

11 And they are saying to me, "You must again prophesy concerning many peoples and nations and languages and kings."

And the outer courtyard of the temple you shall exclude, and not measure it, for it has been given to the Gentiles, and they will trample on the holy city for forty-two months. And I will give authority to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for 1,260 days clothed in sackcloth.”

These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands which stand before the Lord of the earth. And if anyone wants to harm them, fire comes from their mouth and consumes their enemies. And if anyone would want to harm them, this is how he ought to be killed. These have the authority to shut up the sky so that no rain will fall during the days of their prophesying, and they have authority over the waters to turn them into blood, and to strike the earth with any kind of plague as often as they wish. And when they complete their witness, the beast coming up out of the bottomless pit will make war with them, and will conquer them and kill them.

And their corpses lie on the boulevard of the great city which is spiritually named Sodom and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified. And from peoples and tribes and languages and nations they see their corpses for three and a half days. And they are not allowing their corpses to be placed in a grave. And those dwelling on the earth rejoice over them, and celebrate, and will send gifts to one another. For these two prophets had tormented those dwelling on the earth.

And after three and a half days, the breath of life from God went into them, and they stood up on their feet. And great fear fell over those who lived on the earth.

And they went up into heaven in a cloud, and their enemies watched them. ¹³And in that hour a great earthquake took place, and one tenth of the city collapsed, and 7,000 people were killed. And the survivors were terrified, and they gave glory to the God of heaven.

¹⁴The second woe has passed. Behold, the third woe comes quickly.

The Last Trumpet

¹⁵And the seventh angel sounded his trumpet; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, 'The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord, and of his Christ! And he shall reign for ever and ever!'

¹⁶And the twenty-four elders, who sit on their thrones before God, fell on their faces and worshiped God, saying, "We thank you, Lord God Almighty, who is and who was, that you have taken that great power of yours and begun to reign. And the nations have become angry, and your anger also has come, and the time for the dead to be judged, and reward to be given to your servants the prophets and to the saints and to those fearing your name, both small and great, and to destroy the ones destroying the earth.'

¹⁹And the temple of God in heaven opened, and the ark of his covenant was seen in his temple; and there came peals of thunder, and noises and rumblings and an earthquake, and large hailstones.
Chapter 12

The Woman, Her Seed, and the Dragon

1And a great sign was seen in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars, 2and being with child, and crying out with contractions and anguish to deliver.

3And another sign was seen in heaven, and behold, a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and on his heads seven crowns,4 and his tail is pulling one third of the stars from heaven; and it threw them to the earth. And the dragon took his stand in front of the woman who was about to deliver, so that he might devour the child whenever it was born.

5And she bore a son, a male child, who was destined to shepherd all the nations with a rod of iron. And her child was snatched up to God and to his throne. 6And the woman fled to the desert, to where she has a place prepared there by God, so that there they might take care of her for 1,260 days.

7And there was war in heaven, Michael and his angels must make war with the dragon. And the dragon made war, and his angels also, 8 and he was not strong enough, neither was their place found anymore in heaven. 9And the great dragon was thrown out, that ancient serpent, which is called the Devil and Satan, who deceives the whole world, he was thrown to the earth, and his angels thrown along with him.

10And I heard a great voice in heaven, saying, "Now has come the salvation and power and kingdom of our God, and the authority of his Christ; for the accuser of our brethren has been thrown out, the one accusing them before our God day and night, 11 and these have overcome him by the however. The parade of majuscules and papyri in support of the NA28 reading is impressive. The Philoxenian Syriac has “fire” instead of earthquake.

1332 12:3 Greek, diadems; whereas the Greek word for the crowns of 12:1 is stephanos. The diadem is of Persian origin, signifying royalty; and the stephanos originally had more the meaning of a prize or trophy or reward. It was originally a wreath, as well.

1333 12:4 That is, one third of the angels. We know of only three archangels: the being who is now Satan, and Michael, and Gabriel. Therefore it is reasonable to conclude that each archangel ruled one third of the angels. When Satan was cast out of heaven, he took the one third of the angels with him. See for example 12:7, where it says "Michael and his angels." Jesus said in Luke 10:18, "I was watching as Satan fell from heaven like lightning."

This textual difference about who or what was standing at the shore of the sea, is what determines whether a Greek New Testament edition places this sentence here as verse 18 in this context, or places this sentence in Chapter 13:1. Thus, since the TR and RP editions follow the second reading, they place this sentence in 13:1, with John the one standing rather than the dragon. The UBS textual commentary says that the latter reading appears to have arisen when copyists accommodated the 3rd person 'he stood' to the first person of the following 'I saw.' It is attractive to make it John the one standing on the shore of the sea, since the next thing he does is observe a beast rising out of the sea. But it also makes perfect sense that the dragon stood at the shore of the sea, because it was expecting or bringing up the beast out of the sea. We have just read in the previous verse that the dragon went to make war with the woman's seed, and this is how he made war: he brought up the beast from the sea, which later in 13:7 of this chapter makes war on the saints and conquers them.

Some translations interpret this phrase, "on its heads were names" as saying "each" head had a [different] name, and others that each head had more than one name on each. The reason I went with the rendering I have is that the singular can be understood either way; that is, "on its heads a name that is blasphemous" can be interpreted as "each a different name," so thus "names" plural, or that they all had the same blasphemous name. Conversely, the plural "names" could be understood distributively. I chose to do this for the reason that I am not persuaded either way as to which is the correct manuscript reading. What is really different is interpreters that see this as meaning each head had more than one name on it, like the CEV & NLT: "on each of its heads were names..." Interesting that the Douay-Rheims has the plural when all its contemporaries had the singular. My thinking is like the NIV rendering: "and on each head a blasphemous name." It seems to me that "head" being plural might have assimilated "name" over to the plural.

And it could be argued that the additional phrase "into captivity" he must go, in the second clause, was a clarification on the part of Codex A as well. And then the "HAS part of the RP reading, "has captivity" was then interpreted by the TR copyists as meaning, "if anyone has captives," rather than if anyone has that fate. It is a principle of Textual Criticism that when there is a large set of variations on a reading, it is suspect. Such is the case here with the present indicative active reading. The UBS Textual Commentary says: "Among the dozen variant readings, the least unsatisfactory appears to be ἀποκτανθῆναι, αὐτόν, ["is to be killed, he,"] supported by Codex Alexandrinus. As in the first two lines of the verse, the third and fourth lines teach (as does also Jr 15:2, on which the saying rests) the duty of endurance and the fulfillment of the will of God. Perhaps under the influence of such sayings as Mt 26:52 (πάντες γὰρ οἱ λαβόντες μάχαραν ἐν μαχαίρῃ ἀπολοῦνται), copyists modified in various ways the difficult Greek construction (which, as Charles points out, seems to be a literal rendering of a distinctively Hebrew idiom, "if anyone is to be slain with the sword, he is to be slain with the sword") and introduced the idea of retribution (persecutors will be requited in strict accord with the lex talionis)." 1356 13:16a The Greek word is poiēō, which Bauer in 1 b 115 says here means "make to, cause someone to, bring it about that." With hina and a subjunctive verb in place of the infinitive. So in this case what people are caused to do would be to didōmi, in the 3rd person plural subjunctive, "they give." So therefore we have this phrase, "He causes everyone to give to them a mark." Everyone will be giving a mark to whom? To themselves. Yes, that is the primary meaning of the pronoun 'autos' here. Many translations have rendered didōmi as "receive." Tyndale did it, though there were a few manuscripts that had the Greek word for receive here. But "receive" is not lexically supported as a possible meaning of didōmi. Again, it is fashionable to render 3rd person plural actives as passives; see for example Mark 4:21, erchetai, "exist"; Luke 12:20, apaitousin "they are demanding"; Rev. 10:11, legousin, "they are saying"; Rev. 11:1, legōn, "as he is saying"; Rev. 12:6, trephōsin, "they might take care;" and other examples. I am saying that I rendered all these as actives, and they work fine that way. So there is no reason compelling enough to break the rules of grammar. The only reason I can come up with for this trend, is that it is their idea of an "impersonal" verb. Yes, a general "they" is impersonal, but that is still not a reason to make an active verb passive. It is perfectly colloquial and grammatical to say "they call him Jesus," etc. The only justification for making an active verb passive that I know of in colloquial and grammatical to say "they call him Jesus," etc. The only justification for making an active verb passive that I know of in

The TR has the verb "give" in 3rd person singular, δῶσῃ, and subjunctive aorist. The TR reading reflects an attempt I think to conform the clause to the standard Greek configuration for an "impersonal" verb, where there is no subject as a giver, and the verb is turned passive. Thus, "they might be given." This is a fact that the Greek grammars say that an "impersonal" verb in Greek grammar is in the 3rd person SINGULAR. I conclude that this is a deliberate change in the Greek text to correct grammar.

The TR reading is a small minority reading, in later manuscripts, and probably not the authorial text. Could it be conforming it to the Latin of Irenaeus and Victorinus? Or is it influenced by the late Syriac?

The majority reading, of the verb as 3rd person plural, and the object being αὐτοῖς, is unusual Greek, and there are really only two options as to how to make it intelligible as it is.
Option 1, the word αὐτοῖς is a contraction of ἐαυτοῖς, and means “they give themselves.” This is the way the scribe of ms. 1828 saw it, which reads δῶσιν ἑαυτοῖς, and this is certainly a real possibility. The ambiguity of αὐτοῖς with ἑαυτοῖς (ἑαυτοῖς) is a common textual variant in Revelation that I have seen. Remember, the uncial and papyri did not have breathing marks. So, αὐτοῖς, even with the smooth breathing mark, can easily and rightly be understood as reflexive, and mean “themselves.” So the scribe of ms. 1828 was either correcting grammar, or merely understanding αὐτοῖς as a contraction of ἑαυτοῖς. And it is possible that his exemplar had the long form ἑαυτοῖς.

Option 2, is what M. Black, in An Aramaic Approach to the Gospels and Acts, pp. 126–128, would call an Aramaism, and be a “third person plural impersonal” and the meaning be similar to what the Philoxenian and Harklean Syriac read, “they be given” or “they receive.” The TR reading with its 3rd singular verb would not qualify as the Aramaic impersonal remember.

An Aramaism is an unusual and rare occurrence, and I think the burden of proof that it is occurring, is on the one saying it is. That said, I have come to believe that Revelation does show an Aramaic mind in its author. For example, though even ancient Greek the words for foot πόδι and hand χείρ originally meant the whole limb, not just the foot and hand, this is definitely most always true in Hebrew and Aramaic. The author of Revelation uses πόδι, “foot’ to mean the whole limb, where he says the feet of the angel were like “columns” of fire. Legs are like columns, and feet are not. Therefore similarly, we must conclude that in Revelation 13:16, with χείρ the author means anywhere on the entire upper right limb, not just the hand.

In The Morphology of Koine Greek As Used in the Apocalypse of St. John: A Study, G. Mussies states, “The 3rd person singular is the category which is used when the verb is impersonal,” p. 232. Regarding 3rd person plurals as passives in Revelation, Steven Thomson in his book, The Apocalypse and Semitic Syntax, Cambridge, he says on p. 21 that there are two instances: in 2:24 and 8:2. He says the ως λέγουσιν in 2:24 means “what is called” the deep things of Satan. (I disagree with this. I translate it as follows: ‘the deep things of Satan,” as they say.” In 8:2 the Greek text says ἐδόθησαν αὐτοῖς which is already passive. His example is from a Coptic text! Thomson does not mention this situation in 13:16. But I say, there were many, many opportunities for the proposed Aramaism to show up in Revelation, and it did not; so why must this here be such an example? I say this is not such, and I am saying here that the subject of this verb is the recipients, because autois in Revelation very often means “themselves,” even without the rough breathing mark. At any rate, if the beast “causes all to receive a mark,” the recipients are still getting it for themselves, unless the beast or his agent captures each individual, ties them down, and forces the mark onto them. But if that were the case, would God be able to hold them responsible for it? I don’t believe so. So I am saying that you have to get it for yourself, and then God can hold you responsible for doing it.

13:16a ἑαυτοῖς in Revelation very often means themselves. The Morphology of Koine Greek As Used in the Apocalypse of St. John: A Study, p. 232. Regarding 3rd person plurals as passives in Revelation, Steven Thomson in his book, The Apocalypse and Semitic Syntax, Cambridge, he says on p. 21 that there are two instances: in 2:24 and 8:2. He says the ὡς λέγουσιν in 2:24 means “what is called” the deep things of Satan. (I disagree with this. I translate it as follows: ‘the deep things of Satan,” as they say.” In 8:2 the Greek text says ἐδόθησαν αὐτοῖς which is already passive. His example is from a Coptic text! Thomson does not mention this situation in 13:16. But I say, there were many, many opportunities for the proposed Aramaism to show up in Revelation, and it did not; so why must this here be such an example? I say this is not such, and I am saying here that the subject of this verb is the recipients, because autois in Revelation very often means “themselves,” even without the rough breathing mark. At any rate, if the beast “causes all to receive a mark,” the recipients are still getting it for themselves, unless the beast or his agent captures each individual, ties them down, and forces the mark onto them. This Greek word translated "mark," χαράγμα - káragma, means a poke into the flesh. (Perhaps like this: http://www.wsj.com/articles/when-information-storage-gets-under-your-skin-1474251062 ) It also had the meaning of an etching, branding, carving, engraving or stamp. Slaves had a poke in the flesh of their ear to show ownership. So here also, the mark of the beast will show one’s voluntary allegiance to the beast and submission to the ownership of the beast. I get the impression from translating this passage that this mark will be self-arranged; that is, people will be told to do it, but nevertheless they ultimately do it voluntarily. They themselves are responsible for making sure they have it, if they want to buy or sell. In other words, it need not be mandatory by law, but life will be extremely hard without it. How could a government give the mark to 20 billion people by force in the remotest jungle? On the other hand, economic incentives have historically worked very well, without the need for something being mandatory by law. Most people serve Mammon anyway, so it will be a no-brainer for most people to get the mark. It will be a blessing on the other hand, for God’s people, in that those who are serving Mammon will repent of that, and truly be content with their daily bread from God, and truly live by faith. The exciting life. Exciting to see how God will feed them each day. But we see in this book that many or most of God’s people will die or be killed during those days.
their right hand or on their forehead, and makes it so that no one is able to buy or sell without having the mark—the name of the beast or the number of his name. Here is wisdom: he who has the understanding should calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a human being; and his number is 666.
Chapter 14

The Lamb and the 144,000

1 And I looked, and behold, the Lamb is standing on Mount Zion, and with him the 144,000 who have his name and the name of his father written on their foreheads. 2 And I heard a voice from heaven like the sound of many waters and like the sound of loud thunder. The sound which I heard was also like lyre players playing their lyres. 3 And they sing a new song before the throne and before the four living beings and the elders. And no one is able to learn the song except the 144,000, the ones purchased from the earth. 4 These are men who have not been defiled with women, for they are virgins. These are the ones following the Lamb wherever he goes. They were purchased from humanity as a firstfruits to God and to the Lamb, and in their mouths no falsehood has been found. They are blameless.

¹³⁸³ 14:15a Here the Greek verb pémpō has a military operations meaning, as in, "send orders that the earth be sickled." The one in white who resembles a human is the captain of the hosts, and the agents who do the actual sickling, are his angel-soldiers, according to Matt. 13:30, 38-41. In that passage Christ "sends out his angels," and the angels gather the zizania to be burned. He explains, "The zizania are the children of the evil one, and the enemy who sows them is the devil. The harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are angels. And as the zizania are collected and consumed by fire, so it will be at the end of the age. The Son of Man will send out his angels,..." Here again we even have the phrase Son of Man both in the Matthew passage and in Rev 14:14. Again, in Matt. 13:49-50 we read, "This is how it will be at the end of the age. The angels will go forth and will separate the evil ones from out of the midst of the righteous, and throw them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping there, and gnashing of teeth." Luke 17:35-37 hints that the angels take them all to one place, where the vultures feed on them. See also the correspondence of fire, in both Matt. 13:40 and Rev. 14:18. Rev. 14:20 tells us that the people are put "outside the city" and their blood will flow as high as the horse's bridle for a distance of 180 miles. There is fire in the form of the fire of the city dump outside the city, Jerusalem. When the disciples asked Jesus where the angels take them in Luke 17:37, Jesus answered that it would be where there would be vultures gathered, that's where. The number of bleeding bodies required to produce that kind of a river of blood, would indeed attract a very large amount of vultures, eagles, crows and any other birds that eat carrion.

1And I heard a great voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, "Go and pour out the seven bowls of the wrath of God onto the earth."

2And the first one went and poured out his bowl onto the earth. And there came a nasty and painful ulcer on the people who had the mark of the beast and on those worshiping his image.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast. And his kingdom became covered in darkness. And they were biting their tongues in pain, and they cursed the God of heaven, because of their pains and because of their ulcers, yet they did not repent of their works.

And it caused its water to dry up, so that a route was prepared for the kings from the east. 13 And I saw coming from the mouth of the dragon, and from the mouth of the beast, and from the mouth of the false prophet, three unclean spirits, like frogs; for they are spirits of demons performing miracles, which are going out to the kings of the whole world, to gather them together for the war of the great day of God Almighty. ¹⁴⁰⁵ 16:17e Regarding the phrase "And a loud voice came out of the temple from the throne," this source given for the loud voice, is rather perplexing at first. It would seem to be indicating a new and previously unknown throne existing in the temple, that is, the "temple of the tabernacle of testimony" in 15:5 which sets the context for this passage. Perhaps it was for this reason that the added explanatory phrase "of heaven," that is, designating a different temple, heaven itself being the temple, thus: "the temple of heaven." That would be something along the lines of 13:6 where it says "And he opened his mouth in blasphemies toward God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle, heaven." That would be something along the lines of designating heaven itself as being that place. (though here the Greek word "naos" is used but in 13:6 it is "skeenee"), and that way the throne in the temple is not a new, previously unmentioned one. Yet, this present temple in this passage is first introduced in 15:5, "the temple of the tabernacle of testimony," and keys the start of this whole context of the seven bowls. So in 15:6 and onward, we now see other voices and angels coming out of this temple besides the present one. And since this particular temple is opened for the first time in 15:5, it cannot be referring to heaven, as the Majority Text seems to say. So perhaps there is an unusual meaning of the preposition apó here, such as "by authority of" the throne. According to Bauer, it is an expression known in Classical Greek to use the preposition apó to indicate the originator or authorizer of the action. John does use that expression in John 5:19, 30; 7:17; 7:28; 8:28; 42; 10:18; 11:51; 14:10; 15:4; 16:13; 18:34. Thus: a loud voice came out of the temple, on behalf of the throne. It is interesting to see that up to this point, John has been totally consistent in using the preposition ek in every case when a voice is coming from somewhere, see 9:13; 10:4; 10:8; 11:12; 14:2; 14:13; 16:1. And this applies in all editions of the Greek New Testament. But starting here and then in 19:5, there are textual variants between ek and apó. The Majority Text in the later instances says apó instead of ek. We would expect the two to be confused at a later date, since according to Blass, BDF §209, apó has absorbed ek in modern Greek. Whereas he says in §209(1) that in a locative sense the two were still distinguished for the most part in New Testament times. Now moving further in Revelation, again in 18:4 ek is used for a voice from heaven, and in 19:5 where the voice is from the throne, apó is used. That would be quite a pattern up to that point, but then 21:3 would seem to ruin it - The NA27 text has a voice coming from the throne, using ek. There are two other instances in Revelation of the two prepositions ek and apó occurring together in one phrase, and they are both referring to the city called the New Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, 3:12 and 21:2.

[1409] 17:8a The phrase "in the future is to" is from the Greek word méllō, which often means, but does not always mean "about to." Often in the New Testament it means "is destined to," which is part of the meaning here. And often it makes a simple future infinitive, by being used with an infinitive following, as is the case here. Bauer says this phrase, a combination of méllō followed by a present infinitive, replaced the future infinitive verb of Classical Greek. See also BDF §338(3), which says the same thing, but see BDF §356 about the "imminence" meaning of the pariphrasis of méllō followed by a present infinitive.

Chapter 18

Fallen Is Babylon the Great

¹After these things I saw another angel coming down out of heaven, having great authority, and the earth was lit up from his glory. ²And he cried out in a powerful voice, saying, 'Fallen! Fallen is Babylon the Great, and has become the dwelling place of demons and the haunt of every unclean spirit and the haunt of every unclean bird,¹⁴¹⁷ and the haunt of every unclean and detestable beast,¹⁴¹⁸ because every nation has drunk¹⁴¹⁹ of the wine of the wrath of her prostitution, and the kings of the earth have fornicated with her, and the merchants of the earth by virtue of her luxury have become rich."

4 And I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Get out, O my people, out of her, so that you not be parties to her sins, and not receive of her plagues. 5 For her sins are piled up all the way up to heaven, and God has remembered her crimes. 6 Deal back to her even as she dealt out,and pay to her double, as befits her deeds. In the cup in which she had mixed, mix her a double. 7 As much as she glorified herself and experienced luxury, that much suffering and mourning deal to her. For she says in her heart, 'I sit as a queen, and no widow am I, and mourning I will never see.' 8 Because of this, her blows will come in a single day, death and mourning and famine, and she will be consumed by fire. For able is the Lord God who sentenced her."

9 And the kings of the earth when they see the smoke of her burning, shall weep and beat their breasts over her, they who had fornicated and experienced luxury with her, standing a long distance away, for the horror of her torment, saying, "Alas, alas, great city! Babylon, strong city! For in a single hour your doom has come!"

And every pilot and everyone sailing toward the place, and mariners and such as work the sea, stood afar off, and cried out, watching the smoke of her fire, saying, "What city is like the great city?" And they threw dust above their heads and cried out weeping and mourning, saying, "Alas, Alas, great city, through whom all those owning ships on the sea became rich from her Priceyness. How has she been laid waste in one hour?"

Rejoice over her, O heaven, and you saints and apostles and prophets! For God has adjudicated your redress from her.

And a powerful angel lifted up a stone, like a giant millstone, and threw it into the sea, saying, "With such violence will that great city Babylon be thrown down, and never more be found." 1434 18:17a In Hebraistic Greek this word "hoti" like here can mean "how." There is a similar exclamation in 2 Samuel 1:19, 25, 27 about Saul and Jonathan, "How have the mighty fallen." (In the LXX that passage is II Kings 1:19, where those translators used the Greek word pōs.) David was not really asking how it happened, but was expressing consternation, as here in Revelation. There are three instances of this expression with hoti, in 18:10, 17, 19, and I varied the English word for the sake both of poetic variety and of illustration of the Hebraistic Greek possibilities.

1436 18:19 This Greek word timiotētos actually was sometimes used as a title of respectful address to a rich person. "Your Priceyness," or, "Your Preciousness." In this passage, the logic is that the traders and merchants would miss her because of her high prices, for where would you rather take your wares, to where they are accustomed to high prices, or to where they have low prices? You could accurately render the word here as "high prices." But this brings up another illustration of how the rich oppress the poor. Many a poor person has had his home demolished because of how it would adversely affect the high prices of the homes of his rich neighbors. And thus, the rich get richer, and the poor get poorer. There is no greater freedom a country can have than that each citizen be allowed to build a house that each can afford, no matter what quality, and own that house debt-free from the start. But her Priceyness is building up wrath for that day.

Hallelujah!

After these things I heard something like the sound of a very large multitude in heaven, saying, "Hallelujah! The salvation and glory and power of our God! How true and right are his judgments! For he has judged the great prostitute who was destroying the earth with her prostitution, and has avenged the blood of his servants spilled by her hand."

And a second time they said, "Hallelujah! And the smoke from her ascends for ever and ever."

And the twenty-four elders and the four living beings fell down and worshiped God, the one sitting on the throne, saying, "Amen. Hallelujah!"

And there came a voice from the throne, saying, "Praise our God, all you his servants, and you who fear him, both small and great."

And I heard like the sound of a great multitude, and like the sound of many waters and like the sound of powerful thunderclaps, saying, "Hallelujah! For the Lord our God the Almighty has begun to reign.

Let us rejoice and exult, and give glory to him, for the wedding of the Lamb has come, and his wife has made herself ready; and it was given to her that she be dressed in fine linen bright and clean, for the righteous acts of the saints."

Chapter 20
The One Thousand Years

1 And I saw an angel coming down from heaven, holding the key to the abyss and a giant chain in his hand. 2 And he captured the dragon, the ancient serpent, which is the Devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years, and cast him into the abyss, and closed and sealed it over him, so that he could no longer deceive the nations, until the end of the thousand years; after them he must be released for a short time.

4 And I saw thrones, and they took their seat on them, and judgeship was given to them, that is, the souls of those beheaded because of the testimony of Jesus, and because of the word of God, and who did not worship the beast, neither the image of him, and did not take the mark on their forehead or on their hand. And they came to life, and reigned with Christ a thousand years. (The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were finished.) This is the first resurrection.
Blessed and holy is he who takes part in the first resurrection; over such, the second death has no power, but instead they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

The Last War

And when the thousand years are finished, Satan shall be released from his prison, and he shall go forth to deceive the nations which are in the four points of the earth, Gōg and Magōg, to gather them together for war, the number of them being as the sand of the seashore. And they rose up over the breadth of the earth, and surrounded the company of the saints and the beloved city. And fire came down from heaven and consumed them. And the Devil, the deceiver of them, was cast into the lake of fire and sulfur, where also the beast and false prophet were, and they shall be tormented day and night, for ever and ever.

The Great White Throne of Judgement

And I saw a great white throne, and the one sitting on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away, and their place was found no more. And I saw the dead, the great and the small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was also opened, which is the book of life. And the dead were judged from what was written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it, and Death and Hades gave up the dead which were in them, and each person was judged according to their works. And Death and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death, the lake of fire. And if anyone was not found written in the book of life, he was cast into the lake of fire.

But to the cowardly and unbelieving and abominable and murderers and fornicators and sorcerers and idolaters and all liars, their inheritance is in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.”

The Bride and Wife of the Lamb

And one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues came, and he spoke with me, saying, "Come, I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb." And he carried me away in the Spirit onto a great and high mountain, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God. Her radiance was similar to a precious gemstone, like a jasper stone shimmering as crystal; having a wall, great and high, with twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written on them, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the sons of Israel; from the east three gates, and from the north three gates, and from the south three gates, and from the west three gates, with the wall of the city having twelve foundations are the twelve apostles of Jesus Christ. And the streets of the city are pure gold, transparent as glass.  21 And I did not see a temple in it, for the Lord God Almighty is its temple, and the Lamb.  22 And the city has no need of either a sun or a moon to shine in it, for the glory of God has illumined it, and its lamp is the Lamb.  23 And the nations will walk by its light; and the kings of the earth bring their glory into it;  24 and its gates are never closed by day; in fact, night will no longer exist there;  25 and they will bring the glory and honor of the nations into it.  26 And nothing unclean or anyone who practices abomination or Later he says, “The collective “to ergon” [as here] is used for the plural (Sirach 11:20) Gal 6:4; Hb 6:10; Rv 22:12. The ergon or erga is (are) characterized by the context as good or bad...” As for the verb “to be,” the meaning is, “Blessed are those who wash their robes, so also ἀφέλοι in 22:19b. "…may have favoured [doing the commandments] rather than [washing the robes]' (H. B. Swete, [washing the robes]) "Moreover, the author uses the expression rather than [washing the robes] (12·17; 14·12). 'Moreover, the commandments' (12·17; 14·12).”

And the Spirit and the bride say, "Come." And he who is hearing this should say "Come." And he who is thirsty, should come. Whoever wants to, get the water of life without cost.

I testify to everyone who is hearing these words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to them, God will add to the plagues that are written in this book; and if anyone takes away from the words of this book of prophecy, God will take away his share of the tree of life and of... the holy city, of what is written in this book.

The one who is testifying these things says, "Yes, I am coming soon."

Amen; come,\textsuperscript{1519} Lord Jesus.

\textsuperscript{1519} The TR reading is found in only two Greek manuscripts, 296 and 2049, (plus margin of 2067 in a very late hand) but these two, 296 & 2049 do not count, since both are 16th century manuscripts (Hoskier's numbers, 57 & 141) that were handwritten copies made from the TR itself, according to Hoskier (see table at end of this document). One cannot use a copy of the TR to prove that a TR reading is found in Greek manuscripts. A plausible theory as to the origin of the reading is that it is probably from the Latin, and maybe confusion of \textit{libro} and \textit{ligmo}. Proof that Erasmus got this "book" reading from the Latin is the fact that his one Greek Revelation manuscript, 2814, formerly known as No. 1, had an exact sister manuscript not known to him at the time, and this manuscript, 2186 (208), did not lack the end verses. And here in 22:19, that sister manuscript reads "tree" not "book." And at the bottom of page 1x615, Hoskier says, "This MS 187 with 57 and 141 must not be accorded any weight whatsoever. They are brought into the record because of their very connection with the printed text." Moreover, there should remain no doubt that Erasmus himself admitted that his TR Greek text of Revelation 22:16-21 was from Latin sources and not Greek. Erasmus wrote: "There was no doubt that some things were missing, and it was not much. Therefore we completed the Greek from our Latin texts, so that there might be no gap. We did not want to hide this from the reader, however, and acknowledge in the Annotationes what we had done, in order that, if our words differed in some respect from those that the author of this work had provided, the reader who obtained a manuscript could restore them." Revelation

Revelation Endnote #1

"Angel" of each of the seven churches, or "messenger?"

The phrase "angel of" can mean the angel "in charge of" as in the following:
There was an "angel of the waters" in Rev. 16:5.
Angels of children in Matt. 18:10.
Angel of the fire, Rev. 14:18
Angel of the censer 8:3
Angel of the Abyss, 9:11

There is nothing unusual about God using an angel to deliver a message to humans. There are many, many such instances elsewhere in the Bible. Why not here? And according Hebrews 13:2, people have entertained angels without knowing it. Indeed, angels in the Old Testament often appeared as humans; see Gen. 16:7; 19:1; and many others.

The spies are called angels in James 2:25

The angel Gabriel, in Daniel 9:21, communicates between Daniel and God. In Daniel 10:12-14, Gabriel tells Daniel that in the process of delivering Daniel's prayers, an angel, or fallen angel to be exact, whom he called the "prince of the kingdom of Persia, hindered him in delivering those prayers, but Michael, whom he calls "one of the chief princes" and whom we know is an angel, helped Gabriel. The point I am making is that there was "an angel of Persia," that is, a fallen angel in charge of Persia. So also there was a "Prince of Greece," in Daniel 10:20. This is left over from when Satan used to be an archangel along with Michael and Gabriel. They set angels over certain territories in their military planning.

Angel acts as messenger in Rev. 1:1; 22:6, 16.

It does not make sense for the messengers of each church to be a man. Because the churches had more than one pastor in each church, they are always mentioned in the plural:

When they had ordained elders in every church, Acts 14:23.
Elders of the church in Ephesus, Acts 20:17
Ordain elders in every city, Titus 1:5
Let him call for the elders of the church, James 5:14.
I Peter 5:1,2, "The elders among you I exhort, overseers of the flock..."  Here Peter equates elders, presbuteroi, with overseers, episkopoi "bishops."
Acts 20:28, (see 20:17, elders of the church of Ephesus, 20:28, Paul now calls them overseers, episkopoi, so Paul also equates presbuteroi with episkopoi. Philippians 1:1, the church there has plural overseers.
Titus 1:5, 7  Paul says appoint elders...for an overseer is...  Paul again equates an elder with an overseer.

We can say that the office of elder and the office of overseer are the same office. The overseers should naturally be somewhat elder, especially elder in the faith (I Timothy 3:6, he must not be a recent convert) and one of their main functions is to both oversee and to visit; both meanings of episkopew.

Why not an angel in charge of each church in Asia. It would not be unreasonable to assume that there is a fallen angel in charge of each church as well, representing Satan's interests.

Revelation Endnote #2

Revelation 7:6, 8

In this list of the sons of Israel, as pertaining to the 144,000, 12,000 called from each tribe of Israel, Joseph is represented twice, as his own name in verse 8, and also by way of his son Manasseh in verse 6. Israel had only 12 sons, so if Joseph is represented twice, that means that one of the other sons of Israel is missing here. Dan is missing.

Jacob's blessing of Dan:

Genesis:
49:16 Dan shall judge his people, as one of the tribes of Israel.
49:17 Dan shall be a serpent in the way, an adder in the path, that bites the horse's heels, so that his rider falls backward.
Revelation

49:18 I have waited for your salvation, O Yahweh.

Recall similar language about the Serpent- Biting heels  Attacking the rider on the horse Does Jacob seem to be wanting Deliverance from Dan?  Jacob waits for Salvation from Dan is what I think it means.  Recall also that Satan is called the Accuser of the Brethren.  Dan could be a judge in this sense.

Jacob's blessing of Joseph:

Genesis:
49:22 Joseph is a fruitful bough, a fruitful bough by a fountain; his branches run over the wall.
49:23 The archers have sorely grieved him, and shot at him, and persecute him:
49:24 But his bow abode in strength, and the arms of his hands were made strong, by the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob, (From there is the shepherd, the stone of Israel),
49:25 Even by the God of your father, who shall help you, and by the Almighty, who shall bless you, with blessings of heaven above, blessings of the deep that crouches beneath, blessings of the breasts, and of the womb.
49:26 The blessings of your father have prevailed above the blessings of my progenitors to the utmost bound of the everlasting hills: They shall be on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brothers.

Moses' blessing of Dan:

Deuteronomy 33:22 "And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion's whelp, That leaps forth from Bashan."

Recall Psalm 22 "bulls of Bashan surround me...”? The Bull is sometimes a symbol of Satan.  Baal-zibbul.  Jesus was mocked by bulls of Bashan as he suffered on the cross.  Bashan was the territory of Dan.

Moses' blessing of Joseph:

33:13 And of Joseph he said, Blessed of Yahweh be his land, for the precious things of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that crouches beneath, 33:14 And for the precious things of the fruits of the sun, and for the precious things of the growth of the moons,
33:15 And for the chief things of the ancient mountains, and for the precious things of the everlasting hills,
33:16 And for the precious things of the earth and the fulness thereof, and the good will of him that dwelt in the bush. Let the blessing come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brothers.
33:17 The firstling of his herd, majesty is his; and his horns are the horns of the wild-ox: with them he shall push the peoples all of them, even the ends of the earth: and they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, And they are the thousands of Manasseh.

God's curse on the serpent:

Genesis 3:14 And Yahweh God said to the serpent, because you have done this, cursed are you above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon your belly shall you go, and dust shall you eat all the days of your life:
3:15 and I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your seed and her seed: he shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise his heel.

David:

109:8 Let his days be few; and let another take his office.
109:9 Let his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow.
109:10 Let his children be vagabonds, and beg; and let them seek their bread out of their desolate places.
109:11 Let the extortioner catch all that he has; and let strangers make spoil of his labor.
109:12 Let there be none to extend kindness unto him; neither let there be any to have pity on his fatherless children.
109:13 Let his posterity be cut off; in the generation following let their name be blotted out.

Ezekiel 47:13 "Thus saith the Lord Yahweh: This shall be the border, whereby ye shall divide the land for inheritance according to the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph shall have two portions."
Genesis 49:22, of Joseph: "His branches run over the wall."
This means Joseph went over the wall and took Dan's inheritance. That is what the wall signifies; the stone boundary between lots.
